CALLES PUTS 5 PER CENT TAX ON EVERYTHING IMPORTED INTO MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5.

PRESIDENT CALLES today decreed increased import duties of 5 per cent ad valorem, effective 30 days hence, upon virtually everything imported into Mexico.

His purpose is to increase Government revenue, presumably to offset the actual or prospective diminution of oil tax revenues resulting from the decreased operations of foreign producers under the new petroleum law.

The President's proclamation lists 717 classifications subject to increased duty, including almost every kind of food, drink clothing, raw cloth materials and manufactured products generally.

It is expected the new duties will increase the cost of living, which already is high, and is coupled with considerable unemployment and general business depression.

FIVE MEN FOUND GUILTY OF PEONAGE IN TEXAS

Corpus Christi Jury Convicts Sheriff, Three Other Officers and a Farmer.

By the Associated Press.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Feb. 5. Five men, including Sheriff Raymond Teller of Willacy County, were found guilty of peonage by a jury in Federal Court tonight. The others convicted are Justice of the Peace Floyd Dodd, Frank Brandt and Carl Brandt, former Deputy Sheriffs ,and L. K. Stockwell, a farmer.

The law provides five years' imprisonment on each count and all were found guilty on several counts.

CHARLES DEERING, 75, DIES AT MIAMI WINTER HOME

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5.—Charles Deering, 75 years old, Chicago capitalist died late tonight at his winter estate here. Deering was chairman of the board of the International Harvester Company for many years, having been secretary of the Deering Harvester Company before it merged with the International.

Surviving him are his widow, who was with him at the time of death; two daughters, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Richard E. Danielson, Boston, and a son, Roger Deering. The body will be sent to Chicago for funeral services and burial.

DRY AGENTS RAID HOME ON LINDELL AND SEIZE LIQUOR

Federal Officer Fires Two Shots in Arresting Antonio L. Randazzo and Son-in-Law, Gus Rizzo.

SALE OF 5 CASES OF SCOTCH ALLEGED

Residence in Select West End District—One of Accused Men Was Decorated by King of Italy.

Antonio L. Randazzo's home at 4463 Lindell boulevard, in one of the most select of West End residence blocks, was raided Friday night by Federal prohibition agents, who confiscated five cases of Scotch whisky, which one of the agents says Randazzo had sold to him.

Agent Christensen used his revolver in arresting Randazzo and his son-in-law, Gus Rizzo, who is charged with having participated in the sale. Christensen fired two shots, as a signal to other agents who were waiting, and this shooting alarmed neighbors and caused a police investigation. Police withdrew when the agents told them that no help was needed.

Both Randazzo and Rizzo were placed under bond before a United States Commissioner yesterday. The two and John Randazzo, a brother of Antonio, who was questioned but not held have private watchmen's commissions, issued by the Police Board and authorizing them to carry weapons.

Two Factories Blown Up.

Randazzo is former head of the Randazzo Manufacturing & Importing Co., which had a macaroni and spaghetti factory at Sixth and Carr streets and later at Ninth and Carr. The former factory was destroyed by an explosion and fire in 1923, with a loss of $110,000; the latter was destroyed by an explosion and fire in 1925, with $200,000 loss. The business is now at 3436 Lindell boulevard.

In 1921 Randazzo received the Cross of the Chevalier Order, a decoration conferred by the King of Italy, in recognition of Randazzo's services to his countrymen in the war, and his contribution to the business and industrial interest of American citizens of Italian birth. A dinner, at which the decoration was conferred, was attended by Mayor Kiel, Judge Ittner, Immigration Commissioner Dunn and Chief-of-Police O'Brien.

Letters mailed in Italy, and signed with the names of Mussolini, the present dictator, and Orlando, former premier, were found in Randazzo's pocket after his arrest.

Dry Agent Offers to Buy.

Christensen, working on information he had received previously, telephoned to Randazzo at his home Wednesday night, and said he was a friend of a man known to Randazzo. "I want to get hold of some stuff," he said, "and I hear you can supply me." Randazzo, by agreement, met Christensen Thursday at the Maryland Hotel, and Christensen took him to lunch and told of the "high-class" trade which he wished to supply with whisky.

Randazzo, the agent says, said he could supply Scotch whisky at $65 a case, and by his invitation, the agent went with him to the Lindell boulevard home and sampled the whisky. Christensen ordered five cases, and Randazzo, the agent says, suggested, that the whisky be placed in the agent's automobile. Christensen agreed, he says, and turned over his car to Rizzo, who took it away.

About 7 p. m. Friday Christensen went to the Randazzo home, other agents following him. He says Randazzo called Rizzo, and directed that Christensen's car be driven into the garage. Randazzo then took Christensen to the garage.

Seeks Whisky, Shows Badge.

In the garage, the agent says, he inspected the cases which had been placed in his car. He says Randazzo talked of supplying him "a fine line of Red Seal champagne, and some bourbon." But first he wished to see the money for the Scotch, and the agent handed him $260. Then the agent, remarking, "Here's something I failed to show you," exhibited his badge.

"Randazzo jumped at me,"

D. J. Lewis, Who Refused Reappointment With a String to It, Testifies Before Senators.

"PACKED TO INSURE NO CUT IN DUTY"

Assails Choice of Lowell, Brossard and Dixon Before Robinson Investigating Committee.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—David J. Lewis, a former member of the United States Tariff Commission, today told the Robinson investigating committee of the Senate that President Coolidge had made a mockery of the commission by the character of his three most recent appointments of members.

"The Tariff Commission," declared Lewis, "should be unmoored from all its connections with the White House. It is ridiculous to expect an impartial administration of the flexible section of the tariff act in the present circumstances."

Lewis is the Marylander who, when his reappointment to the commission was pending two years ago, rejected Mr. Coolidge's request for an undated resignation, to be used at the President's pleasure, and subsequently was dropped from membership.

Lewis' disclosures of the inside workings of the commission, and particularly of the manner in which the President had packed it to insure a safe high-tariff majority, were largely responsible for the appointment by the Senate of the Robinson investigating committee. In testimony before the committee last year, Lewis told in great detail of the President's maneuverings in 1924 to get the commission to withhold its embarrassing sugar report, recommending a reduction of the high sugar tariff, until after the election of that year.

Attacks Members by Name.

Returning to the attack today, Lewis sharply condemned the appointment of Edgar B. Broussard of Utah, Sherman J. Lowell of New York and Lincoln C. Dixon of Indiana as members of the commission. Brossard and Lowell, Republicans, are now serving under recess appointments. Dixon, a Democrat, was appointed during the present session of Congress. The names of all three are before the Senate for confirmation.

Lewis criticised the choice of Lowell and Dixon on the score of their advanced age and lack of proper background for the technical and arduous work of the commission.

Lowell, he said, was 68 years old and Dixon 67. To take "green" men of this age and assign them to deal with the complicated problems of the tariff commission, he submitted, was quite as ridiculous as would be the appointment of a man without legal training to a judge's bench.

"It is only because we have been sloppy and neglectful of the tariff situation," said Lewis, "that we do not appreciate the mockery that such appointments make of the commission. Men 20 years younger, if they have the promise and the intellectual qualifications, or men whose lives have been spent in a study of the phenomena of commerce and industry, should be chosen."

Smoot's Protege Scored.

The appointment of Brossard, who is a protege of Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.) Utah, chief watchdog in the Senate for the sugar interests, came in for even more caustic criticism.

"I do not think," said Lewis, "that fair-minded Democrats would approve the selection of a tariff commissioner by the Senators from Louisiana. By the same token, I do not think that fair-minded Republicans approve the selection of a commissioner by the senior Senator from Utah, the dominating influence in the Senate in the making of the sugar tariff.

"It may be argued that sugar is but one of the items before the commission. The reply is that sugar rules the destiny of the commission. We cannot overlook the fact that the sugar recommendation of 1924, if followed by the President, would have saved the consumers of the country $75,000,000.

"In Utah, the sugar refining in-

SHELTONS BEGIN THEIR JOURNEY TO PENITENTIARY

Brothers Convicted of Mail Robbery Are Due to Reach Leavenworth Prison at 10:30 A. M. Today.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 6. (Sunday)—The Shelton brothers—Carl, Earl and Bernie—left at 12:53 a. M. today on their way to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., to serve 25-year terms for the $15,000 Collinsville mail robbery.

Under guard of United States Deputy Marshal Walter Lee Moody and three other armed officers, they boarded a Burlington train for the journey. They will be, in Kansas City at 8 a. m. and in Leavenworth before 10:30, to be "dressed in" as prisoners.

Secrecy attended their departure. United States Marshal McClure had announced last evening that the Sheltons probably would be held here until Monday morning, so that they might be taken to Leavenworth with eight other convicted men ,held at Springfield, and two at Bloomington.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent, who boarded the train with the Shelton brothers, had interviewed them previously as they paced the narrow concrete corridor of their small three-cell compartment in the Adams County jail here.

The three Southern Illinois gangsters—admitting defeat at the hands of their arch enemies, Charley Birger and Art Newman, who were the Government's star witnesses in the trial—were eager "to get it over with."

Sentences Run Concurrently.

Convicted by a jury of farmers and small town merchants, far from the district where they were feared and hated, the Shelton brothers were sentenced yesterday by Judge Louis FitzHenry. They met their Waterloo in the same court, with the same Judge, the same sort of a jury, and received the same sentence as did the leaders of the St. Louis Egan gang—"Dint" Colbeck and eight of his followers—who were sent to prison in November, 1924, for the Staunton mail robbery.

The Shelton brothers were sentenced to an aggregate of 60 years on four counts growing out of the Collinsville mail robbery, but the Judge ordered that the sentences run concurrently—in effect the same as if they had been convicted on one count of assaulting the messenger, which carries a mandatory 25-year term.

New Trial Motion Overruled.

Sentence was passed at 10:30 a. m. after a half hour of argument on motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment which were overruled by the court.

The brothers showed no emotion. They were taken to the Marshal's office, followed by their wives, who were weeping.

The prisoners were removed shortly to jail where at every opportunity they berated Birger and Newman as "framers" and assailed the Government prosecutors for "helping in a frame-up."

The wives returned to Hotel Quincy where they had lived during the six days of the trial, and remained there until afternoon. They departed in a rented automobile, which took them to a station outside of Quincy, where they boarded

AMBULANCE PLANE IN 250-MILE DASH WITH INJURED MAN

Speeds From San Antonio, Tex., to Border and Back in Five Hours.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 5.—Lieut. Fraser Richardson, Twelfth Cavalry, injured at Fort Ringold on the Mexican border, was brought to the Fort Sam Houston hospital here today by a Kelly Field aviator in what was probably the longest and fastest ambulance run on record. The dash of approximately 500 miles was made by Master Sergt. E. F. Nendell at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

Lieut. Richardson, whose skull was fractured when a gun was discharged accidentally, underwent an operation tonight.

A call for help was received at Corps headquarters late in the morning and Sergt. Nendell took the air shortly before noon. He started the return journey at 2:30 p. m., battling head winds and a rainstorm, but arrived here shortly before 5 p. m.

The air ambulance, a Douglas O-2 plane is specially designed. The patient lies in a stretcher swung in the fuselage and protected from the weather.

Mrs. Ormiston to Seek Divorce.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Ruth Ormiston arrived in Los Angeles today from San Francisco to start her divorce action against Kenneth G. Ormiston, one of the principal figures in the Aimee Semple McPherson case. Mrs. Ormiston reaffirmed previous statements she would not name Mrs. McPherson as a corespondent.

LORY PRICE FOUND SLAIN; WIFE'S BODY SOUGHT FOR

Discovery at Dubois, Ill., Solves Mystery of Highway Patrolman's Disappearance Jan. 17.

MURDER LINKED WITH GANG FEUD

Officer and Mate Kidnaped, Supposedly by Shelton Gangsters, After "Shady Rest" Blast.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Ill., Feb. 5.—With the finding of the bullet-riddled body of State Highway Patrolman Lory L. Price today in a field near Dubois, 18 miles south of here, a search is under way in this vicinity for the body of his wife, Ethel, who was abducted with him on the night of Jan. 17, from their home at Marion.

Williamson County authorities who arrived here late today are convinced that both Price and his wife were victims of the Shelton-Birger gang war in Southern Illinois, that they were killed in an automobile moving toward St. Louis, and that eventually Mrs. Price's body will be found somewhere along the route. Price was an associate of Birger's.

Price's body was found about 100 feet from the Carbondale-Ashley hard road, which connects with the St. Louis road at Ashley. The spot was about 70 miles north of Marion and 55 miles from St. Louis.

Farmer Finds Body in Weeds.

High weeds had concealed the body from passersby for several days until it was found face down at 11:30 a. m. today by Joe Waldman, a farmer, who was inspecting the field with spring planting in mind. He telephoned Sheriff Petri here, who went immediately with several deputies to the scene.

There is no doubt that Price had been murdered. Thirteen bullet wounds, seven of them in the back, were counted, and the neck was broken. Pieces of cord in the mouth and marks on the face and neck showed that he had been gagged.

The body was dressed in khaki trousers of the State police uniform, army shoes and a blue shirt. An old felt hat lay nearby, and on the trousers' belt was Price's badge, No. 78, and an insignia buckle of the Seventy-eighth Division, A. E. F., in which he served. There was no coat or leggings.

Positive identification of the body was made by other highway patrolmen and it was brought here for an inquest Monday.

Recalls Hearing Crash.

Mrs. Waldman recalled that late Sunday night, Jann. 22, she heard a loud crash and thought an automobile had struck a tree which stands near where Price's body was found. She did not investigate at the time and the next day there was no trace of an accident.

State's Attorney Boswell, Coroner Bell, Sheriff Coleman, and State Representative Wallace Bandy, an uncle of Mrs. Price, drove up from Marion this afternoon to aid local authorities in the investigation.

A number of men were looking for Mrs. Prico's body today and an organized search by posses is planned for tomorrow.

Price's friends and others in Williamson County have steadfastly maintained the belief that he was killed by Shelton gangsters, although he himself, so far as is known, never had an open break with the Sheltons. He was a frequent visitor at "Shady Rest," the fortified stronghold of the Birger gang, and was the last man known to have left that resort on the night of Jan. 8, before the place was dynamited, fired and four persons in it killed.

That raid was charged by Williamson County authorities to the Shelton gang, who were said to have made it in the hope of killing Art Newman, Birger's lieutenant, and principal witness against the three Shelton brothers in the mail robbery trial at Quincy which resulted in their conviction.

According to Art Newman, who told his "inside story" of the feud

POSTMASTER ALT DIES; FUNERAL IS TO BE TOMORROW

Services at 2 P. M. From Undertaker's at 2623 Cherokee Street — Body Will Be Cremated.

FORMAL INQUEST HAS BEEN ORDERED

Official Fell From Barber Chair Due to Blood Clot at Heart, Doctor's Examination Shows.

The funeral of Louis Alt, Postmaster of St. Louis for the last five years, formerly License Collector for 12 years and one-time candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, who died unexpectedly of chronic heart trouble yesterday moning, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at an undertaking establishment at 2623 Cherokee street. Cremation at the Missouri Crematory will follow.

Since Mr. Alt died without medical attention, the formality of a Coroner's inquest will be necessary, but an autopsy by a Coroner's physician showed that death was due to clotting of blood at the heart.

Mr. Alt, who was 61 years old, had been in good health, except for a recent cold, and made a routine visit to the postoffice in the Federal Building at 10 a. m. yesterday, then went to the barber shop of Henry E. Schmale, 618 Pine street, for his daily service. There he complained of the comparatively warm weather, saying he was not feeling well, and was given a fan, and the front door was opened at his request.

Falls From Barber's Chair, Dead.

He was attended by George E. Paul, who had been his barber for 25 years, and he commented that the hot and cold towels, applied after shaving, "certainly felt good." Shortly thereafter, at 11 a. m., he fell from the chair to the floor, dead.

Altheim, a hamlet in western St. Louis County, was Mr. Alt's birthplace, on May 1, 1865. It was named for his family and their relatives, the Ziegenheins, the late Henry Ziegenhein, former Mayor, having been his cousin. At the age of 18, Mr. Alt entered the feed business here, but a large portion of his adult life was to be spent in the public service, with an interest in Republican politics, and he was to gain a reputation for efficiency and courtesy in office.

He became a clerk in the Recorder's office as a young man and later in the office of the Internal Revenue Collector.

About 25 years ago he went into business for himself by organizing the Beacon Paper Co., a wholesale concern, but in 1905 made a successful race for election as License Collector, taking office the next year. He succeeded himself twice, in spite of opposing political factions, and achieved something of a reputation as an independent party leader.

Opposed Kiel in 1917.

In 1917, his last year in this office, he sought the Republican nomination for Mayor against Henry W. Kiel, then finishing the first of his three terms as Mayor, and two other candidates, but Kiel won. Mr. Alt's platform was of the "business administration" type, with pledges for various civic betterments.

At the end of Colin M. Selph's term as Postmaster party factions, led by the old Spencer-Babler-Goldstein alliance, united on Mr. Alt for this place, possibly with the view of keeping him from the mayoralty race in 1925. Leading other applicants in the formality of a civil service examination, with a grade of 84 per cent, Mr. Alt was appointed by President Harding, on recommendation of Postmaster-General Hays and entered the office on March 1, 1922.

He was president of the Beacon Paper Co. for years but while Postmaster devoted little time to this business. He was reappointed Postmaster by President Coolidge upon expiration of his term last March.

Surviving Relatives.

Mr. Alt's hom 's at Bismarck and Berry roads, Webster Groves. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Gogel Alt; two sons, Walter L., cashier of the Internal Revenue Collector's office, and Richard C., an insurance agent; a daughter, Miss Cora Alt; a sister, Mrs. Caroline Preiss of Clayton, and a brother, John Alt, Street Commissioner of Clayton. His cousin, Charles Alt, is Chief of the Fire Department. Mr. Alt was hunting with a brother, Henry, in Lincoln County, Mo, about 15 years ago when the latter fell dead.

Lottmann in Charge Pro Tem.

Assistant Postmaster William Lottmann will have charge of the postoffice until an Acting Postmaster is selected. Republican National Committeeman Clements, who is in Washington now, will take the lead in recommending a permanent successor, but is expected to confer with Congressman Dyer, now in Washington, and Congressman Newton, who started there last night.

Numerous applicants are expected for the place, which pays $8000 a year, handles the increasingly heavy business of the city and St. Louis County suburban area, and serves as central accounting office for Eastern Missouri postoffices and postal supply depot for numerous Western states.

The Republican City Committee, said Chairman Remmers, probably will recommend some candidate. Remmers declared that lack of complaints about Mr. Alt's administration from the public, employes and the party constituted a fine tribute. Former Mayor Kiel, chairman of the Republican State Committee, said he would not participate in selection of a candidate unless invited by Dr. Clements to do so.

CHARGES COOLIDGE MADE MOCKERY OF TARIFF BOARD

terests alone are worth $35,000,000. Senator Smoot is deeply interested in determining the sugar tariff. His position a few years ago was so strong that he was able ot throw his voice across to Cuba and almost order the Cuban producers to curtail their production by a million tons. Later, after President Harding had requested the Tariff Commission to study the sugar situation, we got an immediate message from Senator Smoot that was almost a challenge to the President.

Allies of the Sugar Industry.

"Senator Smoot on another occasion called a tariff commissioner (William S. Culbertson, now Minister to Rumania) into his office and subjected him to a virtual cross-examination at the hands of the sugar lobby of the United States.

"Brossard comes from that kind of environment. It is not necessary to prove an open convenant between him and the sugar interests to show the impropriety of his delegation. There are plenty of other positions in the Government service where the sons of Utah can be received. They ought not to force themselves into places where suspicion will attend their motives."

Lewis charged that testimony given by Brossard before the investigating committee disclosed a purpose to shield the Utah beat sugar industry from criticism. Answering a statement by Brossard that the beet sugar fields provided "healthful" employment for children, the witness read a report to the contrary from the Federal Children's Bureau. He declared that the report revealed a "cruel situation" that ought to be ended.

Criticises Coolidge.

In a review of the strife within the commission over the sugar report, Lewis again criticised the failure of the President to make a regulation that would have barred H. H. Glassie, whose wife's family was heavily interested in sugar production, from taking part in the hearing.

"In the gravest crisis in the commission's history," said Lewis, "the President failed to exercise his power. Instead, he sent a message to Glassie that he should do his duty as he saw it and the President would stand back of him."

In answer to testimony given before the committee by William Burgess, a former Commissioner, Lewis read from the minutes of the commission to prove, as he said, the "utter unreliability" of Burgess. He described Burgess as a "former lobbyist, former Commissioner and now a lobbyist again." Previous testimony has shown that Burgess was a lobbyist for New Jersey pottery interests prior to his appointment to the commission by President Harding.

PORTUGUESE MUTINEERS HOLD THE CITY OF OPORTO

Loyal Forces Fear Thorough Bombardment Would Destroy Civilians as Well as Soldiers.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 5.—President Carmona's Government is having difficulty in suppressing the revolutionary movement at Oporto. The mutinous soldiers and their supporters are entrenched in the center of the city and have offered strong opposition to government troops seeking to eject them. Wishing to spare the civilian population as much as possible, the commander of the loyal forces is endeavoring to find a way to overcome the revolutionaries without further bombardment.

An official note declares the military insurrection took place only at Oporto, Figuera Da Foz, a seaport in the Province Beira; the garrison at Tavira, in the Province of Algarve, and on the gunboat Dengo, anchored near Faro.

Notwithstanding the government's optimistic announcements, reports are current that the revolt has spread to various parts of northern Portugal. Meanwhile Lisbon remains peaceful.

ARMY SEEKS MEN FOR CHINA

Previous Service Stressed in Recruiting for Oriental Duty.

Recruiting of a special type of soldier for infantry service in China has been ordered in St. Louis, as in recruiting stations throughout the country. Recruits must be more than 25 years old, have had previous service and be of excellent character.

The St. Louis quota is only eight men. Recruiting continues for an apparently unlimited number for service in Panama and Honolulu.

Game Wardens Held for Murder.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 5.—William L. Birsch, A. F. Mercer and J. T. Capps, game wardens, gave $5000 bond each in Princess Anne Circuit Court today on charges of murder. They killed two Back Bay Gun Club keepers. Their explanation is that when arrested for shooting ducks at night the men fired on them and were killed in the exchange of shots.

Thought Asthma Would Smother Her

Sleeps All Night Now. Bronchial Trouble Is Gone.

How to get rid of asthma and severe bronchial coughs is convincingly told in a letter written by Mrs. E. J Bain, 2008 W. New York St., Indianapolis, Ind. She says:

"I had bronchial asthma so severely that I could not do anything. I was so weak and nervous, it just seemed I would drop at every step. I had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and had to sit in a chair so I could breathe. When I would lie down it seemed as if I would smother to death. Since taking Nacor, every symptom of asthma has left me, and I did not have a bad cold or cough all winter. I can walk quite well, have a good appetite, weigh 159 pounds, sleep well at night and am stronger than I have been for several years. I owe it all to Nacor and am willing to tell others."

Hundreds of other sufferers from asthma, bronchitis and severe chronic coughs have reported their recovery, after years of affliction. Their letters and booklet full of valuable information about these stubborn diseases, will be sent free by Nacor Medicine Co., 577 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. No matter how serious your case seems, write for this free booklet today. It may give your whole life a new meaning.

KELLOGG WOULD CREATE A NEUTRAL ZONE IN SHANGHAI

Asks Chinese Factions to Declare International Concession Outside the Theater of War.

TEXT OF OFFER IS KEPT SECRET

Plan Would Obviate Necessity for Landing Large Foreign Forces to Protect Nationals.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—A formal proposal by Secretary of State Kellogg to the warring factions in China to declare the international settlement at Shanghai a neutral zone has been forwarded to Minister MacMurray at Pekin for delivery both in Pekin and Hankow. Pending its receipt by the leaders of the two factions, the text is withheld.

The new American move to protect American and other foreign nationals in Shanghai from violence came as a complete surprise. There was no previous intimation that an effort was contemplated to get the Northern and Southern leaders in China to agree to a course that would make unnecessary the evacuation of Shanghai by foreigners or require extensive landing operations by foreign naval forces to guarantee protection of their nationals.

Undoubtedly the Kellogg plan is founded upon the repeated public declarations of Foreign Minister Eugene Chen of the Cantonese (Southern) faction and Wellington Koo, Foreign Minister of the Northern forces in Pekin, that both sides desire to protect foreigners from molestation and have no desire to bring about an exodus of foreigners at Shanghai. It is to be expected that Minister MacMurray has probably already taken steps to present the proposal directly to Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord and the dominating figure in the alliance of Northern provincial military Governors which is opposed to the efforts of the Cantonese or Southern faction to extend its power over Northern China.

The Government machinery at Pekin has no firm constitutional background. At Hankow, which is now headquarters of the Cantonese regime, it is assumed that Foreign Minister Chen has sufficient authority to commit the Cantonese government to a course of action such as Kellogg has proposed.

The U. S. S. Pecos, carrying 266 marines, sailed yesterday from Manila for Shanghai.

Lloyd George Likens Chinese Situation to Opening of Great War.

By the Associated Press.

MIDDLESBROUGH, England, Feb. 5.—David Lloyd George, former premier, tonight drew a comparison between some of the conditions leading up to the beginning of the World War in 1914, and those prevailing at present in the Chinese imbroglio.

Alluding to the fact that the sending of British troops to China caused Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Southern faction to break off negotiations with the British charge O'Malley at Hankow Lloyd George said:

"The sinister fact was that it was a premature movement of troops in 1914 that brought negotiations to an end and projected the great war. We must see that the same thing does not happen again."

The Liberal leader expressed the hope that the Government would give heed to suggestions that troops should not be landed at Shanghai, but retained at Hong Kong or elsewhere within easy reach of Shanghai in case of trouble.

Perils on Good Will Flight Make Path Far From Rosy

Commander Dargue of 18,500-Mile Pan-American Journey Discloses Flyers' Many Narrow Escapes From Disaster.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—All is not "the smooth pathway that might be expected" on the 18,500-mile good will flight over Central and South America, according to a letter made public today from Maj. H. A. Dargue, commander of the five American amphibian planes engaged in the trip and now at Lima, Peru.

"The skill of the pilots is certainly the only thing that has saved the planes at many places we have been," the airman wrote to the Merchants' Association. The association made public the letter, dated when the flyers were in the canal zone, preparing to hop into Southern American countries.

One of the worst 24 hours, the Major relates, was at Salina Cruz, where a 70-mile gale interfered with landing and later nearly wrecked the planes when they took off the next morning.

Arose From Choppy Sea.

"I got into the air right away, however, from a very choppy sea," he continued, "and into a most gusty wind, which had little respect for the comparatively fragile toy in which I found myself. I was glad to reach an altitude of 2000 feet, where I felt a little safer and had the possibility of using my parachute for descent, if necessary.

"It was only by the most remarkable skill that the other four planes taxied outside the breakwater and got off and joined me. For 50 miles down the coast we fought a battle royal—the planes pointing almost directly into the coast line to keep from being carried across the Pacific.

"On approaching Lake Ilopangi, San Salvador, some of the ships had to turn back over the sea to get sufficient altitude to clear the mountains, the down currents were so severe in the neighborhood of the mountains. On one occasion when nearing the lake, the New York got a drop of 1000 feet in almost 'nothing flat,' and the other ships were treated similarly. After taking off from Lake Ilopango, the off-shore wind was blowing down off the high mountains and volcanoes, coupled with the action of the boiling sun. It certainly produced anything but the aviator's haven of rest. I wore a big blister on my hands working the controls."

Auto Ride Wrecked Nerves.

However, the greatest "thrill," the Major said, was not in the air, but in an automobile going to Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, to pay diplomatic respects to the President.

"Never shall I forget that ride; we surely had a full day, and had it not been for the fact that I wanted to be awake when the automobile went over one of the cliffs, I probably would have been unconscious most of the way. The road was built along the steep faces of mountains without protection and with many hair-pin turns. To slow up for the turns apparently was interpreted as an exhibition of unskilled driving and consequently the rear wheels generally skidded around, clinging to the ragged edge of the cliff."

Opposing Armies Engaged 150 Miles From Shanghai.

The fight is for control of Shanghai and the Yangtse Valley, the richest spot in China. The front is about 150 miles from Shanghai.

FIGHTS WITH ELECTRIC BULL THRILL HOMESICK SPANIARDS

Matador, Picador and Toreador All Take Part in Mechanical Sham Battle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—In an arena fringed with wildly enthusiastic spectators in the picturesque costumes of old Spain bullfights are staged in the Spanish colony of Newark in a building close to the Passaic River. But lest the A. S. P. C. A. become unnecessarily excited, let it be explained that the bull is a mechanical one on the style of President Coolidge's electric horse.

The bull has a leather hide, horns and bobbing head and tail and is mounted on rollers with wires leading to controls at a switchboard, where an electrician controls its movements. These consist chiefly of swaying from side to side.

The matador, picador, toreador and others are dressed in bullfighting costumes. The fights are held two nights a week. About 200 men and women, many in costume, attend. An orchestra plays a Spanish air. The fighters spring into the arena. They wave red cloths. Not at the bull, but at the audience, it was explained yesterday, because it "makes them more enthusiastic."

A switch is thrown and the bull cavorts. The picador enters and prods the bull with his lance. He withdraws at the bugle call announcing the toreador, whose job it is to thrust his sword into the sawdust beast of the bull, and, if he hits the right spot and a bell rings inside the bull within three minutes, he is proclaimed victor. If he fails he is hissed off the platform.

Christensen related, "and I took out my gun, backed him against the wall, and searched him. He had no weapon with him. Rizzo rushed in, and I backed him against the wall also, and fired two shots to call the other agents."

The agents searched the residence, breaking a back door when admittance was refused. Randazzo's overcoat, which was in the house, had a revolver in the pocket. Rizzo and John Randazzo, who was at the residence, were found to be carrying automatic pistols.

Police records show that Antonio Randazzo's license as a watchman was issued in April, 1900, on the ground that he had to carry large sums of money. The others obtained licenses later on similar grounds. Christensen said Randazzo talked of getting him a watchman's license, so that he could carry a revolver legally. All of the licenses, however, were of the issue recalled two years ago, but which had not been returned to police.

UNIVERSITY GIRL TRIES TO ROB BANK OF $24

Caught After Drilling Way Into Building, Says She Needed Tuition Fee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

VERMILLION, S. D., Feb. 5.—Faced by the prospect of leaving college because of her inability to pay the tuition fee of $24, Marian Meyers, 19-year-old University of South Dakota freshman, forsook the role of campus drudge early today and embarked upon that of bank robber.

As a result Miss Meyers now is held in jail here, with the prospect of serving ten years in the penitentiary for breaking into the First National Bank and attempting to drill her way into the steel vault.

Caught by police early this morning as she sat in the doorway of the bank weeping over her failure to attain her purpose., Miss Meyers late this afternoon signed a written confession. Couched in the university girl's own words, it gives a vivid picture of her escapade.

"I left the house of Prof. Josey, where I have been working for my board and room for the last five months, about 8:15 p. m., taking my traveling bag and going to the town rest room. I remained there a short time and then went to the postoffice once or twice, returning to the rest room each time, and remained there until about 1 a. m.

Wanted Only $24.

"From there I went to the First National Bank Building, raised the window in the hallway at the rear and entered the building. I attempted to gain admittance to the main room where the money is kept, because I wanted to get $24 with which to pay my tuition at the university. I was unable to climb into the room over the transom, so went over to the Ford Motor Co. garage, where I pushed a piece of cardboard out of a broken place in the window and entered the building. I took a pair of tin snips, a pair of pliers, six drill bits and a screw driver. I drilled and pried my way into the main room.

"While I was up in the front part of the building, a man opened the front door and looked in. I became scared and when a clock made a noise, I ran back to the window through which I had entered, then went to the back part of the building and hid behind a large box. I could hear someone prowling around and was afraid they would shoot. So I went into the hallway and sat on steps, where the officers foun at about 6 a. m."

"Don't let mother know have done," she pleaded. "I care what happens to me now please spare her the pain of ing her daughter has turned nal."

But the girl's pleas were as her mother, who already received the news, was hu to her daughter's side.

FARMER TELLS OF DEADLOCKING FERGUSON JURY

Homer Meyers of Jonesburg Mo., Didn't Believe There Was Any Intent to Defraud.

VOTED TO ACQUIT BOTH DEFENDANTS

Never Changed Position and Denies Agreeing to Convict Ferguson and Free Baggot.

Homer Meyers, a farmer of Jonesburg, Mo., the juror who held ut for 55½ hours against 11 fel- ow jurymen who wanted to con- ict Forrest Ferguson of fraud in onnection with the $1,500,000 rash of the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., yesterday re- ated why he was convinced of Fer- uson's innocence.

Ferguson and Alfred F. Baggot, ho were jointly charged with ending a false financial statement hrough the mails, will be tried gain in March, following the ac- ion of Federal Judge Davis Friday fternoon in declaring a mistrial nd discharging the jury for fail- re to agree.

"I didn't believe there was any ent to defraud," Meyers said. Judge Davis' instructions that we ust be convinced of an intent to efraud strengthened me in my osition. I voted to acquit both erguson and Baggot, and never hanged my vote. I never agreed o trade my vote for acquittal, and think we should at least have ac- uitted Baggot."

How the Vote Stood.

Other members of the jury ques- oned at the Federal Building yes- rday when they called for their ay warrants said the vote had ood 11 to 1 for conviction of Fer- uson and 7 to 5 for acquittal of aggot. Ferguson was the presi- ent and Baggot the secretary of e defunct firm.

A trade had been arranged among e jurors during their long effort o swing Meyers to a conviction of erguson by which five jurors who d stood for conviction of Baggot greed to vote to free him if Meyers would change his position n Ferguson. Several jurors said Meyers agreed to this trade and en held out on them. When a allot was taken at this time, it owed a unanimous vote to acquit aggot and 11 to 1 to convict Fer- son.

"I never agreed to it," Meyers peated, "and I think the vote to cquit Baggot should have stood. ut a juror told me that as long as voted to acquit Ferguson he ould vote for Baggot's convic- on."

The jurors changed their minds bout the Baggot acquittal when ey saw that Meyers wasn't going "play ball" with them on the guson conviction. The next bal- showed a return to the old vote 7 to 5 for Baggot's acquittal in- ead of a unanimous acquittal ver- ict.

Farmer Defends His Stand.

"Don't blame me for hanging e jury," Meyers insisted. "We ould at least have got an acquit- al for Baggot if that other juror adn't been stubborn. I voted ac- ording to my conscience. I am ot a business man, but on my arm I have borrowed money from anks. I never put up colateral r these loans, but always planned o pay them off when I sold hogs, attle or wheat. If the hogs died f cholera or something happened o the cattle or the wheat crop ailed I might fail to settle my ebts, but I wouldn't be guilty of ntent to defraud when I made the ans."

The other jurors said they paid ttle attention to the "intent to de- ud" element of the case. They e convinced, they said, that erguson knew what was in the ancial statement the late Mur- y Carleton had prepared and ew it was fraudulent.

Homer Meyers, a farmer of Jonesburg, Mo., the juror who held out for 55½ hours against 11 fellow jurymen who wanted to convict Forrest Ferguson of fraud in connection with the $1,500,000 crash of the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., yesterday related why he was convinced of Ferguson's innocence.

Ferguson and Alfred F. Baggot, who were jointly charged with sending a false financial statement through the mails, will be tried again in March, following the action of Federal Judge Davis Friday afternoon in declaring a mistrial and discharging the jury for failure to agree.

"I didn't believe there was any intent to defraud," Meyers said. "Judge Davis' instructions that we must be convinced of an intent to defraud strengthened me in my position. I voted to acquit both Ferguson and Baggot, and never changed my vote. I never agreed to trade my vote for acquittal, and I think we should at least have acquitted Baggot."

A trade had been arranged among the jurors during their long effort to swing Meyers to a conviction of Ferguson by which five jurors who had stood for conviction of Baggot agreed to vote to free him if Meyers would change his position on Ferguson. Several jurors said Meyers agreed to this trade and then held out on them. When a ballot was taken at this time, it showed a unanimous vote to acquit Baggot and 11 to 1 to convict Ferguson.

"I never agreed to it," Meyers repeated, "and I think the vote to acquit Baggot should have stood. But a juror told me that as long as I voted to acquit Ferguson he would vote for Baggot's conviction."

The jurors changed their minds about the Baggot acquittal when they saw that Meyers wasn't going to "play ball" with them on the Ferguson conviction. The next ballot showed a return to the old vote of 7 to 5 for Baggot's acquittal instead of a unanimous acquittal verdict.

Missourian Addresses Jackson Day Dinner at Cincinnati on Constitutional Liberties.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 5.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, in a speech on "Constitutional Liberties" tonight at the Jackson Day dinner, said that it is time that America turned from foreign problems to those of cutting down of domestic crime.

Asserting that our domestic problems are sufficiently grave to enlist all of our energies and intelligence, he said it would be well if America learned to govern itself before it undertakes the direction of other nations. He blamed failure to recognize the legitimate domain of the civil law as the root of the trouble and urged that it be given definite recognition from the domain of morals if conditions are to be corrected.

"There would be less of murder, of robbery, and other heinous crimes," he said, "if the constabulary and the courts of justice would engage in running down real culprits, instead of expending their energies in attempting to apprehend an occasional bootlegger or the vendor or a purchaser of cigarettes."

a St. Louis train. They had come in an automobile owned by one of the brothers, but the machine had been seized on replevin while in Quincy under an unpaid mortgage note.

Most of the observers, attorneys, gangsters and witnesses, who had crowded the little hotel to capacity, during the trial, were already gone and the city, stirred by the gang trial, was returning to normal.

Friday morning Newman drove off secretly in the direction of St. Louis, accompanied by a heavily armed escort in two other machines. Birger, ostensibly under arrest as a material witness, left Friday night in an automobile with postoffice inspectors who put him on a Springfield train at Hannibal. They had promised to keep him under arrest while in Quincy to protect him from a warrant for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, which Sheriff Pritchard at Harrisburg had been trying all week to serve.

Birger to Start Anew.

"I'm going back to Harrisburg," Birger announced, according to the inspectors. "The Sheltons burned up my place and put me out of business. I'm going to build me another roadhouse and try to make some money."

Recently, before the Sheltons were convicted, both Birger and Newman announced they would leave this part of the country when the trial was over.

Fearing attempted assassination, the Government's star witnesses were smuggled out Friday. Newman, with a heavily-armed escort in three automobiles, went south toward St. Louis. Birger, ostensibly a Federal prisoner held as a material witness, was removed to the Bloomington jail by postoffice inspectors who had promised to protect him from arrest on a state warrant for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

DAUGHERTY TRIAL TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—United States District Attorney Buckner said today he and his assistants are ready for the beginning here, Monday, of the second trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Col. Thomas W. Miller. The defendants are under indictment to defraud the United States of their services while the former was Attorney-General and the latter Alien Property Custodian in the administration of President Harding.

The trial will be held before Judge John C. Knox, objection having been made by Miller's counsel to a second trial before Judge Julian W. Mack.

Stop Foot Pains In Five Minutes

If your feet ache and pain, burn and itch, are puffed, swollen, tired, tender and sensitive, write for an interesting new book, "Foot Health," which is now being sent free and postpaid to foot sufferers by Dr. F. H. Griffith, a successful foot specialist. It explains an amazing new method for correcting foot troubles at home easily, quickly and permanently, without arches, braces, bandages, pads, cushions or other makeshift devices to be worn on the foot or in the shoe—without tiresome exercises, without discomfort or trouble. Yet foot and leg pains are stopped almost instantly, fallen or weak arches corrected, the muscles strengthened, the circulation in the feet and legs improved, the feet made strong, sturdy and self-supporting and thus ending foot troubles for good. Simply send name and address to Dr. F. H. Griffith, Suite 1524, Davidson Building, Kansas City, Mo., and his book will be sent without cost or obligation. As it points the way to foot health and comfort every foot sufferer should have it.

POSTOFFICE BRANCH ROBBED OF $600 CASH

Two Youths Hold Up Alfred S. Klaven's Dry Goods Sore at 3459 California Avenue.

Two young men held up the dry goods store and branch postoffice operated by Alfred S. Klaven at 3459 California avenue yesterday afternoon and, after herding five persons into the rear of the store, took $600 from a safe and $65 from the cash drawer. Part of the $600 represented receipts of the branch postoffice. The remainder belonged to the Union Electric Light & Power Co., for which Klaven is authorized to receive bill-money.

About 15 minutes before the Klaven robbery, two youths, apparently the same, entered the offices of Real Cleaning & Dyeing Co., 4137 South Grand boulevard, held up Lewis Sherman, the president, and seven employes, and escaped with $200 they took from the cash register.

Loot in five robberies between 6 and 7 o'clock last night totaled $480. The largest amount was taken from Otto and Simon Gutfreund in their dry goods store, 2428 South Broadway, by two bandits who took the receipts from the cash register and the personal funds of the Gutfreunds.

Other losses were as follows: Mrs. Elizabeth Good, 925 Geyer avenue, $80; Joseph E. Brown, 1200 Chouteau avenue, $15; Frank Kaufman, 1343 Academy avenue, $25; William E. Bubeck, 2338 Benton street, $25.

YACHT FIRED UPON OFF FLORIDA

Coast Guard Boat's Action Brings Protest From Owner.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5.—Charges that their private yacht, flying the American flag, was fired upon by Coast Guard patrol boat 248 at a point 40 miles off Miami, were made by Capt. B. E. Schubert, master and owner of the yacht Elsie II, and his two guests, Francis Williams and Samuel Hawkes, both of Corning, N. Y., upon their arrival here tonight.

Hawkes, president of T. G. Hawkes & Co. manufacturers of crystal glass, announced his attorneys here were preparing affidavits be forwarded immediately to the Navy Department.

SCHWAB SAYS COOLIDGE IN '28

Can't Imagine Anything to Prevent It, He Tells British.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Re-election of President Coolidge for another term was predicted by Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, in an interview upon his arrival here.

America's present prosperity, which should continue through 1927, is due to "the sane administration in Washington, that has afforded big business a feeling of security and commanded respect abroad," Schwab said. "President Coolidge has made an almost unequaled record in the White House and has the confidence of the country. I can not imagine any situation, political or otherwise, which will prevent his re-election."

LAYS BABY'S DEATH TO RAID

Mother Gets $1000 Damages From Prohibition Detectives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 5.—Mrs. Fernanda Digirolamo obtained a judgment for $1000 damages today against three members of a group of nine detectives that raided her home at midnight, April 8, 1925, in search of liquor. Mrs. Digirolamo, a 21-year-old expectant mother at the time, charged that the boisterous conduct of the raiders was responsible for the death of her child.

Roster of Dead in Gang War

LORY L. PRICE was the thirteenth person killed since the Birger-Shelton feud broke out in Williamson County two years ago. One victim was a woman, burned to death in the dynamiting of "Shady Rest," the Birger retreat. As told elsewhere in this edition, Mrs. Price, who disappeared with her husband, has not been found. Although the Birger gang drew first blood, so far the list stands with only three fatalities in the Shelton gang to eight, counting Price, among Birger's friends. Two, although killed by Shelton gangsters, were not Birger men.

The list follows:

Charles N. Gordon Jr., shot to death by Art Newman, Birger's lieutenant, on Feb. 28. 1925, when, Newman declares, Gordon tried to "bump him off" at the behest of the Sheltons.

Harry Walker, former Herrin policeman and bodyguard of S. Glenn Young, and Everett Smith, shot to death Aug. 22, last, in a roadhouse fight near Marion. They were Birger men; but Newman says a "tough boy," not a Sheltonite, killed them.

William Holland, (Wild Bill) Carl Shelton's bodyguard, riddled with buckshot by several men who fired into his automobile Sept. 12, near Herrin, and seriously wounded Mr. and Mrs. Max Pulliam.

William McQuay and Ward Jones, bartenders at Birger's roadhouse, near Marion, found dead Oct. 26. Jones, shot eight times with a machine gun, was found beside the road near Equality, 38 miles west of Herrin, and McQuay, shot 16 times, was found in his coupe on a road between Herrin and Johnston City.

Jeff Stone, two-gun Mayor of Colp, and his pal, John Milroy, killed in a machine-gun fusillade Nov. 6 on a road near Colp. Stone was believed to have incurred hatred of the Sheltons when he beat John Freeman former Chief of Police of Colp, to the draw in a poolhall fight. He was on $10,000 bond, charged with Freeman's murder.

Mayor Joe Adams of West City, called to his door and assassinated Dec. 12, after weeks of coldly repeated threats of death by Birger.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve George, caretakers, and Elmo Thompson, at Shady Rest, killed, with an unidentified man, in the dynamiting and burning of the rendezvous of Birger gangsters Jan. 9.

FIND BODY OF OFFICER MISSING IN GANG FEUD

to Post-Dispatch, Price's automobile, a Ford coupe, was a gift from Birger, who depended on the patrolman to keep him informed of the movements of Shelton adherents on the highway he patrolled.

On the Friday after the dynamiting, Price told friends that Carl Shelton had crowded his car to the side of the road in Williamson County and had stopped to talk to him. He described the conversation as "friendly," but refused to go into details.

The Prices were last seen alive three days later, the evening of Jan. 17, when they went to a picture show and returned at 11 p. m. Two days later relatives became alarmed and entered the house. There was no evidence of a struggle but every evidence that Price and his wife had departed hurriedly. Telephone wires to the house had been cut near the front door. Price's car was in the garage.

The front door was unlocked and the key was on the inside. Price's uniform was on a chair beside a bed, the condition of which indicated that the couple had risen and dressed hastily. A pair of khaki trousers were gone, and a red hat and a light-colored cloak were missing from Mrs. Price's wardrobe. Outside there were footprints in the soft earth beside the concrete walk.

Price "Knew too Much."

Marion authorities and State patrolmen conducted an extensive search of the district in the hope that the pair would be found alive, and this hope was not abandoned until Price's body was found today. It is believed that he was killed because he "knew too much" and that she was murdered, too, to prevent her telling what had happened.

Price was 36 years old, and Mrs. Price, whom he married four years ago, was 30. They had no children. Price served during the war from October, 1917, until July 6, 1919, and was a German prisoner for several months after being captured while operating an automatic rifle. He had been a coal miner at Marion for many years and on Nov. 1, 1923, was appointed State Highway Patrolman, with the Carbondale-Harrisburg beat. His only close relative was his mother, Mrs. John Dufour of Marion.

Mrs. Price, whose maiden name was Jackson, had been a school teacher for 12 years, resigning recently. Last year she taught at Lamaster and previously at Spillertown, Weaver and other places in Pope and Jackson Counties. She had four brothers and four sisters.

SHELTONS DECLARE THEY KNOW NOTHING ABOUT PRICE DEATH

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 5.—News of the finding of State Highway Patrolman Price's body in a field near Dubois was received with equanimity and an air of sympathy by Carl Shelton, leader of the Southern Illinois gang blamed by enemy gangsters for the murder.

In jail here awaiting transfer to Leavenworth prison to serve a 25-year term for mail robbery, Carl and his brothers, Earl and Bernie, listened with interest to the details of the finding of the body but denied that they knew anything about the murder. When the news was delivered this afternoon by a Post-Dispatch reporter, none of the men appeared startled, or shocked. Earl and Bernie have been in jail for several weeks.

"Carl, they found Lory Price's body," the reporter said. "They did?" replied Carl with an air of disinterested curiosity. Bernie asked, "Who?" and when told, remarked, "Oh!"

Hopes Mrs. Price Is Alive.

"Where'd they find it?" queried Carl. He was told. "Did they find the body of Mrs. Price?" He was told they had not. "I hope she's living so she can tell who did it. That's what I hope."

Bernie interrupted, "Did he have his motor cycle?"

"What motor cycle?"

"Well, Price rode a motor cycle, didn't he? Did they find that?"

The reporter did not know.

Carl was asked, "Have you any idea who killed Lory Price?"

"Well, this is my theory," he replied. "You know he used to hang around Charlie Birger's place, and the papers said he was there a few nights before it burned down, and Birger, you know, is always suspicious of spies. I always figured he did away with Price on the theory that Price was spying to inform those who destroyed it of a good time to do it.

"I never had any trouble with Price, and I don't know his wife."

Earl, who had been lying in his bunk, came forward during the conversation. He was told the news. Shaking his head he remarked, "That's bad. That's bad."

SUICIDE HOAX BARES APPARENT MURDER

Investigation Begun Into Death of Student Who Was Buried as Artist.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 5.—Mystery still surrounds the suicide hoax of Phillip G. Mast, commercial artist, and the death of Albert Seitz, St. Joseph, Mo., former Missouri University student whose body, buried last September as that of Mast, was identified yesterday.

The prosecutor's office today began an investigation into the manner of Seitz's death, the theory of murder being uppermost. Friends of Seitz in Kansas City, Kan., where he was employed, declared he had no reason to kill himself, and his roommate declared he had nearly $100 when he disappeared the morning of Sept. 6, last. Mast was absolved of any connection with the death last night when he established he was in Terre Haute, Ind., the day Seitz disappeared.

The cases are linked strangely by coincidence. Mast disappeared Sept. 4, after leaving a note that he was going to end his life in the Miscsouri River.

Three days later a body, a weight fastened to the belt, was taken from the river and identified as Mast's by his wife, Mrs. Carrie Mast.

Early this week Mast returned and was arrested on charges of forgery, and an investigation into the identity of the body was begun.

Dr. R. H. Hill, dentist of Columbia, Mo., identified the body of Seitz in Woodland Cemetery, Independence, Mo., yesterday. Seitz, 24 years old, was a stock clerk in a store at Kansas City, Kan. Friends and relatives said his life apparently had been orderly and habits regular since boyhood on the Seitz farm near St. Joseph.

Bobbed Hair Barred by Zion.

ZION, Ill., Feb. 5.—If she bobs her hair the girl or woman thereby removes herself from membership in the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church in Zion, according to an official reminder on record today from Wilbur Glenn Voliva, the overseer. He would neither deny nor affirm a report that a daughter of Zion had yielded her tresses to the shears.

SENATOR JONES IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Member From New Mexico Collapses While in Barber Shop at Capitol.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Stricken with a heart attack today in the Senate barber shop, Senator A. A. Jones of New Mexico was in a serious condition tonight at the Emergency Hospital.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the attending physician, expressed hope that the veteran Democratic legislator would recover from this attack, but added that he was a very sick man.

Senator Jones, who is 65 years old, has suffere from angina pectoris for several years and once during the last session of Congress he was obliged to give up work for several weeks.

The Senator has been laboring for several weeks over the Alien Property Return Bill and made a brief address today to the Senate in explanation of that measure after it had been reported by Chairman Smoot, of the Finance Committee.

WOMAN AND CHILD INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Girl, 8, Seriously Hurt, When Car in Which She Was Riding, Was Struck by Another.

Ruth Becham, 8 years old, 508 Calvary avenue, suffered a possible fractured skull and lacerations of the face shortly after last midnight when the automobile driven by Vincent Gonzales, in which she was riding, collided with a machine driven by Stephen McGovern, 4140 St. Louis avenue, on the Bellefontaine road, about 100 feet north of the St. Gyr road.

Mrs. Anna Becham, 58, grandmother of Ruth, suffered a wrenched shoulder in the accident, but Gonzales, who lives at the Calvary avenue address with them, was not injured. The drivers were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Obert and the two injured persons were taken to the Westminster Hospital, 8250 Halls Ferry road.

HOUSE RESOLUTION ON PRISON INQUIRY LACKS BACKBONE

Senators Say Investigating Committee Is Powerless to Subpena Witnesses Under Present Provisions

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—Close examination by Senators of the resolution adopted in the House of Representatives yesterday for an investigation and audit of the penitentiary, following accusations of gross mismanagement, has disclosed that, under its provisions, the proposed investigating committee would be powerless to compel the attendance of witnesses or to make a comprehensive investigation.

Senator Painter of Carrollton, Democratic floor leader, today said the House resolution would be amended in the Senate to supply the missing power, and that it would be returned to the House for adoption in its amended form.

The situation and negotiations leading up to the impending inquiry have had many political elements. From the beginning of the legislative session, it had been the expectation that the Democratic Senate would take the lead in the inquiry into the numerous reports of irregular and unbusinesslike methods in use at the prison, but it appeared that neither Senator Cave, president pro tem, nor Senator Painter was enthusiastic about instituting the innvestigation.

Republican Acts.

As a result, the prospect of action by the Senate had grown dim. Yesterday, however, Representative Kay of Kansas City, a Republican, offered a resolution in the House, naming a bipartisan committee of four members. His action, taken without the co-operation of the House Republican leaders, startled them, and they hastened the resolution to the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, from which a substitute, providing for a joint committee of six from the House and Senate and directing that prison books and accounts be audited, emerged.

The substitute was rather loosely drawn and was amended on floor, on motion of Representative Bates, a Democrat, to include an audit of the industries operated with convict labor. In this form the substitute was adopted and sent to the Senate.

As the resolution originated with a Republican, the Republican House, when it was once presented, could not well avoid adopting it. Received from a Republican House the Democratic Senate cannot well avoid giving the resolution its support.

Must Be Rewritten.

But it now develops that the House resolution does not provide for much of an investigation, and it will be the Senate's job to rewrite it.

The resolution authorized the committee to employ "an accredited, bonded auditing company of the State of Missouri without delay to make a careful, complete and unbiased audit of all the books and accounts of said institutions.

"Some Senators expressed the opinion that this would be little more than adding up the figures and would not authorize the auditors to go into questions of whether purchases were made at market prices, or whether supplies had been diverted from proper channels.

The resolution empowered the committee to require the attendance of witnesses, but it contained no authority for the issuance of subpenas or for employing the clerical help which would be needed. A lawyer member of the House said that, under the resolution as adopted, any witness could refuse to attend, or after attending, could refuse to testify.

If the investigation is to be thorough and if the public is to be informed of exact conditions of penitentiary operations, it will be necessary for the Senate to write a new resolution authorizing an audit of all purchases and their disposition, as well as an audit of all purchases, sales and expenses of the various industries within the penitentiary. In fact, unless the final resolution puts the auditors into the prison with complete blanket authority to go into every detail of prison operation without interference from members of the committee or others, the investigation will be little different from others in previous years, virtually all of which have been whitewashes.

Senator Painter today denied a rumor that the Senate would seek to include an investigation of the deposit of State funds in banks which have since failed, and possibly investigations of several other departments. It generally was conceded that, if such was undertaken, the House would refuse to co-operate.

"We look upon this as an invitation from the House to join in an investigation of the prison," Senator Painter said, "and I am sure there will be no disposition on the part of the Senate to extend it beyond that institution."

Speaker Winter of the House said that any blanket investigation would be looked upon by the House as an attempt to play politics.

"We have submitted to the Senate a fair proposition devoid of politics," Winter said, "and we will stand on that. Our resolution was drawn in considerable haste and possibly needs some amendment. If it does, the House undoubtedly will concur in anything the Senate does that strengthens the resolution. The investigation should be thorough, and the resolution should be amended wherever necessary to guarantee a thorough investigation of the prison.

Baker Asks State Auditor to Go Over Prison's Books.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—A backfire to the legislative demand for a full and searching investigation of the management of the State penitentiary, to be accompanied by an audit of the prison books by private, bonded, certified public accountants, was set by the administration late this afternoon, when Gov. Baker requested State Auditor L. D. Thompson to make an audit of the penitentiary.

Thompson's two auditors, who are not certified public accountants, now are engaged in an audit of the Motor Vehicle Registration Department, and if they complete that task will not be able to start the prison audit for two or three months. The audit would require several months and would not be completed until long after Legislature has adjourned.

REFUSES EDISON MEDAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Dr. W. D. Coolidge, General Electric Co. scientist and discoverer of the Cathode ray, has refused the Edison medal awarded him last December for earlier work with ductile tungsten, it was learned here today.

The refusal was based on the ground that a Federal Court had ruled he was not the inventor of ductile tungsten, Dr. Coolidge pointed out in his letter to the Award Committee, members of which have acquiesced in his decision with announced regrets.

WILKINS ON WAY NORTH AGAIN TO FLY INTO ARCTIC

Leaves Detroit to Make Second Attempt to Explore 800,000 - Square - Mile "Blind Spot."

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 5.—Capt. George Hubert Wilkins left here today on his second quest for land and further knowledge of the 800,000 unexplored square miles north of Alaska. He was accompanied only by A. M. Smith, staff correspondent of the Detroit News. Most of Wilkins' personnel planned to meet him at Seattle.

Wilkins and his party expect to reach Fairbanks, Alaska, Feb. 22, by way of Seattle and Seward. At Seattle he will be joined by Carl B. Eielson, chief air pilot; Howard Mason, radio operator; Orval H. Porter, mechanic, and an assistant radio operator. The expedition is prepared for a few weeks of exploratory airplane flights, then for two or three years afoot on the polar ice.

To Fly Into Arctic "Blind Spot."

The two planes with which Wilkins plans to fly into the Arctic "blind spot" already are on the way to Seattle for trans-shipment to Fairbanks. Alger Graham of Detroit, chosen as second pilot of the expedition, will leave here next week in time to receive the planes at Seattle. A second mechanic is to be engaged at Fairbanks, where the first real test of the planes will come in the flight over the Brooks range of mountains to Point Barrow, 600 miles north.

A third plane, one of the large Fokkers used by Wilkins in his explorations last year, is at Fairbanks and will also be taken to Point Barrow. It is planned to have all three planes take off together for the flight over the mountains. To get over the Brooks range, Wilkins said, the planes will have to reach an elevation of 10,000 feet.

One of the smaller planes, said to be easier to maneuver and land on ice will be used by Wilkins and Eielson in the flights 600 miles out over the polar basin.

The explorer plans to make landings on ice, take soundings of ocean depths and thus determine the likelihood of the existence of land nearby and its probable direction. Determination of the direction of polar ocean currents is another important objective of the expedition.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

W. H.—March 22, 1872, was a Friday.

J. M. D.—Jan. 14, 1892, was a Thursday.

POST READER. — We cannot advise regarding radio apparatus. Consult a dealer or a radio repair shop.

R. W. H.—The dealer in poker cannot change his draw after dealing himself the number of cards he originally wanted.

BETTY.—Some of the old fractional currency is worth 25c a note. We do not publish business addresses.

A. L.—You should inquire at the offices of the school superintendents in Webster and in Kirkwood regarding positions.

G. E.—For information regarding the musicians who play for various radio programs write to the stations that broadcast their music.

MATTHEW.—The letter on the coin indicates the place where the coin was made. The "D" means Denver, Colo. Your coin has no added value.

PLEASE ANSWER.—We have no records of previous questions from you signed Please Answer. You might send in a new set of questions if you care to do so.

G. H.—We cannot publish business addresses. You might consult the directories of other cities at the Public Library for the address you desire.

B. S.—The American Legion does not have an employment bureau. Ask for the building superintendent at the banks where you seek work as watchman.

L. W.—A manuscript word count is an exact count of the words used. Editors prefer to know exactly the length of an article, as often the length decides whether or not the manuscript can be used by a particular publication.

JOSEPH H.—The David Ranken Trades School, 4420 Cook avenue, is both a day and night school. You might inquire there regarding the special work you desire to study.

J. A. C.—We do not publish information regarding moving picture plays or actors. The moving picture magazines may give you the information you desire.

M. K. — To become a moving picture actor you will have to apply in person at the various studios in California or in the East. If you wish to sell a scenario send it to some of the producers mentioned in the moving picture magazines.

MRS. E. M.—Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12; Valentine's day Feb. 14; and Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, may be chosen for a celebration by your club. Readings, recitations, stories and a few songs may be used for the programs. Small pictures of Lincoln, tiny hatchets for Washington and small valentines may be used to cover the tops of small souvenir candy boxes.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

READER OF P.-D.—Widows are not entitled to a pension in the State of Missouri.

JOSIE.—If the man died without a will his wife and each of the children would get equal shares of his estate. There is no "time limit" on the inheritance.

BOTTUS. — If the property is held jointly by you and your husband you will be entitled to all of it upon his death. His relatives would not have any claim to any of it.

SUBSCRIBER. — You have no claim to royalty on oil taken from property that your parents traded away so many years ago. The person now owning the property is the only one benefiting by the oil discovery.

W. J.—The corporation pays the person injured, not the state, when compensation is granted for injury. You can obtain full information by addressing Alroy S. Phillips, Chairman of the State Compensation Commission, Jefferson City, Mo.

W. R.—In order to protect your purchase of the furniture from a private person you should get a bill of sale for the furniture, make sure the seller really owns what he is selling, and examine the records in the Recorder's office to see if there is a chattel mortgage on the furniture.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SYLVIA.—For the condition you describe try taking a dessertspoon of viburum compound in a wineglass of water and hot hip baths. The medicine should be taken twice a day just before the condition starts.

D. K.—To clear the dark knuckles make a lotion by dissolving 2 grains of salicylic acid in 1 ounce of water and apply it at bedtime. In the morning wash the hands and rub lanoline into the knuckles. This treatment should be continued as long as necessary.

VERY ANXIOUS MOTHER.—Your small son should be greatly benefited by anticatarrhal serum treatments. This can be administered by your physician or will be given free of charge at Room 28, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

PEGGY.—To increase your bust measure mix the following ingredients and apply the ointment with a circular massaging movement for 15 minutes each night. Melt 1 ounce each of lanoline, cocoa butter and oil of sweet almonds over hot water and beat them into an ointment as the mixture cools.

MRS. W. W.—If you will send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question we will forward to you a diet list that will correct your indigestion if followed faithfully. A teaspoon of bisodol taken in a wineglass of water before meals will give you temporary relief. You should also take a 5-grain caroid and bile salt tablet after each meal.

MRS. J. I.—We urge an immediate and thorough examination in your case. You seem to be suffering with an ulcerated stomach, which may easily lead to a cancerous condition if not properly attended at once. You may have an examination made free of charge at the Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital or by a private physician, as you prefer, but do not delay any longer in the matter.

HER PARENTS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In loving remembrance of our darling mother, Emma Mary Alberding, who entered into eternal rase Feb. 9, 1926.

A loving mother true and kind.
No friend like her on earth we'll find.
God called her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lingers still.

Sadly missed by her children, grandchildren and all who loved her.

In memory of our darling little son, Robert James Meier, died Feb. 4, 1923.

No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of grief that is borne in silence,
For the one we loved so well.

Sadly missed by
DADDY, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

In loving memory of Henry A. Goos died Feb. 10, 1926:

Dear dad, can it be true,
One year has passed since God called for you?
The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
When the evening shadows are falling
And we are sitting all alone,
In our hearts there comes a longing,
If you could only be back home.

Sadly missed by FAMILY.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Edwin Morgan, who departed this life seven years ago, Feb. 5, 1920:

None knows the depth of our regret;
We remember when others forget.
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting with one we loved so well.

Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTERS AND FAMILY. (c)

Elizabeth Kausch, my dear wife and our dear mother, daughter and daughter-in-law, who died Feb. 6, 1926.

In loving memory of Lawrence J. Weilbaecher, who departed this life suddenly on Feb. 7, 1926.

His smiling face and pleasant way are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him; we know not when;
And clasp his hand in the better land, never to depart again.

Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND RELATIVES.

IN MEMORIAM

In the loving memory of my dear husband, Phillip Burgert, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 8, 1926.

Just a line of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory kind and true,
Just a token of love's devotion,
That our hearts still long for you.
If we had seen you at the last and held your dying hand and heard the sigh from your heart, we wouldn't feel so bad.
We didn't know the pain you had,
We did not see you die.
We only know you went away
And never said good-by.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

SEALED PROPOSALS

CONSTRUCTION CONCRETE ROADS

Harris County, Texas, is beginning the construction of its concrete roads program involving total expenditures of over $7,000,000.00, covering twenty roads. The program embraces 135 miles of concrete construction and 100 miles of bituminous surface, and will go forward rapidly.

This is a big program and will probably be greatly enlarged not only in this but in surrounding counties before completion of the present projects. Bids are solicited from contractors experienced in laying concrete, who are capable of handling large jobs.

Bids are desired by the undersigned for the construction of the La Porte road, being approximately 885 stations. Bids must be sealed and filed with the undersigned not later than 10 o'clock a. m. Feb. 28, 1927, and be accompanied by certified check, payable to Harris County, Texas, on a Texas bank, for 5 per cent of the amount bid, conditioned that successful bidder will enter into contract and give bond as required by law. Specifications may be received from Howe & Wise, engineers, First National Bank Bldg., Houston, Texas. All rights reserved. For all details in connection with the program or this particular road, communicate with the above engineers.

H. L. WASHBURN, County Auditor.

ISAAC H. LIONBERGER LISTS REASONS IN FAVOR OF BRIDGE EXCHANGE BILL

To Establish Independent Terminal System by Way of Free Span Would Merely Duplicate Charges, He Says.

Isaac H. Lionberger, attorney, yesterday issued a statement of his reasons for favoring enactment of the bridge exchange bill, now before the Board of Aldermen.

In a letter to Glendy B. Arnold, counsel for the Chamber of Commerce, who is a leading advocate of the bill, Lionberger wrote:

"Perhaps you may remember that I was in consultation with the committee appointed more than 20 years ago to consider the question raised by the ordinance now pending before the Board of Aldermen. I also brought a suit to enjoin the erection of the free railroad bridge, on the ground that its erection by the city for the use of the railroads involved an appropriation of public property to the use of the railroads, in violation of the Constitution of the State. I have followed with interest the discussions of the day, and submit my own views.

"The properties of the Terminal Association, worth $100,000,000, constitute in fact and in law connecting facilities between all the railroads entering St. Louis and East St. Louis.

"The association is a public service corporation and as such subject to public supervision, regulation and control.

Denies It Is a Monopoly.

"It is in no sense a monopoly, since all the railroads are entitled to use it on equal terms.

"Its rates are supervised and regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"The lower level of the Free Bridge was constructed to afford a connecting link between the eastern and western roads and was offered, without rent, to the roads on condition that no charge should be imposed for hauling freight across the river, etc.

"It was not accepted by the railroads because its acceptance involved an abandonment of their right to charge for the use and operation of tracks, bridges, etc., already owned by them.

"The pending ordinance is designed to extricate the city from this dilemma; the rails of the Free Bridge are unused; they lack connections with the rails of the roads east and west of the river and with the rails of the Terminal Association; in its present situation, the free rail bridge not only performs no public service, but costs the city a great deal of money.

"By the terms of the ordinance the city consents to the use of the lower deck of the Free Bridge by the Terminal Association, and the Terminal Association consents to the use of both levels of the Eads Bridge by the city, for a period of 50 years.

"By such an arrangement the city will be enabled to throw open for traffic, without toll, the upper and lower levels of the Eads Bridge and the Terminal Association will be enabled to add to its terminal facilities a useful connecting link between the Eastern and Western roads.

Gives 10 Reasons.

"The ordinance ought to be approved, because:

"1. It involves the surrender by the city of nothing of value to the city, nor of any right possessed by the city. The city cannot now compel the Terminal Association to make no charge for the use of its 500 miles of track and two bridges, nor can any use of the tracks of the Free Bridge compel it to forego such charge: The Supreme Court of the United States has so held.

"2. It secures for the commerce of the city, a new and useful over-river connection between the tracks of all the railroads east and west of the river.

"3. It neither confirms nor strengthens a monopoly, because, under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, all the tracks and facilities of the Terminal Association must be offered to all railroads now entering or which may hereafter enter the city, on equal terms.

"4. It does not approve nor ratify any arbitrary charge by the Terminal Association because the Interstate Commerce Commission has by law, under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, exclusive right and power to regulate and control all such charges.

"5. Under it the city exchanges a now useless railroad deck of its own bridge for both decks of the Eads Bridge, and thereby secures a great, central, direct highway between the heart of East St. Louis and the heart of St. Louis, which the city will be able to throw open to commerce free of charge.

"6. By it the city secures a genuinely free bridge in exchange for the use one at present useless, unused and unconnected with the industries of the city.

"7. It secures for the city all the advantages of a joint terminal system connecting all the railroads east and west of the city, and thereby avoids the imposition of more than one terminal charge.

Opposes Independent Terminal.

"8. Its rejection by the city can result in no advantage of any sort, either to the city or to its commerce. To attempt to build up by means of the city's bridge an independent terminal, is to attempt to establish two noncompeting terminal systems, each of which will exact its own toll and neither of which can reach the industries located upon the rails of the other without such duplication of charges.

"9. The present charges of the Terminal Association are less for a like service than the terminal charges in any city of equal size in the country, i. e., it costs less to get goods to, from and through the city here, than elsewhere.

"10. The present point terminal system of the city enables all the roads east and west of the river to do what otherwise would be impossible, namely: to reach by means of the tracks of the Terminal system the tracks of all other railroads entering St. Louis, and to deliver goods to otherwise inaccessible industries.

"For the foregoing reasons I think the ordinance ought to be approved. It should accomplish a great good for the city without any expense to it, and make useful a bridge constructed as was the Merchants' Bridge in a futile attempt to accomplish the chimerical and impossible. Under the law of the land, $100,000,000 worth of property appropriated to public use is entitled to earn a reasonable return, and as none but a dreamer would propose to give to the keeper of a livery stable a horse on condition that he should charge nothing for the use of all other horses in his stable, so none but a dreamer would think of offering an unnecessary rail track across the river to the Terminal Association on condition that it should charge nothing for the use and operation of a system of tracks and bridges worth $100,000,000."

LOCAL LIVESTOCK PRICES ARE MIXED

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS

	This week.	Last week.	Last year.
Cattle and calves	25,248	23,575	24,976
Hogs	69,135	76,810	60,506
Sheep	5,792	8,655	8,363
Horses and mules	1,618	1,512	2,021
Totals	101,893	107,352	95,866

Cattle receipts and horse and mule receipts showed an increase this week over the previous six-day period, but hogs and sheep dropped off somewhat. A total of 101,893 head of livestock was yarded here the past week compared with 107,353 the previous week and a comparatively light run of 95,866 the corresponding week a year ago. Price trends were mixed, most cattle showing a lower tendency, lambs and sheep maintaining a firm trend, hogs and horses and mules improving the position somewhat. Best weighty beef steers at the local yards held to a steady or nearly steady basis during the past week buyers' orders called for this class. On the medium and light grades of killers, however, the demand was more restricted and gradual declines, starting from the week's opening session lowered the market by Friday to a 25c to 50c lower basis on this class of cattle. Bulk of the week's run of steers graded medium to plain in quality a goodly share of Southern stuff included in the run that sold downward to $6, $6.50 and $7. Better streers cashed from $7 to $7.85 and bulk of native kinds brought $8.25 to $9.50, top reaching $10.15 for some 1302 lbs. averages. Yearlings especially were a draggy commodity during the entire period of trading and with few choice kinds here the bulk ran in a relatively low spread. Few sales above $9 were noted and majority ranged downward from this figure. In mide week few small lots reached $10.50 and $11. Butcher heifers with mixed yearlings, shared in an average decline of 50c to 75c from the previous week, spots showing as much as $1 drop. Most desirable heifers cleared at $8 to $9.25, with plainer grades around $6 to $7.

In butcher stuff, such as cows and bulls the price trend was very uneven, beef cows and bulls declined 50c as compared with a week ago while cutter and canner cows maintained a firm basis under a broad inquiry. Most of the good beef cows sold in a spread of $5.25 to $6.50 with odd head reaching tops of $7.00 and $7.50. Cutter cows followed in a spread of $4.25 to $4.75 mostly, strong kinds reaching $5.00. Canners sold in a range of $3.75 to $4.25 with bulk going at $3.90 to $4.25. Bulls dropped from a top of $7.50 for best beef grades to $7.00 and relatively few at the price. Most bologna bulls sold on the close around $5.00 to $6.50 with common and canner grades of bulls selling from $4.50 to $4.75. Adverse conditions throughout the country during the week had an unfavorable effect on stocker and feeder cattle in general. Although opening prices on this class were steady, later trading developed weakness and closing values show 25c decline in many places. Best fleshy feeders sold as high as $8.00 early in the week with a spread of $6 to $7.50 catching most transactions in this department. She stuff was here in small quantities and trading was on a quiet basis throughout the period. Quotations not radically changed from the previous week. Top veal calves declined $1.25 for the week, dropping to a $15 top on the close. This class in common with other kinds of cattle showed continual weakness throughout the week, sharpest declines occurring early in the period. First cuts at $11 to $12.50 on the close showed a decline of $1 to $2 per hundredweight and were slow movers at the drop. Heavy calves also showed some weakness late in the week, top end dropping back to $8.50 and sales ranging downward to $6.00. Southern canner yearlings lost 25c, bulk dropping to $5.00 to $5.75.

Hog Prices Irregular.

The local hog run for the week just closing totals 69,100 head, a decrease of 7500 from the preceding week, but a gain of 8500 head over the corresponding week a year ago. The quality of the offering from day to day has been good, killers reporting that hogs are dressing out unusually well. The first two days of the week saw liberal runs and the market in that period broke 15 cents to 25 cents, but from Wednesday on the receipts fell off and prices responded by an upward swing, all the initial losses being regained. Order buyers were most aggressive all week, showing a preference for 160 to 200 pound hogs. Towards the extreme close, however, they paid more attention to heavier weights, 220 to 240 pound averages. City butchers bought right freely from day to day. The big packers were disposed to fight the market hard during the latter part of the week. They usually were late entering the market from day to day and essayed a "cleanup" role on the weightier kinds of hogs. Compared with a week ago, the shipping and light butcher hogs are around 10 cents higher, while the medium butcher kinds are 5 cents to 10 cents and the heavier hogs 250 pounds and over, about steady. Pig trade closed no better than a week ago, early advances in light stuff having been wiped out. Packing sows advanced 10 cents to 15 cents for the week. Stags closed strong. At the week's close the bulk of the desirable hogs, native kinds, sold as follows: 150 to 200 pounds, $12.45 to $12.60; 200 to 230 pounds, $12.35 to $12.45; 230 to 240 pounds, $12.20 to $12.35; 250 to 275 pounds, $12.15 to $12.20; 275 pounds and up, $12 to $12.10. Packing sows, $10.50 to $11.25; stags, $10 to $10.75; pigs, 120 to 130 pounds, $11.25 to $12; pigs under 110 pounds, $10 to $11; Southern hogs, frequently $1.50 to $2 under above range.

Lamb Receipts Lighter.

Lamb prices at the close of the current week show no material change from the close of last week. Although receipts were much lighter the past week than a week ago and corresponding time last year, the market was generally a steady affair with the exception of the Monday and Tuesday sessions. In the opening session of the week values declined 10 to 25 cents, but in the subsequent session advanced to its former footing and remained unchanged the remainder of the week. Top for the weeks was $13 on fed Western lambs. Bulk of fed Western stock sold in a range of $12.75 to $13. Native lambs mainly from $12.50 to $13. Feeder lambs ranged from $12.25 to $12.50, according to weight and quality. Plain to fair fleshed lambs made $10 to $11.50, mostly. Culls sold mainly at $9 to $9.50, with a few plainer kinds down to $8.50. Yearling wethers closed unchanged, the bulk for the week at $10 to $10.50. Aged Western wethers strong for the week. Most sales ranged from $8 to $8.75, aged clipped wethers made $7 to $7.50. Mutton ewes closed strong, best kinds making $7.50 to $8, medium kinds down to $6.50. Heavies $5 to $5.50. Choppers and bucks $2 to $4.50, canners $2 to $3. Receipts for the week aggregated 5972, as compared with 8655 last week and 8363 the corresponding time last year. Local feed lots contributed heavily to the supply. Quality was about like the average.

Quotations: Slaughter stock—Good to choice lambs $12.25 to $13, medium to good $11.25 to $12.25, plain to medium $10 to $11.25, cull and common $8 to $9, skips $5 to $7; good to choice yearling wethers $10 to $10.50, medium to good $9.50 to $10, plain to medium $8 to $9; good to choice aged Western wethers $8 to $9, good fat Southern kinds $7 to $8, thin to fair kinds $3 to $6; choice to prime mutton ewes $7.50 to $8.25, good to choice $6.50 to $7.50, medium to good $5.50 to $6.50, heavies $5 to $5.50; fat goats $3 to $3.50, thin to fair kinds $1.50 to $3; fat kids, $4.50 to $5.50; thin to fair kids, $2 to $4.

Horse and Mule Market.

Under a fair run of 1618 horses and mules here the past week the market showed uneven tendencies ranging firm to higher on some classes. Mules of which the bulk of receipts consisted were in good demand, especially the fat good haired kinds and prices displayed stronger tendencies on this class. No better than steady prices were available for the commoner grades.

Horses in general found a satisfactory outlet at prices fully steady with the previous week's basis of clearance. Big animals and wagon chunks met with the best inquiry.

Native horse quotations—Good to choice draft $135@165; medium to good draft $75@135; good to choice chunks $75@100; medium to good chunks $50@65; choice Southern horses $40@55; fair to good Southern horses $20@35; smooth-mouthed Southerners, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

Native Mule Quotations—Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands $175@250; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $125@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 16 to 16.2 hands, $160@180; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 15 to 15.2 hands, $130@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands $100@130; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 16 to 16.2 hands, $130@160; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $100@130; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $80@100. Horse mules $15@20 per head less than above quotations. Farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.3 to 16.2 hands, $110@135; medium farm mules, $80@100; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small common mules, $15@40.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Evening Post in its weekly foreign exchange review, says:

"The chief European exchanges showed a drifting tendency all through the week, the greatest interest being attached to the action of sterling. It had a close market at and above $4.85 for cables yesterday, when it yielded 1-16 below that level as a result of disappointment over the failure of the Federal Reserve Bank of this district to reduce its discount rate. French exchange was not influenced by the continual movement of gold from Paris to New York, the receipts of the metal so far this year passing the $20,000,000 mark. Italian drifted downward, but the market for lira was steady and the recession was not regarded as of importance. Swiss exchange was in constant supply, yielding to 19.22, the lowest level touched in three years. Dutch exchange, which had been weak in the first few days, developed strength again and moved back to close to its previous level. Silver exchanges were in urgent demand partly in connection with the necessity for settlement of the Chinese new year. Other factors prevailed, among them the demonstration of the Indian silver proposition making it definite that the holdings of Indian silver, which were apparently a menace last October, are not in prospect of distribution. The market for silver metal was directly influenced also by the result of cessation of Mexican mines, which went into effect a few weeks ago. At Thursday's high price for silver the metal showed a gain of 8 cents from the low level of last October. Shanghai was one of the strongest features in the exchanges, taels selling at 66.50, against a low of 59.00 early in January.

"Violent speculations occurred in Spanish Exchange, following the heavy bids for pesetas. Cables early in the week rose to 16.90 against 16.54 in the preceding week, but in the last two days they reacted sharply, more than losing that gain. Norwegian also traveled over a wide range, crowns checks movink up to 25.90 and then reacting over 20 points. South Americans were traded in, in large volume, especially Argentine and Brazil, but the demand was supplied after a moderate advance. Indian exchange was heavy, rupee cables falling from 36.44 to 36.25. It was thought that the offering of rupees may have been connected with purchases of silver for Indian account. Havana exchange had a suddent advance at the beginnig of the week, bringing cables up to ⅛ per cent premium.

"Trading in foreign exchanges was quiet Saturday and attracted little attention. Sterling was steady and lira slipped back slightly, while Chinese rates eased off somewhat. In the main, however, changes were small and unimportant.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Cotton goods closed steady for the week. Finished cottons continued in wide demand, although small lots were wanted. Yarns were steady. Burlaps showed a little change for the day. Raw silk was virtually unchanged in the local markets. Finished silks are improving slowly, retailers and cutters showing more interest. Wool goods were steady, but quiet. Dress flannels for spring were in active demand.

WHEAT PRICES HIGHER THAN BASIS WEEK AGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Wheat trade had a nervous tone today. Prices wobbled at the start and then rallied sharply on commission house buying and short covering, then broke to previous closing levels, only to recover again and closed quarter lower to ⅞c higher and for the week ⅛c to ⅝c higher, May $1.42⅛ to $1.42¼, July $1.35¼ to $1.35⅛, September 132½. Not much change was made in prices during the week. The belief that some Government aid will be extended to bolster up prices of grain caused buying on soft spots but longs were ready to take profits on any light rally. Most of the market news was bearish today. The trade, however, gave attention to pending farm legislation. Liverpool closed ⅝c to 1c lower because of liquidation based on heavy world shipments this week. Russian shipments were raised 480,000 bushels to a total of 1,640,000. Buenos Aires closed ⅛c to 1c lower. Export demand was quiet, although a little Gulf wheat was worked at better premiums. Local shipping sales were 8000 bushel, including 5000 bushels chicken feed. Cash wheat basis was unchanged to 1c lower. Minneapolis stocks increased 25,000 bushels for one day. Primary receipts continue of good volume and the movement in parts of the Southwest is as big as any time on the crop.

Corn had a stiff bulge on buying by local professionals. Pending farm relief legislation also was influenced in this market. Closing prices were ⅝c to ⅞c higher and for the week ⅝c to ⅝c higher. May, 81⅝c to 81⅞c, July 85⅛c to 85¼c, September 87¼c to 87⅜c. Local receipts this week were more than 2,000,000 bushels in excess of shipments. Shipping demand showed no improvement and sales were only 29,000 bushels.

Oats trade was a little broader due to buying stimulated by strength in corn. Shipping sales were 71,000 bushels. Closing prices were quarter to ⅜c higher and for the week unchanged to ⅝c lower. May 47½c to 47⅝c, July 47⅝c to 47 September 46¼c.

Lard was firmer on commission house buying because of strength in corn and hogs. Meats started lower and then had some recovery later on short covering. Lard closed 2½c to 5c higher, ribs 2¼c lower.

PENDING FARM AID MOVE HELPS WHEAT

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 5.—Wheat closed lower after an irregular range on the local market. The weather in winter wheat belt was a late influence.

The new crop deliveries of wheat held better than May. The latter month was affected by such news as big receipts at Kansas City, continued reports of a heavy world movement of wheat to importing countries. Export business was reported of small volume. Gulf bids were firmer. Unfavorable weather was reported factor in corn market.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was generally ½c lower, receipts being good. There was fairly active demand at the decline, market cleaning up, except for a few scattered cars garlicky or offgrade wheat. Shippers were the principal buyers. Sales of No. 2 Red at discounts of 3c to 4c under the St. Louis May price. Hard wheat was easier but there were scarcely enough offerings to reflect the market. Western wheats were offered at practically unchanged premiums. Corn was steady to ½c lower, elevators, industries, shippers and mills buying. While demand was fair, supplies were excessive and something like 20 cars carried over, mostly low grades. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Shippers bought. There was fair demand but it was not equal to liberal fresh receipts and accumulations. Possibly 30 cars were carried over.

May wheat opened a fraction lower, influenced probably by ½d to ⅛d lower Liverpool close, but recovered and ranged up some. Red May was held higher early. The pending farm legislation in Congress continued a factor. Corn showed fractional gain. Winnipeg wheat early was down a fraction.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.40⅝ and May corn 84¼c.

The three Northwestern markets combined today had 582 cars of wheat, compared with 3426 a week ago and 632 last year. Minneapolis receiving 101 cars, Duluth 53 and Winnipeg 428.

Local wheat receipts which were 105,000 bushels compared with 61,600 a week ago and 78,400 last year included 50 cars local and 25 through. Corn receipts, which were 113,400 bushels, compared with 81,200 a week ago and 40,600 last year, included 76 cars local and five through. Oats receipts, which were 122,000 bushels, compared with 54,000 a week ago and 80,000 last year included 57 cars local and four through. Hay receipts were 14 cars local and eight through.

Primary receipts of wheat were 904,000 bushels, compared with 923,000 a week ago and 680,000 last year. Corn receipts were 1,251,000 bushels, compared with 1,123,000 a week ago and 699,000 last year. Oats receipts were 650,000 bushels, compared with 344,000 a week ago and 395,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 459,000 bushels, compared with 481,000 a week ago and 401,000 last year. Corn shipments were 348,000 bushels, compared with 270,000 a week ago and 446,000 last year. Oats shipments were 211,000 bushels, compared with 272,000 a week ago and 357,000 last year.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Corn—No. 3 yellow corn, 75½@76c; No. 4 yellow corn, 73c; No. 5 yellow corn, 64@64½c; No. 6 yellow corn, 61½@62c; sample grade yellow corn, 59½c.

Oats—No. 4 white oats, 40½@42c; sample grade white oats, 36½@39½c; sample grade mixed oats, 36c; No. 2 burr oats, 48½c.

Flour and Meal.

Flour trade was dull. The demand was light and for soft flours mostly. A few sales were made to the West Indies during the week. Sales were reported today as follows: 700 barrels high soft patent on Southern orders, at $8.40 in 98-lb. cotton; 210 barrels soft various grades (do) and 2 cars on private terms; also 500 sacks soft patent to Cuba on private terms. Mills offered soft 95 per cent at $6.30 jute, Kansas 95 per cent, $6.40 to $6.60, jute; spring patent, $7.25, jute.

Flour quoted by mills nominally, new jute basis: Soft winter patents at $7 to $7.50 and special high brands $8.40 to $8.70 in cotton, 95 per cent at $6.00 to $6.30, straights at $5.75 to $5.85, extra fancy at $5.35 to $5.60, clears at $5.10 to $5.25, low grades at $4.50 to $5.00, hard 95 per cent at $6.25 to $6.60, straight at $6 to $6.25, first clears at $5.35 to $6, low grades and second clears at $4.50 to $5, spring patents at $7.25. High grade semolina quoted f. o. b. Chicago at 5⅛c standard at 4⅞c. No 3 at 4⅝c per pound bulk, and from cheap grades of wheat 1c less. Durum fancy patent quoted at 4⅝c and straight at 4⅛c per pound bulk.

Rye flour quoted in car lots in jute, fancy white patent at $5.95, straights $5.60, medium dark at $5.45, pure dark at $5. Rye meal at $5.

Corn meal is quoted by mills as follows: standard meal quoted at $1.63 and cream meal at $1.75 per 100 pounds in 100-pound sacks.

St. Louis Hay Market.

There was quiet demand in hay market with tendency toward lower prices in timothy.

Hay sales were as follows: Timothy, part car No. 2 $18, 1 car and part car No. 2 $19, 1 car No. 1 $20, 1 car do $21, 1 car do $22; clover, part car No. 2 $22; alfalfa, part car No. 2 $20, 2 cars standard $21, 1 car No. 1 dairy $30; prairie, part car No. 2 $16.50.

Hay quotations: No. 1 timothy hay $21 to $22, No. 2 timothy hay $19 to $21, No. 3 timothy $17.50 to $18.50, No. 1 light clover mixed $23, No. 2 light clover mixed $21 to $22, No. 1 heavy clover mixed $23, No. 2 heavy clover mixed $21 to $22, No. 1 pure clover $27 to $28, No. 2 pure clover $24 to $25, choice dairy alfalfa $27 to $28, No. 1 dairy alfalfa $24 to $25, standard dairy alfalfa $23 to $24, No. 1 feeding alfalfa $23 to $24, standard feeding alfalfa $21 to $22, No. 2 alfalfa $19 to $21, choice prairie $19 to $20, No. 1 prairie $18 to $19, No. 2 prairie $16 to $17.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Wheat feed was quiet. Bran was dull and easy. Middlings were stronger. Sales were reported as follows: 1 car hard bran $27.50 local; 2 cars soft bran, a direct sale by mill, to go out at $28.50, 150 tons grey shorts to arrive from the West, immediate and prompt shipment at $33.75 local. Oat-feed was nominal at $12. Sacked white or yellow hominy feed offered at $30.

Alfalfa Meal.

Alfalfa meal No. 2 was quoted $23 in second-hand sacks and $23.50 in new sks. No. 1 $24.75 and choice $27 in new sks.

St. Louis Fur Market

In the fur market it was considered that prices were holding up fairly well in view of quality of offerings and the increased proportion of rubbed and faded skins included in the receipts.

Fur prices were quoted on the St. Louis market as follows:

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial weekly review, says:

"The persistent improvement in the money position since the turn of the year has begun to affect stock as well as bond prices and as the first week of February passes money more than ever appears to have become the king of the securities markets and the ruler of sentiment. For a time the evidences of easy money were to be found chiefly in rising bond quotations and the rapid absorption of new issues, but in the last week funds have overflowed into the stock market, enlivening the activity there and forcing prices up. Professional traders naturally have seized the opportunity to emphasize the prospect for continued ease in their efforts to stimulate interest in the show that they conduct so skillfully.

Question of Discount Cut.

"As usual the possibility of a cut in the rediscount rate has been hung over the market to give the impression of a blue sky overhead and as usual the authorities of the Federal Reserve Bank have maintained silence. On no financial matter does the market attach more importance perhaps than to a change in the rediscount rate, on none is it so ready to make prediction and, let it be added, on few is it so poorly qualified to express an opinion. The plain truth is that not until now has the money structure been set for a reduction and that a cut immediately is not dead certain even yet. About all that anybody can do is to recognize the influences at work for a reduction and those at work against one—then wait to learn what the bank itself thinks. Viewed, from the standpoint strictly of the money market unmistakable signs that action may come soon will be found in the downward drift in commercial paper rates. The total of Federal Reserve Bank credit is about as small as it has been in two years and discounts of the New York institution are low. The rediscount rate usually moves in a ribbon formed by four to six months commercial paper and 90-day acceptances. The recent pronounced drop both in the commercial paper and acceptance curves clearly indicate that the time for a change in the rediscount rate is drawing near. Even the extraordinarily heavy inflow of gold which, from an international point of view, is not desirable, might appeal to the reserve authorities as a reason for action soon.

Factors to Be Considered.

"In the determination of rediscount rates, however, the reserve authorities look beyond their noses and beyond the excellent charts on the money market that they have always before them. They very probably reckon what effect a change may have on business before they act, and, other things being equal, they will speed or postpone action when its within their power, by so doing, to steady the business structure. At the moment it is possible that the Federal Reserve Bank may consider carefully the effect of a cut on the stock market, for example, which, presumably, they would not want to stir into too great activity. They might fear that the stimulus of a reduction might spread to the speculaive markets in greater degree than to industry. They might also feel that general business does not need a stimulant so much now as it may in another month.

Cotton Price Improves.

"Meanwhile the reports from industry indicate a pickup in activity in the cotton goods industry and in consequence an improvement in the price of raw cotton to a level roughly 13 per cent above its late 1926 low. In the steel industry prices continue to weaken, but most commentators prefer to await the unfilled tonnage statement that is scheduled for Thursday before they make up their minds on the current trend in business.

Rails Week-End Feature.

"Speculation in railroad and oil shares provided the greatest activity in today's short session on the stock market. Realizing sales checked the forward movement to some extent, but in general the trend was toward higher levels in rail shares, while industrials received good support. A revived demand for oils featured the latter group, heavy buying of Standard Oil of New Jersey attracting most attention. Prospects of a continuance of favorable credit conditions naturally formed the basis for expectations of further speculation for the rise by pool interests.

Some Profits Taken.

"In view of the remarkable advances of the week in many of the so-called low-priced speculative rail shares, it was not surprising to find speculators willing to take profits today in expectation of reactions next week. Commission house observers expressed the belief appreciation in prices of many stocks in this category had been too rapid to leave the foundation firm. As a result recessions were recorded in many stocks on profit-taking, although in some instances there was no diminution in buying power and the trend continued upward. In Wheeling & Lake Erie common, for instance, the prospect of an increased supply of common to permit conversion of prior preference and preferred shares into the junior issue caused quite a little selling at the start, but support was provided by purchases by trapped speculators who showed a disposition to take losses. Wabash shares were in scant supply again, another wave of buying orders quickly forcing an advance of about 3 points. Lehigh Valley was in good demand, too, while Reading pointed upward at the start. Erie and New Haven shares were lifted to new tops for the movement.

Industrials Less Active.

"Industrials were somewhat less active and the trend was more irregular. U. S. Steel moved within narrow limits, while little progress was made in either direction in the more important motor shares. Oils were in fairly good demand, some issues being bid up briskly, but as a rule fluctuations held within narrow limits.

Exchange Market Quiet.

"Trading in foreign exchanges was quiet and attracted little attention. Sterling was steady and lire slipped back slightly, while Chinese rates eased off somewhat. in the main however, changes were small and unimportant.

Clearing House Statement.

"An increase of $19,337,220 in surplus revealed in the weekly statement of the Clearing House banks held out prospects of continued ease in money rates, for the deficit of more than $15,000,000 a week ago was succeeded by an excess in reserves of $3,383,970. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $57,118,000.

Cotton Above 14 Cents.

"Renewed strength in cotton futures provided most interest in the principal commodity markets, prices advancing almost $1 a bale again before profit-taking was encountered in sufficient volume to cause a reaction. In this movement May contracts crossed the 14c level for the first time since last autumn, a recovery of more than 2c a pound from the December bottom. Wheat and corn moved quietly in a fractional range, with the undertone generally steady.

New York Silk.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Raw silk unchanged.

BOND OFFERINGS SET RECORD FOR PEACE-TIME WEEK

n Excess of $300,000,000 in Securities on Market During Period — Refunding Operations Factor in Total.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The outstanding ture of the investment market this week been the huge vlume of new financing. nary set a new high record for amount new bond offerings and February has rted in, in a fair way to surpass the nuary total. New offerings this week in excess of $300,000,000, the largest record for a single week. This amount npares with a little less than $135,000,0 last week and $54,500,000 in the corponding week a year ago.

Of course all this does not represent capital. A large amount is accounted by refunding operations, as, for innce, when the Missouri Pacific sold $95,000 in 5 per cent bonds to retire outnding obligations carrying a higher pon rate. This process has been going all along the line. Corporations have rushing in to take advantage of the unprecedented investment demand to und fixed charges on their funded intedness.

In January over $100,000,000 of bonds notes were called for payment in adce of maturity and over $66,000,000 in ds are to be retired in February. Neveless, these refunding issues are marted before he ones they are to replace actually paid off, so that temporarily add to the amount outstanding. Nor there any sign of a let-up. The Misri Pacific issue was the second largest le piece of railroad financing on record t week the $60,000,000 Aluminum pany of America refunding loan stands as one of the largest industrial offer in years.

It was not surprising that this fresh od of investment mediums should at have had an effect on the market for standing issues. Prices which had held ly early in the week yielded toward end. Undoubtedly there had been a d deal of speculative buying, especially the high yielding foreign obligations, ing the recent advance thereby weakenthe technical position of the market. So prices wavered profit-taking from source made its appearance.

The fundamentals that affect investment ues remain the same.

Foreign bonds went off with the rest the list at the close of the week. For news, however, was more encouraging. During all the week's excited speculain railway stocks chiefly those with ger prospects, there has been only a derate interest in the corresponding nds.

The Southern Pacific Co. soon will of $50,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds, probably will be priced to yield und 4.75 per cent. Proceeds will be to acquire the Oregon & California road and the Marion & Linn railway. $15,294,000 of Oregon & California standing obligations will be retired and ,000,000 will be spent on the carrier additions and betterments.

Spanish and Italian utilities probably offer bonds here within the next few ks. The latter have sold over $30,000 of new issues here since Jan. but Spanish utilities have never bor ed in New York before.

The Sun Maid Raisin Co. will sell mar $5,000,000 of notes either Monday Tuesday.

nd Demand Light at Week End.

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—With a recordaking volume of new financing, totalover $300,000,000 this week, demand listed bonds today was rather quiet. fit-taking spread through the market, hough firmness was exhibited by some way issues.

On advance of a point to 83, a new was recorded by Erie convertible 4s, "A." while other Erie bonds subd slightly. The convertible 4s, "D." ched a new peak soon after the openning, lost the gain.

Trading in industrial mortgages was and sluggish. Selling pressure coned to be exerted against foreign obations, although recessions were of a ional nature. French, Belgian, Ger and Italian securities droped off, alh some firmness was shown by some e European industrial liens.

United States Government issues were but buying was in limited volume.

One of the largest industrial offerings of year is expected next week in the ,000,000 issue of Aluminum Co. of erica bonds.

OTTON CLOSES FIRM ON A HIGHER BASIS

the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Continued buy ent prices still higher in the cotton ket today. May contracts selling up to c and October to 14.50c, or 14 to 18 nts above yesterday's closing quota. Last prices were within a point or of the best on active months, the rket closing firm at net advances of to 16 points.

The advance was again attributed chiefto covering of shorts and commission buying, stimulated by the bullish of proposed farm relief legislation, ports of continued steadiness in the thern spot markets and reiterated reof active demand for cotton goods Manchester.

The opening was steady at an advance 2 to 5 points. Some Southern selling a good deal of realizing were aband the market showed increasing ngth during the forenoon on covers or re-buying by recent sellers. Trade ing also was reported on the advance ch extended to 13.86c for March and 28c for July, establishing May and y deliveries at the 14c to 14½c level. Conflicting opinions continued as to the able effect of the McNary-Haugen should it be passed by Congress, but suggested by the action of prices, most ders appeared to feel that such legision would have a bullish effect on the mediate market, whatever its reactions the long run. In some quarters the reased strength and activity was atbuted less to prospect for legislation n to the continued steadiness of the uthern spot situation, and reports that pers short of the better grades were ding it difficult to secure their rerements.

Private cables reported good trade g and covering in the Liverpool mar and active business in cotton piece s for shipment to India.

The amount of cotton on shipboard aiting clearance at the end of the week estimated at 168,000 bales against ,000 at this time last year.

MOVEMENT IRREGULAR ON THE CURB MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Trading on the curb exchange today continued to maintain a lively pace at the higher levels reached on the present movement. Oil shares as a group were in better demand, with the result that quotations lifted easily and in some instances new peaks were obtained.

Standard Oil of New Jersey held a prominent position, selling to 40¾. Humble, Prairie and Standard of Indiana were also well supported. Cities Service rose to a new mark, selling to 57½.

Strength also appeared in the industrial and public utility divisions. Libbey-Owens scored an early gain of a point. Proctor & Gamble lifted 2 points. Western Maryland first preferred showed a loss of 3½ points at the opening.

American Gas, Electric Bond and Share and Middle West Utilities preferred were more favored in that group and recorded early improvements.

In the last hour a sharp reversal of trend was disclosed in the oils and industrial group, especially among the railroad shares. Western Maryland first preferred developed support and more than recovered its early decline, selling from 116¼ to 12[…]. Wheeling & Lake Erie prior lien ranged from 163 to 170. New Orleans and Great Northern rose to a new high at 34. North Texas Electric made a gain of 5 points. Profit-taking in the oils caused a reactionary movement after early strength. Pressure in some instances cancelled the advances scored in the initial upturn.

BOND OFFERINGS SET RECORD FOR PEACE-TIME WEEK

Excess of $300,000,000 in Securities on Market During Period — Refunding Operations Factor in Total.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The outstanding feature of the investment market this week has been the huge vlume of new financing. January set a new high record for amount of new bond offerings and February has started in, in a fair way to surpass the January total. New offerings this week were in excess of $300,000,000, the largest record for a single week. This amount compares with a little less than $135,000,000 last week and $54,500,000 in the corresponding week a year ago.

Of course all this does not represent new capital. A large amount is accounted for by refunding operations, as, for instance, when the Missouri Pacific sold $95,000,000 in 5 per cent bonds to retire outstanding obligations carrying a higher coupon rate. This process has been going on all along the line. Corporations have been rushing in to take advantage of the present unprecedented investment demand to reduce fixed charges on their funded indebtedness.

In January over $100,000,000 of bonds and notes were called for payment in advance of maturity and over $66,000,000 in bonds are to be retired in February. Nevertheless, these refunding issues are marketed before the ones they are to replace are actually paid off, so that temporarily they add to the amount outstanding. Nor is there any sign of a let-up. The Missouri Pacific issue was the second largest piece of railroad financing on record. Last week, the $60,000,000 Aluminum Company of America refunding loan stands as one of the largest industrial offerings in years.

It was not surprising that this fresh supply of investment mediums should at last have had an effect on the market for outstanding issues. Prices which had held firmly early in the week yielded toward the end. Undoubtedly there had been a great deal of speculative buying, especially in the high yielding foreign obligations, and the recent advance thereby weakened the technical position of the market. So when prices wavered profit taking from this source made its appearance.

The fundamentals that affect investment prices remain the same.

Foreign bonds went off with the rest of the list at the close of the week. For news, however, was more encouraging. During all the week's excited speculation in railway stocks, chiefly those with merger prospects, there has been only a moderate interest in the corresponding [...].

The Southern Pacific Co. soon will offer $50,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds, probably will be priced to yield 4.75 per cent. Proceeds will be used to acquire the Oregon & California Railroad and the Marion & Linn railway. $15,294,000 of Oregon & California outstanding obligations will be retired and $[…]000,000 will be spent on the carrier for additions and betterments.

Spanish and Italian utilities probably will offer bonds here within the next few weeks. The latter have sold over $30,000,000 of new issues here since Jan. 1, but Spanish utilities have never borrowed in New York before.

The Sun Maid Raisin Co. will sell $5,000,000 of notes either Monday or Tuesday.

Bond Demand Light at Week End.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—With a record-breaking volume of new financing, totaling over $300,000,000 this week, demand for listed bonds today was rather quiet. Profit-taking spread through the market, although firmness was exhibited by some railway issues.

An advance of a point to 83, a new high, was recorded by Erie convertible 4s, series "A," while other Erie bonds subsided slightly. The convertible 4s, "D," reached a new peak soon after the opening, but lost the gain.

Trading in industrial mortgages was dull and sluggish. Selling pressure continued to be exerted against foreign obligations, although recessions were of a fractional nature. French, Belgian, German and Italian securities droped off, although some firmness was shown by some of the European industrial liens.

United States Government issues were firm, but buying was in limited volume.

One of the largest industrial offerings of the year is expected next week in the $60,000,000 issue of Aluminum Co. of America bonds.

COTTON CLOSES FIRM ON A HIGHER BASIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Continued buying sent prices still higher in the cotton market today. May contracts selling up to 14.[…]c and October to 14.50c, or 14 to 18 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices were within a point or two of the best on active months, the market closing firm at net advances of 10 to 16 points.

The advance was again attributed chiefly to covering of shorts and commission house buying, stimulated by the bullish reports of proposed farm relief legislation, reports of continued steadiness in the southern spot markets and reiterated reports of active demand for cotton goods in Manchester.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 5 points. Some Southern selling and a good deal of realizing were absorbed, and the market showed increasing strength during the forenoon on covering or re-buying by recent sellers. Trade buying also was reported on the advance, which extended to 13.86c for March and 14.28c for July, establishing May and later deliveries at the 14c to 14½c level.

Conflicting opinions continued as to the probable effect of the McNary-Haugen bill should it be passed by Congress, but as suggested by the action of prices, most traders appeared to feel that such legislation would have a bullish effect on the immediate market, whatever its reactions in the long run. In some quarters, the increased strength and activity was attributed less to prospect for legislation than to the continued steadiness of the southern spot situation, and reports that shippers were short of the better grades were finding it difficult to secure their requirements.

Private cables reported good trade calling and covering in the Liverpool market and active business in cotton piece goods for shipment to India.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 168,000 bales against […]00 at this time last year.

ST. L. PUBLIC SERVICE STOCK IS STRONG

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 5.—The activity in St. Louis Public Service stock at rising prices not only marked the closing session of the week but was one of the features of the six-day period. The top of 20½ was highest since listing in May, 1926. Between 700 and 800 shares sold. The demand and rise was ascribed as due, partly at least, to developments in movement for higher fare by the street car company.

The net decline of nearly 3 points in Consolidated Lead on turnover of little more than 1000 shares within range of 16 to 13 was associated with the annual statement of income for 1926, which did not compare favorably with year previous. Hydraulic Brick common changed hands at uniform price of 6, more than 1000 shares selling.

Included in the incidents of week among the less active issues were advance of over 8 points in Waltke common, which sold at 63⅛; sale of 1000 shares of Granite-Bimetallic Mining at 30-cent basis, and transaction in Mercantile Trust at 430. The record price for Mercantile Trust was established in 1903, when the stock brought 434.

Announcement was made of retirement of $121,000 worth of Houston Oil 6½s.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—There was a further advance of 1-16 in the raw sugar market today with spot prices advancing to 4.96 duty paid. Sales were 39,000 bags of Cuban and 10,000 bags of Porto Rican for prompt February shipment, mostly to local refiners at the quoted prices.

Raw sugar futures were firmer, reflecting the steadier spot market and reports of an improvement in the demand for refined sugar. The market closed at net advances of 1 to 2 points on trade and commission buying. Approximate sales 24,550 tons. March closed 3.18; May, 3.29; July, 3.41; September, 3.47; December, 3.30.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 6.15 to 6.25 for fine granulated, with an improved demand reported at the inside level.

MEDIATION BRINGS PAY INCREASE TO RAIL MEN

321,000 Firemen and Engineers on Eastern Roads to Get $5,000,00 Total.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Thirty-one thousand firemen and enginemen on 27 Eastern railroads and their subsidiaries will find their wage envelopes swollen next pay day as a result of a settlement reached today between the roads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen granting a 7½ per cent increase in salary.

The settlement, modeled closely on one the conductors and trainmen recently effected, was made before G. Wallace W. Hanger, member of the United States Board of Mediation and is said to be the first agreement of this magnitude to be reached through mediation.

It was brought about under provisions of the Watson-Parker bill which provides for mediation and that failing, for arbitration and finally for an emergency board created by the President of the United States.

The original demand of the firemen, calling for a flat increase of $1 per day and up involved an amount of $13,000,000. This was withdrawn and a new agreement reached for an increase on the "sliding wage scale" which will call for an outlay of $5,000,000.

The settlement came as a result of two weeks' conference between Hanger, in the capacity of mediator, and D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and John G. Walber, chairman of the committee representing the railroads.

The settlement is effective from Feb. 1, 1927, and the agreement is operative for one year.

Certain minor requests of the firemen were granted or modified, Hanger said. The request for allowance for overtime, meals, lodging and expenses when train crew were away from home was withdrawn without prejudice.

Among the larger roads affected are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Reading, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Erie, Lehigh Valley, Michigan Central and Baltimore & Ohio. Thirty-two subsidiary lines are also affected.

Bedford Stables Entry Catches Juggler in Final Strides at Hialeah.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HIALEAH, Fla., Feb. 5.—About 20,000 racing enthusiasts at Hialeah this afternoon were stunned by close finishes. The results in the first five events were in doubt until the final strides.

The afternoon's feature, the Okeechobee High Weight Handicap, a dash of six furlongs, brought together a field of 14 of the fastest horses on the grounds and the Bedford Stable furnished the winner in Catalan, which came from behind in the stretch and got up in the final strides to beat Juggler by a head. Marconi was third, half a length away.

Dubois, who had the mount on Marconi, claimed a foul against the winner, but it was not allowed.

Catalan shouldered the heavy impost of 136 pounds and ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5. The stake had a gross value of $7880 and a net value to the winner of $6110.

In the first three races the result was in doubt until the final strides, and in one of them, the third, only a nose separated the first two.

4 ILLINI SWIMMERS RULED INELIGIBLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 5.—Illinois swimming prospects took a slump today when it was announced that four of the outstanding Illini swimmers are now ineligible on account of semester examinations which are just over. Reck, Hartung, Robertson and Blackman are the ineligibles and as a result Coach Manley must hunt around to find men to fill the vacancies. Illinois' next dual meet is with Purdue next Saturday.

STEINKAMP-WOLDEN FIRST IN DOUBLES AT BENTON PARK ALLEYS

The Steinkamp-Wolken team, with a score of 1321, finished first in the doubles division in the South Side handicap bowling tournament at the Benton Park alleys, completed last night. T. Wirtz, with 707, took high honors in singles, and J. Stoff shot high single game, 267.

ROGERS, BREADON AND STONEHAM TO MEET TODAY

Catcher Obtained From Giants Last Year Asks for Re-instatement and Cardinals Indorse His Plea.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Rogers Hornsby and his attorney, William F. Fahey, will confer in New York this afternoon or tomorrow with Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, and Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, on ways and means of clearing up the muddle caused by Hornsby's ownership of 1167 shares of Cardinal stock and his presence on the Cardinal Board of Directors while he is the property of the New York club.

Hornsby and Fahey departed for New York yesterday and Breadon has been in New York since yesterday afternoon. It is expected that a settlement will be reached whereby the New York club will buy the stock from Hornsby and resell it to Breadon, absorbing on its ledger the difference between what Breadon will pay and what Hornsby demands.

The New York club made a fancy bargain when it obtained the great Hornsby for Frankie Frisch and the fading Jimmy Ring, and it could charge off the money involved in the Hornsby stock deal and still feel that it turned a pretty fair country trade. At most the amount will not be more than $50,000, and perhaps Breadon will compromise by paying a bit more than he has said he would give for the stock.

Hornsby Wants $105.

Hornsby wants $105 a share. He offered the stock to Breadon at that price and Sam declined to buy. Attorney Fahey then offered to buy Breadon's holdings in the Cardinals at the same figure, proposing to pay $100,000 down and the balance in ten days on delivery of the stock, but Breadon said he would not take $200 a share for his stock.

Subsequently, at the annual stockholders' meeting, Hornsby's holdings and those of Mark Steinberg, Louis Steinberg and Mark Steinberg & Co., were used to re-elect Hornsby to the Board of Directors.

President Heydler has ruled that a player cannot own stock in one club and play for another, so it behooves Hornsby and the New York Giants to see that the stock is not in Hornsby's possession after April 12.

Snyder Wants to Play.

Frank Snyder, veteran catcher who was assigned to the Cardinals by the Giants last year for the waiver price, but who refused to report because he said McGraw had promised him his unconditional release at the end of the season and the Cardinasl would not agree to promise it to him has applied to Commissioner Landis for reinstatement, Branch Rickey, business manager of the Cardinals, announced last night.

"Snyder has applied to Landis and we supported his application by sending a letter to the Commissioner," Rickey said. "He wants to play ball and undoubtedly Mr. Landis will reinstate him. When he is reinstated, the Cardinals will offer him a contract. We could not do that legally while he was on the suspended list."

Rickey added that confidence that Snyder would play ball for the Cardinals in 1927 prompted the club to decide to send Ernie Vick to the minor leagues. The fact that Vick has been a holdout may have made it easy to make the decision. Jess Haines, Grover Alexander, Flint Rhem and Billy Southworth also declined the terms offered to them, though it is reported that Alex has signed or agreed to sign. No announcement has been made of sending any of the other holdouts away. It is certain that they could not be sent to the minors, as not many major league clubs would waive on any of the star pitchers or the crack right-fielder.

Tiff Denton Easily Defeats Hall, 50 to 25

1923 Three-Cushion Champion Downs St. Louisan in 38 Innings.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Allen Hall, of St. Louis, bowed to experience this afternoon when Tiff Denton of Kansas City scored a quick and decisive 50 to 25 victory over Hall in his fourth match of the National Three-Cushion Billiard tourney in progress here.

The game endured a short hour and seven minutes with Hall, undoubtedly off his game, trailing hopelessly throughout.

Denton, the 1923 champion, on the contrary, played a brilliant game, going out in 38 innings.

Running two and six in the first two innings, Denton usurped an immediate and lopsided advantage at the start.

Raimundo Campanioni of Havana, Cuba, won his first victory in the tournament against Charles McCourt of Cleveland, former world's champion, 50 to 39 in 57 innings today.

Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, present champion, retained his lead by winning his fourth straight game tonight defeating Ear. Lookabaugh of Chicago, 50 to 40 in 52 innings.

Reiselt started slowly and Lookabaugh held the lead during the early innings. In the sixteenth inning, Reiselt went ahead with a run of five and held on to a slight margin thereafter. Each had a high run of five.

HOFFMAN ROLLS 299, H. BRIGGS GETS 300

Wm. Hoffman felt the thrill of 11 strikes in a row when bowling last night at the Schaefer and Zappala Alleys but he crossed on the last one and left the six pin for a 299 game.

Later at Schaefer's H. Briggs, rolling in a special match against F. Allhof, got the coveted 12 strikes in a row for a 300 score.

Carr Sets New Mark of 13 Feet 7 1-8 Inches for Pole Vault in Boston Meet Betters Best Previous Record Made by Harrington by Six Inches—Murchison Defeated in 40-Yard Dash, Won by Miller, Harvard Star.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—Sabin Carr of Yale pole-vaulted his way to a record tonight at the thirty-eighth annual indoor games of the Boston Athletic Association in the Boston arena, when he cleared 13 feet 7⅛ inches. The best previous mark officially accepted was 13 feet 1⅛ inches, made by Paul Harrington of the B. A. A.

Carr tried to do 13 feet 9 inches and was over the bar but it fell off after shaking on the pegs for at least 5 seconds. Charley Hoff, the Norwegian, has done 13 feet 8 inches, but the mark has never been accepted.

Laddie Mayers of the Chicago A. A. getting second place, also battered the old mark when he did 13 feet 1 5-8 inches.

Leo Lermond, with the grace of a ballet dancer, raced three miles in 14 minutes 47 3-5 seconds which is a wonderful performance considering he had to make his own contest.

Wells Equals Record

A world record was equalled when Monty Wells of Dartmouth, raced through the 45-yard high hurdles in 5 4-5 seconds which is the same mark he made while breaking an age old mark at the recent K. of C. games. Wells won the event easily and turned in his record time the first crack out of the box.

Michael Pecora of Brooklyn, won the one mile walk. With only two laps to go he swung into the lead, passing Willie Plant and Harry Hinkel. Plant tried to stave him off, but Pecora had the stamina to roll up a lead of 20 yards. Hinkel finished about the same distance behind Plant. The time was 7 minutes 34¼ seconds.

Harold Osborne took the high jump rather handily with a leap of 6 feet 3 inches. He tried for a new indoor mark but the take off bothered him and he just missed at 6 feet 6 inches.

Miller Wins Dash Event.

Al Miller, the Harvard sprint star, added more laurels, when he captured the final in the 40-yard dash, negotiating the distance in 4 4-5 seconds. Frank Hussey of Boston College was second and James S. Dailey of Holy Cross third.

Loren Murchison, the St. Louis boy, after winning his heat in 5 seconds, was shut out in the semifinal, won by Hussey. Ernest Morrow, the Boston U. star who recently defeated Murchison at New York, also finished in front of the St. Louisan. Chet Bowman, Newark A. C., was another to fall by the wayside in the semifinals. A bad start proved too great a handicap for Bowman.

Wells Equals Record.

Monty Wells of Dartmouth won the 45-yard hurdles in the fast time of 6 seconds, after racing through his preliminary heat in the same record time of 5 4-5 seconds, which he set up in the recent K. of C. games. In second place was R. W. Black of Dartmouth and A. S. Collier of Brown. Wells did his semifinal in 6 seconds. Black won his semifinal in 6 1-5 seconds. The heat winners besides Wells were Black, J. F. Valentyne of Harvard and R. Wolf of Newark A. C.

Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C., won a fighting 1000-yard from A. O. Marten of the Chicago A. A., in two minutes, 19 1-5 seconds. Philip Edwards of New York University was third. Dodge and Marten hung behind in the picked field of six for the first half of the run and came out together on the last two laps to kill off the opposition. Dodge's margin was six yards.

Noah moved into lead with a rush, and holding on well in last sixteenth, outstayed Old Slip. Latter was away forwardly, raced restrained in first half, but tired slightly in last sixteenth, though finishing gamely. Vespasian had no mishaps and began tiring in last furlong. Little Visitor raced well. Senator Norris was outrun. Overlooked raced green.

$2 mutuels paid: Noah, win, $5.40, place, $3.80, show, $2.80; Old Slip, place, $4.40, show, $3.20; Vespasian, show, $3.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 5.—Before one of the largest crowds of the meeting, P. T. Chinn's Noah this afternoon triumphed over G. Collins' Old Slip and five other good sprinters in the Comus Highweight Handicap at Fairgrounds.

The finish was a driving one, the successful 5-year-old being extended to the limit to carry his 128 pounds to victory by a head. He was well ridden by W. Kelsay and was the favorite.

So keen was the contention provided by Old Slip that Noah had to race the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5, a time only equaled during the current meeting by Old Slip in a previous engagement. These two heros of many contests here this winter fought it out doggedly the entire final furlong, after disposing of Vespasian, which played a prominent part in the early running. Vespasian was an easy third, four lengths in advance of Little Visitor, but found the leaders' pace too fast in the closing drive and finished four lengths behind Old Slip.

Noah was taken to the front immediately after the start. Carrying his heavy impost well, he set a terrific pace, the official timer catching him at the end of the first two furlongs in :23 1-5. Saving all possible ground while doing the turns, he completed the first half mile in :46 3-5, with an advantage of a length over Old Slip and Vespasian, which were racing a short head apart.

When but a furlong remained to be run, Noah had a lead of one and one-half lengths; but Old Slip gained on him rapidly in the next sixteenth, only to fail in the difficult task of overtaking him after getting within a neck of the lead when 50 yards from the finish.

Little Visitor, Overlooked, Senator Norris and Boo, an Idle Hour Farm 3-year-old making its first appearance, completed the field.

Binary Star Wins.

The race headlined a splendid card, which brought a popular victory for the Idle Hour Farm Stable's Binary Star in the Debutante Purse, the secondary feature. This was run over a distance of one mile and 70 yards and ten 3-year-olds of quality ran. The winner flashed from behind with a strong rush through the stretch. La Morte was second and Bob Rogers third in a close finish.

Jenny Dear, one of the starters, lost her rider.

Other Winners.

Polly Witch defeated a small field of 2-year-olds in the Nip and Tuck purse at three furlongs. She led throughout with Far Anita barely outlasting Soiree for second. Emphatic, the choice, was poorly ridden by J. Smith and I Told You refused to break.

Red Pennant scored for the form players in the opener at six furlongs and Blue Hill was best of a field of 12 over the one mile and a quarter of the third race.

The Green Tree Stable's Navigator and Peter Peter finished first and second as named in the Hausman and Gigli Handicap at one mile and seventy yards and offered as the sixth race. Navigator led throughout, while Peter Peter, after being virtually left at the post, raced to the place by giving a remarkable performance. Banton was third, the three placed horses being within a length of each other.

Broadway Jones Must Carry 132 Pounds in New Orleans Handicap.

The Idle Hour Farm stable's sterling Broadway Jones, with an assignment of 132 pounds, will carry top weight among the 142 eligibles for the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap, according to the list of weights, made public this afternoon. The weight assigned the winner of the New Year's Handicap and other events during the current Fairgrounds meeting is four pounds more than Baggenbaggage, also an Idle Hour Farm entry, drew. Baggenbaggage thus is the third in the esteem of Handicapper J. McClennan.

J. J. Troxler's King Nadi was given the second highest assignment of 129 pounds, while Noah, winner of the Comus Handicap this afternoon, must carry 123 pounds.

Others in the front rank of probable starters given imposts of considerable amount are: Old Slip, 120; Vespasian, 119; Helen's Babe, 119; Navigator, 119; Almadel, 117; Boon Companion, 117; Senator Norris, 116, and Sir Peter, 114.

MISS NORELIUS SETS TWO WORLD RECORDS

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 5.—A new world's record in the 500-yard free style swim was made here tonight by Martha Norelius, Women's Swimming Association of New York. Her time was 6:32. The former record was 6:35 2-5.

Ethel McGary, W. S. A., finished second, Margaret Ravior, Turners, Philadelphia, third, and Virginia Whitenack, W. S. A., fourth.

Miss Norelius also lowered her old record for 400 yards in this event from 5:18 3-5 to :14.

HUFFMAN TO FACE A PUNCHING STRIBLING IN ELIMINATION TOMORROW

Georgian Favored to Win In Meeting of Youngest Hopes In Rickard's Tournament

Delaney-Maloney, Uzcudun-Hansen and Sharkey-McTigue Battles to Follow Within Month in Carnival to Find Foe for Tunney.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The second phase of the most colorful fight situation known to history will unfold tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, New York, when William Lawrence (Young) Stribling, 22-year-old heavyweight title candidate of Macon, Ga., opposes Eddie Huffman of Los Angeles in a ten-round contest.

Last year these names, mentioned as world title hopes, would have aroused only mockery on the part of ringside fans. But this is another year and the conditions attending the heavyweight championship today are far from commonplace. Tex Rickard, master magician, has touched the field of "heavies" with his wand and apparently converted "has-beens," "hopes" and near-champions into real title factors.

The first phase of his title eliminations shook together the two colorful characters, Mike McTigue, a 38-year-old "has-been," and Paul Berlenbach, a dethroned light-heavyweight champion. To many the thought that these could possibly be factors in a fight that was to lead up to a midsummer battle with Dempsey and Gene Tunney was almost laughable.

McTigue Shocked Them All.

But the laugh was on the other side of the face. McTigue, formerly a timorous hit-and-get-away fighter, developed into a raging lion and battered down the caveman Berlenbach in four rounds. So convincing were the reports of the match that the 170-pound Mike actually was glorified into a real hope. And perhaps he is.

And so tomorrow we come to Young Stribling and Eddie Huffman, the two youngest of the hopes, who are scheduled to meet in Rickard's second elimination battle. Stribling is just past his majority at 22; while Huffman, a husky former member of Uncle Sam's naval service, is only 23.

Huffman is likely to be on the losing end of this match, the interest attaching to it being largely dependent on Stribling. This boxer, despite his youth, began fighting seven years ago when a mere high school boy.

His amazing climb under the management of his parents sent him into the world's championship arena with Mike McTigue in 1923, when he was only 18 years of age. The fight at Macon was a memorable one, because the veteran of many rings was held to a draw by the high school youth.

Near a Title at Nineteen.

Still more remarkable was the affair between the same men at Newark, when in a no-decision bout Stribling really outpointed the champion. He failed in his effort, two years later, against Paul Berlenbach, then champion in the glory of his cave-man power.

Stribling's claim to public interest, aside from his cleverness, rests somewhat in the statement of his new manager, Walk Miller, that, like McTigue, he will throw off the mask of the rabbit and appear in his true character as a bulldog.

Stribling always was a safety-first fighter. Now, he, too, is to appear in the role of a raging man-crusher.

We'll see what we will see tomorrow night.

Rickard's Title Elimination Program

Feb. 7—William Lawrence Stribling of Macon, Ga., vs. Eddie Huffman of Los Angeles, Cal., 10 rounds.

Feb. 18—Jack Delaney, Hartford, Conn., vs. Jim Maloney of Boston, 10 rounds.

Feb. 25—Knute Hansen, Racine, Wis., vs. Paolino Uzcudun of Spain, 10 rounds.

March 3—Mike McTigue of Ireland vs. Jack Sharkey of Boston, 15 rounds.

Delaney and Maloney, Who Meet Feb. 18, Both Have Hit the Canvas

Regardless of the finish of the Stribling fight, the Rickard program will exhibit still more vivid color in the third elimination on Feb. 18, which brings together Ovila Chapdelaine, ring-christened "Jack Delaney," and Jim Maloney.

Jack Kearns once tried to sign Maloney as a "hope" to replace Jack Dempsey. The fact that Kearns dropped him would rather militate against one's opinion of Maloney, but his record is good enough to stand inspection. A big enough man, he can box better than Dempsey and can hit almost as hard. He is Boston's nearest bet to John L. Sullivan of blessed memory, even though he once was forced to explore the canvas with his nose for more than the 10 seconds the law allows.

Leo Gates, an Indian, turned the trick, but Maloney has come, whereas his conquerer stopped short.

Delaney, however, is the outstanding figure in this bout, notwithstanding he, too, bit the resin twice in his career. This boy resembles the cool and tricky Kid McCoy, master of the corkscrew punch, and of getting the enemy's goat in the ring. He can hit hard when he gets a chance, and it is his capacity for finishing opponents that makes the blood-hungry fans roar when he parades.

Paolino and Hansen.

One of the most interesting fights in the series, but one not wildly exciting on paper, will be the meeting of Feb. 25, of the Basque wood-chopper, Paolino Uzcudun of Spain, and Knute Hansen, the descendant of the great Knute of Scandinavian sagas. Both men are more or less unknown and unsung.

Paolino is a replica of Firpo. He is one of that fast-fading people, the Basques, a relic of pre-historic days, tossed high up into the Pyrenees Mountains by the great Celtic wave that swept out from the plateau of Iran, one of the first of the Aryan migrations.

Paolino is big and powerful and doubtless greener than a St. Patrick's day necktie. He comes with a hot-house reputation grown overnight in Europe and South America. What he truly is must remain a secret until one sees his reaction to that stabbing, pole-like left hand of Hansen thrust steadily into his face.

Two more opposite types than Hansen and Paolino would be hard to find. Hansen, a decided blonde, handsome as Apollo, tall as young pine, supple, powerful, a good boxer and a hard hitter; Uzcudun stalwart, tremendously strong, swarthy and scowling, with a shock of dark hair.

Hansen's description reads like that of a champion; but his handlers shake their heads about him. When his manager, Joe Woodman, came West with King Solomon, some months ago, he said he was trying out Hansen to find out if he had what is commonly known as "insides."

"If we can locate any such, we will make our fortunes, because he has everything else that makes a fighter," Woodman said. "If he hasn't this same asset, then we are out $5500—the price we paid to get his contract from a motion picture man who had signed him."

After Hansen and Uzcudun Come Sharkey and McTigue in "Big Show"

Hansen was heard of several years ago in New York and the notices given the then 18-year-old fighter indicated that he was a real champion. Then Hansen developed the wanderlust and started on a world tour. He landed in China, where Matty Mathews, a great lightweight in his day and one who fought in St. Louis, on several occasions, took Knute in tow. Matty who was a graduate of the British flying service, where he distinguished himself during the late war, promised in a letter to the Post-Dispatch that in Hansen he would one day exhibit a world's title-holder.

Somehow, Hansen got away from Matty and turned up in Frisco. Since that time, more than a year ago, Knute has done little, although he has won a fight or two.

Joe Woodman seems to have his future hopes gauged. If he has the fighting heart, he will be great. If not, he will be just another Al Reich, a thing of beauty but no joy forever.

Last in the eliminations comes the Jack Sharkey-Mike McTigue 15-round fight, March 3, which is really the one that Rickard expects to furnish the best fight, although McTigue will have to concede weight and years to his stalwart foe.

Sharkey, who became a blazing comet in the fistic heavens a few months ago by beating up Harry Wills, the alleged heavyweight Negro dreadnaught, is a formidable man. If one cares to depend on comparative fights he can be made ot appear one of the best men in the eliminations. For example: He has beaten Jim Maloney twice and Eddie Huffman once.

Maloney is the man Tex Rickard thinks will knock out Jack Delaney; and Jack Delaney has stopped Mike McTigue. Put it all together and Sharkey comes to the top as a real factor.

This elimination series does not by any means tell the story of the heavyweight season. It merely begins it. For the winners of these eliminations inevitably must meet in semifinals, and none would be daring enough to guess how the pairings then will be. In any case two or three additional bouts will be needed to decide which heavyweight is entitled to fight Jack Dempsey for the privilege of meeting the champion, Gene Tunney.

That program promises a full dinner pail for a lot of journeymen heavyweights, we take it, not to mention a real fortune and fame for the man who wins his way to or past the Manassa Mauler, to a bout with Tunney.

Macklin in Three Practice Matches

Charles C. Peterson, proprietor of the Peterson Billiard Parlor, 218 North Seventh street, announced yesterday that he had arranged three practice three-cushion billiard matches for Dr. L. P. Macklin to be held in the billiard theater of Peterson's establishment this week. The purpose of the matches being to give Macklin competition in preparation for the Western amateur three-cushion tournament to be held at Detroit, starting Feb. 21. Macklin is to represent the Peterson parlors in that event.

Macklin will oppose Harry Kirk in a 50-point match Wednesday night, Gene Deardorff in a 50-point match Thursday night and Bud Westhus in a match of the same length Friday night.

There will be no admission charged for any of the matches.

HORNSBY STOCK MUDDLE AND SNYDER CASE NEAR SOLUTION

the Browns would not attempt to use the waiver rule to obtain the services of Ty Cobb if the veteran star of the diamond decided that he wanted to serve elsewhere.

It had been suggested that inasmuch as the Browns were in seventh place last year and the Red Sox, the eighth-place club, had announced that they did not want Cobb, the St. Louis club would have prior right in negotiations for the Georgia Peach.

"We would not gain anything by holding Cobb up on waivers," Howley said in his telegram. He added that Cobb already had been offered more money than he had received last year as manager of the Detroit Tigers. This would indicate that several American League clubs were very eager to land Ty, as it is understood that he received $45,000 a year under his last Detroit contract. Howley did not indicate in his message whether the Browns hoped to compete for the services of Cobb in view of this serious bidding.

Ruling From Landis' Office.

The Post-Dispatch asked Commissioner Landis if the waiver regulations were being followed in the bidding for Cobb or if the rules were being put aside to permit Cobb to sell his services to the highest bidder.

Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary, replied that "waivers are not required in the case of intra-league transfers, except after June 15."

An official of an American League club was asked if it would be possible for an owner to tell a player to go out and negotiate with any club, with the purpose of getting the best possible terms. The official replied that it could be done in the league, the club holding the player's contract assigning it to the other club after the player and the rival club owner came to terms. That apparently is what Navin is doing with Cobb.

It is widely believed, however, that waivers were requested in the case of Cobb, though no official confirmation is available because of the league rule which binds all baseball men to secrecy in matters pertaining to waivers.

BASKETBALL PLAYERS KNOCK DOWN REFEREE

By the Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Feb. 5.—Two Wake Forest College basketball forwards, leaving the floor last night after a game in which Wake Forest was defeated by Furman, waylaid the referee, Smith Peterkin, and knocked him down.

Spectators stopped the fight and the two athletes apologized, but college authorities are investigating.

Germany Gets Meet.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The International Cyclists' Union, at which the United States is represented, today awarded the world's bicycle championships for 1927 to Germany. They will be held on July 15 and 25 at Cologne and Elberfeld. Hungary was given the 1928 championships and the United States those for 1929.

Peterson's Telegraph Billiard Tourney May Revive Interest In the "Straight Rail" Game

Maximum of 10 Points in One Inning Removes Possibility of Monotonous Runs—Each Shot a a "Gather."

By J. Roy Stockton.

Charlie Peterson, nonpariel of the billiard world, who is recognized from coast to coast as having done more for billards than any other man ever did for that or any other game or sport, has an idea which he thinks will bring back straight rail billiards, which of recent years has been comatose, if not moribund.

Charlie has two specialties One is putting things over and the other is bringing things back. He has done much to put over the game of billiards. Not so many years ago a young man was looked upon askance in more refined circles, if it became known that he was wont to dally with the ivory balls, whether in the hope of making one strike another and sometimes two, or whether he tried to so propel one ball as to make sundry other balls find places in pockets.

Nowadays billiards is the gentleman's game and also the ladies'. It is played by the best people, with a few exceptions, and in Peterson's parlors every week a church Bible class gathers weekly to play pocket billiards. Try that on your church organ. Peterson did it.

Recently it was noticed that the game of straight rail was lagging. It is the beginner's game of billiards. And there must be beginners or any game will die. And so the billiard world called on Pete and asked him to try to nudge the game away from the yawning grave.

Peterson's plan to revive interest in the game is a telegraphic tournament at straight rail, with competitors in every city in the country that wants to be represented. Peterson has drawn up a series of gather shots and the plan is to have contestants in the tournament spot the balls as indicated in the diagrams to be distributed and then make the shots.

Four of the 20 or 25 shots selected by Peterson are shown herewith. The plan calls for each player to continue shooting after making the key shot until he makes 10 points or misses. Thus if there are 20 key shots the highest possible score a man can make will be 200. If he makes the first gather and then runs four and misses, he will have to make 10 on each of the remaining shots to score as high as 195.

Peterson has selected favorite shots of outstanding players in the billiard game.

The first is a two-cushion dead ball draw shot, described by Peterson as "Young Jake Schaefer's famous gather shot." The second is a one-cushion shot, a favorite of Ora Morningstar. The third is a kiss shot, a perfect gather used extensively by Frank Ives, and No. 4 is a difficult one-cushion shot perfected by Willie Hoppe, balk line champion.

"I have had telegrams from all parts of the country showing great interest in the tournament," Peterson said. "The tournament will serve many purposes. It will make the more expert players practice on simple gather shots and will thus increase the skill of the leading exponents and it will give the beginners a series of fine gather shots upon which to practice to acquire an early proficiency at the game.

"Moreover, the variety of shots will open up the game and add interest from the spectators' view point. The spectator will know that after 10 points the balls will be replaced and there will be no thought of safety play, as after the one player finishes the other will shoot at the same shots. I think the idea has taken hold all over the country. Before the national telegraphic tournament I will hold a similar tournament in St. Louis to test it."

Peterson submitted the following instructions on how to make the first four shots in the tournament series:

Shot No. 1—Bridge length, about 6 inches. Cue, level as possible. Aim at object ball 3-4 full to the left. Strike cue ball slightly below center and 1-2 to the left of center.

Shot No. 2—Bridge length, about 7 inches. Cue very slightly elevated. Aim at object ball 1-2 to the left. Strike cue ball 1-2 below center and 1-2 to the left.

Shot No. 3—Bridge length, about 6 inches. Cue level as possible. Aim at object ball 1-2 right. Strike cue ball slightly above center and slightly to right of center.

Shot No. 4—Bridge length, about 6 inches. Cue level as possible. Aim at object ball 1-2 to the right of center. Strike cue ball center.

"Full" means exact center. One-half means half way between center and edge of ball.

Every shot is designed to gather the balls and to improve the player's game. Every shot should be played only with sufficient force to make the count and gather the balls in the area indicated by a circle in each of the diagrams.

Peterson is having a busy season at his billiard rooms, with five important tournaments in progress. In addition to the Sport Writers Handicap, there is the Aristo-Cats 18th anual straight rail tourney; the Bible Class progressive billiard tourney, the annual Optimist pocket billiard tourney for men and for women and the second annual Perpetual Youth Championship, which opens Monday with 32 entries. This tournament is limited to players 70 years "young" or over. Included among the contestants are Philip Cohn, 82, John Gomes 82 and J. H. Stahr, 84 years old. There are 88 frequenters of Peterson's place whose ages aggregate 6551 years, which a pencil and paper will show is an average of more than 70. Last year Dr. C. Bruce was the winner with H. G. Hyatt as runner-up.

A. A. Selkirk will be master of ceremonies at the opening of the Perpetual Youth tournament tomorrow, with Mayor Miller making a speech prior to the first shot at the ivory.

Mrs. Summers Sets New Hi Game Record, With 29

Count Is Best Ever Rolled in City by Woman Bowler—No. 5 Pin Refused to Fall, Depriving Her of a Perfect Game — Lamberts Retain Lead.

Mrs. Henry Summers established a new record for women b ers to shoot at when she counted a 299 game, just one pin sh a perfect score, on the Delmar Recreation alleys in a league m the past week. In putting over the high total, Mrs. Summers 11 straight strikes and on the final the No. 5 pin stood.

The 299 is the highest game ever rolled by a woman in this city. It replaces the 287 rolled by Mrs. Schmitt earlier in the season.

Wide Tennis Shoe, With Soft Sole, Urged by Helen Wills

Use of Talcum Inside and Practice of Having Extra Pair for Change in a Long Match Advised by Former Champion.

By Helen Wills.
(Copyright, 1927.)

GIVE the feet a fair chance, for feet and good tennis are closely associated. Feet don't simply exist. They make a great difference in the standard of one's game, and because of that the wise player sees to it that he wears a tennis shoe best adapted to give fleetness and quickness of foot, upon which so much depends.

Helen Wills

All the best players move rapidly and easily. The player can have perfect strokes, but if he can't get there—well, he simply can't win from his faster opponent. Mlle. Lenglen's strongest point in her game is her lightness and speed of foot. The speed of her balls and the effectiveness of her strokes, although carried out with extraordinary grace, are no better than that of, say, Mrs. Kathleen MacKane Godfrey. However, in her court covering she has excelled everyone. One might say safely that her many victories lie in her feet.

She is lightly and gracefully built, and has a natural ease of motion, which, of course, means that she can move rapidly. Then, also, she is wise in choosing the lightest covering possible for her feet. She wears silk hose and the very lightest of white canvas tennis shoes, with very thin and flexible soles. The shoes are cut so that they are quite wide enough, and do not cramp the foot.

Wide Shoe Desirable.

IT IS very important to have a tennis shoe which allows the foot to spread out upon the court and which does not pinch the toe because it is too narrow. A narrow sho can slow a player down greatly. This point about the width of the tennis shoe cannot be overemphasized.

The canvas material in a tennis shoe is preferable to leather because it is cooler. Although some players believe that a white leather shoe with a red rubber sole is smarter, it cannot begin to be as confortable or as practical as the cooler, more flexible white canvas sneaker.

Canvas tennis shoes with crepe rubber soles are most desirable for grass play, as well as hard surfaces, because the rough rubber grips the court. On grass, unless the court is very damp and spiked shoes are necessary, the creep rubber sole gives the player confidence in fast action.

Some players prefer a very thin crepe sole, others the heavier. On grass a thin sole proves comfortable; on the hard surfaces, unless that foot has become accustomed to the court from seasons of play, the thicker sole is wise, for there is danger in thinner soles of the feet becoming blistered or bruised. Almost all tennis players, whether on grass or hard courts, wear thin woolen hose or wool socks. Because woolen stockings are clumsy looking, some women players wear a short wool sock which come just to the top of the low cut shoe.

Extra Shoes Advised.

AFTER trying all sorts of ways, I have found that the silk stocking and extremely light tennis shoe without other protection, is the most suited for my game. However, every foot has its own problems. The most dangerous thing is a narrow, too heavy, and nonflexible tennis shoe.

Two little hints, helpful to tournament players, are these: first, talcum powder in the shoe makes play much more comfortable, and the change to an extra pair of shoes, cool and fresh, makes a great difference if the match is a three-set one.

Women's City Title Bowling Event Opens

Mound City Team Leads Handicap Event With 2464 Score.

The Mound City team of Colboin Recreation league bowled into the lead of the St. Louis Woman's city handicap tournament last night on the Schaefer Delmar alleys with a score of 2464. Perpetual Help No. 1 of the Western Catholic Union league are in second place with 2399 and St. Engelbert of the same league is third rolling 2356.

The opening of the tournament was the greatest in the history of the organization.

Mrs. M. Kelly Jr., president, Mrs. H. T. Speck secretary and Mrs. T. M. Hill treasurer made addresses.

They congratulated the members on the record entry and advised the ladies to support the City scratch and National tournaments in good numbers.

Mrs. Kelly presented to the large gathering Mrs. Summers who bowled 299 last Tuesday, the best score ever bowled by a woman in league play under the sanction of the National Association.

The Mound City team bowled games of 833, 801 and 830 for a total of 2464 which included 114 pins a game handicap. Mrs. E. Timpe anchor woman, was the individual star, rolling games of 159, 144 and 198, a total of 501. The second high woman was Mrs. H. Hannibal with 419, Mrs. E. B. Seller shot 417, Mrs. A. Rauscher 415 and Mrs. P. Kaemmerer 370.

There will be 48 five-women teams on the alleys today. There should be some great bowling today as all the star bowlers of the city will be in action. Mrs. H. Summers the woman who shot the world's record score last week will bowl at 6 p. m. with the Hermann Undertakers which team she is captain. This five bowled the record score of 1041 last Tuesday, while Mrs. Summers was bowling her score of 299.

DEMPSEY WINS POINT IN ROW WITH LAWYER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, won a legal point today when Supreme Court Justice Mitchell declined to grant a preference for trial in the suit of Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee attorney, against him.

Cannon is suing for $29,430, claiming the amount to be the reasonable value of legal services to Dempsey from 1918 to 1926. Dempsey denies he ever employed Cannon.

VINCENT RICHARDS IS EXCLUDED FROM TENNIS RANKINGS

position was allotted Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California. Other first ten players were ranked as follows:

No. 3—Eleanor Goss, New York.
No. 4—Martha Bayard, Short Hills, N. J.
No. 5—Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass.
No. 6—Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, Boston
No. 7—Margaret Blake, Boston.
No. 8—Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va.
No. 9—Mrs. E. H. Roeser, New York.
No. 10—Mrs. William Endicott, Boston.

"Miss Helen Wills, who relinquished her national woman's championship because of an appendicitis operation in Europe last spring, which prevented her entry in American tournaments upon her return, is not ranked this year, Mrs. Mallory gaining her place at the top of the list through her victory in the title tournament.

Before taking up the question of Richards' ranking, the association heard a report from President Jones W. Mersereau, New York, referring to the Pyle tour as having failed of success, "both financially and from a standpoint of public interest."

Mersereau predicted that, despite the loss of Richards, "our Davis Cup team will withstand the foreign challenge of 1927 and the year will see an American winner of at least two or three championships in England, France and the United States."

After his report the association authorized a foreign invasion by a men's team of two players. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter of New York are expected to make the trip.

Tourneys Are Awarded.

Major championship tournaments for 1927 were ordered as follows:

National turf court singles, West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, N. Y., week of Sept. 12.

Davis cup challenge round, Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Sept. 8, 9 and 10.

National doubles, Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.

Women's turf court singles and doubles, West Side Club, Aug. 15.

National Clay Court, Western Association, July 4.

Intercollegiate, Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, June 27.

Afte ran extended debate the delegates voted against a resolution rescinding the regulation barring the use of spiked shoes at turf court events.

Daily Golf Lectures.

Daily lectures on golf are announced by Homer Herpel and Wyndham Monroe, conducting the indoor school at Famous-Barr. Monroe talks from 12:30 to 1 about the game and Herpel illustrates the strokes. The lectures are free and the two professionals answer questions about golf.

Concordia Wins Fifth Straight Game, 39 to 19

Dau, With 10 Points, and Reinke Star Against Indiana Normal.

The Concordia Seminary basketball team won its fifth successive game of the season last night at the Armory, defeating the Indiana Normal quintet, 39 to 19. The local aggregation displayed the best form that it has shown so far, outclassing the visiting team.

Indiana did not score from the field until 16 minutes after the start. After ten minutes of play an entire new Normal team was sent into the game.

Chuvala of Concordia started the scoring soon after play began. The locals had seven points before the Normals counted from the field.

Early in the second half, Dau of Concordia found the hoop for two counters in rapid succession. The Indiana team did not score from the field until after ten minutes of the second period had elapsed.

Then Brown of the visitors broke into the score column and added two field goals to his team's total.

Dau with ten points, was high scorer. Reinke starred on defense.

In a preliminary contest, the Illmos defeated Holy Cross, 40 to 19.

About 2000 persons attended.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—Jock Soutar, Philadelphia, today retained the world's professional singles racquets championship by defeating William Standing, New York. The scores were 15—6, 15—6, 14—15, 15—13, 15—9. The first half of the match was played in New York a week ago.

ROOSEVELT SMOTHERS PRINCIPIA, 47-19

Roosevelt smothered Principia, 47 to 19, in a practice game on the Principia court last night. The stellar guarding of Jarrett and of Roberts, who kept Bob Richardson, high-point man for Principia in previous games, down to one field goal, featured the game. Meier and Sauselle, who seemed able to hit the basket from anyplace on the floor, scored 36 of Roosevelt's points.

Kessler, Roosevelt's center, scored all his baskets under the net. Roosevelt guarded Principia so closely that the Academy was able to score only six points in the second half. The work of Deal at guard, who scored three goals from the field and one free throw, was the high-light in Principia's playing.

BRUNO KLAESNER ON PEORIA RING CARD

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 5.—Carl Augustine, St. Paul light heavyweight, will meet Charlie Scherer of Sandusky, O., 10 rounds; Billy Devaney, Detroit, meets Sailor Deshone, Niles, Mich., eight rounds, and Eddie Chandler, Moline, will box Bruno Klaesner, St. Louis, in six rounds at the Majestic Theater here next Monday.

Eddie Goldberg To Meet Alfano In Bout Feb. 17

He Will Go East Again After Fight in East St. Louis Ring.

Eddie Goldberg, St. Louis' newest fistic star, and Ray Alfano, of East St. Louis, former amateur featherweight champion of the United States, will meet in the 10-round decision feature of the Avenue Theater's boxing carnival under the Illinois State Athletic Commission in East St. Louis on Thursday night, Feb. 17.

Announcement of the match was made by Matchmaker C. F. Nelson last night after the two principals had signed a commission contract to fight the 10 rounds with the weight 132 pounds at 3 o'clock the afternoon of the contest.

For Goldberg it will be the last test before he starts another invasion of Eastern boxing circles, having won 14 of 15 contests on his recent trip to the Atlantic seaboard. He plans to depart the day after the bout. Eddie wanst to wipe out one of the very few black marks on his record when he meets Alfano, as Ray won over him in an amateur duel.

It is a more serious affair for Alfano, however, as he finds it necessary to stage a successful comeback if he is to continue in the professional ranks. In his last out he lost to Steve Adams of Chicago, but he was not in very good condition. Recently Alfano realized his mistake and placed himself in the hands of Eddie Barth, experienced trained and physical director of the Knights of Columbus, and will do his best to get Ray in proper condition.

With his headliner arranged, Matchmaker Nelson is now busy signing up his preliminary bouts. He announces the former scale of prices, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20, will be in effect for the coming program.

2 Muny Players Draw Suspensions

Cristal and Cameron of the Langan Five Are Out for Rest of Year.

Two members of the Edward Langan quintet of the Municipal Basketball League were suspended for the remainder of the season by Superintendent of Recreation Tapperson after a hearing in his office in the Municipal Courts Building yesterday.

The men are Cristal and Cameron who were charged with taking undue part in a fight which developed last Wednesday in a game between the Langans and the Werner & Werners. Hoyt of the Werners and Syberg of the Langans collided in the course of the game and arose swinging at each other. Tapperson and his committee held that Referee Erne Hausman had the situation well in hand when Cristal and Cameron left their positions and joined in the argument. On this ground the men drew their suspensions.

The possibility that Hoyt and Lee of the Werners, both of whom were summoned to the hearing, might be suspended, aroused interest in the case as the Werners are in the thick of a fight with the Leacocks for the championship of their division, which is virtually equivalent to the championship of the organization.

The Werners will play the Leacocks for the third time this season Wednesday at the St. Louis University gymnasium with their full complement of players. Each team has won a game and this one will just about decide the race.

TAYLOR AGREES TO MAKE 118 POUNDS FOR TONY CANZONERI

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — Demands of Tony Canzoneri's manager that the weights in the match here with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute be cut from 120 pounds to 118, were agreed to tonight by Eddie Long, Taylor's manager, Jim Mullen, promoter of the match, said.

A diamond belt will be awarded the winner, Mullen announced, as Taylor is recognized as the bantamweight champion in Illinois and many other States. The Illinois Boxing Commission awarded the title to Taylor when Phil Rosenberg, the title holder, refused to make the required 118 pounds for their match last fall, or post a forfeit. The commission then called off the match.

Long agreed to risk his protege's claim upon the title for the Canzoneri match.

Taylor has not been in the ring for a couple of months, because of an operation to remove a lump over his eye, placed there by Joey Sangor of Milwaukee in a match in which Sangor was given the decision.

ANTI-BETTING RULE ADOPTED BY THE WESTERN LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 5.—Adoption of the Landis resolution forbidding betting on ball games by players, managers or anyone connected with the conduct of the contests was announced tonight, following the opening session of the spring meeting of Western League club owners here.

Ruth's Quick Thinking on Foul Fly From Hafey Showed His Real Value

Ten Great Plays OF THE 1926 World Series By John M'Graw

Quick Twist of Body as He Crashed Into Fence Enabled Him to Make Catch and Fine Throw.

THE Post-Dispatch presents herewith the ninth of a series of 10 articles by John J. McGraw, in which the manager of the New York Giants describes what he considers the "Ten Great Plays of the World Series." McGraw is recognized as one of the great strategists of baseball and in this series he tells of the plays which figured most prominently in the Cardinals' victory over the Yankees in the play for the 1926 baseball championship of the world.

BABE RUTH is a marvelous ballplayer, often unnoticed by a majority of fans. So interested are they in his long hitting that he is generally overlooked as one of the best all around outfielders and one of the quickest thinkers in the game.

One play of his, even though it cut no particular figure in the result, stands out in my memory as one of the most brilliant performances I ever saw. It was in the fourth inning of the fifth game at St. Louis and there was one out with Lester Bell on first base at the time. The Cardinals already had scored one run.

This play emphasized a lesson that I would like all young ballplayers to take to heart: "Always know what you are going to do before you go after the ball and then do it without hesitation. The outfield is no place in which to stop and think. There are no plays out there. The main idea is to get the ball into the diamond and to the right place."

Fine Catch and Throw.

IN that inning Hafey smashed a long foul into deep left field. It started fair but veered off and would have gone into one of the temporary boxes. Ruth started with the crack of the bat and picked up speed as he saw the ball was veering with the wind. Mind you, he thought that out as he ran. Without flinching he ran at full speed against the box railing, fell half way over but twisted his body so as to reach out and spear the ball with one hand.

That catch in itself was remarkable enough, but it was not the big point. In twisting his body so as to make the catch, Ruth placed himself in position so that he came up in exactly the right position to throw. Without a second's hesitation he shot the ball toward second to prevent Bell from taking an extra base after the catch. You've got to hand it to a man who can think that fast and that clearly while falling over the railing of a box and thousands of fans yelling at him.

Having already seen a demonstration of Ruth's throwing ability, Lester Bell scurried back to first base. A moment later he was out stealing second and the inning was over.

A Thinking Ballplayer.

THAT was but one of the great bits of thinking on the part of Ruth, but to me it still stands out as a picture of real ballplaying. In another game at the Yankee Stadium the Babe and Combs both started for a long drive to the right-field fence. As he ran Ruth saw that Combs would be able to reach the ball. To avoid a collision he deliberately took a dive on his face, and slid fully 10 feet on the ground to let Combs make the catch.

Ballplayers ambitious to become big leaguers would do well to study Babe Ruth as an outfielder as well as a home-run hitter.

WELLSTON WINS ITS FIFTH STRAIGHT GAME

Wellston increased its string of victories in the County High School Basketball League to seven by defeating Normandy, 21 to 13, last night on the Normandy floor. This was the second time that Wellston has won from Normandy.

Soccer Elevens To Play Today

Wellstons Oppose White Banners, While Millers Tackle Ratican Team.

After three weeks of idleness, due to poor field conditions, the elevens in the St. Louis Soccer League will resume hostilities at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. The schedule calls for the Wellstons to oppose the White Banners with the Ben Millers down to tackle the Raticans. First game at 2 o'clock.

In addition to figuring in the regular league standings, the contests will serve as conditioners for the coming national cup tie games. In the first cup battles the Raticans are drawn against the Millers, the Wellstons against Johnston City, Ill., and the White Banners against the Bricklayers at Chicago.

It is likely that the first cup game here this season will be played on Feb. 20, with the Millers playing the Raticans. On the following Sunday it is probable that the Wellstons will face Johnston City here, with McCarthy's men going to Chicago.

In the league race, the Wellstons are leading the Ben Millers by a single point.

Theer is a possibility that Link, a new forward, will line up with the White Banners in the game with the Wellstons today.

29 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

OWNERS CRITICISE WEIGHTS ASSIGNED IN TWO EASTERN CLASSIC

CRUSADER TO CARRY ONLY 129 POUNDS

Peanuts Also Treated Liberally in Metropolitan With 116-Pound Impost; The Satrap Best 3-Year-Old.

By G. F. T. RYALL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Weights for the Metropolitan Handicap and the Dixie, two of the early spring racing classics, were announced last week, and they have evoked considerably more criticism from owners, trainers and amateur handicappers than since the custom of posting the handicaps on the first of February was revived several years ago.

Most of the critics are of the opinion that Frank Bryan, who made the weights for the Dixie, has been more severe than W. S. Vosburgh, who is the handicapper for the Jockey Club tracks. Bryan's weights are higher all the way down the list. There are others, and the writer is one, who thinks the Jockey Club handicapper has been rather lenient with at least half a dozen horses, but there are still others—and these are owners and trainers, who think Vosburgh has been unduly severe. And this minority may institute an innovation in the conduct of the sport on the New York tracks.

Owners Used to Complain.

In other years, when owners or trainers believed their horses unduly and unfairly weighted, they complained to their friends and the world at large and usually scratched their entries from the stake.

Last year, it will be remembered, when Mr. Bryan assigned Crusader 135 pounds for the Bowie Handicap, Sam Riddle, the Man O'War colt's owner, protested to the Pimlico management and refused to run his colt in the race. Max Hirsch did not go quite so far last fall when Mr. Vosburgh made King Solomon's Seal give Mars weight according to the scale, but he told Algernon Daingerfield, assistant secretary of the Jockey Club, that he was ready to give King Solomon's Seal and $20,000 to boot for Mars, and would give $5000 bonus to Mr. Vosburgh if he put through the deal. At that time it was suggested that he make a protest in writing to the stewards, but he declined to do this.

Now it is one of the rules of English racing that if an owner believe his horse is too heavily weighted in a handicap he may make a formal protest to the stewards of the Jockey Club, who in turn will place the matter before a board of handicappers. This board must sustain the protest of the owner or approve the weight imposed by the handicapper.

One Protest Entered.

One serious protest already has been made against the weight assigned one horse in the Metropolitan Handicap. The Jockey Club just at present is in a particularly receptive mood and it is understood that if the owner or trainer of the animal that is considered outweighed were to make a formal protest, it is understood that it would be entertained.

Just what course would be taken then is hard to say. It might be that the Jockey Club might ask Mr. Vosburgh to make an official answer in writing as to the form on which he based his handicap. But there is no intimation as to whether the Jockey Club or its board of stewards would be inclined to support the protest of an owner against the figures of a man who has been the official handicapper for more than 30 years.

I do not believe Mr. Vosburgh has a particularly high opinion of Crusader. In assigning him 129 pounds in the Metropolitan he placed him only two pounds above the scale, and as I recall it, he gave Grey Lag 133 pounds and Zev 130 pounds in the race when they were 4-year-olds.

Rating Peculiar.

Macaw beat Chance Play off at even weights in the President's Plate, at one mile, last fall, but in the Metropolitan, which also is at one mile, me makes Chance Play give Macaw a pound. Mars, which is 10 pounds below Crusader, is most liberally treated, but not nearly so well as Peanuts, which gets in at 116 pounds, 12 pounds below the scale, though he broke a world's record at one mile and a furlong last fall. Black Maria seems tossed in at 112 pounds and Edith Cavell, which beat her twice last year at even weights gets in at 104.

I was surprised to see Sweepster at 108, rated one pound better than Valorous, which last fall Mr. Vosburgh said was a better horse than Scapa Flow. It is evident that he does not put a great deal of faith in Maryland form for he rates Rip Rap, winner of the Walden Handicap, eight pounds below the scale along with Kiev, Cheops, Terry, which raced only twice in cheap company, Donnez Moi and General Lee.

Both Mr. Vosburgh and Mr. Bryan rate The Satrap best of the 3-year-olds in training, putting him in at scale weight of 112 pounds.

*Field.

Red Pennant going in his best form and racing prominently for most of the way, held on gamely and outstayed Dolly Bay. Latter showed a fine effort and finished well, might have won but for swerving out in the last few strides. Talladega raced well up throughout. Rodrigo began tiring near the end. Eager was given a listless ride in addition to being taken completely out of it at the start, might have won with a hustling ride.

$2 mutuels paid: Red Pennant win, $5.40, place $3.80, show $3.60; Dolly Bay place $10.80, show $6.60; Talledega show $4.40.

SECOND RACE—$1200, allowances, the Nip and Tuck Purse, 2-year-olds, three furlongs: Start good for all but I Told You; won easily; place driving. Went to post 2:35; at post 2 minutes. Winner, b. f. 2, by Palymelian-War Witch. Trainer D. S. Fountain. Time, :12, :24, :36. Value to winners, $850, $200, $100, $50.

HORSE.	WT.	PP.	ST.	Str.	Fin.	Jockey.	Equivalent Odds to 1.

King Star	110	5	6	6	6	L. Lang	67.00
I Told You	110	7	Refused			W. Kelsay	8.30

Polly Witch broke fast and, hard hustled, moved into good lead at once, won well in hand. Fair Anita also away well, held on gamely when urged hard. Soiree raced a trifle wide and finished well. Prate came with a rush in the last sixteenth. Emphatic was taken back repeatedly after breaking well and can do much better.

$2 mutuels paid: Polly Witch win $6.20, place $4, show $3.80; Fair Anita place $10.40, show $6; Soiree show $5.80.

THIRD RACE—$1200, claiming, 4-year-olds up, one mile and a quarter: Start good; won, driving; place, same; went to post, 3:09; at post 1 minute; winner, Ch g by Rock View-Kilctea; trainer, owner; time 24 4-5, 49 3-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:42 1-5; value to winner, $850, $200, $100, $50.

*Field.

Blue Hill restrained first three quarters, saved much ground and, hard held, drew out in last sixteenth. Fleetwood came steadily during the stretch and was going gamely at the end. Mikado raced prominently for entire trip but tired. Francis Victoria under weak handling swerved repeatedly. Marsdale finished well. Radio requires strong handling. Rama tired. Hidalgo raced poorly.

$2 mutuels paid: Blue Hill, wine $12, place, $5.40, show $3.80; Fleetwood, place $5.20, show $4; Mikado, show $8.20.

Beneficent	108	3	2	6^{h}	7	7	7	7	G. Johnson	27.20

*Navigator and Peter Peter, Greentree stable entry.

Navigator broke fast, showed good speed and mildly urged, held others safe in stretch. Peter Peter practically left, saved much ground and raced as if best, closing a big gap. Banton suffered much interference when forced wide before reaching stretch, but came strongly near end. Georgia Rose saved ground at stretch turn. Cudgeller raced prominently in early stages and forced most of the contenders wide just before reaching stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Navigator, first, $4.20, place $3.40, show $2.60; Peter Peter, place $3.40, show $2.60; Banton, show $3.40.

SEVENTH RACE—$1200, claiming, 4-year-olds and up, one and one-sixteenth miles. Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post 5:21. At post 1 minute. Winner, b. m. 8 vy Golden Maxim-Billows. Mungo	110	10	Left at post					R. Workman	2.50

Gracious Gift improved his position steadily, moved into the lead in the stretch and outlasted Colleen O. in the final drive. The latter, a forward factor all the way, was forced wide turning for home and was wearing the winner down in the final drive. Forget Me Not displayed early speed, but quit under pressure. Sir Barley, away well, could not keep up under pressure. Hot Pepper closed some ground from a slow beginning. Wonderful One saved ground all the way. Gareth, Belle H and Mungo were very fractious at the post.

$2 mutuels paid: Gracious Gift, win $32.20, place $11.70, show $7.10; Colleen O., place $6.90, show $5.10; Forget Me Not, show $13.10.

Clapper was superior to his opposition, was rated off pace and moved into lead with a rush, opened up a good gap and was never threatened thereafter. Polly Leighton showed some improvement and finished stoutly. Recoup, badly messed about in run to first turn, came to outside and finished well. Sarasoa weakened in the final issue.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandru

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times bett

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple rem has never been known to fail.

HOW YOUNG WON THE CATALINA SWIM— As told by his rival NORMAN ROSS

Greatest Water Feat In History, Former U.S. Champion Writes

Tides, Chill Water, Currents, Mental Hazards the Great Distance and Powerful Competition Militated Against the Swimmer.

By Norman Ross.

Former National Champion and Favorite to Win the Recent Catalina Channel Swim.

(Copyright, 1927.)

THE toughest athletic competition in the world's history, the ocean marathon from Catalina to the mainland, proved to be a vindication of youth and speed. Never before had a group of athletes n called on to meet such conditions as faced the band of starters this event.

The problems to be met called a peculiar combination of phys- l and mental qualities which re possessed to a remarkable de- e by only one contestant, young orge Young of Toronto. George ablished himself by his performce in this race as one of the outnding athletes in the written tory of the world.

The fact that only one swim- r out of the 100 starters was to complete the course indi- the difficulties encountered. all the writer's 15 years' experi- e in swimming there has never such a test. The first plunge, r the starter's signal, was hard- noticed, due to the excitement the occasion, but before Bird k, two miles from shore, was ed, many of the contestants succumbed to the cold and n up the struggle. It was no- able that the most heavily ed ones passed out of the pic- early, indicating that the e angle was a fallacy. I wore hing, yet was able to stay in 15 hours, after many more heavily upholstered entries had decided to view the course of the contest from the attendant boat.

Both Followed Same Course.

YOUNG and I choose to follow practically the same course, bearing away to the northwest, and as we were separated by only a few hundred yards during the entire 15 hours of battling the briny, I can perhaps tell better than anyone except the youthful champ just what he was up against. His experiences were likely nearly a duplicate of my own. We took food at approximately the same time, often paused to rest simultaneously, and, according to statements by his attendants, we were both ready to give up the ship at about the same stages of the race.

After the first flurry of the start, when the hundred aspirants were beating the water into a foam with their efforts to get out in the lead, Young, Leo Purcell of San Francisco and myself shook off the sidestroke and breast stroke swimmers, and bearing off to the northwest, found we had the whole ocean to ourselves.

Ernst Brandsten, swimming coach at Stanford University and my coach and trainer, and I were not surprised to see Young start out at a great pace and take the lead. Although he had been overlooked by all dopesters, we knew his past performances and to a certain degree his capabilities. As hour after hour went by, however, and he did not slacken his pace, we began to realize that all was not to be so easy. Until 8 o'clock in the evening I had been content to go along at my own pace, keeping within my capabilities, conserving my strength for the distance I knew lay ahead.

Cold Cramps Legs.

AS the pains from the cold water increased, my legs cramped continually, my back across the kidneys ached until I thought it would break, and terrific pains developed above my diaphragm.

I made up my mind that I would have to overtake the flying Young before I cracked, and for three hours steadily I put every ounce of effort I had into each stroke.

I hoped against hope that he would give up the struggle, as had Leo Purcell earlier, and leave the ocean to me. Although I came abreast with him when he held off farther to the west than I did, I could not pass him, and gradually grew weaker and weaker, until when he encountered the off-shore current about midnight I was entirely out of steam.

For 2 hours and 40 minutes of heart-breaking effort, I stood practically still, unable to make any headway. Meanwhile, Young, with the extra reserve strength of his youth and longer training behind him, cut through the current, struggled through the kelp beds and finally reached shore, the conqueror.

My handlers saw that he was out of reach, decided I could not go further, as I had practically ceased all motion, and took me from the water, frozen out.

The wonderful stamina and superior condition of the lad from Canada had prevailed, and alone of the 100 brave starters, he landed, to claim the prize.

THE elements which entered into making this the hardest contest ever staged, along with the qualities needed to insure success, were as follows:

1.—DISTANCE. The shortest route, by direct line, from the isthmus on Catalina Island to a point near San Vincente, is 21.85 miles. Only the very best swimmers could swim this far at one stretch under ideal conditions, with warm water and no tide, currents or waves to buck. The distance actually to be swum was considerably more, owing to drift of wind and currents, and the impossibility of swimming a perfectly straight course.

2.—COLD. By far the hardest thing to overcome was the extremely low temperature of the water. On the day of the race the water ranged from 59, the warmest recorded for several weeks, to 52 in many places. The cold streaks alternating with colder ones increased the difficulties considerably.

To withstand this, a heavy layer of adipose tissue under the skin was essential, together with a nerve system trained to act under the shock of the cold, and a powerful heart which could force the blood to the extremities and keep on functioning during the violent and extended exertion.

Elimination was practically suspended during the effort, and the waste tissues torn down by the exertion caused a great part of the discomfort felt by the swimmers, and caused the gradual dropping in physical efficiency. It was this fatigue which left the writer standing in one place for the last two hours and 40 minutes of the swim, unable to advance against a weak tide, and finally caused cessation of all motion. The mind was still active, but the muscles would not respond to the orders sent out.

3. WAVES, CURRENTS AND TIDES. A westerly wind springwhipped up a chop, which in combination with the swell from the west dashed into the faces of all swimmers who breathed on the left side, more than 75 per cent of the contestants. This caused discomfort to the eyes, and put a number of contestants out of the running when they became nauseated from swallowing the salt water.

The usual current setting in from the west caused the leaders, who had studied the matter, to swim several miles out of the direct line in order to keep from being swept away from their objective. At the finish, an unusual and totally unexpected current setting offshore, held the winner and the writer in its grip for hours. The winner had the reserve strength to cross this, the runnerup did not.

4. MENTAL HAZARDS. Under this heading came all the rumors of sharks and barracudas, the fear of failure, the suffering from cramp, chill and exhaustion, and the everincreasing temptation to crawl into the attendant boat. No swimmer who withdrew from that race could be censured for his act. In fact, those who got out the earliest were probably the smartest.

To successfully withstand all these thoughts, one needed to be of the stolid, unimaginative type, without thought of consequence or difficulties to be encountered. The type who realized that it took 20,000 strokes to make the crossing, counted a few hundred and realized that there were still nineteen-odd thousand to go, had twice the difficulty to remain in.

Added to this, the day conspired to make matters for the observing contestants more tough. As the sun set beside the island the swimmers had left, it stood out in bold relief, and a haze settled on the mainland. After more than two-thirds of the distance had been traversed, the island seemed to the swimmer to be towering over him, while the mainland, only a few miles away, could scarcely be discerned.

5. COMPETITION. This was not a go-as-you-please test, where the aspirant could take his own time, and if conditions did not suit him, withdrew to try another day. There was the ever-present urge to beat the other fellow. The writer has been in many tough races during 15 years of championship competition, in tll parts of the world, but has never been called on the measure strokes with a younger, better-conditioned swimmer for 15 hours without a letup.

An understanding of these conditions shows one why of the thousands of fine swimmers in the country, only 150 considered themselves good enough to enter and train for the event, and only 102 though tthemselves good enough to start.

It also explains why, after 10 hours, only 10 remained, after 15 only 5, and why only one man, the youthful Canadian, possessing in the greatest degree the qualities of speed, reserve energy, condition, excellnt handling and the will to win, was the only one to accomplish the crossing.

He merits all the reward that has accrued to him, and the other contestants are deserving of great praise for their feat, especially the two women who remained uncongealed after 19 hours.

A. A. U. BOXING TOURNEY HERE FRIDAY EXPECTED TO TAKE 8 HOURS

45 Amateurs, Including Five Titleholders Enter; May Start at 2 O'Clock

Advance Ticket Sale Indicates Good Crowd Will Attend Coliseum Show—Little Rock Sends Three.

Approximately eight consecutive hours of boxing will be provided by the preliminary eliminations, semi-finals and finals of the annual Western A. A. U. championships at the New Coliseum arena next Friday if all the bouts tentatively assured by the list of 45 entries now on file, are contested over the full three rounds allotted by amateur regulations.

The fact that several additional entries are promised indicates that even a liberal allowance for the shortening of a number of contests on knockouts will not materially diminish the period of time district officials estimate will be required to run off the tournament.

May Start at 2 O'clock.

In an effort to provide some means of assuring the spectators that finals of the eight weight divisions will be decided before midnight, Chairman Robert W. Probst is seeking the approval by district officials of a plan to hold the preliminary tryouts in the afternoon, starting about 2 o'clock.

This arrangement would enable tournament officials to adopt a schedule whereby reasonable assurance of starting the titular finals by 9:30 p. m. would be provided. Allowing the customary 12 minutes for each event, the finals may consume a total of one hour and 36 minutes. It is estimated that a period of three hours will be required by the semifinals.

Although five of last year's champions appear on the list of entries for the coming meet, only three of this number are again competing in the divisions in which they won their titles. Eddie O'Neill, the flyweight champion, has filed entry for the bantam events, while Eddie Burke, who holds the featherweight crown, is listed among the lightweight candidates.

Jerry Hoffman, a Washington University athlete, who holds the light-heavyweight title; Dave Knost, Sherman Park heavyweight, and Frank Power, South Broadway middleweight, are the three champions of 1926 who hope to retain their crowns. Indications are that Knost and Power will encounter stubborn opposition. John Schwake of the South Broadway club is regarded as a dangerous contender for the heavyweight title, while Al Stillman of Sherman Park and Fred Switzer of Little Rock, Ark., loom as prospective finalists in the middleweight events.

Pete White of Sherman Park and Joe Staunton of the South Broadway club are prime favorites in the featherweight class, while Eddie O'Neill and Joe Gnouly are considered the strongest bantam contenders. The flyweight events promise to furnish a spirited competition between Carmen Durso and Clifford Doetzel of the South Broadway club, and Paul Spica of the Business Men's A. C.

Ticket Sale Good.

The advance sale for Friday night's meet has exceeded all previous records for district boxing events, according to Chairman Probst, who stated last night that one entire section of ringside seats has been reserved by employes of the People's Motorbus Co., and that an order for 35 reservations has been filed by employes of the Evens & Howard Co. Ticket prices range from $2.20 for ringside seats to 50 cents for general admission.

Winners of finalist honors in the district title competition will qualify for places on the team to be selected to represent the Western A. A. U. in the National A. A. U. championships at Cincinnati, March 19 to 21.

Following is a complete list of entries filed to date:

University City Plans a Boom In Muny Sports

Six New Tennis Courts in One Park — Executive Board Named.

University City will have a greatly augmented program of Municipal athletics this summer, according to a plan announced by John E. Mooney, president of the newly elected executive committee of the University City Municipal Athletic Association.

Five tracts of land have been purchased for the development of public parks and in each case space will be devoted in the parks to athletics. Thus, six tennis courts, shelter houses and shower baths will be constructed in Flynn Park; two tennis courts in connection with the playground equipment at Eastgate Park; two handball courts at Bartmer Avenue Playground and at Heman Park and William Park, which adjoin, there will be two first class baseball diamonds, with dressing rooms, shower baths, lockers and other necessary equipment.

Following are the members of the new executive committee and the sports they will foster.

John E. Mooney, president; Rev. Walter A. Riske, vice-president; Herbert J. Hopkins, secretary; Edward League, treasurer; Winton Barnes, Jr., members at large.

Rev. Riske will act as executive chairman of the baseball committee, Hopkins of tennis, Dr. Barnes of girls' and junior activities, Winton Barker of soccer and Edward League of handball and horse shoes.

585 FOALS MADE GOOD IN KENTUCKY BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION FUTURITY

LEXINGTON Ky., Feb. 5.—Only 77 out of the 662 foals of 1926 failed to make good in the $21,000 Kentucky Futurity, the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association announced here today.

This marked an increase of 47 foals over 1925, as 585 were kept good this year, the association stated. Kentucky led the 21 States represented with 245 foals, while Ohio came second with 74. New York held to third place with 51, while Indiana took fourth place with 49.

Dr. Ogden M. Edwards' Walnut Hall Farm of Donerail, Ky., led the list of breeders, by keeping good 86 of his own foals and 18 others owned outside but foaled and kept at his farm. The list of breeders included 165 names, 29 of them having five or more foals to their credit.

MLLE. LENGLEN IS FORCED TO CANCEL NEWARK EXHIBITION

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Suzanne Lenglen, French professional tennis star, has not recovered sufficiently from an attack of tonsilitis to play in Newark, N. J., tonight, her tour manager, Ben Crose, announced today.

No alarm is felt over Mlle. Lenglen's condition, according to who explained that she had improvement overnight but a slight fever. Her physician scribed at least one more rest. She has been ill since Wednesday.

Nationalist Spirit Roused by Foreign Oppression Unites Factions Against Invaders

Greedy, Overbearing Policy of the Powers, Persisted in Through 80 Years, Has Finally Forced Into Virtual Alliance Against the West the Most Populous Two Nations of the World—China and Russia—Moscow Advises With Cantonese Army.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.

REGARD China. The most important event since the World War is occurring there. The sleep of centuries is ending. China, comprising nearly a quarter of the human race, is aroused and bursting her bonds. Before the rising tide of nationalism the white foreigners who have abused and exploited her for 80 years are being swept into the sea like dry leaves before a whirlwind.

This sketch aims to give the casual reader an understanding of present developments, developments which grow more momentous day by day. Unless signs fail, the history of the world is about to enter upon a new course. The greed, stupidity and cruelty of the so-called Christian nations of the West have done their work. Force always wins, was the lesson which the "civilized" nations strove for nearly a century to impress upon the "heathen" Chinese. Not justice, nor sympathy, but the advantage of gunboats, marines and modern armament, was the message which the Occident carried so persistently to the Orient. Persistence has succeeded at last. China has learned her lesson. They who sowed the wind are reaping the whirlwind.

British Smuggling Cause of First Opium War.

This story began in 1842, with the first opium war, so called because it resulted mainly from the effort of British traders to force Indian opium upon China against the wish of her rulers.

The effort was marked by a repetition of the Boston Tea Party. British opium ships were lying off Canton then much as rum row lies off the Atlantic coast today, and running their cargoes in by stealth and force. The Manchu Emperor sent a powerful and resolute individual named Lin, with orders to take the necessary action. Lin at once seized a huge quantity of the drug, mixed it with lime and salt water and buried it in a trench.

In consequence of this and similar "outrages" upon British subjects and British property, hostilities were opened. The Chinese were no match for their modern foes. One defeat followed another and Nanking was under siege when China capitulated. Under the treaty which followed, China made the first of that long list of surrenders and concessions which were to be forced from her in unbroken succession in the 80 dreary years to come. She ceded the island of Hongkong to Britain. She opened five ports—Shanghai, Amoy, Canton, Foochow and Ningpo — to British commerce. She paid an indemnity of $21,000,000. Thus did the Chinese get their first taste of Western justice.

France and Britain Backed Drug Trade With Warships

They were soon to have more of it. The fight to exclude opium continued, and in 1857 the second opium war occurred. In this pious enterprise Britain was joined by France. The Chinese fleet was sunk, fort after fort was razed and soon the allies entered Pekin. There followed another capitulation, more concessions, more indemnities, more treaty ports.

Of course, these raids and extortions were not without high-sounding pretexts. Imperialism always justifies itself by some sanctimonious formula, whether in China, Nicaragua, or elsewhere. "Protection of the lives and property of our nationals" usually is a sufficient excuse for whatever a predatory government is determined to do. And, of course, the Chinese afforded some provocation. They hated foreigners, resented their presence, and retaliated as best they could. The second opium war was marked by the murder of the British and French Ambassadors. Nevertheless, the fact remains clear that all the trouble resulted from the efforts of foreigners to force their trade upon an unwilling people, and chiefly from their efforts to force a vicious, habit-forming drug upon them. To suppose that the Chinese originally were addicted to opium is an error: for that curse they are indebted to Christian traders, backed by Christian gunboats.

Occidentals Take Fresh Slices of China

Space forbids a recital of the long list of aggressions which succeeded. In 1883 it was France, seeking to establish a protectorate over Tonkin. In 1894 it was Japan, and China lost Formosa, Korea and a large indemnity. In 1897 two German missionaries were killed, and Germany "leased" Kiaochau—at the point of the bayonet. This was an idea, so Russia similarly "leased" Port Arthur, and the British took over Wehaiwei.

Invariably there was some lofty moral pretext for action, and invariably China emerged from the conflict with less territory, less money, and less control over her own affairs.

The Boxer uprising occurred in 1900, and that gave all the Western Powers a grand opportunity. Numerous concessions and an indemnity of $337,000,000 were extorted as the price of the lives of the missionaries who were slain by the infuriated natives. The missionaries to be sure were innocent victims. They suffered because they were the most obvious and available targets of mob violence. The real offenders were safe and far away, in the foreign offices of London, Paris, Moscow and Berlin.

Map of Operations in China

1. Area now held by the Cantonese Nationalist army under Chang Kai-shek.

2. Area around Shanghai, now crowded with foreigners from the interior, and defended by a small force under Sun Chuang-fang.

3. District where Wu Pei-fu is endeavoring to reorganize his forces, following severe defeats by the Cantonese along the Yangste River.

4. Area nominally under the Northern, or Pekin Government, but actually completely controlled by Chang Tso Lin and the war lords allied with him.

5. Area occupied by Feng Yu-hiang, the "Christian General," allied with Cantonese, and expected soon to effect a junction with them, in preparation for a drive eastward and northward.

What China Lost by Foreign Aggressions

The revolution which overthrew the Manchu dynasty in 1909 and made China a republic made no change in the ambitions of the Powers. They preyed upon the republic even more avidly than they had upon the monarchy. It all culminated in the notorious "twenty-one demands" made by Japan in 1915. Due to the pressure of world opinion, these were modified later but Japan nevertheless emerged with vast material concessions.

When the results of the long period of aggression are surveyed we find the following:

> China had lost the taxing power over foreigners, who paid her only a nominal import duty, and virtually no other taxes. And these were collected by a foreign agent.
> She could not try foreigners under her own laws or in her own courts; they established their own "extraterritorial courts" on her soil.
> She had been forced to set apart large districts in her principal cities for foreign occupancy and commerce. A total of 43 ports had been forced open.
> Control of her railroads, mines and other profitable industries had passed in large measure to foreign interests.

Because of the inequalities imposed upon them, the Chinese were unable to compete in their own country with foreign traders.

Because of its helplessness before the demands of the Powers, the Chinese Government lost the respect of its own people and suffered from constant wars and rivalries.

United States Alone Lent a Friendly Hand

While this sordid chapter was being written, there was but one great Power which showed anything like a decent regard for China's rights, and that was the United States. Secretary of State John Hay in 1900 refused to commit this country to the ferocious reprisals visited upon China for the Boxer uprising, and pronounced the celebrated open door policy, which was simply that the United States favored equal commercial opportunities in China for all nations, and no violation of China's territorial integrity. But like the others, Americans enjoyed the advantage of extraterritoriality, low tariff and nominal taxes.

So much for the education of the Chinese. They learned how to appraise the benevolent intentions of the Western Powers. They learned the value of modern battleships and marines equipped with machine guns. These two lessons are indispensable to the present awakening.

From time immemorial, the country has been divided politically, culturally, and to some degree racially, into North and South. Canton is the capital city of South China and Pekin of North China. South China came into contact with the West first. It is said that 95 per cent of the Chinese who have visited foreign countries are Cantonese, Consequently the growth of new political ideas occurred first in the South.

Combination Overthrew the Manchu Dynasty

The outstanding leader of the South was Dr. Sun Yat Sen, a man of pre-eminent intelligence, courage, character and ability who had studied abroad, and had spent much time in the United States and Europe. His counterpart in the North was Yuan Shi Kai, a dominating personality and a statesman of the first rank. Between them they organized the revolution which overthrew the Manchu dynasty. Sun favored a republican form of government. Yuan believed a constitutional monarchy on the British pattern would serve China's needs best. They compromised. Yuan agreed to a republic and Sun supported Yuan for its first President. For 10 years these two able men and their loyal disciples labored to weld the vast and heterogenous people into a nation. Constantly they were hampered by the restrictions and demands imposed by the Powers. The Chinese have a peculiar genius for living together without laws. Nationally, conscious patriotism was simply unknown to them.

Feudal System Set Up By Native War Lords

The divided and disorganized state of the country prepared the ground for the rise of a number of tuchuns, or war lords. Usually it happened in this wise: A General in the regular army would become military Governor of a province or group of provinces. Once he had established the loyalty of his troops, his obedience to the central government became chiefly nominal. He collected taxes, quartered his soldiers upon the population, and perhaps remitted part of the taxes to the central government, but often did not.

By 1922 between the independent ambitions of the tuchuns on the one hand, and the constant aggressions of the Powers on the other, the central government at Pekin had become virtually helpless, and the country was divided among the various war lords, not a few of whom were in the pay of foreign governments.

One of the most powerful and ruthless of the tuchuns was, and is, Chang Tso Lin, born in Manchuria 52 years ago. He had no education. When he was 17 years old his father was killed in a bandit raid. Following the example, Chang became a bandit leader himself, and eventually waxed so powerful that he was made a General, and his band entered in the regular army. Shrewdly, however, he elected to remain with his command in Manchuria, where he ruled cruelly and despotically.

Chang Has Five Wives, Wears Fingernails Long

He served with the Japanese army in the war with Russia, and afterward was made Military Governor of the Province of Fengtien. He had five wives and wears his fingernails long, in the ancient style. His headquarters were at Mukden, in Manchuria, and he is the epitome of a barbaric Oriental potentate.

Around Dr. Sun Yat Sen at Canton there assembled a body of disciples, young men, nearly all of whom had been educated in the United States and Europe, whom he imbued with his fervor for democratic ideals and his determination to make China a nation. Their devotion to him and to the ideas which he taught is a remarkable tribute to the nobility and strength of his character. These are the men who are playing the great roles in the events of today.

Chen Yu'gen was born 48 years ago in the British West Indies. He was educated in England, and became a London solicitor. He adopted and still uses his name in the English form of Eugene Chen. He made many visits to China, and came under the influence of Dr. Sun. His career had already been marked by brilliant attainments.

Eugene Chen Brilliant Writer of the Nationalists

He returned to China in 1912, joined the Kuomintang (National People's Party) and edited the Pekin Gazette, ardently nationalistic and democratic. He assailed foreign domination and the rule of the tuchuns impartially and with fury. It was said that he wrote more brilliant and vitriolic English than any Englishman or American in China.

He was jailed in 1917 for anti-Japanese editorials, but was pardoned. He attended the Paris peace conference in 1919 as adviser to the Chinese delegates. Meantime, Dr. Sun and his associates set up a government at Canton, and Chen became its foreign advisor in 1922. He became editor of the Min Pao, a newspaper published in English and Chinese at Shanghai in 1925. His withering attacks upon the British, written in the best Oxford English, made him hated by the British settlement, and his denuncia-

Chinese Minister Sze at Washington States His Nation's Case

"All that China seeks is justice. She wants to live in peace and friendship with the world, but the Chinese people do not believe this is possible until China's sovereign rights are respected by the other powers.

"China's development has been seriously retarded by the terms of onerous treaties forced upon her. The gravest of these restrictions have been the denial to China of the right to hold foreigners amenable to her laws, and foreign control of her tariff and taxes.

"The immunity of foreigners to Chinese laws has been carried far beyond the limits contemplated when China was constrained to agree to it. In consequence, foreigners commit offenses with impunity. Commercial advantages which foreigners derive from their favored status are not less irksome and irritating. Freed from Chinese control or supervision, foreign business houses frequently do things forbidden to Chinese firms. As a result, one large foreign bank recently failed with heavy losses.

"Living in their own country, Chinese find themselves compelled to pay local and excise taxes from which foreigners are exempt. Let an American imagine himself in such a situation, and picture his feelings. How can the Chinese people be expected to respect and obey their government when they see it powerless to compel obedience from thousands of foreigners living within its borders?

"We are asking, then, only simple justice—only the respect and consideration which is due us as a sovereign and civilized people. The United States has been a traditional friend of China. Your country can cement that friendship now as never before by taking the lead in a movement to revise the unequal treaties which bind China, and to withdraw the foreign control which presses on her so sorely."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Farmers' Customers Abroad.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THERE are three steps for the farmer to take to acquire economic independence. The first is co-operation in which he has made some progress. The second is tariff reduction and at this issue the farmer has merely arrived. He has not given it serious consideration. The third subject for him to recognize as vital to his prosperity is the condition of his foreign customers. From this subject the farmer is still at a remote distance. It is still out of sight over the rim of the earth. He is unaware that it is of any concern to him. Really it is of great concern.

The foreign policy of this country has a direct influence on economic conditions throughout the world. It affects other nations through tariffs, loans of capital and the character of the ethics it displays in its general conduct of affairs determines foreign sentiment towards us. If this sentiment be friendly, foreign trade favors us; if unfriendly, it favors our competitors. What is the nature of this sentiment today? There is no effort to deny the repeated statement that we are the most unpopular of nations. Who is responsible for that? Chiefly the President, abetted by his supporters in Congress. Is it nothing to the farmer that he lose the good will of those upon whom he depends to buy his surplus? Since the war our Government has steadily refused to cooperate in the rehabilitation of Europe and out of its wounds and poverty Europe regards us with bitterness.

Th farmer should be a most vigilant observer of our foreign policy but there is nothing he regards with less interest and understanding.

Four Constitutional Amendments.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MILLIONS are spent yearly in a fruitless effort to enforce one particular amendment to the Constitution, while three others, more important, lay covered under dust, paralyzed from inaction—the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. But everything is being done to enforce the eighteenth—which is ruining the country. Thousands of men were thrown out of work as a result of prohibition; poverty, sickness, suffering, and even death, are following in its wake. Crime stalking the cities and highways throughout the nation; men can not find work; they must live.

How long shall we halt between two opinions? If serfdom and slavery be right, follow it; but if "liberty," the gift of Washington, admired by Jefferson and preserved by Lincoln, be best, follow it. Choose we this day.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS EDWARDS.

The New Plaza Vista.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A PROPOSAL that seems ill-advised is the erection of a 37-story building on the southwest corner of Twelfth and Olive and which would dwarf all of the other structures surrounding it such as the Post-Dispatch, Star, Union Electric and Jefferson Hotel, thereby destroying their artistic effects. If the Plaza is to be made the artistic and ornamental feature of the city that the plans contemplate, the "vista" from all directions must be protected and preserved by limiting the height of buildings. In this respect the restrictions and methods employed in several of Europe's most artistically beautiful capitals, notably Paris, London, Berlin and Vienna, are worthy of emulation. Should it be decided to erect the new Federal building upon another site (the present one appears to be the most ideal of all) it might be located to advantage on the 12th and Olive site and made to harmonize with the general Plaza scheme.

P. M. H.

Borah's Inconsistency.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MR. BORAH'S judgment that coercion will fail, in the end, to coerce a people having the desire and the will to be self-governing, is precisely the judgment of human nature on which the British Commonwealth of Nations rests. It is of the essence of the unanimity rule of the League of Nations Covenant. It squares with instinctive common sense. Yet Borah opposes the League of Nations Covenant.

Is it Borah the man, or Borah the lawyer who is antileague? I suggest a commission to inquire if lawyerism isn't at the root of more of our decadency in the practice of the art of democracy than we commonly suppose.

It is the lawyer's job to know what the law is in any time and place. As a man he is entitled to hold what ideals he chooses to cherish concerning the nature and warranty of law. He may believe, if he chooses, a la Mr. Root, that the perfect day will be the day of perfect law. But any ordinarily reflective layman could tell such lawyers that in the progress of real civilization law must grow beautifully less. The fact is that lawyers are under heavy traditional bonds to hold to the medieval conception of the nature of law. That's why the League of Nations Commission at Paris did not want a "lawyer's Covenant." Laymen should pluck up a bit of courage. Demos is the boy who has the say-so as to when, where, why and how much law there shall be.

M.

THE MAN WHO DOES NOT VOTE.

The nonvoter is confessedly a problem. After-election surveys intone a progressively dismal chant. The proportion of eligible citizens who stay away from the polls gets bigger and bigger. This despite agitation in the press and the earnest efforts of organized bodies.

Many factors contribute to this deplorable and truly dangerous condition. One of those factors, we believe, may be found in the insolent untrustworthiness of our public servants; in their selfish concern for partisan advantage and bold disregard for the public welfare.

We are just now having a flagrant example of this official attitude in Missouri. In this State the wretched practice has long obtained of operating the police departments of the three big cities from the Governor's office. The three cities are St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. In each of those cities the Governor appoints Police Commissions, who dictate the organization of the police force. Sometimes able men are chosen. Sometimes the selections are unfortunate. Always the appointments are made on the basis of political award.

In none of those three cities can the people say how many policemen they will employ or what they will pay them. Those decisions are made in the State Capitol by the Legislature.

Practically during the entire life of this system the minority party has denounced it and promised, if placed in power, to abolish it and restore home rule to the cities. When the Republican party was the runner-up, home rule for the cities was one of its major issues. But now that Missouri is electing Republican Governors that issue has lost its edge. The promise still appears in that party's platform, and in the Democratic party's platform, too, but the promise is not kept.

The cities' fight for home rule, for the right to manage the police systems for which they pay enormous sums of money, is being made at the present session of the Legislature, as it has so often been made before. The cities have a new ally this time, however, and one of unquestioned character and competence, in the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice. The members of this association are citizens of standing, Republicans and Democrats, with no political purpose to serve. They are energetically interested in better government. In the matter of police management they employed a man who has specialized in this subject, is recognized as an authority, whose conclusions were embodied in the association's recommendations to the Legislature.

Yet the home rule bill will probably not be passed. The Governor is reported against it. The Police Commissioners are lobbying against it. Legislators in key positions are against it. Why? Solely for partisan political reasons. The barbaric candor of one of the opponents is entitled to mention. He comes from Kansas City and is opposed to the bill now because Kansas City, for all it has the city-manager plan, at present has a Democratic administration. Were the Republicans in power in Kansas City this legislator, it is understood, would be for the bill.

Let us not be misunderstood. The Democrats have played the same sort of miserable politics with this question that the Republicans are now playing. They are both equally tarred with the same stick. And Mr. Common Citizen is well aware of that fact. With what result? A fading faith in the integrity of the political parties as organizations. Distrust of men chosen for high office. Thoroughly discouraged, and with a cynical "What's the use?" he declines to vote because it is not worth while.

Of course, Mr. Common Citizen's reasoning is faulty. When the public officials fail, through bad faith or inability, or whatever the reason, it is more imperative than ever that the citizen vote. The ballot is his only means of rebuking such officials and finding others who will keep their word. It may take time and patience, but that is the correct and only solution.

REAL CANADIAN STUFF.

We desire to make a somewhat belated New Year's resolution: During the present year we are going to overcome our fear of bootleg liquors. We are not going to be afraid of anything contained in a bottle that bears a Canadian label.

This resolution is not made in a spirit of either braggadocio or desperation. It is, on the contrary, based upon the firm bed rock of cold statistics. The official reports of the Canadian Department of Trade and Commerce show that in 1926 about $20,000,000 worth of liquors left Canadian ports for the Unifed States.

You may, of course, think there is something fishy about this. You may object that we have an anti-smuggling treaty with Canada, whereby the latter country agrees to aid us in preventing the importation of whisky. We agree that such a treaty does exist, and that Canada faithfully obeys it. But we also wish to remind you that there is a most amusing "joker" in the treaty, which permits Canadian customs officers to grant clearance papers to ships having liquors in their cargoes, provided the ships seem able to make the trip to the American port stated in their papers.

SUBSIDIZING MARRIAGE.

We are living in a day of subsidies. Our politics is chiefly concerned with the promising or actual granting of encouragement in the form of subsidies to all sorts of occupations—to manufacturers, to ship owners, to farmers, and so on. Now, Dr. Paul Douglas, head of the Department of Economics of the University of Chicago, proposes a subsidy for married men in the form of guaranteed higher salaries than those given bachelors.

We applaud the proposal as not only an inherently worthy one, but as one in line with the most noteworthy principle of contemporary American statecraft—to wit, the penalization of freedom. Higher salaries for married men would obviously mean the penalization of bachelors—that is, of those who enjoy freedom from the crushing bonds of matrimony. It would thus place the bachelor in the class of the believer in freedom who imbibes beverages of more than Voisteadian potency. According to the current American theory, both ought to be penalized for refusing to be bound by obligations and rules of conduct in which they do not believe, but which are officially orthodox. Hence, if the one believer in freedom is subject to incarceration, the other ought at least to be put at a pecuniary disadvantage to the married man of similar occupation and equal ability.

PRETTY CHEAP, MISSOURI.

Missouri's appropriation for the National Guard for 1925-6 was $250,000. It was wretchedly inadequate. Equipment deteriorated because there was no money for repairs and other essential supplies. The Guard was not quite starved out, but it might have been, perhaps, had not communities come to the relief of their local units and taken care of expenses which it was the State's obligation to meet.

Now the Budget Commission, after that experience, proposes to cut the appropriation for 1927-8 to $150,000. The Guard cannot survive on that ration. It must either disband or skeletonize its organization.

The Baker administration's treatment of the National Guard is not merely shabby; it is indecent. The Budget Commission's present proposal is a parsimonious insult, with a death sentence attached.

Missouri should either abolish her National Guard or maintain it properly. What would be a proper maintenance fund? Let us consult some of our neighbors. Illinois' appropriation is, in round numbers, $2,500,000, for a personnel of 8748, or an amount per man of $281.12. Iowa, white with the bones of dead banks and trembling with the crisis of its impoverished but embattled farmers, provides $435,000 for her National Guard, at the rate of $124.94 per guardsman. Minnesota's per capita appropriation is $110.87; Kansas', $94.19; Nebraska's, $83.52; Oklahoma's, $75.30. Impecunious Missouri, in the biennium just closed, contrived an individual dole of $54.63 for her Guard, and now contemplates a further reduction.

We make an odious showing in this comparison. And there is more to our offending. We are welching in our economic duty to the Federal Government by failing to provide for the care of the $5,000,000 worth of property she has given us. We are welching on the score of elemental patriotism, since the National Guard of Missouri and every other State is an indispensable reserve of our minimized regular army.

The Guard's estimate of the necessary appropriation for the next two years is $380,000, or $83.04 per man. That is less than one-third of Illinois' allowance, 40 per cent lower than Iowa's, substantially less than Minnesota's, cheaper than Kansas and Nebraska.

Isn't that cheap enough?

ADMITTING THE CHARGE.

It was to be expected that Charles Evans Hughes would eventually come to bat for the beleaguered United States Supreme Court. But even the most severe critic of that tribunal could hardly have expected that he would, in attempting to defend it, admit the justice of the most serious indictment ever made against it.

Yet this is precisely what Mr. Hughes did, in the first of the Blumenthal Foundation lectures at Columbia University. In the course of his laudation of the court, he remarked:

> The court considers it to be its duty in construing a statute which is reasonably susceptible of two constructions, one of which would make it unconstitutional and the other valid, to adopt that construction which saves its constitutionality.

This conception of the court regarding its duty in such cases, which Mr. Hughes regards as a virtue, has repeatedly been denounced by conservative critics as the worst vice of the tribunal. It is by following this formula that the court has upheld laws and official acts which contain the possibility of violation of the guarantees of the Bill of Rights.

Mr. Hughes, in making this point as a defense of the court, was obviously thinking of the claim made against the tribunal by reformers of various sorts—to wit, that it declares unconstitutional many laws which are aimed to accomplish some social reform, such as the abolition of child labor. This criticism, he should be reminded, is not the most important which the court has to face. The indictment which should concern friends of the court is that of conservatives, who see in many recent decisions of the tribunal the establishment of precedents which threaten the autonomy of the states, the constitutional system of checks and balances, and the fundamental rights guaranteed by the first ten amendments.

HOW THE RURAL SCHEMER OPERATES.

The rural schemers at Jefferson City have devised a plan to make the city man pay for county roads. They are not satisfied that the burden of the cost of building State highways has come from the cities; they want the cities to build the little local roads, too.

Under the plan, which was put forward by 38 rural members mostly from the counties which are already getting more revenue from the State than they turn in, the gasoline tax would be increased from 2 to 3 cents a gallon. None of the proceeds of this increase would go for street-building purposes in any of the cities, though 50 per cent of the money would come from the cities. Neither would it go to the State highways, but to each county on the ratio that the mileage of county roads in each county bears to the total State mileage of county roads.

We sympathize with the farmer in poor counties who has no decent road from his farm to the county seat and no decent school to send his children to, but we think there is a point where the city man should be spared. His contributions for rural purposes already, as the tax figures show, run to substantial sums.

This latest scheme is only a thread in the whole fabric. Congress and nearly all the legislatures are dominated by rural members, though the balance of population has shifted from the farms to the cities. Inequality of representation is particularly marked in Congress because of its failure to make a reapportionment since 1910.

Unless the city man resists the devices of rural members, the drive upon his pocketbook for rural improvements will soon assume the proportions of a raid.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

UNENFORCEABLE LAWS.

From the Worcester Telegram.

DOWN in New York, District Attorney Banton is announcing that he cannot obtain from juries convictions in many cases where the Baumes law makes life imprisonment mandatory even for comparatively minor offenses—if the perpetrator has offended before. The juries will acquit even though convinced of guilt. They are revolted by the prospect of imposing what seems like unnecessarily cruel punishment. * * * The jurymen cannot be made to believe that a 25-year-old burglar who steals goods to the value of $10 should be consigned to a cell for the balance of his years, even though he may have stolen on previous occasions. The trouble with the law is in its inflexibility. It allows no discretion to Judges. It deals with the weak and possibly salvageable as it does with the vicious and incorrigible. It may be a good law, but ordinary people don't like it. An unenforceable law, even though it may be well-designed to serve a good end, is not an asset.

EFFECT OF COLOR IN DRESS.

EILEEN BOURNE in Liberty.

THERE are countless women who could lift themselves out of the ranks of the ordinary by a better understanding of color. * * * * The woman of neutral coloring—with hair, eyes and skin of no particular brilliance, needs warm color to inject life into her personality, such as henna, terra cotta, apricot, a blue somewhere in between the cold, hard shades and midnight. Women with florid complexions must avoid shades that have red or pink in them. Blondes with such high color, cheapen the effect with such shades as red, rose, bright pink, fuchsia or orange. There are muddy browns, purples, taupe and light, strong blues," Miss Bourne continues, "that bring out every bad feature of skin and eyes, and that, combined with an unrelieved black, may add a dozen years to the woman who has no right to use them. Gray-haired women with that lovely blue light in their hair have to be supercritical in their color choice to avoid giving an ugly yellowish look to their heads."

KISSING AS A DUTY.

From the Baltimore Sun.

OFFICIAL hygienists of Newark, N. J., are ingenious souls. The health department issues a bulletin—and it is intended as a warning—to the effect that the lip-sticking of lips creates a surface to which germs adhere, and that one who kisses will acquire said germs. Perhaps this may deter Newark's young gentlemen; but other swains, no doubt, will immediately elevate kissing from a pleasure to a duty. Does it not remove from the lips of one's beloved the mump bugs, measle bugs, or whatever they are that threaten her?

SYNTHETIC SLEEP.

From the Los Angeles Times.

THE Germans have invented a sleep-machine which nerve specialists commend to insomnia victims. It is a small box that emits a humming sound like a hive of bees. It is timed to hum for 40 minutes and then to fade out, figuratively speaking. The principle is the same as that of mother's rocking chair with its wordless songs.

THE IMMORTAL.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

RECENTLY it was reported in a news dispatch that the original of Whittier's "Barefoot Boy" had been found dying, in destitution, in a squalid cabin near Danvers, Mass. It may be true or not that the unfortunate was, as reported the original from whom the gray poet limned his enduring lyric—the man grown old and poor and wretched, who once played as a barefoot boy on the Whittier farm. This aspect of life's mutations does not concern us. What really matters is that the poet carved in singing verse, on the heart of humanity a picture that can never die. The Barefoot Boy is immortal! Down the ways of youth he goes, whistling the songs of life's springtime days. His face is smudged, and the tail of his shirt flies free; his feet feel the thrill of the earth's electric currents, and his soul soars responsive to the whisperings of the Infinite, which breathe in the rustle of leaves, the tinkle of waters, the love notes of birds, the perfume of woodland blossoms, the sheen of sun, the green of far fields—in all the glory of the out-of-doors of Boyland. There are walnut trees and pawpaw shades; there are haw thickets and 'simmon trees; there are grassnuts and grapes; there are shagbarks, bearing treasure sweet and alluring; there are ponds and creeks which shimmer and call with inviting, irresistible lure; there are rabbits and chipmunks and squirrels and coons; there are kildees and crows and cranes and kingfishers—he knows them all, and their haunts and their seasons are those in which he may go, unsandled, to company with the scenes and things the red gods knew and loved so well in the days of long ago. The Barefoot Boy is happy, happy in his enjoyment of an eternal present, but happiest in the dreams with which he peoples it—the dreams which follow, follow him until he, too, shall have become a dream, incorporate with the one and only enduring dream—the all that is, or was, or ever will be.

A Mighty World Drama Begins in China

tion of Chang Tso-Lin as a robber and murderer, drew the vengeance of that vindictive nabob.

He was kidnaped in 1925 by a band of Chang's Manchurians, taken to Tientsin, but for some curious reason, instead of being summarily shot, was put on trial. Knowing he was a British subject, the Judge inquired if he desired his legal right of trial in a British court. With unexampled nerve and venom, Chen replied he preferred shooting at Chinese hands to liberty at British hands. The Judge was so profundly impressed that he merely returned Chen to jail, from which he was freed soon afterward, when Chang Tso-Lin was driven from Tientsin. This extraordinary Chen is now the Foreign Minister of the Cantonese Nationalist government. So far as foreigners are concerned, he is the most important man in China. It will be well to remember him.

Made $1,000,000 in Stocks to Aid Party.

Another of Dr. Sun's youthful zealots was Chiang Kai-Shek. Today at the age of 39 he looms as China's man of destiny. Educated in the National Military Academy, he afterward received training with a Japanese regiment. When the republican revolution broke out in 1910, he returned to Canton and joined Dr. Sun. The little that is known about him reveals him as a personage no less brilliant and daring than Chen. When his chief, Dr. Sun, needed money for the party treasury of the Kuomintang, Chiang Kai-Shek calmly made $1,000,000 speculating in the stock market, turned it over to Dr. Sun and returned to his post in the army at Canton.

After the war he visited Russia and Germany. He studied military strategy and politics and received advice and encouragement from the officials of the soviet government. That his time was well employed is easily seen.

When he returned to Canton in 1922, he established the Whampoa military academy for the purpose of training officers for the army which was to redeem China from foreign domination and the misrule of the tuchuns. It was a rule that no student could become an officer unless he had university or high school education. Eight hundred cadets and 2400 noncommissioned officers were enrolled. Practically all of them had been educated abroad. The cardinal principle which Chiang impressed on his officers was that they must teach their men what they were fighting for. Hence, whenever an officer went out from Whampoa to take his place in the army, he went not merely as an officer, but also as a missionary who would preach to his men the gospel of "China for the Chinese."

Russia Sends Adviser to the Cantonese Army.

From his soviet friends at Moscow, Chiang requested the loan of a political adviser and Michael Borodin, wise and farsighted communist organizer, was dispatched to Canton. With him came Gen. Stallen, Red army officer of large experience in actual warfare, to assist in the training of the Cantonese Nationalist army.

Two others complete the list of Cantonese celebrities. T. V. Sung, now 43 years old, was educated at the Harvard school of business administration where he showed an astonishing talent for finance and organization. Also a disciple of Sun Yat Sen, he became the finance minister of the Cantonese Government in 1922 and in three years, without raising a single tax, increased the revenues from $9,000,000 to $110,000,000 a year.

Sun Fo is a son of Dr. Sun Yat Sen. He was educated at the University of California, and took degrees at Columbia and New York universities. Born into the Kouminatang, he became Mayor of Canton soon after his return to China in 1922, serving for three years.

These are the men who today are at the head of the most powerful and threatening movement in Chinese history. Since the death of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen in 1925 the Cantonese government has been a committee of four men—Chiang Kai-Shek, Eugene Chen, T. V. Sung and Sun Fo. Almost as influential as either of them is Dr. Sun's widow, sometimes called the "mascot of the Cantonese." And second only to her in influence is the sagacious bolshevik adviser, Borodin.

Defeat of Chang Tso-Lin by War Lords' Alliance.

Sallying from his northern Manchurian stronghold in 1922, Chang Tso-Lin endeavored to bring central China under his power. He was met by a combination of tuchuns headed by Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, a powerful and aristocratic general with a distinguished military career and generally regarded as under British influence. Among his allies was the "Christian General" Feng Yu Hiang and the young Marshal Sun Chuang-Fang, a common soldier who had risen from the ranks of the regular army. As a poor youth he had received free treatment at a mission hospital resulting in his conversion to Christionality. He rose to the rank of military Governor of a group of northeastern provinces bordering on Mongolia. His democratic sympathies were well known and he was celebrated for the strict discipline maintained in his command, remarkable in a land where looting was the recognized reward of professional soldiers.

Sun Chuang-Fang was in his thirties. He and Chiang Kai-Shek had been in the military academy together and later were attached for training to the same Japanese regiment. He was known to have strong British sympathies if he were not actually in the pay of the British. The combination of Wu Pei-Fu, Feng and Sun Chuang-Fang, smashed Chang Tso-Lin's invasion and rolled his Manchurian horde backward through Pekin and Tien-Tsin. Characteristically Wu began the work of bringing all of northern and eastern China under his own control. But Feng suddenly announced his allegiance to the Cantonese Nationalist case, struck Wu a quick and staggering blow on the flank and occupied Pekin for a brief period. Sun Chuang-Fang withdrew to his own territory around Shanghai. Meantime, that daring and brilliant little group at Canton awaited the hour to strike.

Shanghai's $1,000,000 a Day Boycott Against British.

In grim and deadly earnest Chiang Kai-Shek was building up his army composed of officers who could command, and soldiers who understood what they were to fight for.

Under direction of Eugene Chen and the foxy Borodin the gospel of Nationalism was sifted through the southern provinces. To test his army and get elbow room Chiang swept Kwangsi province free of the pretty tuchuns who preyed on him. He watched his educated troops in action and what he saw must have pleased that earnest young man.

In the summer of 1925 a Chinese workman was killed in a Japanese mill in Shanghai. Not even an inquest was held. Students in protest staged a parade into the foreign settlement. British police fired upon them, killing about 10. It was then that the Cantonese issued their boycott proclamation. A Chinese official is authority for the statement that the boycott at its height cost British merchants and shippers $1,000,000 a day. Ships discharging cargo at Hongkong fell off from 200 a month to less than 40 a month. Business on Nanking road, the British Fifth avenue of Shanghai, was paralyzed. The Chinese had learned the use of a new weapon.

Early in 1926 it became obvious that the Christian General Feng had an understanding with soviet Russia, whereupon Wu Pie-Fu and Chang Tso-Lin, but lately at each others' throats, combined forces and drove Feng back upon his Mongolian fastnesses. Feng turned his command over to a subordinate and announced that he was "retiring to meditate." It is significant that he chose Moscow as the seat of his meditations.

Conquered Half of China in Six Months' Fighting.

Almost immediately the polished legions of Chiang Kai-Shek ready at last for their great task, began rolling northward. The population was sympathetic. There was no looting. Up toward Shanghai they drove and Sun Chuang-Fang's small army reeled and retreated. Then with fine strategy Chiang turned westward through the rich valley of the Yangtse River and one province after another fell into his hands.

Rallying his uncertain forces in Central China, Wu Pei-Fu appealed to Sun Chvang-Fang and Chang Tso-Lin for help, but Sun Chiang-Fang had troubles of his own, and the crafty Chang waited to see what he could get out of it. The Cantonese struck Wu at Hankow, giving him a terrible beating, and captured the richest city in central China, a city larger than St. Louis.

In less than six months the Cantonese had advanced a thousand miles, and almost half of China was in their possession. Five provinces had been wrested from Sun Chuang-Fang. Wu Pei-Fu had been decisively defeated and the great Yangtse Valley was in Nationalist hands. Chiang Kai-Shek of the square jaw and beetling brows, had demonstrated military genius of the first order, and Chen and Borodin had shown it was possible to awaken the spirit of patriotism in the breasts of Chinese coolies and peasants.

Hankow Riots and Bombardment By British.

A curious incident occurred at Wenhsein. Although Wu was the recognized friend of the British, a party of his soldiers captured some British subjects. Bluejackets from a British gunboat in the Yangtse went to the rescue, and were fired upon, suffering heavy casualties. Thereupon the gunboat shelled the town for several hours. British authorities say the casualties numbered 300, of whom 200 were soldiers. Chinese say the dead were 2000, nearly all civilians.

A raging mob of coolies stormed the British concession in Hankow, burning stores and beating foreigners wherever found. Fortunately, British police stood their ground under a shower of stones, without firing a shot; otherwise a massacre would have been inevitable. It was the Cantonese soldiers who came in and stopped the rioting. Nobody had been killed.

That brings the military movements virtually up to date. Wu and Chang Tso-Lin are again in alliance, and reports represent them preparing for a drive to recapture Hankow. But Feng, his "meditations" ended, is back at the head of his Mongolian army, and a movement to effect a junction between his forces and the Cantonese on the upper Yangtse, appears imminent. Sun Chuang-Fang's retirement brings him nearer Shanghai every day, with a victorious Cantonese army pressing him closely.

Powers Grow Conciliatory as Chen Asserts Himself.

Now for the political situation. It is a result of the military situation. When the Chinese concluded that force was the only language which the Powers would respect, they concluded wisely.

In an official memorandum sent other Powers Dec. 18, the British Government suggested that the treaties under which foreigners enjoyed favored treatment in China were now "antiquated" and that the time had arrived to discuss a general revision not only of treaties themselves, but of the entire system of foreign control in China. It was pointed that a policy of force was unlikely to succeed in the future, in view of the growth of the Nationalist spirit.

Canton's response was immediate, and brutally frank. Eugene Chen declared that so far as the Cantonese Government was concerned, the treaties were already canceled. The new China, he said, would assess her own taxes on foreigners and Chinese alike, administer her own tariffs, enforce her own laws in her own courts, and conduct her affairs in general as an independent nation.

Since then Secretary of State Kellogg, on behalf of the United States, has announced that this Government is ready to discuss treaty revision with China, but with the string attached that this can be done only when China has a government capable of representing the whole country.

Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister, in a speech at Birmingham a few days ago, adopted a remarkably conciliatory tone toward China. Nevertheless it did not prevent the British War Office from starting a formidable fleet and an expeditionary force of 20,000 men with tanks and machine guns for Shanghai. At this writing they are still on the water and a vehement protest against their landing has come from the non-British section of Shanghai foreign settlement. Indeed, Sun Chuang-Fang whose army they might be expected to support, has objected violently their approach, contending that he is able to handle the situation.

Rebukes Britain.

The dispatch of this expeditionary force had another important consequence. On the British Government's refusal to recall it, Eugene Chen, who had been in negotiations at Hankow with the British charge O'Malley, abruptly broke them off and gave his reasons in a blistering cablegram to the heads of the British Labor party. As a specimen of his prose, the following excerpt from it will serve.

"If the massing of troops (at Shanghai) is an expression of the type of governing mind that feeds on the bodies of slaughtered men, then it is to be feared that the disablement of British trade and commerce may have to continue until British Labor is entrusted by England with the task of arresting the British decline in the Far East by substituting the statesmanship of peace and productive work for the Troy statesmanship of imperialism war and byzantine glory."

Alfred Sze, educated in Central High school and George Washington University, of this city, is the Chinese Minister here. Originally he represented the North China government, but now he is speaking for all factions, with a rapidly mounting kindliness for the Cantonese. He is a man of great gifts and charming personality. To the writer he said:

"All that China seeks is justice. She wants to live in peace and friendship with the world, but the Chinese people do not believe this is possible until China's sovereign rights are respected by the other Powers.

Nation's Development Retarded

"China's development has been seriously retarded by the terms of onerous treaties forced upon her. The gravest of these restrictions have been the denial to China of the right to hold foreigners amenable to her laws, and foreign control of her tariff and taxes.

"The immunity of foreigners to Chinese laws has been carried far beyond the limits contemplated when China was constrained to agree to it. In consequence foreigners commit offenses with impunity. Commercial advantages which foreigners derive from their favored status are not less irksome and irritating. Freed from Chinese control or supervision, foreign business houses frequently do things forbidden to Chinese firms. As a result, one large foreign bank recently failed with heavy losses.

"Living in their own country, Chinese find themselves compelled to pay local and excise taxes from which foreigners are exempt. Let an American imagine himself in such a situation and picture his feelings. How can the Chinese people be expected to respect and obey their Government when they see it powerless to compel obedience from thousands of foreigners living within its borders?

"We are asking, then, only simple justice—only the respect and consideration which is due us as a sovereign and civilized people. The United States has been a traditional friend to China. Your country can cement that friendship now as never before, by taking the lead in a movement to revise the unequal treaties which bind China, and to withdraw the foreign control, which presses on her so sorely."

Thrown Into Arms of Russia.

And in that respect Dr. Sze undoubtedly spoke for all Chinese. It is not the Cantonese alone who are demanding the end of foreign domination. Even old Chang Tso-Lin in bursting with patriotism. It is a new day in the history of China, and of the world.

One may now survey the fruit of western statesmanship in the east. What has it done, with its greed, prejudice and obtuseness? It has succeeded finally in forcing the most populous two nations on this planet into a virtual offensive and defense alliance against the west. It has thrown China into the arms of soviet Russia. It has given both of them abundant reason to hate and distrust the rest of us. It has convinced them that the language of justice leaves us cold—that we respect only force.

It remains to be seen whether new western statesmanship will be equal to undoing the work of the old, before it is too late.

SAYS SURVEY SHOWS NEED OF STATE CHILD LABOR LAW

National Committee of Missouri Women's Legislative Group Says Minors Are Neglected.

A survey of child labor conditions in Missions, made by the National Child Labor Committee for the Missouri Women's Legislative Committee, has concluded with the following report: "The present child labor laws are inadequate and far below the standards of the more advanced states. There is little thought about child labor in the State and Missouri seems to care little for the future of its children."

The investigating committee recommends the enactment of a stringent child labor law, and educational work among parents, children and employers as to the harmful effects of premature work. Senator Kinney is introducing amendments to the child labor law in response to the Women's Legislative Committee. The recent investigation was made in several representative small towns, and regrettable conditions were found, the committee reports.

WILLIAM JEWELL PRESIDENT OPPOSES EVOLUTION BILL

Truth Needs No Legislation for Protection, Says Head of Baptist College.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LIBERTY, Mo., Feb. 5.—Dr. H. C. Wayman, president of William Jewell College, has announced his opposition to the passage of the evolution bill now pending in the State Legislature. William Jewell College is the only four-year college maintained by Baptists in Missouri.

This announcement by Dr. Wayman came in the course of a regular chapel talk in a convocation of the entire student body and the faculty. Dr. Wayman declared that the Bible and the truth need no legislation to protect them. He declared that the evolution dispute is caused mostly by two types of agitators: Preachers who know no science and scientists who are not Christians.

He said that most of the doubt that comes to students a not caused by infidelity, but from a condition of readjustment to scientific knowledge. They find themselves puzzled to know just how to receive the new knowledge and reconcile it with former ideas of some things.

PLANS ST. LOUIS-PARIS FLIGHT IN TWO HOPS

Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, Air Mail Pilot, Would Fly Alone for $25,000 Prize.

St. Louis to Paris in "two hops" may be the next event of international interest in aviation if Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, air mail pilot and a flight commander in the Thirty-fifth Division National Guard Air Corps, is successful in obtaining the financial support of St. Louisan aviation enthusiasts in the venture.

Capt. Lindbergh has been working on the technical details of the proposed flight for two months and has placed the question of raising approximately $25,000 to finance the project before a group of St. Louisans interested in aeronautics. If successful, the flight would entitle him to the $25,000 Orteig prize, Lindbergh says.

Lindbergh's plans are more daring than any heretofore attempted in that he proposes to "go it alone" in a small plane. Several types of plane are under consideration, all powered with Wright air-cooled radial engines, which have proved highly successful in other long-distance flying efforts. The flight to New York would be made in one day, Lindbergh says. The "water hop," 3200 miles from New York to Paris, Lindbergh believes he can make in 32 hours.

Trained in army flying schools, Lindbergh has to his credit more than 1700 hours in the air, most of it in cross-country flights. He is a former pursuit and test pilot and has been with the Robertson Aircraft Corp., St. Louis-Chicago air mail contractors, more than two years.

Cut of University Funds Opposed.

Contending that curtailment of appropriations for the State University at Columbia is "not only bad economics but also poor statesmanship," the Kiwanis Club of St. Louis has drafted a resolution protesting against any reduction in the institution's appropriation, and urging the Legislature to increase the appropriation, "if means can be found to do it."

PRESS IS NOT ALWAYS CHAMPION OF JUSTICE

Well Known Missouri Editor Discusses Newspapers for Students' Benefit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FAYETTE, Mo., Feb. 5.—"The St. Louis Post-Dispatch is the greatest journal of public opinion west of the Allegheny Mountains, if not of the United States," said T. V. Bodine, editor of the Paris Mercury, Paris, Mo., in an address to the student body of Central College in Centenary Chapel Thursday.

The Paris editor is one of the most picturesque and original newspaper men of the State, and his "Mercury," a weekly publication, is widely read. He is one of several prominent men and women who have accepted the invitation of Bishop W. F. McMurry, president of Central College, to speak to the students on the general subject of vocational guidance. His subject was "The Newspaper, A Creator and Director of Public Opinion."

Menace of Propaganda.

"I wish I could tell you that the newspaper is unfailingly the champion of justice," he said. "But I can't, because it is a human institution and as such it is necessarily not without faults. I do not mean that it is the opposite. It is neither black nor white. It is like the people whose aspirations it reflects."

"The newspaper influences public opinion in two ways," the editor told the students. "In the first place, public opinion is influenced by editorial utterances, but only after years during which the esteem of the clientele is gained. And secondly, through the subtle and most insiduous of all perils that confront us as a democracy—propaganda."

It was in the course of his remarks against propaganda that he named the Post-Dispatch as one of the two greatest newspapers of the United States, stressing the fact that its news was not "poisoned."

Honesty and Culture Needed.

"Learn to expect something from newspaper editors," was his final bit of advice. "Expect honesty, courage, wisdom, and above all, a background of culture. For the newspaper editor cannot be a leader of men without culture."

The Mercury's editor drew a laugh from the students with his opening remarks.

"I came here to take a pot shot at all the combined sophistication and wickedness of this group of 650 students," he said, with mock seriousness. "I am from a tribe of people who were never young. I am from a tribe who never smoked, drank, or 'petted.' Who never even 'sophisticated.' But they did pretty much the same thing you would when they drove behind a team in a surrey, looking for the right time and place."

Previous speakers who have addressed the Central students on vocational training have been: Dean F. B. Mumford, College of Agriculture, Missouri University; Rev. A. F. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. H. R. Barton, St. Louis; Judge V. L Drain, Shelbyville, Mo. A later speaker will be Frank C. Rand, a business man of St. Louis, on the subject "The Business Man As a Citizen."

MANY SOCIETIES TRYING TO SAVE CHILDREN'S BUREAU

Dr. Mangold Also Says Personal Protests Have Been Written Against Its Abolition.

Among the organizations that have protested against the abolition of the State Children's Bureau are the Board of Religious Organizations, the St. Louis League of Women Voters, the Children's Aid Society and the Hospital Social Service, according to Dr. George B. Mangold, social service director of the Board of Religious Organizations.

"Many individuals have written personal letters and registered their protests against the proposed breakdown of our State plan of child saving," said Dr. Mangold.

"It has been difficult to analyze the cause of the opposition to the bureau. However, the natural tendency of an institution for children such as the receiving home at Carrollton to expand and the desire of townspeople to have it grow are factors. If a bureau of the State Board of Charities is demoted and its work becomes routine, the work can more easily be subjected to the whims of partisan politics.

"The bureau was established in 1913 and is under the control of the State Board of Charities. It represents the plan of child saving approved by experts throughout the country. Its abolition at this time cannot be defended from the standpoint of economy or of efficient administration."

State Gift for Prussian Baby.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The Prussian Diet has approved the exppenditure of state funds for the most costly natal gift a baby of poor parents ever received. The Cabinet voted 352 marks (about $75) for a painted porcelain cup, which it presented to the mother of the little fraulein because she was the fourteenth child in the family. The cup was specially made by the famous Prussian state porcelain factory, which was acquired by Frederick the Great in 1763. Though some deputies insisted that cash might have been a more valuable gift for a family of that size, the Diet approved the item of expense without serious controversy.

ior League Aids Smoke Drive.

llowing a presentation of the e of smoke abatement by Mrs. ion C. Blossom and Miss To- Benson, campaign director the $250,000 smoke campaign, mbers of the Junior League of St. Louis at their regular meeting last week adopted a resolution indorsing the work of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League, and appointed a committee of ten to take an active part in the women's division of the campaign.

St. Louisans Aid College Fund.

Gifts of $10,000 from Miss Helen O. Rand and $5000 from Jackson Johnson of St. Louis to the Vanderbilt University $4,000,000 building and endowment fund are announced by campaign headquarters. Miss Rand is a sister of Frank C. Rand, president of the International Shoe Co., St. Louis, and general chairman of the Vanderbilt campaign. Johnson is a business partner of Rand. Other smaller subscriptions totaling $1050 are announced, making a total in new subscriptions of $16,050.

SHAW'S GARDEN ORCHID COLLECTION GREATEST

Dr. George T. Moore Praises Interest and Pride Shown by St. Louis People.

Notable advances in science and service to the people of St. Louis and the outside world are reviewed in the annual report of Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden, published in the current bulletin of the garden.

The director praises the acquisition of the famous Powell orchid garden at Balboa, Panama, a revolutionary discovery in growing orchids from the seed in test tubes, like bacteria; eight orchid houses at Gray's Summit which experts have called the "finest in the world;" additional purchases increasing the smoke-free garden and wild flower reservation there to 1600 acres and plans for its improvement; research at the garden limning the footprints of life nearer its source than ever had been traced before, and awakening public attention demonstrated in steadily increasing attendance at the garden.

Sunday Attendance 10,000.

"The fact that as many as 10,000 people may come to the garden on a Sunday afternoon simply to enjoy the plants and flowers, whether indoors or out, and that no additional attraction such as moving pictures or a band is necessary to draw them," remarked Dr. Moore, is gratifying proof that the people of St. Louis still are susceptible to such quiet influences. Any "community which has a botanical garden and is beginning to use it as the citizens of St. Louis are using theirs cannot but be superior to a group of citizens who are not thus susceptible to the finer things of life."

Perhaps of most general interest is the pre-eminence the orchid collection won in 1926. It was forecast in the gift of the D. S. Brown collection a few years ago, took shape with the orchid hunt of G. H. Pring, which added thousands of Andean rarities to this treasury of exotic blossoms, and was definitely established by the gift of C. W. Powell, world-famous collector, who now is manager of "Missouri Botanical Garden Tropical Station."

From an article on this acquisition, Dr. Moore quoted the Orchid Review of Richmond, Surrey, England:

Greatest in World.

"The Missouri Botanical Garden is by far the largest in the United States, and has been for a long time a strong rival of the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, for the premier position in orchid botanical gardens. By this latest move of theirs they have put themselves in a position to claim it and to maintain it."

Of the removal of the 15,000 rare orchids to Gray's Summit, Dr. Moore said: "Although these plants have been in their new environment less than six months, the improvement in growth is phenomenal.

"Their removal from the influence of the poisonous gases of the city, together with the increase in the amount and efficiency of sunlight, and the use of rain water instead of hard city water, have combined to produce effects which were attempted in vain at the old location.

Orchid Growing a Success.

"Plants which bloom seldom, if ever, in the city, have produced an abundance of blossoms, and the increase in the growth and general health of the orchids is so great as to justify the belief that within a few years the Missouri Botanical Garden can compete with the orchid world, not only in quantity and variety, but also in the quality of plants."

Dr. Moore reported that a survey had been made of the Gray's Summit extension, a system of gravel drives laid out to enable the public to visit all parts of the tract, especially the arboretum and the wild flower reservation, and a complete outfit of road-building machinery purchased. He announced appointment of L. P. Jensen, former arboriculturist of the garden, as superintendent of the Gray's Summit extension.

Citing that attendance of the orchid show on Jan. 27, last year, was 8600, more than visited the garden in all of January in 1924 or 1925, Dr. Moore remarked that this show "bids fair within a few years to rival the chrysanthemums in popularity."

The chrysanthemums, however, retain the lead, with November, the month of the great annual 'mum show, drawing an attendance of 39,029, the largest of any month. Total attendance for 1926 was 286,215, of which 157,898 came on Sundays.

Mosaic Diseases.

Reference was made to the research in the mosaic diseases in plants by Dr. Benjamin M. Duggar, physiologist in charge of the graduate laboratory and officer of many learned societies. Dr. Duggar's research indicated that the diseases were caused by living matter smaller than any known germ, and behaving like formless clusters of molecules, not different from dead organic matter except that they reproduced. The leap from the lifeless primal ooze to living organisms would be bridged by its passing through this unorganized but living matter, Dr. Duggar judged, and his conclusion, if finally proved, closes up a big gap in theoretical biology.

Another scientific advance was the discovery by Dr. Roland V. L. LaGarde of the research laboratory, formerly of Vienna, of a method of growing orchids in this climate from the seeds. A like achievement had been accomplished only twice, with indifferent success and with an incubation period twice as long as Dr. LaGarde's method required.

Lilies Sought in Africa.

By this innovation Shaw's Garden for the first time is able to experiment in the hybridization of orchids, along the same lines by which its horticulturist, George H. Prinz, has given a half-dozen or more new and lovely water-lilies to the world. Thousands of orchids already have been crossed under Prinz's direction and a corps of experts are working to speed up the process of maturing, for, by known methods, it will be 10 or 12 years before these orchids have their first blooms.

The end of the rope had been reached on cross-breeding of tropical lilies with the supply of parent stocks now available. As Dr. Moore reports, however, Dr. D. H. Linder, mycologist to the garden, now is in the interior of Africa with an expedition sponsored by the Harvard School of Tropical Medicine, and his mission there provides hope for further variation of the water plants. He is searching for the lost yellow lily of the tropics, of which only one specimen is known to civilization, a dried flower mentioned in a dusty book of science as one of a Berlin collection in the last century.

Edward Hall to Address Women.

Edward Hall, vice president of the Ralston Purina Co., will speak at the meeting Monday evening of the Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis at the Town Club. Margaret Coons, president, will preside.

MAX BOHM COLLECTION AT CITY ART MUSEUM

American Painter Chose Many Subjects Closely Related to Marine Seas.

The City Art Museum is showing today a memorial collection of 21 paintings by Max Bohm, well-known American painter, who was born in Cleveland, 1868, and died in Provincetown, Mass., 1923. Bohm spent a large part of his life abroad, particularly in France, where he studied art under Jean Paul Laurens, Jules Lefebvre and Benjamin Constant. Later he lectured in France and London and on the theory and practice of picture composition and was an instructor in painting. His art, as exemplified in the present collection at the Museum, is markedly individual with a fine largeness and a monumental breadth that give it no small distinction. He painted many pictures of the sea, the French fishermen of the Channel ports being favorite subjects.

A typical and important canvas among those shown is entitled "Crossing the Bar," a marine subject which typifies the vigorous yet imaginative handling of Max Bohm's art. Two figures, a man and a boy crouch in the stern of a small sailboat which they are steering through a shoal and difficult passage.

There is a fine expression of vigor and action in straining limbs and tense faces as they peer forward beneath a scrap of wind-flung sail. Broad and simple in its surfaces, its rhythmic forms suggest powerfully the turbulent motion of the sea.

Needless Detail Suppressed.

The same rhythmic sweep may be seen in the canvas entitled "Youth," with its well-calculated alternation of light and shadow on whirling draperies and running figures. In the forms of the two young girls of this composition, silhouetted against a background of sea and sky, one perceives the insistence upon broadly rendered forms and masses which lend a vital, almost monumental quality to the work of Max Bohm. There are passages of color, particularly in the flesh tones, that approach the sumptuous tones of sixteenth century Venetian painting.

More placid in conception, yet full of vigorous life, is the large painting called "The Promenade," a composition of two women and a child upon a cliff overlooking the sea. Here is the same suppression of all needless detail in the flowing draperies, the grassy foreground and the sun-lit sea, and the same feeling for the monumental qualities of form. In "Golden Summer," an idyllic study of the nude in soft, glowing light, the artist assumes a more poetic mood, his work in this instance approaching the character of pure decoration in its flat relief and low tones. Idyllic in sentiment also is the charming little canvas "Gathering Clouds," and the "Gypsy Encampment" is likewise a pleasing fantasy, charming in its color patterns. Sober color, rich and resonant rather than brilliant, characterizes all these canvases.

Several Small Studies.

A different phase of the artist's work is set forth in several small studies of the sea, notably "Ebb Tide," "Pulling in the Anchor," and "An Incident in the English Channel." In these Bohm has abandoned all effort to please by mere surface finish and prettiness and has concerned himself only with the brutal, unfeeling might of the sea and the grim life of those who labor upon its waters.

In "Ebb Tide," a heaving sea of unfathomable darkness, tosses angrily a rugged fishing smack upon its crest, the straining sails outlined against a pallid, leaden horizon. Here is no beauty of glistening wave, no grace of tapering hull and taut rigging; but only the primordial, unconquerable might of the elements.

This, and similar compositions by Bohm in the present collection, should be considered rather as experimental studies, their harsh, bare details scarcely entitling them to rank as finished art works, but as interpretations of the stark power and the grim moods of the elements, they attain high rank.

BILL TO CURB "DONATIONS" FROM EMPLOYES OF STATE

Representative Roney Introduces Measure Making Acceptance by Officials a Misdemeanor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—A bill designed to prevent State officials from accepting gratuities or gifts from their subordinates and to protect State employes from the increasing number of assessments on their salaries for political purposes and gifts to superiors, was introduced in the House today by Representative T. J. Roney of Jasper County.

Roney's bill would make it unlawful for any official, appointive or elective, who has the authority to appoint employes in his department, to accept from his subordinates "any cash or other things of value, either during or subsequent to his tenure of office." Violations of this act would be punishable as a misdemeanor and the person convicted would be barred from holding any State office in the future.

The bill also prohibits any State official or employe from contributing any cash or other thing of value, to or for the use of any superior officer, either during or subsequent to the term of office of the superior officer.

END TO NIGHT GIGGING OF FISH PROPOSED

Ozark Residents Retaliate by Demanding Closed Season on Trout.

A bill sponsored by the Izaak Walton League to stop night gigging of fish, long a favorite sport in the Ozark country, has brought reprisal from the Ozark counties in the form of a proposed amendment putting a closed season on trout from March 1 to May 30, and the controversy is now being threshed out in the State Legislature.

Representative D. L. Bales of Shannon County proposed the amendment, which provides "the same closed season for trout as for bass."

Members of the Izaak Walton League and other sportsmen are opposed to Representative Bales' proposal chiefly because they regard it as an unnecessary conservation measure and because it would put an end to spring trout fishing in the Ozarks.

Argument as to Closed Season.

They point out that game authorities say the spawning season of trout is from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31, approximately, and that of bass from April 1 to July 1, approximately. Since the spawning seasons of the two species do not coincide, opponents of the bill argue that the closed season should not coincide, either. Fish protectionists recognize the necessity of a closed season during spawning time, but they cannot see the logic of a ban on trout fishing from March 1 to May 30.

To hold off the opening of the trout-fishing season until May 30 would delay this sport two months longer than the game laws of many states dictate. Data gathered by the Izaak Walton League shows that in 10 states the open season for trout begins in April. Indiana, South Dakota, New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut open the trout season April 1. Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio, New Hampshire and New Jersey open the season April 15.

Opponents of the bill illustrate further that in none of the 17 states for which data has been obtained does the open season on bass coincide with the open season on trout, as the Bales amendment would prescribe.

Laws in Other States.

The open season for bass in most of these states begins June 1, and for trout in April or May. These states recognize that trout are through spawning before bass commence to spawn.

Legislative gossip is that devotees of the ancient sport of spearing fish at night are determined that if their sport is spoiled by a law against it, the trout fishermen must suffer, too. Ozarkians have been fond of drifting in boats over fish pools after th small searchlights and fish by the barrelful.

DISBANDING ORDER REVOKED

The War Department order of Jan. 22 directing that the 451st Infantry Reserve be demobilized as a Seventh Corps area unit and allocated in another corps area has been revoked, according to information received here last week.

The 451st Regiment, organized here three years ago with Col. Leroy K. Robbins as commander and Capt. Joseph Bollenbeck, regular army, as executive officer, has become one of the most active reserve units in the country and considerable protest followed the receipt of the order directing that it be demobilized. The personnel includes 86 St. Louis reserve officers and 27 from other parts of Missouri. The next meeting of the regiment will be Feb. 15 at the Elks' Club.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Record at-dance and buying at both the York and Chicago automobile ws, the latter of which closed night, indicate that motor car truck production this year will al the output of last year, Al- Reeves, general manager of National Automobile Chamber Commerce, said here.

eeves addressed members of National Automobile Dealers' ciation.

st year's production of motor and trucks aggregated 4,461,- vehicles, he reported.

The new models and values, the easing need of transportation, great number of families pur-ing two or more cars, and the ands by other countries for rican-made motors are all fa-ble factors, especially with amental country so sound," es emphasized.

Custom Body Builders Exhibit Latest in Motor Car Design

Automobiles Ranging in Price to $19,200 Displayed at Salon Held During Chicago Show.

DRIVING COMPARTMENT of CUSTOM PIERCE-ARROW

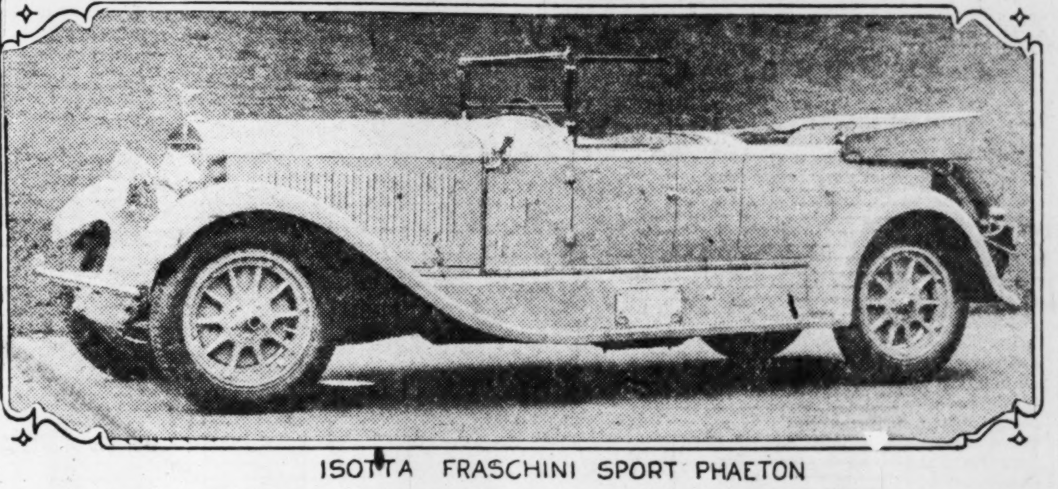
ROLLS-ROYCE "ST STEPHEN" MODEL



ISOTTA FRASCHINI SPORT PHAETON

The most distinguished appearing and exquisitely appointed motor cars yet assembled in this country were on view all the past week at the salon held in Chicago during the national auto show.

Evidence of a trend away from what some motorists have termed over-ornamentation in custom-built body types was particularly noticeable in a series of bodies by Brewster on Rolls-Royce chassis. Here studied simplicity produced effects of marked beauty and luxurious comfort.

New Body Type Exhibited.

Something new in body design was a "St. Stephen"—a formal landaulet de ville on Rolls-Royce chassis originated by William Brewster to meet the requirements of a smart town and country use. It was painted jet black above the belt line and has a fully collapsible leather rear quarter. Below the belt line, with a white hairline striping, this model was painted in clear shades of Newport blue, while fenders and wheels were in black. The rear compartment upholstery was in severely simple striped tan broadcloth. The doors were trimmed in panels piped in Newport blue leather. Silk curtains, harmonizing with the upholstery were draped over the glass between the compartments. A single dome light was set flush with the head lining in a special lens. An unusual feature was the glass windows in all four doors which, with a paravent over the forward quarter, made the car impervious to any weather.

Beauty Backed by Power.

Fitments in a Flemish Gothic gold, exquisitely inlaid vanity and smoking sets, appointments of exclusive design, and upholstery into which one sank as into a fairy cushion, enhanced the impressions of luxury produced by the custom models shown by Pierce-Arrow. Yet these custom designs really were no more splendidly drafted or more lavishly appointed than the regular models of the new Pierce-Arrow Series 36, for which Pierce-Arrow calmly claims the distinction of being America's finest, most powerful motor car.

A car of distinction and lithe fleetness was a Packard phaeton in old ivory with grayish blue beading and runover on cowl. Equally striking was a Dietrich two-passenger convertible coupe on Packard chassis. The powerful Packard straight eight, with its long, finely proportioned hood, lends itself especially well to the work of the custom coach builder. And this car disputes with any the title of most beautiful and most powerful motor car.

Observed of all visitors were the beautiful Isotta-Fraschinis, with their appearance of distinction backed by the power of a locomotive. An Isotta-Fraschini model that halted everyone who came near it was a sport touring with polished aluminum upper works and hood. This is one of the world's master cars, for its straight eight engine has a bore of 3¾ inches and stroke of 5¼ inches. An even more powerful engine is fitted in Isotta-Fraschini cars for persons desiring the utmost in speed and hill climbing.

Attention-Arresting Phaetons.

Cadillac, which now offers 500 odd color combinations and decorative schemes to meet the trend toward individuality in motor cars, showed a dozen or so models in the salon. Here, too, were cars fit to contest the crown of motor-car beauty in any surroundings. But, probably, most visitors lingered longest before the Cadillac sport phaeton with black body, polished aluminum hood and side panel, and victoria top over the rear seat. This model has double cowl, two windshields, tan leather upholstery throughout and tan leather trunk in rear.

There were a number of beautiful examples of coach work on Marmon chassis. But, here again, it was a phaeton that captured most interest. This was done in ivory and black, with aluminum side panel, double cowl, two windshields and elaborate fitments. A novel feature was two massive extension searchlights—one mounted on each running board, and similar in type to those on a $50,000 car built in England recently for one of the Rajput Maharajahs.

An Unusual Adaptation.

Lincoln showed the original period designs that aroused so much comment at the New York salon in December. Here, as in New York, every visitor lingered before the adaptation on Lincoln chassis of an old English coaching brougham. This picturesque body, by Judkins, with its vivid black and yellow contrasts, and its luggage rails on the top, was easily the most unusual body in the salon.

Weymann Bodies Shown.

Stutz chassis carried a number of beautiful custom bodies. But it is undeniable that interest in these was naturally overshadowed by that in the Weymann fabric bodies shown on Stutz chassis. One of the Weymann bodies was in a silvery brocade effect. Another was done in maroon leathe,

TRAFFIC INCREASE AROUSES LEADERS IN AUTO INDUSTRY

They Look to Education, by Schools and Newspapers as Chief Means of Preventing Accidents.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Physics and not economics holds the key to the future of the automobile, leaders in the industry are saying.

Here for the automobile show, they pretty well agree that the saturation point in the ability to own cars is far from being reached, in fact, is mythical.

Seek to Divert Traffic.

Problems of traffic control, highway improvement and safety, are being studied by the motor car industry. It is estimated that $10,000,000 a day is lost in this country as a result of traffic congestion and the loss of life through accidents has become extremely serious.

The platform of the automobile men for solving in part the congestion problem advocates: First, routing of traffic around large population centers; second, separation of grade crossings in as many places as possible; third, improvement of the signal light system of traffic control; fourth, development of a secondary road system to relieve congestion on trunk highways.

It is pointed out that when the speed of auto traffic is reduced to 10 miles an hour and less by congestion, the attractiveness of a car as a means of transportation is adversely affected. Automobile men think the highways should be developed so that an average speed of 20 miles an hour will be possible.

Engineers now devoting their time to traffic problems, in endeav-

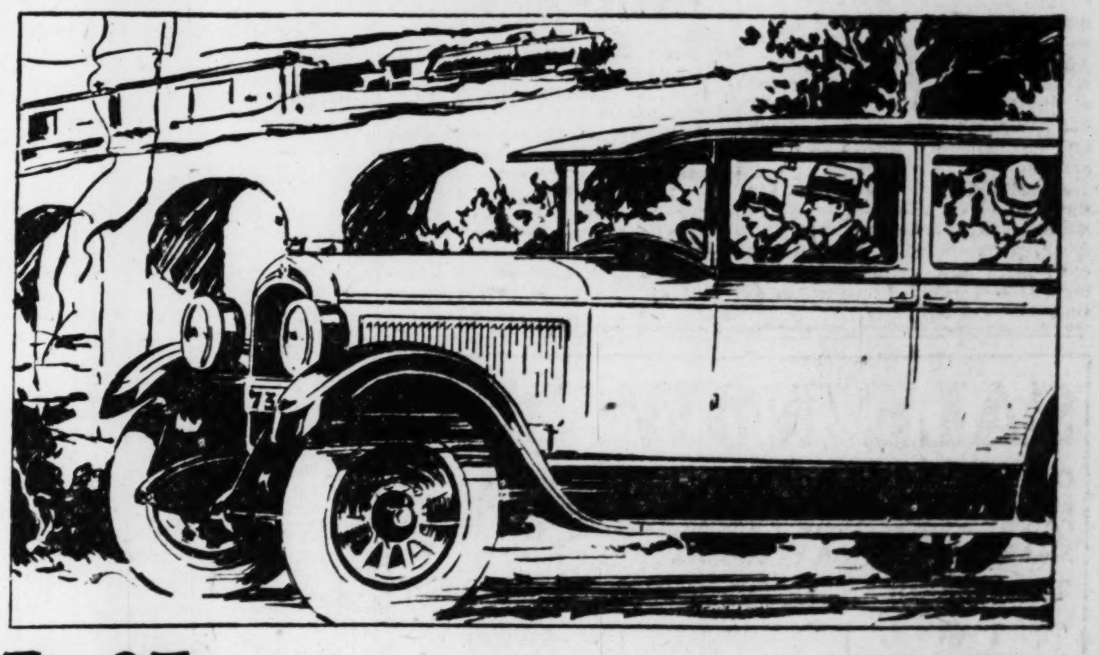
Rich Beauty—Color Options

Enhance Its Greater Value



Surrounding the intrinsic value that Hupmobile builds into the engine and chassis of this Six Sedan are many recently added refinements of exterior beauty and interior luxury.

Immediately apparent is the new metal ball-back body—a costlier design that brings new grace of line and custom-built appearance to this commodious five-passenger car.

Color options are now available in any of three brilliant combination—two-tone green, blue or two-tone gray, in durable lacquer finish.

Inside and out, this improved Sedan realizes your highest conceptions of luxury and comfort. The seats and backs are unusually wide, deeply cushioned and upholstered in the finest mohair. Four wide doors give easy access to front and rear seats. Slender steel pillars permit exceptional vision.

All the qualities of reliability, performance and long life you have come to expect of Hupmobile are incorporated in the new Six Sedan. Like all Hupmobiles it is built a full 10% finer—in materials, in workmanship and inspection.

Thousands of motorists are finding in it the attributes they could not buy elsewhere within five hundred dollars of the Hupmobile Six price.

NAMED DISTRIBUTER OF VELIE CARS IN ST. LOUIS

Motor Sales Co. Is Showing Several Models of This Automobile.

The Velie Motor Sales Co., 4647 Page boulevard, has been appointed distributer of Velie cars in the St. Louis district, which includes 16 counties in Eastern Missouri and eight in Southern Illinois.

Benjamin Berger is president of the company. Harry C. Herring is manager and has active charge of the business.

Herring formerly was sales manager of the Cleveland Motor Sales Co. and at one time was a Hudson-Essex dealer in St. Louis.

The firms' building, which is 35 feet wide and 150 feet long, contains a show room, a used car department and a service shop. J. B. Dahl is manager of the service department.

In addition to the Velie Model 60, the Velie line includes a new Model 50 standard six, a low-priced, 6-cylinder car in a 4-door, 5-passenger sedan and a 3-passenger coupe. The new standard six has 112-inch wheelbase and is powered by the Velie airplane type valve-in-head engine of 3⅛-inch bore and 4¼-inch stroke. This motor develops a 50 H. P. and, as with the larger motor in the Model 60, it has full forced feed lubrication to all bearings, including pressure feed to the all-steel valve mechanism, a feature which has won for the Velie motor a noteworthy reputation for silence and long life. A very liberal over-strength is apparent in the dimensions of bearings, piston pins and other motor parts, in keeping with the construction policy of this company. Heavy crankshaft, light flywheel with vibration dampener mounted at the front of the motor and with balanced reciprocating parts, gives smooth, vibrationless performance through its speed range of one to 60 miles per hour.

A unique feature for cars of this price is the crank case fume utilizer, which draws off through the carburetor intake, all crank case fumes, reducing dilution of the oil and assisting lubrication within the cylinders. Four ring pistons are used with increased economy of gasoline and oil. The motor is a model of simplicity and the specifications indicate remarkable efficiency, economy, quietness and long life. Lockheed four-wheel hydraulic brakes are another feature uncommon in the price class of this Velie.

The sedan model is upholstered in a special grade of fine Millais fabric. A beautiful natural walnut finish is used on window moulding, cowl plate, and on the instrument board, where a separate 4-unit instrument panel is indirectly lighted.

The coupe is upholstered in dark blue, pebble grain genuine leather with a matching material on doors and headlining. Cowl plate, instrument board and hardware on the coupe are identical in design and finish with the sedan.

The Model 60 line has been greatly improved. A Royal sedan, a special sedan and a 4-passenger coupe, are mounted on the Velie Model 60 chassis of 118-inch wheelbase and powered by the larger Velie 3 3-16 by 4⅝-inch valve-in-head motor. An outstanding feature of the Model 60 cars is the relieves on panel effects around the windows on the exterior, making possible pleasing and harmonious combinations and arrangements of colors.

All Model 60 enclosed cars are upholstered in a special fabric to match. The interior is walnut finished. This includes door panels, cowl plate and instrument board, on which is grouped a separate 6-unit instrument panel.

WINTERFRONT SAID TO BE NECESSARY IN NEW CARS

On every car when it leaves the factory is a label which cautions the driver not to drive too fast. In the instruction book are also precautions for proper greasing, changing oil, etc. Car manufacturers are adding another statement to the common list of "dos and don'ts" because of its great importance in lengthening the life of the car.

This is the proper use of the Pines Automatic Winterfront which is furnished by many cars as standard equipment. "This should be attached to the car radiator," say these manufacturers, "when the air temperature drops below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and should be kept on until the air temperature goes to the height in the spring of the year."

If this is done the Winterfront takes care of the motor automatically. This protection is specially necessary in new cars. The motor is stiff and damage can be done in the working-in process that can never be remedied.

NEW FALCON-KNIGHT SIX CAR TO BE BROUGHT OUT IN MARCH

The six-cylinder engine, of the new Falcon-Knight car has a bore of 2 15-16 inches and a stroke of ⅞ inches and developing 45 brake horsepower. It has a seven-bearing crankshaft, an eccentric shaft for operating outer and inner sleeves, forced-feed lubrication system including an oil rectifier. Auto-Lite electrical equipment and a cooling system, which includes a thermostate are used.

This car has long lines with belt and molding. The visor blends into the curved line of the roof. Lower panels are lacquered in color, and upper part is black. The body line as now planned includes a sedan, brougham, coupe, roadster, and touring car. Production is to be reached in March. The Falcon is to be priced at about $1000.

FISHER CORP. EXPANSION PROGRAM NEARLY COMPLETE

Expansion program of the Fisher Body Corporation, soon to be completed, enlarges its floor space devoted to manufacture of automobile bodies and body equipment to 16,000,000 square feet, and gives it facilities for handling an annual production of more than 1,500,000 car bodies. The corporation today is one of the largest single units in the General Motors organization, and employs upward of 50,000 men, approximately one-third of General Motors' employment.

1,234,850 TOTAL OF G. M. C. SALES IN 1926

This Compares With 835,902 in 1925 and 587,341 During 1924.

With dealers' sales to users aggregating 52,729 units in December, General Motors Corp. placed in the hands of owners during 1926, a total of 1,215,286 cars and trucks. This compares with 827,056 and 657,568 in 1925 and 1924 respectively. The sales of General Motors divisions to dealers were 44,130 in December, raising amount for the year to 1,234,850. Comparison with the previous two years shows them to have aggregated 835,902 and 587,341.

"Our retail sales for the month of December are available and total 52,729 cars, as against 56,129 cars in 1925 and 33,919 in 1924" said A. P. Sloan Jr., president. "At the time of announcing our retail sales for November it was pointed out that, due to a specially intensive sales campaign in our Chevrolet division, the total retail sales had been expanded much in excess of normal. Sales in November, 1926, exceeded those in November, 1925, by nearly 70 per cent.

"The result of this was that sales that would normally have taken place in December, were closed in November, therefore the best measure of the trend may be obtained by comparing the sum of the two months this year with last year. On this basis General Motors retail sales in November and December this year exceeded those in the same months of last year by about 32 per cent, which is the general trend of the last few months.

"Dealers' stocks have been reduced during the past 60 days, by approximately 30,000 cars. At the close of the year, they stood in a very favorable relationship with the current trend of retail sales."

Comparison of sales for the last three months and the year follows. This includes domestic and overseas business of the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick and Cadillac divisions of the corporation:

OAKLAND, AFTER 100,000-MILE RUN, STARTS ON TOUR OF U. S.

The Oakland landau sedan, which in six months completed a 100,000-mile endurance run in a treadmill in the General Motors Building, Detroit, has started on a tour of the country. This tour will take the car from coast to coast and from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, and will add about 15,000 miles of travel to the car's already large mileage total.

The car is a stock landau sedan, one of the first Oakland sixes built with the rubber-silenced chassis. The engine is in the same condition as at the completion of the 100,000-mile run, and in no sense has been rebuilt in preparationfor the run. The only change made in the car was to permit easier inspection of the engine. For this, a glass hood has been installed and special lights have been mounted under the hood so that the engine may be inspected conveniently day or night. A large dial, to show the up-to-date mileage of the car, has been built on the roof and two spotlights play upon it at night.

RAILROAD BUYS 120 CARS WITR HYATT ROLLER BEARINGS

The Hyatt roller bearing division of General Motors announces an order from the Chicago & Nortwestern Railroad for 120 roller-bearing-equipped cars. The Rock Island Railroad has started a test on passenger coaches and has placed an order for 15 cars with Hyatt roller bearings.

The Northwestern Railroad has been the pioneer in development and use of roller bearings for raildays service.

This latest order for 120 cars, the largest for roller bearing equipped cars ever placed by any railroad, is taken as evidence of the practicability of roller bearings for railroads.

Water Leaks Should Be Stopped.

At this season it is well to stop small leaks in the cooling system the moment they appear. A slow leak in the radiator may cause serious inconvenience and great harm during freezing weather.

LEE ELECTED AGAIN BY AUTO SHOW MANAGERS

St. Louisan, for Sixth Consecutive Time, Heads Their National Association.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Robert E. Lee of St. Louis has just been re-elected president of the National Association of Automobile Show Managers. Lee's election, at the annual meeting of the association, is his sixth consecutive elevation to the presidency of this important automotive body.

He really is now president of an international association of automobile show managers, for the managers of the shows at Montreal and Toronto, Canada, have been admitted to membership.

Lee is one of the most widely known men in the automotive industry of this country. He has been manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association for many years, and has managed 24 St. Louis automobile shows in the last 20 years. He has delivered addresses before most of the important automotive bodies in America, and is in demand as a speaker on all phases of automotive merchandising.

Essex Does 53 M. P. H. For 24 Hours on Track

Total of 1292 Miles Covered in Day—After Finishing Run, Car Climbs to Top of 5886-Foot Mountain.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 5.—Assertions by the Hudson-Essex Motor Car Co. that the new Essex Super Six can be driven at 50 miles per hour all day long—were borne out in a day-long test just concluded on the Culver City speedway.

A new Essex was driven 24 hours on the track without the engine once stopping, and covered 1292½ miles in the 24 hours, averaging 53.85 miles per hour.

The run was timed by Western Union, and was checked and observed by representatives of three Los Angeles newspapers.

When the Essex had completed its 1292-mile run on the track, it was driven at once to the top of Mount Wilson, 5886 feet above sea level, to prove that the car was in condition at the end of the run to undergo so still a hill climbing test and to show also that the The Essex used in this 24-hour test had been driven 341 miles aft- gear ratio had not been changed for speed. er being unloaded from a freight car. It was certified as strictly stock.

The Essex stopped only four times during the 24-hour run for gasoline and oil, but the engine was kept running continuously. Stops averaged three minutes.

The newspaper men, who checked and rechecked every lap run, said that the Essex at no time was driven at full speed.

Troughs Under Packard Car Windows.

In the doors of Packard six and Packard eight inclosed cars there are troughs placed under the windows, which carry away water which will leak in around any glass during a particularly heavy rain. Water channels also are built in to carry away any rain which might get in around the glass of the rear window and cowl ventilator.

REDUCTION OF $500 IN JORDAN LINE EIGHT PRICE

A reduction of $500 in the price of the Jordan Line Eight has just been announced by the Jordan Motor Car Co. and the Archer-Mann Motor Co., distributer of Jordan cars in this territory.

According to Edward Jordan, president of the Jordan factory, the price reduction was made possible by the increase in production volume due to immediate public acceptance of the new little custom Jordan, which was shown first at the New York automobile show, and by the increasing demand for straight eight cars. The little Jordan is to be a companion to the 8-cylinder Jordans.

The Jordan factory of $2,336,000 worth of first five days of the New show.

"If buyers had to be assured of Oakland reliability in advance—that assurance would be found in Oakland's rigid control of quality"

$1095 SEDAN

The unfaltering performance of the Greater Oakland Six is now a matter of common knowledge. But even if prospective owners could not get the truth from a neighbor or an acquaintance, if buyers had to be assured of Oakland reliability in advance—that assurance would be found in Oakland's rigid control of quality.

That control of quality consists of more than selecting the finest steel and choicest upholsteries—more than subjecting manufacturing processes to ruthlessly exact inspections. It includes working to standards of precision once undreamed-of except in hand-built cars.

Where measuring to the thickness of a hair would assure normally satisfactory operation, Oakland measures to one-fourth that dimension and insures an extra measure of owner satisfaction. Where inspecting every other connecting rod for over-all balance is regarded as sound practice, Oakland makes a practice of inspecting each and every one.

Part for part, process for process, the Greater Oakland Six is built as is no other car of its price in the world. And that is a paramont reason why Oakland is everywhere winning and holding good will—why Oakland sales have been steadily growing—and why they will continue to growl

ROCKMAN HONORED AT CHICAGO AFFAIR

Peerless Distributer in St. Louis Center of Interest at Show Meeting.

e dealers' meeting of the ess Motor Car Corp. at the ago automobile show nearly lved itself into a testimonial r for Philip H. Brockman, er head of the St. Louis Po- Commission, who has just be- distributer of Peerless cars in this territory. Brockman, who was one of the guests of honor, had to make a speech and other speakers congratulated the Peerless organization on getting him as a distributer.

Charles A. Tucker, general salesmanager of the Peerless Corp., introducing Brockman, said that "Peerless is very proud to have Philip H. Brockman as a distributer. "Leon R. German, vice president of Peerless, expressed the same sentiment.

Brockman, responding, said he had been influenced toward taking the Peerless franchise by a number of the most prominent men in St. Louis, and by the congratulations of Peerless owners when they heard that he contemplated becoming Peerless distributer.

German said Peerless produced 6300 cars in 1925 and increased its sales to 11,300 cars in 1926. The schedule for 1927, he said, calls for 24,000 cars, of which about 12,000 are to be the new, relatively low-priced six-60 model.

Tucker spoke for the smaller, but substantial automobile manufacturers when he cited the Peerless Corp. financial statement, showing that the factory owes no money, has no bonds or preferred stock out, and takes full advantage of purchasing possibilities for cash.

The huge motor car factories never will be able to drive out the small, substantial factories, he declared, because no matter how large they become, they never can control motor car style, which has become the chief factor in sale of automobiles. The saturation point never will be reached for style and quality in a motor car, he concluded.

NEW GOODYEAR ALL-WEATHER BALLOON TIRE IS ON MARKET

The first tread scientifically designed for balloon tires is said by officials of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. to be that on the new Goodyear all-weather balloon tire placed on the market soon after Jan. 1.

More than 80 different treads were designed and tested over thousands of miles of roads before the new tire tread was adopted.

The sharp edged blocks of the new Goodyear tread are arranged in a semi-flat design, giving greater road contact, while heavy shoulder ribs have been placed on the tire to eliminate "cupping" in the wear of the tread, give noiseless operation on the road and assure protection for the sidewalls.

The Goodyear company will soon manufacture its 100,000,000th tire, said to be the largest production of any rubber concern in the world.

NEW STUTZ SEDAN IS SHOWN LEANING AT 45-DEGREE ANGLE

The Benjamin Motor Co., Stutz distributers, is showing a 1927 Stutz sedan reclining at a 45-degree angle, at 3021 Locust boulevard.

The car rests safely at the 45-degree angle. The lowered center of gravity, one of the safety features of the new Stutz, is responsible for this apparent phenomenon.

The new convertible coupe, one of the first of the custom built Stutz cars to arrive in St. Louis, is being shown by the Benjamin company. Its body and fenders are black, with a burnt orange moulding. The wire wheels are green.

Proper Tire Inflation.

Proper tire inflation is necessary in winter, although the tendency among most people is to use a lesser amount of air than usual in order to counteract the discomfort of rough, frozen roads.

fabric. A third was a sedan in black leather fabric with dark brown beading. As strong as a standard body, but flexibile enough to accommodate itself to the unevenness of a country road, this Weymann body is said to be 580 pounds lighter than the typical standard sedan body. The Weymann body on Stutz chassis will be seen soon in St. Louis. It is meant to supplement the standard Stutz models.

Several massive town cars and Causse on Franklin chassis included a sports phaeton in grayish blue with darker blue piping. But it was a tandem sport coupe, in ivory and black, that attracted most attention in the Franklin display. This had a beamed ceiling and pigskin upholstery, and was the lowest car in the salon.

Another sport phaeton of distinctive appearance and fitments was on a Duesenberg eight chassis. This was in old ivory with blue beading and trim.

Several massive towns cars and sedans were on the well-known Belgian Minerva chassis, which must be mentioned in lists of the dozen first foreign motor cars.

Other massively luxurious bodies were shown on Cunningham chassis. The Cunningham is another claimant of the title of the world's most powerful car, its "V" eight engine having a bore of 3¾ inches and stroke of 5 inches.

Cunningham, Isotta - Fraschini, Minerva and Rolls-Royce exhibited their own custom designs. Cadillac, Duesenberg, Franklin, Lincoln, Marmon, Packard, Pierce-Arrow and Stutz were exhibited by coachmakers. Coach builders who exhibited were: Brewster, Brunn, De Causse, Derham, Dietrich, Fisher, Fleetwood, Holbrook, Judkins, Le Baron, Locke, Weymann and Willoughby.

oring to overcome the physical obstacles to more general use of automobiles, have two immediate objects to mind—to divert traffic and to speed it up. They figure if they can get some of the load off main thoroughfares, through traffic will be less hampered.

Favor Uniform Traffic Code.

Automobile men look to education as the chief means of preventing accidents. They are not in favor of driver licensing, which many outside the industry favor as a means for controlling recklessness.

Together with education through schools and newspapers, the automobile men think, there should be uniform traffic laws, rigidly enforced. They expect elimination of grade crossings to help, as well as wider use of traffic control lights, use of safety zones, restriction of parking near street intersections and routing of through traffic around cities.

REGIONAL OFFICE OF WHITE CO. MOVED TO KANSAS CITY

Headquarters of the Western region of the White Co.'s sales and service organization has been established at Kansas City in the New York Life Building, Ninth street and Baltimore avenue.

"Growth of the truck and bus business in the West and Southwest," said Vice President Lyon, "was responsible for the decision to move regional headquarters from St. Louis to Kansas City. The geographical location is expected to gain closer contact between the regional office and the various White branches and service stations in the territory."

Kansas City will be one of seven headquarters of White sales and service regions, the others being in New York, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Atlanta and San Francisco. The Western region embraces White branches and service stations at Kansas City, St. Louis, Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Denver, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Tulsa, Oklahoma City Wichita, El Paso and Amarillo, Tex.

J. W. FRAZER APPOINTED SALES MANAGER FOR CHRYSLER IN U.S.

J. W. Frazer has been appointed sales manager for Chrysler cars in the United States, according to an announcement by J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales for the Chrysler Sales Corp. Frazer formerly was director of sales for Chrysler in the Detroit, New York, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Dallas districts.

Stewart W. Munroe, former assistant to Frazer, has been promoted to the position of sales director in these districts.

BEAUTY OF DESIGN FEATURES NEW REO FLYING CLOUD SEDAN

Beauty and grace of line, as well as fineness of interior finish, are as characteristic of the new Reo "Flying Cloud" sedan as they were of the celebrated clipper ship, according to officials of the Reo Motor Car Co.

The upholstering of the interior of the car, below the window belt, including cushions, doors, seat back rests and back of the front seat, is in rich and heavy cloth, in a shade harmonizing with the outside finish. The ceiling is of similar cloth and matches the upholstery.

An unusual feature of the ceiling is the beamed effect, the beams being finished in mahogany tone.

Finely coiled seat springs, overlaid with cushions of long fiber cotton wadding, canvas bound, and covered on the outersurface with rich upholstering, provide comfort.

Convenient pockets are provided at each door; cords of of heavy silk with nickel-plated supporting fitments; vanity and smoking cases are of the most improved type.

The dome light is protected by a translucent glass covering which diffuses and mellows the light.

You'll love this car for its smooth easy going

DRIVE the Six-80 just once and you'll be delighted at its luxurious riding comfort—its smooth, effortless performance—the ease with which it handles.

The motor, has a big 7-bearing crankshaft. This alone minimizes vibration. But, in addition, Peerless engineers have used the famous Lanchester balancer. The result is an abundance of sweet, noiseless, velvety power. Speed up to 70 miles an hour. Pick-up from 5 to 25 miles in seven seconds.

Gears shift easily, silently. You steer through traffic or turn in a narrow street with the gentle pressure of your hand on the wheel.

Drive this remarkable Six-80 before you buy. Its greater value is instantly apparent.

NEW CHEVROLET SALES CHIEFS IN ST. LOUIS

D. E. Ralston and L. M. Dreves Now in Charge of Operations at Plant Here.

E. W. Fuhr, regional sales manager at St. Louis for the Chevrolet Motor Co., and W. J. Burns, zone sales manager, have departed for California. Fuhr, who has been regional manager here since 1922, has taken a similar position in charge of the Pacific Coast region for Chevrolet. Burns is now zone sales manager at Oakland, Cal. He has been zone sales chief here for a year and a half.

Fuhr has been succeeded as regional sales manager, with headquarters in St. Louis, by D. E. Ralston, who has been regional manager on the Atlantic Coast.

The new zone sales manager here is Louis M. Dreves, who has been head of the Chevrolet Motor Co. branch at Los Angeles and zone 20.

Dreves has been one of the most widely automotive executives in Southern California. He has been with the company nine years, and the Los Angeles branch was opened by him. He supervised the work of Chevrolet dealers in Southern California, Arizona and Nevada.

Los Angeles Chevrolet dealers gave a banquet for Dreves on the eve of his departure and presented to him a platinum watch, chain and knife.

The Chevrolet plant in St. Louis is turning out around 800 cars a day. Expectation is that by April it will be producing 1000 cars daily as its share toward production and sale of 1,000,000 Chevrolet units in 1927, which is the announced Chevrolet program.

NATION-WIDE SALES CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY BY CHEVROLET CO.

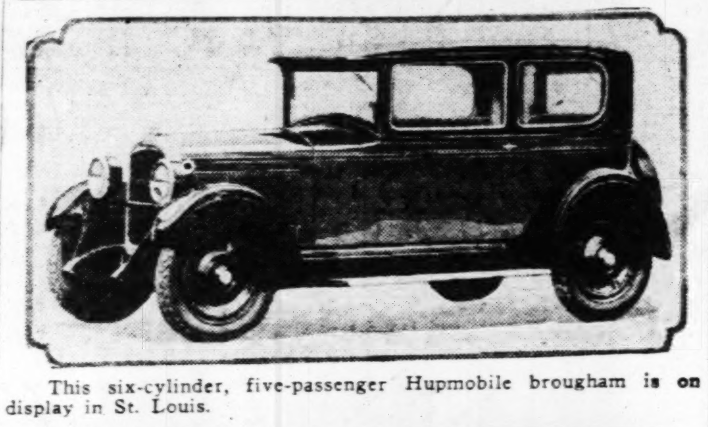
A series of nation-wide sales meetings of the Chevrolet Motor Co. are aimed to reach 15,000 dealers, associate dealers and bankers in 21 of the largest cities before the close in April. The St. Louis meeting is set for Feb. 18.

Sales plans of the company for what is expected to be the greatest year in its history are outlined at these meetings by officials of the sales, advertising and service divisions.

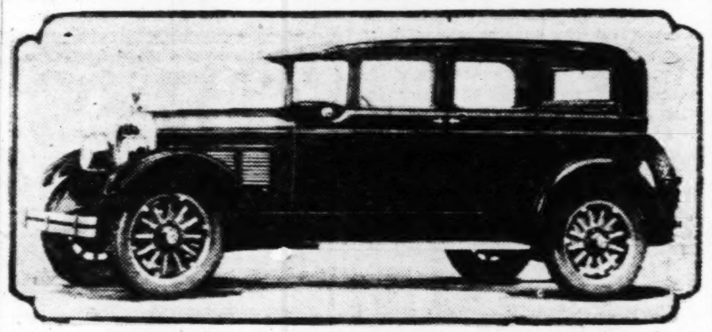
R. H. Grant, vice president and general sales manager, is directing the meetings and outlining the most comprehensive sales campaign ever attempted by a manufacturer of automobiles.

Assisting Grant in the meetings are C. E. Dawson, A. W. L. Gilpin and H. J. Klinger, assistant generel sales manager; R. K. White, sales promotion manager; J. E. Grimm Jr., advertising manager; J. P. Little, parts and service manager; William T. Blees, purchase certificate manager; Sidney Corbett, fleet sales division manager, and W. C. Lewellen of the sales promotion division.

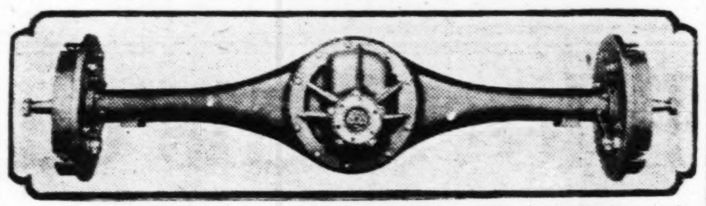
New Cars and Driving Gear



This six-cylinder, five-passenger Hupmobile brougham is on display in St. Louis.



This Chandler Royal eight, five-passenger sedan is being shown in St. Louis.



The hypoid spiral bevel gear, a new feature, is built into the one-piece rear axle of the new Little Marmon Straight Eight. Use of this gear enables the drive shaft to be lowered without interfering with road clearance of the axle.

PROVING GROUNDS POPULAR WITH LEADING AUTO MAKERS

At These Places Motor Cars May Undergo Every Possible Stress and Strain to Test Fitness and Speed.

Among the leading automobile manufacturing proving grounds, where a motor car may undergo every possible stress and strain, are becoming popular.

Henry Ford probably was the first automobile maker to conceive a similar plan of testing automobiles. He limited his tests to the Lincoln, however. The number of things which the car was forced to undergo was also restricted due to a lack of space for putting the car through such severe strains.

Cadillac followed with a half-mile track at its plant in Detroit. This maker supplemented the track tests, which were devoted mostly to the chassis, with a thorough road test. With the rapid growth of Detroit and greater congestion of traffic the road test was abandoned.

About that time General Motors Corporation laid out the first real proving ground, a 2400-acre tract at Milford, Mich., about 25 miles from Detroit.

A track similar to the route followed by drivers in the Grand Prix in France was laid out. This track gave the cars a grind uphill and a straightway speed test as well as short detours that were filled with untold obstacles.

Next in the development came laboratories for testing cars operating under every conceivable condition. Operation in extreme cold or hot weather conditions may be tested at any time of the year. Various motor strains, steering, action of springs, tires and frame and even quality of upholstery may be tested at this proving ground.

General Motors here tests out every make of motor car as well as its own so that it is thoroughly familiar with its competitors' products, too.

Studebaker was next to establish a proving grounds. About 500 acres were bought and developed near South Bend, Ind., last summer. Since then Studebaker has added 300 acres.

At first Studebaker put its own cars through every known strain that they might be asked to undergo. Within the last few months, however, its engineers have started testing the various models of competitors and the company has the same records regarding products of rivals as has General Motors.

Packard recently purchased 300 acres which it will devote to a proving ground. The tract is near Utica, Mich., and about 40 miles from Detroit. The proving ground will be so arranged that the inside of the track can be used for an aviation field and will provide adequate space for airplane hangars.

With the tendency of the leading manufacturers to round out their lines with cars in nearly every price class, it is apparent that proving grounds are unusually useful.

It is only within the last few years that the larger manufacturers even had research laboratories within the confines of their factories.

BRITON BUYS A DUESENBERG RACER AND SEVERAL AUBURNS

Malcolm Campbell, British sportsman, who has retained a scout to investigate the leading American-built motor cars in an effort to select the most efficient racing car, gave America its first order from England by telephone when he purchased a Duesenberg straight eight racing special, together with several Auburn passenger cars.

Work on the racer will start immediately under the personal supervision of Fred S. Duesenberg, while the Auburn models will be shipped from New York at once. Campbell's orders followed a cable report from his scout, who viewed the exhibits at the New York auto show.

MORE 8-CYLINDER CARS PUT OUT IN $1500 AND UP CLASS

To substantiate his recent prediction regarding the advances that the eight-cylinder principle is making among motor cars in the class of $1500 and up, Dubois Young, president of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, points to the increased number of eight-cylinder cars exhibited at the 1927 automobile shows. He also quotes figures to show how the number of four-cylinder cars is steadily decreasing before the advance of the light six, and that the majority of six-cylinder manufacturers are concentrating on the price field below $1500.

"The three groups to which I pointed some time ago are sharply outlined in a fairly close census of the 1927 models. It is seen that the four is supreme up to $900, the six from that point to $1500 and that the eight practically dominates everything above the $1500 level," says Young.

"The New York Automobile show makes it plain that only six four-cylinder cars, all priced below $900, remain on the market; in the six-cylinder class, 20 are priced below $1500 and 16 above that market; 19 companies exhibited eight-cylinder cars; of this number 15 are straight eights, the type first introduced in the medium-priced field by the Hupmobile. It is significant to note that with only two exceptions, the 16 companies now showing sixes above $1500, all have other models, either in the lower price field or among the eights.

"In the New York show—always the place for revealing the new things of the year—five manufacturers of sixes entered the straight eight field simultaneously."

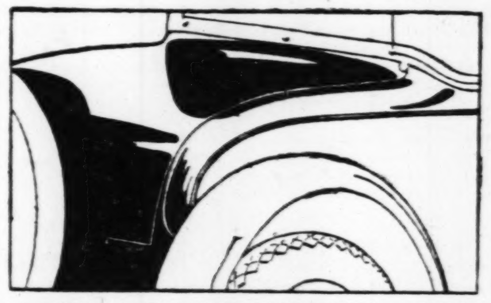
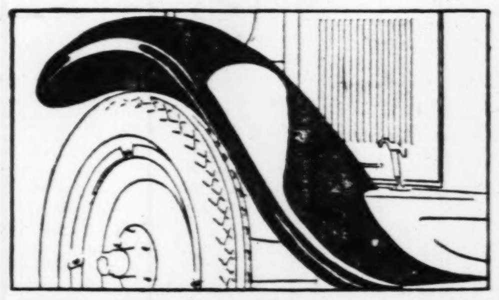
Marks of Distinction made possible by Volume Production

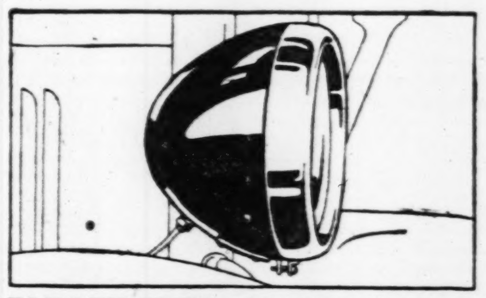
The Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet Histor



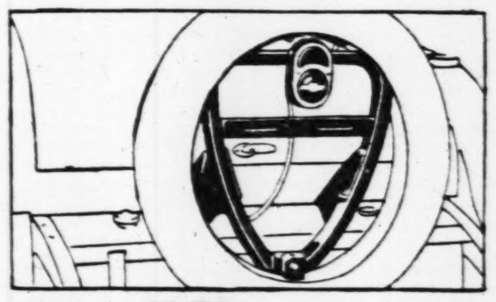
FISH-TAIL MODELING—which adds a distinguished sweep to the rear deck contour of the Roadster, Coupe and Sport Cabriolet.



FULL-CROWN FENDERS (one-piece)—obvious quality features which lend substantial grace to the sweeping body lines.



BULLET-TYPE HEADLAMPS—with cowl lamps to match. Rakish, smart and up-to-the-minute in style.



TIRE CARRIER—mounted on the frame free from the body; rigidly supported by heavy steel brackets.

In addition to masterly new bodies by Fisher—in addition to a host of mechanical improvements typified by AC oil filter and AC air cleaner—the Most Beautiful Chevrolet offers certain features heretofore regarded as marks of distinction on the costliest cars. These are made possible at Chevrolet's amazingly reduced prices only because volume production results in definite economies and because Chevrolet now, as always, passes these savings on to the buyer in the form of added value.

No other car, as low in price, offers such features as fish-tail modeling, full-crown one-piece fenders, bullet-type lamps and the like. Come in—and see for yourself!

50 Body Styles and Types
500 Color Combinations

IT'S downright poor business to purchase an ordinary car when, for only a few hundred dollars more, you can enjoy the new and greater CADILLAC

Priced from $2995 upwards
f. o. b. Detroit

Only when you inspect the magnificent new Cadillac; when you ride in it and drive it and become really familiar with the new and finer interpretation it gives to motoring—only then can you fully understand why it is the greatest success ever known in fine car history.

The introduction of 50 Body Styles and 500 Color Combinations struck straight to the heart of public desire. The whole country singled out the Cadillac and gave it almost a monopoly in the fine car field.

Cadillac's color presentation is the first, fresh, new note in years—an exclusive Cadillac advantage. It revivifies all the fine old-time pride in a motor car.

As owners discover for themselves the really amazing performance of the Cadillac; as they grasp its superiority in every phase of motoring they grow more and more enthusiastic. As one owner phrased it "You have to own this new Cadillac a few months really to understand how great a car it is; how much easier you ride and drive; how comfortable it is; how utterly reliable and dependable; how unfailingly it meets your every need. It does all things so well you forget the car itself, until suddenly it dawns on you that you are getting the finest motoring you ever experienced."

All America now says that Cadillac is the fine car without an equal.

tudebaker will complete 75 yes in the transportation busi- Feb. 16. The fact that this company has marched steadily ward since its birth to its mond Jubilee is evidenced by the production of the Erskine six, a car that automotive experts say is fully two years ahead of its time.

The Erskine six is a new type of automobile—a fine car on a reduced scale. Its production is the result of a European trip of A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corp. in 1924.

At a banquet in Paris, at the time of the 1924 motor car salon, Erskine discussed the wants of European automobile owners with Studebaker's continental dealers. Suggestions were freely made by those present, so that at the end of the evening, Erskine had a composite picture of the ideal European automobile, and since then Erskine and Studebaker engineers have developed the Erskine six. The car was introduced Paris and Europe at the Paris on last October.

Henry and Clem Studebaker set a little wagon and blacksmith op in Feb. 16, 1852 in South nd, with a capital of $68 and o forges.

Shortly after these two brothers ened their shop John M. Studebaker, a third brother, arrived in uth Bend. He wanted to go st, so his brothers furnished a on for his journey to California. e went to California, where, in- ead of mining for gold, he built helbarrows and wagons. Five ars later he had saved $8000. With this capital, he returned to uth Bend and put the money nd his shoulder to the Studebaker heel. Two other brothers also ad joined the company by this me.

The company prospered. Through the latter part of the nineteenth century all types of ehicle and vehicular accessories ere built. Branch houses were stablished throughout America.

At the end of the nineteenth entury, the Studebaker brothers ere experimenting with automobiles and in 1902 the production f "horseless carriages" was begun. They were electric runabouts. In 1904 Studebaker, produced its first gasoline propelled utomobile.

Since then Studebaker has grown apidly. Studebaker has an organization known as the Studebaker 0,000 Mile Club, which now omprises 1007 cars which have ach been driven 100,000 miles or ore.

Today Studebaker, with Albert ssel Erskine as president, pro- es an elaborate line of custom rs. Now the Erskine six is aking a further bid for popularity. This new car, small and mpact, appears on Studebaker's enty-fifth birthday.

Custom-Built Motor Cars Shown in Permanent Salon

Cadillacs Displayed in Artistic Environment at Building in Exclusive New York Neighborhood.

A new method of exhibiting custom-built motor cars in a setting in which they may be viewed as works of art and in the atmosphere of a gallery, has been devised by Inglis M. Uppercu, president of the Uppercu Cadillac Corporation, New York distributer of Cadillac. A permanent salon has been established in the exclusive neighborhood of Fifty-seventh street, in a building which is in every way artistic and unlike anything previously seen in motordom. The ordinary spirit of salesmanship and business has been excluded in design of the structure and in methods of those in charge.

In the artistic environment which one is accustomed to associate with the halls of some foreign chateau, the visitor strolls at leisure and inspects the newest in motor car coach work. The atmosphere of the salon is such as to permit contemplative consideration of the cars displayed.

The building, inside and out, is in the Spanish style. The front is of Kato stone, trimmed with dark-colored marble. The entrance doors are in ornate bronze.

The interior is in three salles—a rectangular entrance hall, the main exhibition room where the cars are displayed, and a domed rear chamber. A Cloisonne Terrazzo floor, an attractively ornamented ceiling and Travertine walls with rough marble finish give the building the charm and dignity of a Spanish castillo.

The rich setting and appointments are designed to emphasize the beauty of the wide range of Cadillac custom cars. The furnishings are in Spanish and Italian style, with wrought iron and gold fixtures. At the end of the hall is a painting of a view of the Mediterranean from Monte Carlo.

Concealed lights, rich old fabrics on the walls, and a bridge staircase in the entrance salle, assist in creating an old-world atmosphere.

DRIVE PLANNED FOR GRAND CANYON ROADS

$2,000,000 Road Building Program for National Park in Five Years Drafted.

A $2,000,000 road-building program for Grand Canyon National Park during the next five years has been tentatively drafted.

The construction of modern improved highways around the rim of the canyon as proposed will enable visitors to view this spectacle from practically every angle. The ever-increasing numbers of motor visitors to the park are making the work necessary. Besides the new roads, the program provides a large area for camping and other forms of recreation "consistent with National Park policy."

The most important sections of the system, which, when completed will include over 100 miles of improved highways in the park, will be paved, according to the statement. Superintendent J. R. Lakin declares that most of the work will be done on the south rim, since more than 90 per cent of park visitors come to this section. Substantial funds, however, will also be available for the inspiring north rim country, he states.

'IDEAL CAR' LIKE REO WINS PRIZE CONTEST

Its Specifications Agree in Almost Every Point With Those of "Flying Cloud."

An ideal car, having virtually the same specifications as the new Reo "Flying Cloud," was awarded first prize by the Society of Automotive Engineers, Metropolitan (New York) Section, in a contest to determine specifications for the best all-round family machine.

The winning specifications were drawn up by Austin M. Wolf, consulting engineer, living in New York City, who has been selected to prepare an article on engineering advances for The American Year Book.

His ideal engine would have a bore of 3¼ inches and 5-inch stroke. The wheel base would be 121 inches, with balloon tire and four-wheel brake equipment. Wolf further describes his conception of the ideal car as follows:

Favors Six-Cylinder Car.

"The design of the car is based on those characteristics that would appeal to the average American family. For this reason it is a five-passenger sedan, powered with an economical, medium-sized, high-efficiency engine. It is geared for good acceleration and hill-climbing ability, equipped with brakes to cope with any emergency, and sprung and tired for maximum comfort. This comfort, coupled with easy steering, beauty of body lines and color, will appeal to the women of the family.

"A six-cylinder engine, 3¼ inches bore and 5 inches stroke, with three-point support, was selected. Silicon-chormium steel for the exhaust valve guards against warping and pitting. Chain front-end drive assures silence at this point. Rapid pick-up is made possible by aluminum pistons. A rugged, counterbalanced crankshaft minimizes torsional vibration. Directly babbitted connecting-rod big ends allow maximum heat dissipation from the bearings.

Pressure Oiling System.

"The pressure oiling system is guarded by a distillator and filter, whereby crankcase oil dilution is kept within safe limits and grit and abraded particles are kept out of the system. An air cleaner on the carburetor prevents entry of road dust into the cylinders. Fuel feed is vacuum. A centrifugal pump circulates the cooling water through a cellular-type radiator.

Thermostatic control maintains the water at an efficient high temperature and provides rapid warming up when starting the engine cold a dry single-plate transmits power to a three-speed gearset in unit with the engine. Battery ignition is specified, the spark control being automatic but supplemented by hand control. The starter engages the flywheel through a Bendix drive.

"An I-section axle supports the front end. Hotchkiss drive is specified for the spiral bevel-gear type rear axle. No modern car would be complete without balloon tires and four-wheel brakes. The latter are of the internal type, protected from road splash and dirt. A soft type of roof construction minimizes drumming. Equipment of the car includes shock absorbers, bumpers, windshield wiper, cowl ventilator and dash gasoline gauge."

One hundred and fifty members of the Metropolitan Section of the Society of Automotive Engineers participated in the contest.

In almost every detail the winner's ideal car is a replica of the "Flying Cloud" sedan.

In Place of Windshield Wiper.

If the car is not equipped with a windshield wiper, and a clear vision of the entire shield is desired, mix a solution of two ounces of glycerin, ounce of water and one dram of salt. Mix thoroughly and apply with a soft cloth with up-and-down motion. The solution should be applied when the glass is wet.

RUBBER PLANTING SUCCESSFUL IN LIBERIA, SAYS FIRESTONE

Harvey S. Firestone Jr., vice president of the Firestone Plantations Co., recently arrived in New York, after spending three months in Liberia in connection with the 1,000,000-acre rubber plantation which the Firestone interests are developing in that country. He reports that Liberia is ideal for rubber growing and that the nature of the country lends itself to development.

"Rubber planting in Liberia has passed the experimental stage and become an accomplished fact," he said. "The Firestone Plantations Co. now has more than 200,000 mature rubber trees which yield about 100,000 pounds of rubber monthly. Thousands of acres have been cleared and planting has been started. The trees will be ready for tapping in five years. The 200,000 mature trees were planted in 1910, which furnish seeds for the development."

Body of Chevrolet Sedan Uninjured

Recently 5000 pounds of steel frames fell five floors from the roof of the Great Western freight depot in Minneapolis, Minn., to the top of a Chevrolet sedan. The body of the car was uninjured. The radiator, however, was smashed in one place and the springs of the car broken, while the body was not scratched.

New Use for Hydrometer.

The hydrometer syringe, used for testing the battery, also makes an excellent device for priming the engine in cold weather. With it a supply of gasoline can easily be drawn out of the tank.

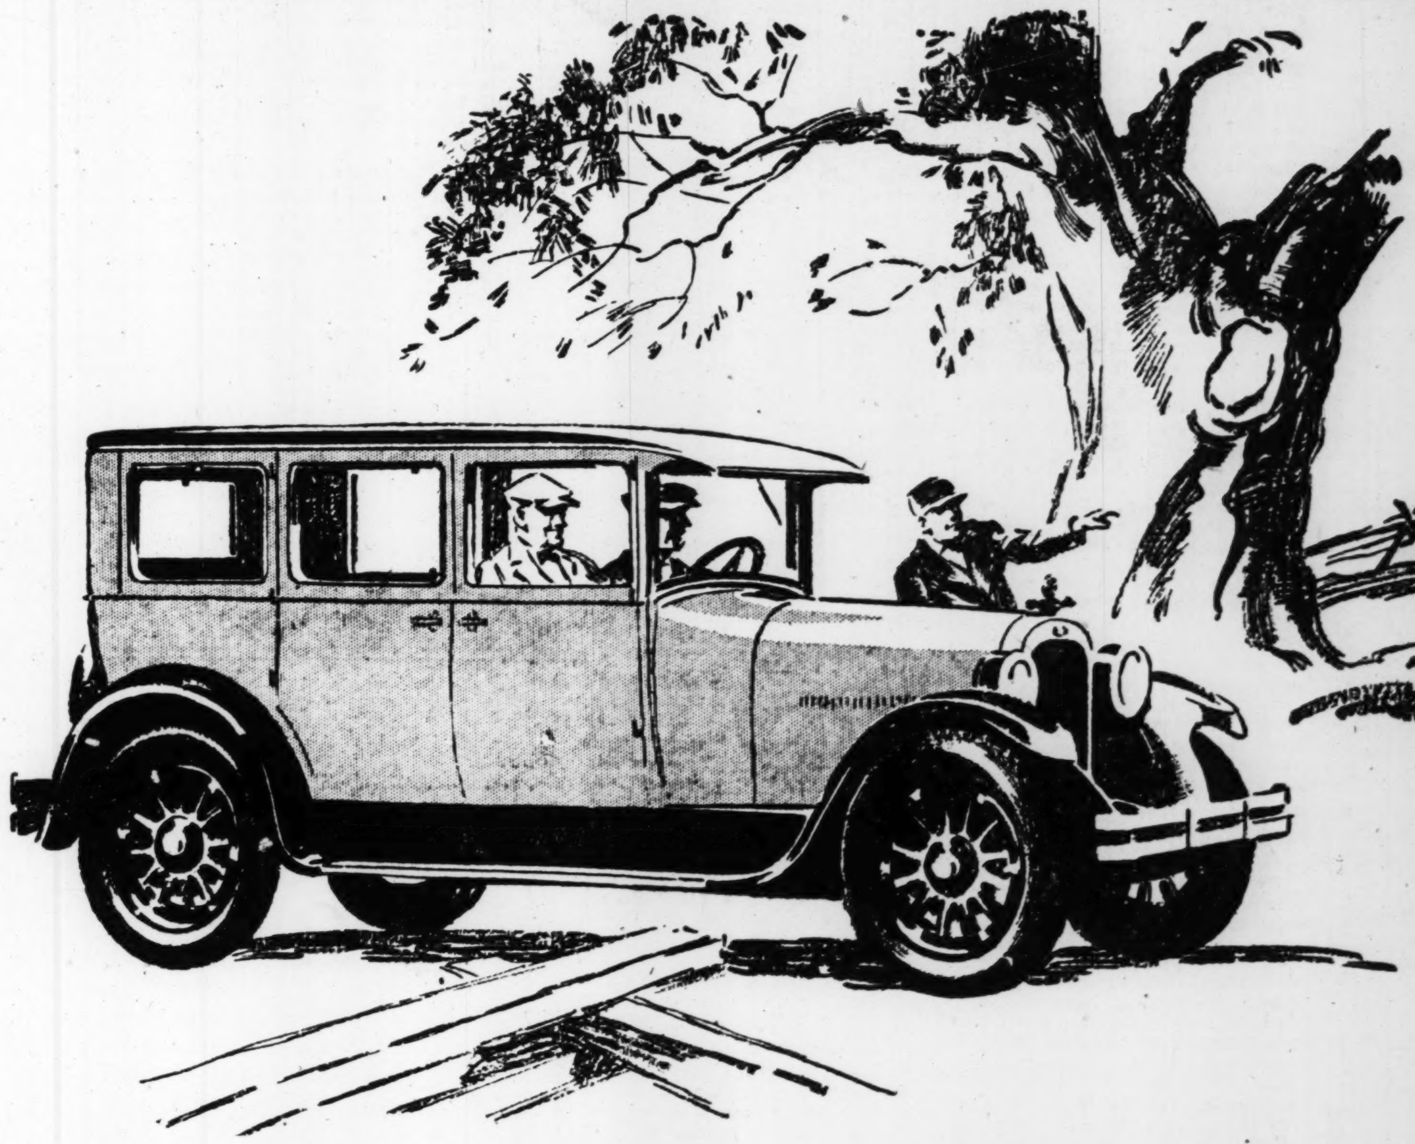
How to Use Foot Brake.

The foot brake should always be applied some little distance before reaching the spot where intending to stop.

Reservations for Retreat.

Reservations are being made at St. Mary's Retreat House for the retreat from Wednesday to Friday, inclusive. The reservations are being arranged through the Sisters of St. Mary by telephone. As an accommodation to persons who find it unable to spend three consecutive days at St. Mary's, the second Sunday of each month has been set aside as a "Day of Recollection," with fitting spiritual exercises.



How to read Percentages

Were Dodge Brothers to sell 100 motor cars one year and 200 motor cars the next, they could truthfully announce that their sales had increased 100% in a single year. Yet they would only have sold 300 motor cars in all.

In other words, PERCENTAGE of annual gain is not conclusive. The NUMBER of cars sold is the true test.

That Dodge Brothers sales in 1926 showed an increase of 27.6% over 1925 is not the MAJOR fact to consider—striking as it is.

But that Dodge Brothers sold 259,967 cars in 1925, and then in 1926 sold 331,764—a gain of 71,797 sales in twelve months—tells a story of growth that stands out like a tower on the skyline of the industry.

Three hundred and thirty-one thousand buyers LAST year! Many more vital improvements added THIS year! No increase in price! Three powerful arguments for earnestly investigating this smart and sturdy product before deciding what to buy!

SCOUTS TO GET HONOR BADGES TOMORROW

North District Court to Convene in Yeatman High School for Ceremony.

The first meeting of the North District Court of Honor, recently appointed under the district court system adopted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council Jan. 1, will be held in the auditorium of Yeatman High School tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Merit badges earned by North District scouts since the convening of the City Court last fall, will be awarded at this meeting. No Eagle, Life or Star badges will be given, as representation of these higher honors of scouting is to be made to winning scouts from the entire city at a general court to be held in April.

All North District troops are expected to be represented, at least by their color bearer and two color guards, with the troop American flag. The colors will be massed for a flag ceremony to open the court. After talks on scouting, the scouts who are to receive badges and who are expected to assemble at 7:30 o'clock, will march in column to the platform where the presentation ceremony will take place.

The personnel of the North District Court is: Alfred W. Pauley, chairman; Paul J. Wielandy, F. H. Fahrenkrog, George W. Strodtman, Henry C. Finck, Frank E. Peters and T. J. Stremmel.

Feed Birds in Parks.

The South District Court will convene for the first time a week from tomorrow at the Missouri School for the Blind, 3815 Magnolia avenue.

Ten bushels of shelled pecans, cracked corn, wheat, oats and peanuts were distrbuted in St. Louis parks for the birds and squirrels last Thursday by 11 scouts of Troop 5, under the direction of Scoutmaster Stephens. The grain was donated by the St. Louis Bird Club, which had asked aid of the troop in scattering the food. The boys visited the parks in four automobiles, going first to Forest Park, where pictures were taken, and then, Tower Grove, Carondelet, Reservoir, Lafayette, Fairgrounds and O'Fallon parks, and Bellefontaine Cemetery. The grain was scatered in pagodas, ravines and sheltered copses.

Boys Report Tracks.

While distributing the food, the boys noted all tracks they could find, and reported those of rabbits, squirrels, birds, cats and dogs. Evidences of other bird dinners were also seen.

The scouts participating were Hart Robnett, Sid Robnett, John Muratta, William Stephens, Gil Close, Don Close, Bob Miller, Evans Bnrnite, Dick Dames, Fred Reis, Ed Bryant and Scoutmaster Stephens.

Eleven new scouts registered at headquarters last week: Carl Anderson and Chalmer McKee, Troop 3; Melvin Schaefer, Troop 131; Raymond Caldwell, Troop 147; William Stonecipher, Kenneth Sheehan and Rudolph Busharn Jr., Troop 157; Martin E. Galt, Ferguson 2; and G. Roy McLeane, Arthur Hauser and Eugene Conroy, Richmond Heights 1.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

A St. Louis girl, Miss Margaret Shepley, of 4943 Pershing avenue, has been selected by the national council of the Brownies, an organization connected with the Girl Scouts of America, for girls too young to join the latter movement, to give a series of Brownie leadership training courses in several cities in the East. Miss Shepley, who is the leader of St. Louis Brownie Pack 1, and a member of the national Brownie staff, left last week for Newport, R. I., where she will confer with Miss Edith Price, head of the movement in this country, and Dean Sarah Louise Arnold, president of the Girl Scouts of America, before starting her tour.

LEADER OF "BROWNIES"

MARGARET SHEPLEY.

The courses, which will be given to both actual and prospective leaders of packs, will cover the basic principles of Brownieism, and are designed to assist the leader in the better conducting of her troop. Some of the points taken up will be the organization of a pack, its aims and objectives, tests, the conducting of meetings, and standards. Miss Shepley will also discuss the federation of the packs of one city.

Hartford, Conn., Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., and Chicago will be visited in that order by Miss Shepley. From Chicago she will return to St. Louis, arriving here the latter part of this month.

Miss Shepley has been connected with girl scouting in St. Louis for eight years, and assisted in organizing the firts Girl Scout council here five years ago. She was a pioneer in the recently-organized Brownie movement, and is one of the few authorities in the country on its major operations. During a visit to England last summer she spent some time studying the Brownies in that island.

Forty-three patrol leaders representing 21 troops were present at a monthly meeting of the St. Louis Girl Scout Patrol Leaders' Association at the Social Service building last Wednesday afternoon. Suggestions for Valentine games were given and the girls elected two patrol leaders from each of the four districts to form a committee on future meetings. All patrol leaders and their captains met Friday afternoon at the building to discuss plans for a coming Girl Scout Thrift campaign.

Betty Gollub, Sylvia Magidson and Anna Katz of Senior Troop 1 visited the Children's Hospital last Tuesday afternoon, and assisted Mrs. Ficklein, the director of the hospital workshop, in teaching the children to make toys and other small articles such as painted handkerchiefs, painted rabbits, cradles, knotted belts and raffia projects.

The Scouts of Arrowhead Troop 7 gave a party last week at the Gardenville School for seven girls of the troop who graduated from the school last Thursday. Relay games were played and cake and ice cream served.

Thirty-two scouts of Troop 21 were on hand to welcome Miss Perkins, the troop "grandmother," on her first visit to the troop last week. Games were played and songs sung in her honor and in return she sang "Mathilda," for the troop.

Marie Wittler was elected scribe of Troop 23 at the second semiannual business meeting of the troop a week ago Friday. Helen Streader was elected color-bearer and Zerma Russler and Dorothy Schlensker color-guards. The girls voted unanimously to adopt the Lily of the Valley as the troop crest.

The 12 girls of Troop 56 formed two patrols of six each at a meeting last week. After a talk by the captain on "The American Girl and Health," the girls played games and sang songs.

Marcella Sexaner passed the history of the flag test last week.

The girls of Troop 57 were taught the making of reed baskets by Miss Nichols at a meeting a week ago Wednesday at the Walnut Park School. The week before, they visited the home of one of the members, and learned to make beds.

Kirkwood Troop 2 will elect patrol leaders and corporals annually hereafter, instead of semiannually, as formerly, it was decided at a business meeting held last week. The first leader to be elected under the new system was Ruth Jordan, who succeeds Virginia Correll as leader of the Robin Hood patrol.

The Robin Hood patrol has been announced winner in an interpatrol contest conducted by the troop for some weeks in attendance at meetings and church, the wearing of uniforms, and prompt payment of dues. As a reward, Mrs. Correll will take the patrol to the Junior High School play, "Bits O'Blarney." The Senior Eagle patrol took second in the contest.

Mrs. Clarence Aid has ben appointed examiner in second class first aid, and several of the girls are working to pass this test. Others who have finished their second class tests are working on their homemakers' badge.

Ruth Crause has been made second lieutenant of the Girl Scout troop at St. John's Methodist Church, this being the first time this office has been filled. She has served three years in the troop, part of the time as patrol leader. The troop will hold "open night," Feb. 28, when its work is to be exhibited to the public.

BOY SCOUT PATROLS

North District.

Troop 33 has completed its organization for the year and its officers are as follows: Troop Committee—William Crusius, chairman; Roediger, Schultz, Haager and Moeller. The troop is divided into two platoons of three patrols each, with an assistant scoutmaster and two junior officers over each who are directly responsible to the scoutmaster for their respective platoons. The officers are: Clyde L. Connell, scoutmaster; Milton Froming, assistant scoutmaster in charge of all clerical work and records; Clyde L. Connell Jr., scribe; Hilliard Vahle, bugler. First platoon: Gus Gruenewald, assistant scoutmaster, in charge; Joe Hartl, Al Froning, Charles Wernde, Jack McGregor and Hilliard Vahle. Second platoon: William Crusius, assistant scoutmaster, in charge; Fred Gosebrink, Al Froning, Harry McGregor, Otto Schmandt, Otis Gillworth, Clyde L. Connell Jr., scribe.

The troop is planning big things for anniversary week. On Wednesday it is going to have charge of the midweek devotional meeting of St. Peter's Church, by whom it is sponsored. Jack Wright is going to speak on "Relationship of the Troop to the Church." On Friday it is going to hold an investiture ceremony for all new scouts, have all officers and other scouts renew their pledge of allegiance to the troop, and have a "feed." At this meeting Hotchkiss will relate a good story. The "feed" will be given by the Ladies' Auxilliary. Next Sunday morning the scouts and the Ladies' Auxiliary will go to church in a body, the scouts acting as ushers. The Rev. Hosche, the troop chaplin, will preach on the "Straight Path."

Troop 191 held a test meeting last week. Eighteen scouts were present, two officials and two visitors. The meeting opened with the flag ceremony. Albert Boutell passed first aid. The boys repeated the scout oath, and the meeting was closed with a prayer and the benediction.

South District.

Ten scouts were present last Friday night at the regular meeting of Troop 232. F. O. Semon, chairman of the troop committee, was present, and talked to the boys about the possibility of organizing a Fathers' Club to help sponsor the troop. Each boy promised to bring his father to one of the future meetings and get him interested in the troop.

Troop 214 held an investiture service last Friday evening in the kindergarten room of the Freemont School. The room was filled with parents and friends of the troop, to witness a program given by the troop. Six new scouts were initiated through an investiture ceremony conducted by different scouts of the troop. An address on the subject of "Scouting and What It Means to Be a Boy Scout," was given by Dr. R. C. Coleman, chairman of the South District. Shippey was also present at the meeting, and presented four scouts with certificates entitling them to appear before the next Court of Honor for the following merit badges: Michael Klemsch: First aid, cooking, personal health, firemanship, public health; Frank Klemsch: Firemanship; Romanus Mauer: Public health, personal health, first aid, cooking; Erwin Whippler: Public Health, personal health.

Dr. Coleman also presented prizes to the individual scouts who stood highest in the contest which the troop has had running during the past year. Raymond Spindler won first place and a prize of a statuette. Second place was won by Clarence Diedrich, and a bugle was his reward. Third place was won by Curtis Oppermann, and he was awarded a cooking set. The next seven highest scouts received guard ropes.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Freemont School Orchestra, under the direction of Miss M. Hallams. Scouts Earl Wilson, Earl Dudenhoeffer and Christian Ploog also furnished special music for the program. The entire troop committee of the troop was present on the platform.

Troop 117 held its first meeting last Monday evening in their new meeting place, Markham Memorial Church, this church having decided to sponsor the troop, which formerly met in the Soulard Library. A. Kratht, chairman of the Troop Committee, was present at the meeting, and talked to the seven boys present about the future activities of the troop. Troop Committeeman W. E. Kleine also attended.

F. J. Fischang, who has been scoutmaster of Troop 214 since its organization two years ago, has resigned. Charles J. Vogt has been selected to succeed Fischang. Vogt was formerly a member of the Troop Committee.

Dr. Milo L. Heideman gave the boys of Troop 76 a talk on personal health last Thursday. The Troop Committee was also present at the meeting and agreed to the organization of a standard Troop Committee, as outlined in the new troop program for 1927. L. A. Lang, the new deputy commissioner in that district, was introduced to the troop.

Two new patrols were organized at the last meeting of Troop 160: The Eagle Patrol, with Herman Pfeifer as leader, and the Wolf Patrol, with Clarence Nolting as leader. Scoutmaster Turk and Chairman Kellogg of the Troop Committee attended the training course at the Webster Groves High School last Tuesday evening. The troop also sent a bundle of clothing which they had collected to a neighboring poor family.

Troop 63 will hold a Parents' Night next Tuesday evening in the basement of the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church. A two-reel film on scouting will be a part of the evening's program, as well as an illustrated talk on Camp Irondale. All of the parents and friends of the troop are invited to be present for the program.

A new troop, 95, was chartered in the South District last week, at the Messiah Evangelical Church on Arsenal street. Harry W. Biesterfeldt is scoutmaster. Eleven new boys were registered with the troop. The troop commitee consists of H. O. Beimbick, chairman, Charles Huseman and C. William Borm.

Troop 198 will hold a fathers' and sons' dinner in the parish house Feb. 16 at 6:30 o'clock, and it is expected that about 75 fathers and sons will attend this get-together. A program has been arranged by the troop for the evening.

The following men have recently been appointed as members of the troop committee: Louis Yates, chairman; Thomas Upshaw, John Hossack, Thomas Gale and Rev. L. H. Nugent.

Troop 180 held a mystery hike last Friday evening. Three stores along Grand avenue were decorated with scouting material and they also contained hidden messages. Some of the messages were also found in vacant lots, behind sign boards, and various other places. The last message sent the boys down to the home of F. A. Wagenfuehr were a surprise party was given for the Scouts.

West District.

The first session of the West District Court of Honor will be held in the East Auditorium of the Ben Blewett Junior High School on Monday night, Feb. 21, at 8:00 p. m. Applications for badges must be into the office by Saturday, Feb. 19, headquarters announced. Where possible, the troops should attend the meeting in a body. Parents and friends of scouts are invited to be present. No Life, Star and Eagle badges will be awarded by the District Court as these will be awarded later by the Central Court of Honor.

Assistant Scoutmaster Meril Shepard was formally installed by the Troop Committee chairman, S. L. Culler, of Troop 82 last week. The committee, Scribe and all of the officers of the Troop are attending the West District school. Last Friday evening the Troop played a compass relay race, drilled in close formation, and studied tracking and stars. All of the scouts in the neighborhood who do not go to church have been invited to attend with the troop at the Hamilton Avenue Christian Church this morning at 11 o'clock. A sermon on the second scout law will be preached. The Wolf Patrol will have full charge of the meeting next Friday followed next week by the Beaver Patrol. The patrol giving the best program will receive 40 points in an interpatrol contest.

The next meeting of the Troop Officers' Training Course at the Ben Blewett Junior High School will be held tomorrow night. Scoutmasters and their Outdoor Troop Committeemen are expected to attend this meeting. Scribes from all troops will hold a meeting also.

Troop 71 of the Maple Avenue Methodist Church, with Mr. R. R. Smith as Scoutmaster, is organizing a drum and bugle corps under the direction of Deputy Commissioner "Dad" Reeder. They have had several rehearsals already.

Troop 208 of the St. Luke's School held its first hike last Saturday. Thirteen of the boys met their scoutmaster, C. S. Pollock, at the end of the Broadway car line, and hiked to Chain of Rocks. Five boys from Troop 155 were also present on the hike.

The Troop Committee of Troop 195 of Mount Calvary Lutheran Church held an organization meeting last Tuesday night. All members or the committee were present, together with Scoutmaster J. C. Housen and Rev. Jesse, the pastor. S. C. Reaves, West District field executive, explained the duties of the various members, and the committeemen agreed to cooperate fully with the scoutmaster. The committee is made up of W. C. Mathen, W. J. Schaeffer, August Kurtzeborn, L. H. Becker and Rev. C. Kuegeh.

Troop 13, St. John's M. E. Church, staged their first overnight hike during this winter last Saturday night. Ed Kemp took the troop to Dr. Staley's clubhouse in Castlewood. The party consisted of 16 scouts from Troop 13, four from Troop 21, Dr. Staley and Ed Kemp. After riding out to the Meramec Highlands on the street car, they hiked from there to Castlewood, a distance of about 7½ miles, arriving about 5:30 p. m. Upon their arrival the hikers found four inches of mud. Supper was ready by 8:30 p. m., and as soon as this was over and the dishes washed and dried the boys started for a "haunted house."

The night was very dark, there being no moon out, but at the top of the hill the gray outline of the house could be seen. Nothing happening for 15 minutes, Ed began pointing out and naming the important starts that loomed overhead, but before he finished a yell by one of the boys caused all eyes to be turned to the haunted house. A white flash appeared through one of the windows, lasting about 15 seconds, when the white changed and a red flame burst out, illuminating the entire house. The light flickered back and forth for about 20 minutes and as soon as it died down a dash was made for the clubhouse, where several ghost stories were told. Thirteen scouts remained in the large clubhouse, while the others, including Ed Kemp, spent the night in the Mart, another clubhouse owned by Dr. Staley. After breakfast the scouts formed two groups for horseback riding and target practice. After dinner the order was changed.

Troop 3 of Grace Hill Holy Cross Church will hold a [illegible] night to celebrate the [illegible] anniversary of scouting next Tuesday evening. A dramatization of scout work will be given by the THANKS!

· AND A PROMISE ·

NO MATTER how great it grows every industry is ultimately made or unmade by public opinion.

Witness the raising of Chrysler by public approval in three years time from 27th place to 4th place among exhibitors in the National Automobile Shows.

Twenty-three long-established motor cars supplanted because the public found in Chrysler evidences of progressiveness which spelled greater value.

By the spontaneous action of public opinion old standards were overturned, old ideas of engine efficiency, artistic appearance and general performance discarded and the newer Chrysler principles crowded up into fourth place.

In business at least democracy works,—and all things are possible to the independent manufacturer functioning as a free agent at the head of his own independent company, unhampered by old traditions or obsolete equipment, encouraging engineering research and giving brains, experience and new ideas full swing in development and achievement.

The amazing advance of Chrysler in public esteem has rocked the automobile industry from top to bottom and precipitated a feverish endeavor to approximate Chrysler snap, dash, vim, speed and power—Chrysler trimness and beauty, Chrysler's sustained brilliant performance and long life everywhere under any and all motoring conditions.

At first the attempted competitive explanation of Chrysler was that it was a new and probably a one-year car.

Now the wish to give the public cars that look like Chrysler and perform like Chrysler has become almost a rout and a panic of emulation and imitation.

Mr. Chrysler and his organization appreciate the leadership that has been awarded to them and realize its responsibilities. They will keep faith with the public which has shown faith in them.

CONQUER YOUR NERVES
—or Your Nerves Will Conquer You

Nerves! Nerves! Nerves! We hear and see it everywhere today! Only a few people can escape this enemy of health, youth and happiness!

It is not surprising that the toll of nervousness is so great, for the mile-a-minute life of today is enough to break down the strongest constitution. If only a few of the symptoms of nerve exhaustion attack you—nervous indigestion, restlessness, "that tired feeling" and the mental symptoms: fear, self-consciousness, irritability—your life becomes dull and uninspiring—for to be nervous is to be but half alive.

Tonics and physical exercises alone can be of little avail in correcting nerve trouble. You must strike at the cause of the trouble, and to do this, you must have a practical understanding of your nervous system and its functioning, and more especially, a knowledge of your own nervous characteristics and weaknesses.

If you are one of the unfortunate many who has sought relief in vain, you will find it in the pages of "Nerve Force," a book dealing with every phase of nerve troubles and their correction, and written by an authority who has devoted his whole life to the study and advancement of this science—Paul von Boeckmann.

Send for the book today. It will be a revelation to you and will teach you for the first time how to master your nerves and avoid future "slipping." Your money refunded if you are not fully satisfied.

BOY SCOUT PATROL

boys. All present and former scouts of Troop 3 are urged to be on hand to renew their scout oath on anniversary night, and other scouts in the vicinity are invited to attend.

Troop 22 of the Walnut Park School was officially reorganized last Friday night under the jurisdiction of the Patrons' Association. Ten boys attend the first meeting and the troop committees agreed to give them a feed at the next meeting in order to stimulate additional members.

A surprise party was held at the home of Assistant Scoutmaster Livesays of Troop 1, Richmond Heights on his birthday; 20 scouts marched to his home and, upon arriving, sounded assembly. Games were played and refreshments served, and Mr. Livesay was presented with a Scoutmaster's handbook by the boys.

The troop will celebrate the anniversary of Scouting at the Presbyterian Church today—and Rev. Phillips will preach on "Joseph, the First Boy Scout." Scouts of the troop will attend in uniform. They will form outside, and upon the prelude being played, will march in, place their flags, and repeat the scout oath and scout laws.

Eight boys of Troop 93 went on a tracking hike Jan. 16. A trail was laid and the boys were started off at five minute intervals, following markers leading over hills, through weeds and brush, across creeks and finally back to the start.

Nine scouts again took to the woods for work on fire building and cooking, Jan. 30. Dry wood was hard to find, but after splitting a number of logs, four fires were soon going, and before long the odor of hunter's stew, pork chops, potatoes, twist and biscuits under tin was rising.

Suburban District.

The second meeting of the Suburban District training course will be held at the Webster Groves High School next Tuesday. The sribes will report at 7:30 and the scoutmaster and the thrift member of the Troop Committee at 7:45. The scribes' course is under the direction of Scoutmaster Moeller, Troop 93.

Kirkwood 2 biked 10 miles to Meramec Highlands quarry last Saturday. The boys report some real scouting technique shown in building fires on top of mud puddles. Scoutmaster W. L. Clarke is on the 1927 Circus Committee, and heads the "Pet Demonstration." All boys who have pets that can perform at the circus are urged to write him a letter at 211 South Woodlawn avenue, Kirkwood, Mo., stating the kind of pet and tricks it can do.

Deputy Commissioner D. J. Kelly and Scoutmaster R. V. Cahill of Webster Groves 15 visited Webster Groves 10 and conducted the program last week, as at present this troop is without a scoutmaster. Patrol Leader Arthur Hudson and some of the older boys are taking charge.

Webster Groves 11 reregistered last week with 26 boys out of the 28 registered last year, the other two boys having moved. Four new members were also added, and the troop is well on its way to complete this part of its objective.

The Wolf Patrol, holder of the silver trophy cup in an interpatrol contest of Webster Groves 14, is defending its position with difficulty. The Flying Eagle Patrol and the Goat Patrol are tied for first place in their effort to gain control of the cup. Eagle Scouts Phemister and Curtis gave a demonstration of rope splicing at the meeting Wednesday evening, followed by a patrol contest in splicing.

BUTTONMAKER TO HAVE INNING

Small-Waisted Gowns That Fasten Up the Back New Style.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Husbands who complained so much 10 years ago about being nothing but hookers-up are alarmed by advance tips from Paris which indicate that married men who cannot afford to provide their wives with personal maids will soon be buttoners-up.

Small-waisted gowns are coming in a rush with small buttons—30 or 40 of them. The day of the slipover is gone, and the buttonmaker is to have his inning. Many of the spring gowns will fasten up the back with tiny cloth-covered buttons and loops. Some of them will have buttonholes far out of the reach of the wearer. Afternoon gowns, teagowns, evening and dinner gowns will all carry buttons from a high neck down to a long waist. The latest mode is to preserve an unbroken front line in fitted, semifitted and straightline bodices.

Hobo Author to Speak.

Prof. George Dailey, hobo author of San Francisco, will speak on "The Age Long Struggle," to the International Brotherhood Welfare Association, at the hall, 119 North Thirteenth street, Sunday, at 3 p. m.

French Deduct Lunch Money From Tax.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—Time to go home for lunch is considered the normal inherent right of every Frenchman. The Ministry of Finance upholds this view, in ruling that every worker, of any class and in any trade, is entitled to deduct from his taxable income the amount spent for meals when business hours or location prevents him from going home at noon.

"NOTHING I ATE AGREED WITH ME"

Mrs. Mary Crawford, who lives in Gastonia, N. C., recently made the following statement: "I was in bad health for several years. Nothing I ate agreed with me. After each meal I had bad pains, caused from gas on my stomach. My color was sallow. I complained a lot and was very nervous.

"Most of my trouble came from constipation, but I did not realize this until I was real sick. I let it run on, hoping for the best.

"One day I read about Black-Draught in the Ladies' Birthday Almanac. I had known it for years, but had never used it. I thought it might help me, so I got a box to try. I started taking a small dose after each meal.

"In a very short time I could see that I was better; I slept better and could eat without being disturbed by gas pains. I no longer had the sick headaches.

"I experienced such great relief, after taking Black-Draught, that I keep it in the house all the time, now.

"When I begin to feel dull and sluggish, and get constipated, I take a dose or two, and the next day I am feeling fine."

Thedford's Black-Draught, purely vegetable, made from herbs and roots, is acted on promptly by the juices of the stomach, and in its turn acts in a natural way in relieving the symptoms caused by indigestion and constipation.

SECRETARY OF WAR DAVIS LINCOLN DAY SPEAKER HERE

Gov. Baker and Congressmen Newton and Faust Also to Be Heard at Banquet Saturday Night.

Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War, will deliver the main address and will represent President Coolidge at the annual Lincoln day meeting and banquet of the Young Republicans' Association, Saturday, at Hotel Jefferson. Addresses also will be made by Gov. Baker, Congressman Cleveland A. Newton and Congressman Charles A. Faust of St. Joseph.

Discussion at the banquet, which begins at 6:30, will center on possible candidates for Governor and the other major State offices in 1928. There will be delegations from all sections of the State. George M. Hagee of St. Louis, retiring president, is in charge of arrangements. Two contestants—James A. Finch of New Madrid, former State Oil Inspector, and Ralph McLendon of Ava., Mo., a former State Representative—are in the race for presidency of the organization in 1927.

A special Women's Committee has been appointed of which Mrs. William F. Otto is the chairman, and Mrs. Frank P. Hays, Mrs. Charles Stix and Mrs. Charles Ellis are the vice chairmen. The committee in co-operating with Mrs. L. H. Burlingham, national committewoman, , have planned an elaborate program for visiting Republican women.

Family Work Training Starts.

A special training course in family case work began under the auspices of the Board of Religious Organizations Thursday in the board rooms, 417 Victoria Building. The class will be conducted once a week for 10 weeks, directed by Dr. George B. Mangold, assisted by Miss Caroline Bedford, assistant manager of the St. Louis Provident Asosciation. High school graduates and other women with trained minds are admitted to the course. The plan is to prepare volunteers for effective service, not only through the Board of Religious Organizations but through other agencies.

Junior Traffic Club Names Officers.

R. L. Duggan was elected president of the Junior Traffic Club of St. Louis, at the annual election at the Annex Hotel. Other officers elected are: J. F. Kueper, first vice president; Herman Muhnert, second vice president; George A. Florida, treasurer, and Ray J. Spitznagel, William Matthias, Gilbert C. Witthoff and N. J. Eschenberg, board of directors.

'EATS EGGS FOR FIRST TIME IN MANY YEARS

While They Are Considered Good in Most Cases Her Stomach Was in Such a Condition She Dared Not Touch Them.

Mrs. G. G. Readlein of 9837 Lincoln street, county, called to see the special representative of the Herb Juice Medicine Company a few days ago and said she wanted to thank him for the wonderful relief his medicine had given her. "In fact," said Mrs. Readlein, "Herb Extract, formerly called Herb Juice, was the only medicine to help me at all and since taking it I am able to eat eggs once more for the first time in years.

MRS. G. G. READLEIN.

"But before I used your wonderful medicine I was in a terrible condition and suffered continually with my stomach, which condition, I was told, was all brought on by long suffering from constipation. In short, I seemed to be run-down and sick in every way, but the worst trouble I had was from gas and indigestion, why, at times the gas that formed in my stomach would press up so around my heart that I could hardly breathe, seemed as though I would smother. In addition to this I was troubled with a pain in my side and very nervous. One day when I was feeling so badly a neighbor brought me a dose of Herb Extract, formerly called Herb Juice, and I never had anything give me so much relief. From then on I have used this medicine regular and never expect to be without it. Your herbal preparation has regulated my bowels, and now that they act regular I never have a sign of my former trouble. No gas or indigestion; stomach is in fine condition and for the first time since I was 8 years old, I am able to eat eggs. When a medicine will build up a run-down system such as mine was I know, beyond a doubt, that it will do all that is claimed for it, and to those who read my statement, I want to say that if they are troubled with constipation, also a run-down condition, they need have no fear of the outcome if they will begin using this medicine at once. Hundreds continue to call at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington avenue, to see the special demonstrator, many voluntarily giving statements for publication, praising this great medicine that their friends may be induced to try same.

The cast will include ances Sebel, soprano, singing ntuzza; Devora Nadworney, conalto, singing Lola; Giuseppe di nedetto, tenor, singing Turiddu; rruccio Corrodetti, baritone, ging Alfio. The production will directed by Cesare Sodero.

The opera was produced first in me in 1890. The scene is laid Sicily where Turiddu, the village au, has returned from the war find his old sweetheart, Lola, d to Alfio, the teamster. Dissted with Lola, Turiddu seeks nsolation in the love of Santuzza, o adores him. The next scene es place Easter Sunday as the lagers proceed to church. Sanza, who has been betrayed by riddu and is, therefore, under ban of the church, is forced to nain outside and presently ennters Mamma Lucia, Turiddu's other, to whom she tells her ry. The story is interrupted by arrival of Alfio.

When Alfio departs, Santuzza ntinues her story and Lucia does best to console her. At this ment, Santuzza encounters Tur- u himself and the two quarrel lently only to be again inter- pted by Lola, who invites Turid- to join her in church. Santuz- pleads with him to leave Lola d return to her but he repulses and follows Lola while Santuz- yields herself to despair. She ets Alfio to whom she tells her ry and he hastens away vow- revenge. Alfio joins the crowd ving the church and when Tur- u offers him a glass of wine, fio scornfully refuses with the ult that a challenge is quickly en and accepted. A scene fol- s when Turiddu bids farewell his mother and has a premoni- n of his own death. He pleads t he has been drinking too free- and he must depart, but Lola is deceived and is heartbroken. Turiddu tears himself away, he her to take care of Santuzza. duel takes place and soon a is heard that Turiddu has been led.

TITTA RUFFO, KSD SOLOIST TONIGHT, IS WORLD-FAMOUS

Metropolitan Opera Star Will Sing Prologue to "Pagliacci" and "Largo al Factotum" in Atwater Kent Hour Concert.

TITTA RUFFO

Titta Ruffo, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., and probably the most famous of today's singers in a world-wide sense, who will be tonight's soloist in the Atwater Kent Hour from KSD, is especially noteworthy for the power of his voice. For years, Ruffo's volume of tone, the thrilling power of his high notes, have been a topic of singers and music lovers the world over. His voice is what the French would describe as a "true Verdi baritone"—ranging up to a tenor quality in its highest tones.

Ruffo is a Tuscan by birth and spent his early boyhood in Rome. Here his father carried on a successful business as an iron worker, in which craft the youth became so proficient that he was given numerous special commissions to execute work of high artistic character. A beautiful bronze wreath which reposes on the tomb of the martyred Sadi-Carnot, once President of France, was chiseled by Ruffo.

When quite young he entered the Santa Cecelia Conservatory in Rome and studied vocal culture. His stay there, however, was not protracted as he was told that he had neither voice nor dramatic ability. Subsequently he studied under several professors, but attributes his success to the genius of his brother, Ettore, a musician of note, who taught the now famous singer about all he knows about song.

His first emphatic success was at Cattania, Sicily, where he created a sensation as "Renato" in Verdi's "The Masked Ball." Since then, he has sung in virtually every country of Europe and Latin America and has attained triumphs in more than 50 operas. The program in which he will be assisted by Rudolph Gruen, pianist, and the Atwater-Kent orchestra, follows:

Prologue to Pagliacci——Leoncavallo
Mr. Ruffo and Orchestra.
March Feramors .... Rubinstein Orchestra.
(a) Vizione Veneziana .... DeCosta
(b) Cavalcata Zingaresta .... A. S. Doda
(c) Sei morta nella vita mia.... DeCosta

MUSICAL PROGRAM ON KSD THIS AFTERNOON

Will Be Offered by Moscow Art Orchestra and Sponsored by Crosley.

A series of musical broadcasts on alternate Sunday afternoons from stations in the WEAF chain, including KSD, is to be sponsored by Powel Crosley Jr., the radio manufacturer, beginning today. KSD will start broadcasting this program as soon as KFUO finishes its afternoon broadcast.

The music for the Crosley Hour will be furnished by Arno Arriga and his Moscow Art Orchestra. All of the artists in this group have gained distinction as soloists. Arriga, a Russian by birth, came to the United States after establishing his musical reputation in Paris and other European musical centers. The orchestra has won popularity in New York.

Crosley's decision to provide special Sunday progams was influenced by the public's rreception of the Crosley organ program which was broadcast Christmas day from 18 stations, the music being taken to the key station at New York directly from the Crosley WLW studio at Cincinnati.

GERMAN MUSIC BY HARVESTERS

The Hires Harvesters will devote their radio program tomorrow evening through KSD at 7:30 o'clock to a musical visit to Germany and Austria. Following a brief musical visit to Germany, the Hires Harvesters will play a bright Viennese number.

KOLSTER owners are very enthusiastic. Their countless letters of approval tell results almost magical.
"I got 50 stations the first evening. We had several sets, the Kolster's the finest. No set equals it in tone, volume and distance." Kolster owners speak in superlatives.
"Here in California, I get everything from New York to Japan" says one. "Here in New Jersey, I got 50 stations the first evening, all perfect" says another.
We'd rather let Kolster owners tell the story—better still, let your own ear agree on Kolster superiority. Hear a Kolster. Compare. We will be glad to arrange a Kolster demonstration for you, in your own home if you wish. You'll agree that any Kolster is priced at half the usual asking—considering the performance.

STATION TO USE 50,000 WATTS ERECTED IN EAST

A high-powered experimental radio station is being built by the Bell Telephone Co., at Whippany, N. J., 22 miles from New York City. Tests are to be carried out through it in development of broadcasting apparatus for the Western Electric Co.

Tests are to be made first with 50,000 watt equipment. Transmitting antenna also will be studied at this station. The call letters 2XN have been assignd to it.

Keep Batteries Upright.

The practice of placing dry "B" batteries on their sides or back is disapproved. Keep batteries standing upright if it is desired to get from them the longest possible service.

RADIO MANUFACTURERS TO MEET IN CHICAGO FEB. 16-17

A meeting of radio manufacturers to be held Feb. 16 and 17, at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, has been called by A. J. Carter, chairman of the Standards Committee of the Radio Manufacturers Association. The meeting will be open to all manufacturers. Standardization of by-pass condensers, eliminators, jacks, transformers, variable control devices, etc., will be discussed.

There are close to 700 broadcasting stations now operating in the United States. It is predicted that if Congress does not act by March 3, no fewer than 1000 stations will be in the field.

Germany has started a crusade against excessive advertising by radio.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL PROGRAM FROM KSD

Eveready Hour Feature to Be Based on Book by Ida M. Tarbell.

The Lincoln memorial program will feature the Eveready Hour, Tuesday evening, from KSD.

This program, based on Ida M. Tarbell's book "He Knew Lincoln," was presented by the Eveready Hour three years ago. It brought so many requests for a repetition that it was presented again the two following seasons.

"He Knew Lincoln" is one of the most touching personal glimpses of Lincoln that has ever been written. It is told in the words of "Billy Brown," keeper of a little drug store in Springfield, Ill., where Lincoln and his friends used to gather in the days prior to his election to the presidency of the United States.

The character of the man, his love of human nature and human contact and his remarkable ability as a leader of men, are portrayed faithfully in Brown's simple, direct language. He tells of the love that even some of his political enemies had for him during his pre-election days and recalls that even during those latter days of the Civil War, when Lincoln was being criticized and abused and threatened by many of his associates at Washington, the great man never lost his faith in human nature and his love for people.

One of the most delightful bits of character portrayal tells how Billy Brown went to Washington at the height of the war "just to see Mr. Lincoln" and how tremendously delighted Lincoln was to find that an old friend would travel all the way from Springfield to Washington "just to have a visit with me, that you don't want an office for anybody, nor a pardon for anybody, that you ain't got no complaints in your pocket, nor any advice up your sleeve."

Billy Brown's description of the Lincoln of before and during the Civil War will be delivered to the radio audiences by Edgar White Burrill. Burrill's reading of the book in preceding years has caused much favorable comment among radio critics and listeners all over the country.

The musical setting will be provided by the Eveready Revelers, the Eveready orchestra and Betsy Ayres, soprano soloist. The music at the opening of the program and at intervals during the reading of the book will be music typical of the days just before and during the Civil War.

"ROXY" AND HIS 'GANG' COMING BACK ON AIR

Notable Group of Artists, Big Chorus and 110-Piece Orchestra Engaged.

"Roxy" and his familiar "Hello Everybody," a greeting known to thousands of radio fans, will be back on the air in a series of weekly broadcasts soon. He and "his gang" are to be heard through WJZ, KDKA, KYW, WHAS, WMC, WSB and WSM.

Among those to be included in the new "gang" are "Gamby" and "Doug" (Mlle. Maria Gambarelli, dancer and singer, and Douglas Stansbury, baritone), known as the "Sweethearts of the Air"; Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, pianists; Adrian da Silva, tenor; Celia Branz, contralto; Geoffrey O'Hara, composer, author and singer; Dorothy Miller, soprano; Gladys Rice, coloratura soprano; Beatrice Belkin, soprano; Anna Robinson, soprano; "Wee Willie" Robeyn, tenor; Joseph Stopak, violinist; Jim Coombs, basso; Frank Moulan, comedian, and Florence Mulholland, contralto.

To support them "Roxy" is engaging vocalists and instrumentalists to form two of the largest organizations of their respective types ever to face a microphone. One of these units will be a chorus of 100 male and female voices, the other a complete symphony orchestra of 110 instrumentalists under the alternate guidance of four conductors, H. Maurice Jacquet, the French leader; Charles Trevin, Erno Rapee and Frederick Stahlberg.

"Roxy" will have dance orchestras, string ensembles, quintetes, quartets, trios and every type of specialty orchestra, such as Marimba bands, Balalaika orchestras and other groups of instrumental performers rarely heard by the listening audience.

One of the largest organs in the world will also be a feature.

FANS' CHEER ON HEARING JAPAN, AWAKEN NEIGHBORS

An unusual coincidence happened in two towns on the Pacific Coast recently, when two radio fans hunted for distance in the dark just before dawn and heard Japan on their small table model sets. Both sent telegrams to Federal-Brandes, Inc., claiming a DX record for the smallest Kolster receiver, a six-tube set, which each happened to be using in the test.

Both fans, D. H. McClure, San Francisco, and Claude Rider, Mill City, Ore., started cheering and aroused sleepy neighborhoods about 4 a. m. when their vigilance was rewarded by hearing the call letters "JOAK, Tokio, Japan" on their loudspeakers from across the Pacific Ocean. A confirming letter from each claimant says the neighbors did not mind the disturbance and some even came over to listen. Both men repeated this reception on followings mornings, to prove it was no freak. JOAK is a 1000-watt station.

Operatic Tenor Is Lawyer.

Guiseppe di Benedetto, tenor of the WEAF Grand Opera Company, which sings Monday nights from KSD, is a lawyer as well as an outstanding opera singer. He is a graduate lawyer of the University of Naples. Di Benedetto served during the World War in the Italian forces and was so severely wounded in one engagement that it was feared that he never would sing again.

"It's working voltage* that counts"

Dubilier Condenser

Living tones

WHOEVER has heard the beauty of living tone created by the latest improvements in radio, will never again be satisfied with the crude reproductions of the past.

Yet, no matter how old your set, a few simple changes with the application of Dubilier Condensers will often result in an immeasurable improvement in quality of tone. Look into any modern radio set—no matter what system of audio amplification is employed, you will find Dubilier Condensers playing an ever increasing part.

Dubilier Condensers are built to maintain an unvarying capacity under all conditions within their rated working voltage*. Be sure of the name if you want to enjoy "living tones."

Send 10c in stamps or coin for our new 32-page booklet "Seventeen Ways to Improve Your Set." It gives complete information on resistance, impedance and power amplification.

Working voltage means more than test voltage. It is the voltage at which the condenser can be safely used in continuous operation.*

NINTH SYMPHONY OF BEETHOVEN ON WJZ

Owners of Powerful Sets Can Tune in on Fine Concert at 2 P. M. Today.

Owners of receiving sets that are powerful enough to tune in on WJZ, New York (454 meters; 660 kc.) will be able to pick up an especially fine concert this afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock central time.

Louise Homer, the famous contralto; Elizabeth Rethberg; Richard Crooks, Fraser Gange, the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, under Toscanini, and the Schola Cantorum of New York, will be heard from WJZ at that time in the mighty Ninth Symphony of Beethoven. As a special of prelude to that monumental musical work, the Philharmonic Orchestra is to play Beethoven's First Symphony.

This concert is to be a repetition of one that was scheduled for WJZ last night.

ORGAN BUILDER TURNS TO MAKING RADIO RECEIVERS

It is now possible to hear a pipe organ solo through a radio receiving set made in the same factory as a result of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. entering the radio field. A new and larger factory has been built to produce the Wurlitzer receivers.

The new Wurlitzers are being made in 5-tube and 6-tube models. The circuit is a tuned radio frequency, and is said to be an excellent distance getter.

NEW DEVICE ENABLES USE OF PHONOGRAPHS WITH RADIO SET

A device to convert an ordinary phonograph into an electrical phonograph by means of a radio set is announced by the Crosley Radio Corporation. This invention is known as the "Merola."

It consists of a tone arm, magnetic reproducer unit and volume control. In appearance it resembles the ordinary phonograph tone arm, which it replaces. It has a cord and adaptor. The adaptor is inserted into the detector socket of any receiving set using standard storage battery or UX type of tube base, and the tone arm is attached to the phonograph. After this connection is made the music from the record is reproduced through the receiving set and loud speaker.

TRANSATLANTIC PHONE TO WASHINGTON PROBABLE

Early extension of the trans-Atlantic radio telephone service from New York to Washington, and probably to some southern cities, is expected by telephone officials.

The project, it is said, has been considered, but no action taken because of complications involved.

Since the Washington telephone system is a branch of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which handles the wire end of the radio telephone service into New York State and New England, officials at A. T. & T. headquarters are expected to make final decision on the extension to Washington.

NEW ZEALAND LISTENERS REPORT RECEPTION OF KMOX

KMOX reports a letter from F. R. Wells, of Clevedon, a small settlement in the high plateau country about 20 miles south of Auckland, New Zealand. He wrote that he tuned in KMOX between 6:30 and 8 o'clock on the night of Nov. 7, which was midnight in St. Louis the night before. In other words, he heard KMOX Sunday evening which was Saturday midnight in St. Louis. He said reception was so clear and loud that the music could be heard across the room from the speaker.

Norman Munro, also of Clevedon, New Zeland, reported the same kind of reception. Both men say they got KMOX regularly when weather conditions permit.

Music for St. Valentine's Day.

On St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14, WBBM (226 meters) will devote the hours 4 to 7 p. m. to love songs and instrumental music.

Love ballads will be sung by Fred L. Jeske, sometimes known as "the baritone with the lovin' voice," and by Hazel McBroom, contralto. Osburn's orchestra will play the latest of the syncopated offerings to Cupid. Jan Chico, violinist, and Lester D. Mather, concert pianist, will play classical music suitable to the occasion.

Aluminum Difficult to Solder.

Do not attempt to solder to the aluminum frame of a condenser. Aluminum cannot be soldered by ordinary means because this metal is always covered with a layer of natural oxide that ordinary flux is not able to remove. Even with special flux and aluminum solders, it is a very difficult operation and not always successful. Drill and tap a hole for a small machine screw and make the connection therewith.

To Form Neat Holes in Panels.

When drilling holes in wood or bakelite panels, always start the drill from the front side of the panel and clamp the piece to be drilled tightly against a pattern of wood similar in size and about one inch thick. This prevents the chips on the underside of the panel around the holes from breaking away. Use sharp drills and a tapered reamer in cases where it becomes necessary to enlarge the hole beyond the size of bits on hand.

Schedule for Week on WJZ and Allied Stations

Ludlow Recital, Brunswick Hour, Hadley's Orchestra, Maxwell Hour, and New York Philharmonic Are Some of Features.

Following is the schedule of principal broadcasts this week from WJZ (454m; 660kc.) and of WJZ features on KDKA, KYW and Southern chain stations:

Ludlow Broadcast Time Changed.

Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, is to be heard from WJZ at 6:00 tonight instead of 9:00. This change in Ludlow's broadcast will continue until further notice.

His program is as follows: "Ave Maria" (Schubert); "Dragon Fly" (Zslot); "Memories" (Dickinson-Ludlow); "Pale Hands" (Finden-Ludlow); "Old Refrain" (Kreisler); "Souvenir" (Drdla); "Meditation" from "Thais" (Massenet); "Humoresque" (Dvorak).

The Minerva Male Quartet will offer a half-hour of popular 'Southern' songs from WJZ at 7:30 tonight, including "Swanee Moon," "Lindy Lou," "Kentucky Babe" and "Cotton Dolly." It is understood that this quartet will become a regular Sunday night WJZ feature.

In the musical travelogue from WJZ at 7:30 tonight, the radio audience will be taken across the Aegean Sea toward the coast of Asia Minor. The trip through the historic Dardanelles, the narrow strip of water dividing Europe from Asia, known to the ancients as the Hellespont, will be described, as will ancient Troy, made famous by Homer.

Among selections in the concert by the Commodore Ensemble from WJZ at 8:00 o'clock tonight will be "Southern Rhapsody," by Hosmer, and the second movement of the American String Quartet, by Dvorak. The program will conclude with Tschaikowsky's "Capricio Italienne."

The Collier's Weekly program will have its first hearing from WJZ at 8:30 tonight.

Monday Night from WJZ

The Commodore Concert Orchestra, on WJZ at 6:15 tomorrow night, will play the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven. This concert will open with "Marche Heroique," by Saint-Saens, and conclude with the "Prize Song" from "Die Meistersinger."

The Record Boys have been given a definite time for broadcasting. Henceforth, Al Bernard, Frank Kamplain and Sammy Stept will work from WJZ and KDKA at 9 Monday nights.

In the program to be broadcast by WJZ at 7:30 tomorrow night, Fred Patton, bass-baritone, will be the soloist supported by Henry Hadley's orchestra of players from the New York Philharmonic. Patton will sing an aria from Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," "The Dew Is Sparkling" of Rubenstein, "The Two Grenadiers" of Schumann, "Egyptian War Song" by Hadley and "Gunga Din" set to music by Spross.

The orchestra will play: "Lustspiel" Overture (Bela), Romance (Gruenfeld), "From the Canebrake" (Gardner), "Tales from the Vienna Woods" (Strauss), "Air de ballet" (Herbert), Selections from "Pinafore" (Bizet), "Valse Gracieuse" (Manceri), Prelude in G Minor (Rachmaninoff), "The Erl King" (Schubert).

In the Ruud Light Opera Hour from WJZ and KDKA, at 8:30 tomorrow night, the "Ziegfeld Follies" of past years will be reviewed in song and music, with Gladys Rice as soprano soloist and Frank Munn as tenor soloist.

Tuesday Night From WJZ.

Van and his orchestra in their half-hour broadcast from WJZ at 6:15 Tuesday night will play old and new music, and music from current Broadway productions.

A program from WJZ at 6:45 Tuesday night will feature Vaughn de Leath in "Southern" songs, supported by Harry Reser's orchestra.

The To-Be-Weds, whose next broadcast will be heard from WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 7:15 Tuesday night, will argue over their impressions of "An Affair of the Follies."

The Champion Sparkers will sing and play light music, supported by an orchestra from WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 7:30 Tuesday night. Irving Kaufman will play the comedian, will sing two comedy songs.

In the operatic concert to be broadcast by WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 8 Tuesday night an orchestra under Cesare Sodero, will support Astrid Fjelde, soprano; Elizabeth Lennox, contralto; Julian Oliver, tenor, and Frederic Baer, baritone.

The program included: Overture to "Oberon," orchestra; Leise Leise from "Der Freischutz," Astrid Fjelde; "Una Furtiva Lagrima" from L'Elisire D'Amore, Julian Oliver; "Ah Mons Fls from Le Prophete," Elizabeth Lennox; "Salome, Salome," from Herodiade," Frederic Baer; "Argonaise" from "Le Cid," orchestra; "Ah Terna Addio" (Verdi), duet; nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" (Mendelssohn), orchestra; Song of the Robin Woman from "Shanewis" (Cadman), Elizabeth Lennox; "Le Reve" from "Manon," Julian Oliver; "Ritorna Vincitor from "Aida," Astrid Fjelde; "Per Me Giunto" from "Don Carlos," Frederic Baer; Spinning Wheel Quartette from "Martha," Ensemble.

Don Amaizo, the Wizard, will tell more of the musical story of his early life on questioning by Col. C. T. Davis in the broadcast of that feature from WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 9 Tuesday night.

Wednesday Night From WJZ.

In the dinner concert by the Commodore Ensemble from WJZ at 6:10 Wednesday night, the principal motives from Humperdinck's fairy opera "Hansel and Gretel," will be played.

The program will include: Tone Poem (Steiner), Selection from "La Fille de Madame Angot" (Planguette), "Toreador and Andolomas" (Rubinstein), Etude Nos. 19 and 21 (Chopin).

The Mitchell brothers, John and Bill, will give songs of the South in their broadcast from WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 7 Wednesday night.

The MacDowell ladies' vocal quartet will be heard in a brief recital, supported by the WJZ string quartet, from WJZ, KDKA and KYW at 7:30 Wednesday night. The program will consist of ballads and light classical selections, with heavier compositions played by the string quartet.

The soloists of the Maxwell Hour to be broadcast by WJZ, KDKA, KYW, WHAS, WSB, WMC and WSM at 8 Wednesday night will be Wanda Landowska, harpsichordist and pianist, and Eva Gauthier, mezzo-soprano. They will be supported by the Maxwell concert orchestra under Nathaniel Shilkret.

Wanda Landowska, one of the few living harpsichordists, was born in Warsaw in 1884. Since 1906 she has made successful tours of Europe as a pianist, but is known better as a harpsichord player.

Eva Gauthier is known to lovers of modern music as "the high priestess of modern song."

In England she sang solo parts in the Coronation Mass before the King and Queen and the Colonial Premiers. She made her operatic debut in "Pavia."

Appearances at Covent Garden and concerts in Italy, Belgium, France, Holland and Denmark placed her among the outstanding artists of Europe. The program will include: "Old Colonial March," "Hymn to the Sun" (Peruvian), Music of Peru (three different periods of Inca music), solos, minuet (Handel) and gavotte (Bach), Miss Landowsky. Solo—Miss Gauthier, overture to "La Forza del Destino" (Verdi). Solo—harpsichord, Miss Landowska. Operatic gems; March Slav, solo, Miss Gauthier—(a) minuet (Debussy), (b) short piano piece (Schnenberg), (c) excerpts from "Petrouchka" (Saravinsky).

The announcerless program to be broadcast by WJZ at 9 Wednesday night as the Arm Chair Hour will feature Keith McLeod, studio manager and pianist, and Godfrey Ludlow, staff violinist, as soloists. McLeod will be heard in a vibraphone solo. Ludlow will render "Slumber Boat."

Thursday Night From WJZ

MOST dissatisfaction with radio sets is caused by weak batteries or poor tubes. If the batteries are "well up" put a VOLUTRON tube in every socket and you'll hear a big difference. You'll get so much more satisfactory reception—clearer and with greater volume—that you'll simply be amazed at the wonderful improvement in your set. Surprised, too, at the absence of microphonic "bong" and other noises that have been interfering with your reception.

Every Stromberg-Carlson Receiver has a broad musical range—sufficiently broad to reproduce accurately the highest as well as the lowest notes of an orchestra playing the most elaborate symphony. This broad musical range which is necessary for natural reproduction is uniform on any station, regardless of the wave length on which the station is broadcasting. There is no "peak of efficiency" operation on stations of medium wave lengths.

STROMBERG-CARLSON
TELEPHONE MFG. CO.
Coca-Cola Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

No 502 Receiver, Art Console. 5-tube; coils shielded; operates from house current or batteries; space for socket-power units or batteries. Price, less accessories but including external Cone Speaker - $325.00

Audio transformers of refined design; precision of workmanship; and scientific "Total Shielding" of the coils in radio frequency circuits, are vital factors which make possible this comprehensive tonal performance of Stromberg-Carlson Receivers. Ask any authorized dealer to demonstrate a Stromberg-Carlson. You will realize then the superiority of full-range reception.

SULPHUR SOOTHES AN ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable.

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ-destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

"I am glad to recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the Favorite Prescription," said Mrs. Martha Straver of 1919 M St., Lincoln, Nebr. "I have regained my health and strength several different times by taking one or both of these remedies. When I feel the need of a general tonic I take the 'Golden Medical Discovery'; if I need a feminine medicine I take the 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken both at the same time, too, alternately." SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Often Caused by Bladder Weakness. It's Nature's Signal of "Danger Ahead."

A. C. Eckhart, 3917 St. Clair St., Cleveland, O., says: "After taking Lithiated Buchu tablets one week, the burning and smarting left me, and my night's rest was not disturbed. You should get the credit, as I had tried many things. I will be glad to write my experience to anyone." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder as epsom salts do the bowels, driving out deposits, neutralizes excess acids, thereby relieving irritation that causes disturbed rest at night. The tablets cost 2 cents each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O. Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores.

TOO FEW WAVE-LENGTHS FOR TRANS-OCEANIC TELEPHONING

An international dispute over wave lengths for long distance wireless telephony is foreseen by experts of the Government who have been watching development of American-English and Canadian-English trans-oceanic telephone service.

Use of long distance wireless telephony on a large scale by the entire world may never be possible because of insufficient waves, according to these experts. It would appear to follow that waves available for such services must be divided by an international conference.

The band most likely to be used for wireless telephony is between 20 and 100 meters. In this band also are a number of other services such as long distance telegraphy, aircraft beacons, aircraft telephony, government telegraph stations, commercial telegraph stations, amateurs and short wave re-broadcasting. This definitely limits the number of channels available for international telephony.

With the beam system, the same wave might be used north and south, and east and west simultaneously. It is also believed that other inventions and methods may increase the availability of channels. But it is doubted whether there will ever be sufficient for an elaborate system such as that in use by land telephone companies.

NATIONAL RADIO CLASS IN GOVERNMENT IS PLANNED

A radio class in government is to be started Lincoln's Birthday by the National Broadcasting Co., for study of the functions of the Federal machinery.

"Eight minutes, please, for your government," is the request that will come through the air in a chain broadcast hook-up beginning Feb. 12 and continuing for 13 weeks.

David Lawrence, Washington correspondent and editor of "The United States Daily," a newspaper which prints nonpartisan records of governmental activity, is to be the speaker. He was selected because of his 17 years of experience as a nonpartisan writer on national affairs in the nation's capital.

Lawrence covered the peace conference at Paris and accompanied Wilson to Italy and Great Britain. He is author of the book, "The True Story of Woodrow Wilson." For a number of years he has been a special correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Radiograms.

Buford Young, a farmer near Temple, Tex., has a crude three-tube amateur receiving set that instead of picking up reception from broadcasting stations tunes in on neighborhood gossip within half a mile.

Only tubes with thoriated filaments can be rejuvenated or reactivated.

Radio frequency tubes do not require very high plate potentials.

Two equal condensers in series cut the combined capacity in half.

Three stages of audio should only be used with large tubes. Small tubes are not built to handle such volume.

A variometer in series with the secondary delivers more energy than a variable condenser around the coil.

All battery switch contacts should be kept clean and bright so as to avoid noises due to an imperfect contact.

About the worst place for a loud speaker is on top of the receiving set.

Much interference comes in when great distance is received on small power.

The use of a bicycle pump will chase the dust which collects on instruments inside the cabinet.

Indoor Aerials.

Of the various kinds of indoor aerials, the best is a regular aerial strung up indoors. Somtimes the wires can be placed in the attic or run down the hallway or through several rooms in the cellar, in most cases, gives very poor results.

There are other forms of indoor aerials, although they are really not all indoors, the most widely used being the attachment for a lamp socket. This makes use of the house wiring and the wires leading from the house outside.

Another form of indoor aerial uses the telephone wires as the collector. With the latter type a piece of metal is placed under the telephone and a wire run from this metal to the aerial binding post of the set. The condenser effect between the metal plate and the telephone is the connection. Any one of these three methods makes a good substitute for the outdoor aerial.

Fuse Is Poor Protection to Tubes.

A fuse is inadequate protection against tube blow-outs, because the thin wire filament in normal service already is white hot and requires comparatively little extra current to burn it out completely, while the fuse wire is not anywhere near incandescence and requires a definite amount of time to heat up and blow out of its own accord. When the filament circuit is heavily overloaded the thin tube filament invariably parts in two long before the fuse even starts to increase in temperature.

Canada Has 300,000 Sets.

Canadian listeners are now estimated at nearly a million, based upon the fact that 300,000 Canadian receivers are licensed and that at least three individuals are believed to listen to each set. This compares with about 5,000,000 sets in use in the United States, with an estimated listening public of 20,000,000, or four to a receiver.

The Heart of the Single-Dial Radio

This Is the Very Model Which Millions Read About in The Saturday Evening Post—Note the List Price of $145

WE DO NOT EXAGGERATE

When we state that this is one of the greatest values ever offered in radio, because these are the features which you will get when you buy this outfit at less than half price

First: A set guaranteed both by the Magnavox Company and by the store.

Second: The fine equipment which we usually sell with our highest-priced radio sets.

Third: The newest feature which makes Radio Engineering in 1927 a finer art than ever before—the single dial, with dial calibrated in wave length meters eliminating any guesswork in tuning. Turn the dial right to the station wave length and if it is within range, you will get it.

The Single Dial One of the Greatest Improvements in Radio

MAGNAVOX made the first successful single-dial set, and here they were pioneers.

This is the 15th anniversary of Magnavox progress in radio

Does the manufacturer behind the product mean anything to you? The Magnavox Company is in radio to stay.

MAGNAVOX was a foremost name in radio long before the days of broadcasting, and today it stands for progress.

A REVELATION awaits you when you first hear the perfectly tuned Magnavox. These sets are tuned at the factory by a tuning meter that is a thousand times more sensitive than the human ear. No manipulating of three dials is necessary. You simply select your station with a turn of one hand.

Three condensers of solid brass are mounted on a strong single shaft. This condenser system moves with marvelous smoothness and without back lash as is usually the case with the gear type single-dial condenser.

No Guessing for Wave Lengths

Turn to the radio program in your newspaper. Note the wave length in meters of the station, within range, you desire to hear. Then turn to that wave length on your single dial. This dial is not calibrated from 0 to 100 as other sets are. But the dial is calibrated in actual wave length meters from 200 meters to 550 meters.

LARGE COUNTY BOND ISSUE IS DISCUSSED

Road Improvements, Hospital and New Jail Are Among the Proposals.

Proposal of a large bond issue for St. Louis County, for roads and public buildings, is under consideration by the County Chamber of Commerce. It has appointed a Bond Issue Committee, with E. Glion Curtis, a lawyer, of Webster Groves, as chairman. Road improvement would be the major item of issue, but a suggested county hospital, a new jail to replace the antiquated structure now in use and a new "county administration building" might be included.

Curtis said his committee was making a survey to determine the attitude of the public towards a bond issue, and would not report till after an exhaustive investigation. It is expected this report will be deferred also until the chamber has endeavored to find ways to help the county out of its general financial plight. Frequently county warrants cannot be cashed or must be discounted by banks because the county lacks funds.

May Meet Opposition.

Politicians have been expecting that a bond issue would be proposed. The bonds likely would meet with support of the county Republican machine, but might be opposed by some other elements. In April, 1925, county voters defeated a $5,000,000 bond issue for roads and one of $715,000 for a new courthouse and jail. There were no adequate plans for expenditure of that money presented. Many of the roads are in bad condition now, but maintenance work has been virtually stopped for lack of funds.

The County Chamber of Commerce took a leading part in the opposition to the merger of St. Louis and St. Louis County, which was beaten by county voters last October. Now the chamber has three committees considering plans for metropolitan development of the community. Joseph R. Matthews, president of the organization, said the annexation campaign had called problems of county government to popular attention, and announced the intention of the chamber to solve those problems.

Robert A. Roessel, an attorney, of Webster Groves, one of the leaders in the antimerger fight, who had proposed creation of a metropolitan area covering city and county by the Board of Freeholders, is chairman of a chamber committee studying a metropolitan plan.

Clarence Shotwell, a lawyer, of Ballwin, who also was a member of the Board of Freeholders, is chairman of a committee discussing incorporation of congested unincorporated districts, where needs of development were stressed in the annexation fight.

Would Keep Identities.

L. John Weber, a lawyer, of Clayton, is chairman of a committee studying possible consolidation of some of the incorporated suburbs. He hopes to make a report soon. Many county residents, he asserted, believe most of the municipalities should be united under a metropolitan plan without losing their individual identity.

Other committees and their chairmen are: Roads, Louis Feldmann Jr.; Industrial Sites, H. W. Danforth; County Beautification, George Frazier of Glencoe; County Advertising, Ralph F. Bixby; Membership, L. Busch Faust; Legislation, Arthur V. Lashly; Co-Operation of Other Organizations, B. C. Stevens; Public Utilities, F. J. Holocher; Parks and Playgrounds, Joseph Darst; Publicity, Edward Beecher.

The county, President Matthews said, has lacked a central agency of representative men for years and as a result faces many grave problems. It has more than 160,000 residents now, he estimated, and probably will have more than 200,000 by the 1930 census.

A membership campaign is being conducted by the County Chamber of Commerce.

Better than Soda for Stomach Gas

ADLERIKA
HELPS for 24 HOURS or LONGER
SODA
HELPS for ONLY FEW MINUTES

PEOPLE who use soda or magnesia for gas on the stomach, sour stomach and indigestion know that these give but very temporary relief. The gas and sourness may be removed for a short time, but soon returns because the cause still remains. Recent discoveries made by medical specialists show that gas and sour stomach are nearly always due to just one cause—Intestinal Stasis.

Intestinal Stasis

THIS insidious disease, specialists tell us, is caused by faulty diet and lack of proper exercise, and afflicts three people out of every four.

Intestinal Stasis means the too slow movement of waste food matter through the intestines. By remaining too long in the bowels, this matter ferments, forms gas and poisons, and is the cause of gas bloating and pains, sour stomach, dyspepsia, dizzy spells and nervousness.

Even if the bowels move daily, enough old matter may be left to ferment, cause stomach gas, and poison the system. Only by continued, REAL intestinal cleansing of both upper and lower bowel can lasting relief be secured.

Dr. Carl Weschcke, in his private practice, perfected and first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal prophylactic now known as Adlerika. Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and cascara, together with glycerine and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. Unlike other medicines, it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Relieves Gas Quickly

RELIEF from stomach gas, gas pains and bloating, is felt almost instantly after Adlerika is taken, unless due to malformations or other deep-seated causes. ONE spoonful often brings out an amazing amount of old poisonous matter which you never thought was in your system, and which may have been the hidden cause of gas, indigestion, nervousness or sleeplessness.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika frequently brings out an astonishing amount of additional matter which might otherwise be poisoning your system.

Adlerika is recognized by many physicians as the one dependable remedy for Intestinal Stasis and stomach gas, or whenever a thorough bowel cleansing is needed. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you.

"In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."—Dr. James Weaver.

"I suffered with intestinal stasis and gas. Soda or magnesia helped me very little. I got relief from the first dose of Adlerika, and since taking it, I eat almost anything, sleep well and gained weight."—Mrs. Chas. Rhodes, Yakima, Wash.

"Both my wife and myself suffered a great deal from indigestion and gas. Soda would give some relief, but Adlerika has done us more good than anything we have tried."—Charles Slaven, Terre Haute, Ind.

NEW QUEEN OF THE AIR TO CARRY 4 PLANES

Dirigible Three Times as Large as the Shenandoah Being Designed.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., Feb. 5.—The Shenandoah's successor as queen of the air is pictured by engineers and artists of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation as a silver monster 780 feet long, with half a dozen airplanes housed within its walls and machine guns bristling from its sides. The dirigible would have a gas capacity of 6,500,000 feet, three times that of the Shenandoah, which was 680 feet long and held 2,150,000 cubic feet of gas.

When the new ship is built it will present an almost unbroken line of shining surface. The control cars will be built in, to lessen air resistance. The power cars, too, will be housed within the framework, with only the propellors projecting. The propellers are to be built on tilting arms which can be turned in a 90-degree angle to help force the ship up, down or forward.

Machine guns will be situated on the tail, sides and rudder bases of the vast bag, and inside the ship would be facilities for housing from four to six airplanes which may be launched as required, from any location in the air.

The plans contemplate a structure built on a multiple, instead of a single keel, and with special ring girders so that failure of one part of the hull will not endanger the ship.

Power is to be obtained from 4800-horsepower engines, capable of producing a 90-mile-an-hour speed. The cruising radius would be 5000 to 8000 miles without reloading.

Capt. E. A. Lehmann, administrative expert of the former Zeppelin works at Freiderichshafen, Germany, heads the staff of designers. Dr. Karl Arnstein, who was chief engineer of the Zeppelin company, and a small group of experts, also have joined the staff.

Society Women Rent Jewelry.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Fondness of provincial society women for jewelry to wear on festive occasions does not run them into extravagances. They simply go to the local jeweler and hire what they need for the evening. In West England and other midland towns the jewelry store is a meeting place for well-known residents and when a big function or dance is scheduled the jeweler rents rings, bracelets, earrings and pendants at a moderate charge. It is not uncommon for one store to have as much as $4850 worth of jewelry lent in a single evening.

Pays $25,000 for Meals for Life.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A London restaurant has accepted the offer of a 40-year old man to supply him with two meals a day for the rest of his life for £5000 (about $25,000) cash. The tables of mortality show that his expectation of life at that age is 27 years, which would make his food cost about £185 a year or about $1.25 a meal.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For only 75 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

FREE DAILY CLINIC FOR PETS

London Veterinary Hospital Treats Dogs, Cats and Canaries.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—One of the curious sights of daily London life is the way the poorer classes obtain medical treatment for their domestic pets. In a drab street of one of the poorer suburbs stands the oldest veterinary college in London, built originally in 1791. Here in the stone-paved courtyard assembles daily from 20 to 50 people who have brought a strange medley of animals for the attention of the surgeons and students.

Nothing is charged these poor applicants. Wounds are dressed and first aid of all kinds is given on the spot to dogs and cats which are the most numerous patients, and also to goats, monkeys, parrots, canaries, fowls and ducks. Many of the animals are sent into hospital for operations.

MISSOURI'S PUBLIC SCHOOL 88 YEARS OLD

Early Settlers Thought Education Was Family Function, Not a State Duty.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 5.—Eighty-eight years ago next week, on Feb. 11, 1839, the Legislature established the S tate school system, which in the present General Assembly is a chief topic of debate.

Although the history of Missouri education dates back more than a century to the Spanish and French periods of possession, it was not until 1839, 19 years after receiving statehood, that Missouri had any semblance of a public school system, says a sketch prepared by Floyd Shoemaker, secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri. Education was considered a function and a duty of the family, and not of the State, prior to that time.

The State's first Constitution incorporated the free education idea, Shoemaker says, but early Missourians were wqary of any such system, and looked upon free schools as "charitable institutions," and an unjust public expense. Private academies were in vogue and the wealthier classes sent their children to them.

Families Hired Teachers.

The original school system provided for in the first Constitution called for a school in each township, but no specific system was created and the prejudice against the "institutions" continued. Schools were operated by school teachers hired and paid by families which had formed themselves into voluntary associations. Teachers were paid in proportion to the number of students enrolled and the schools were operated for only about three months of the year. Schools of this type could be found in Missouri until the late forties, Shoemaker declares.

Meanwhile, however, the idea of free public education supported by the State was gaining adherents and prejudice was gradually broken down. Legislative acts of 1825 and 1837 provided for organization of school districts and the investment of school funds realized from the sale of public lands.

The greatest hurdle was cleared in 1839 with the passage of the Geyer act, originated and sponsored by Henry S. Geyer, regarded as the father of Missouri public schools. The act was patterned after the educational system of Virginia, as proposed by Thomas Jefferson. It created the office of State Superintendent of Schools, the permanent State school fund, and provided for elementary schools, academies, colleges and a State university.

Still Not a Success.

Apparently taking the matter of education out of the hands of private schools, the educational leaders still were annoyed by the persistent prejudice and, with funds inadequate to carry out the plan, the public school system still was not a success.

In 1853 the school laws were thoroughly revised to create uniformity in courses of study. The public attitude had changed materially, and schools were increasing in number and enrollment. Then the Civil War threw the system into chaos and many schools closed until the war was over. In 1874 the "Revision Acts" placed the schools on level keel, and from that time the free education idea has gained a firm hold.

Henry S. Geyer was born in Maryland, and took up the practice of law in St. Louis in 1815. After several terms in the State Legislature, he became United States Senator from Missouri for a term. He was connected with the Dred Scott case in which the expression "Scott free" originated. He died in 1859.

Complain of 8 A. M. School Hour

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—School children who hate to get up in the morning have at last won a hearing on the starting public school classes at 9 instead of 8 a. m. The lot of pupils in Germany is hard in comparison with that of youngsters in the United States. One Parent-Teachers' Association passed a resolution denouncing 8 o'clock as a "torture." Children are routed out of bed at 6:30 or 7 long before it is light, the resolution said, to escape punishment for coming late. Since there are no afternoon sessions, the pupils being given much home work, some parents believe it wiser to have classes from 9 to 1:30, instead of 8 to 12:30 as at present. The Board of Education so far has refused to take action.

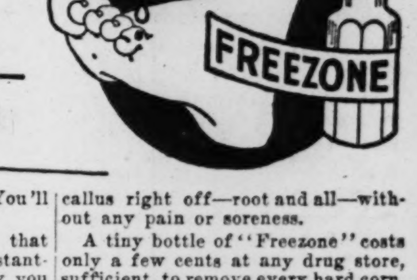
If You Can't Sleep Nights — Try This Simple 48 Hour Test

Backache and Bladder Weakness Quickly Alleviated

If you feel that your strength, pep and health are being weakened by frequent night and day calls, bladder weakness, backache, burning sensation and leg pains, a simple 48-hour test may put you on the road to new health and vitality.

Thousands who have suffered from these conditions for years are finding a new double treatment known as Cystex Compound, need be taken only a few days to know the good it will do. Many are surprised to discover that they sleep soundly without disturbance the second night after taking it, and thus get on the road to increased vigor and vitality.

Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores and reliable pharmacists everywhere not only recommend Cystex Compound, but are authorized by the distributors to offer it on a money-back guarantee for only 60c this week. Put Cystex Compound to this famous 48-hour test. If it does not allay frequent night and day calls, backache, burning sensation, leg pains, and make you feel younger and stronger, merely return the package top and your money will be refunded in full. Meyer Bros Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo., are wholesalers.



Corns lift off!

Hard or Soft Corns—
Corns between Toes

Hurt? No, not one bit! You'll laugh—so simple!

Just drop "Freezone" on that sore, touchy corn or callus. Instantly it stops aching, then shortly you lift that bothersome old corn or callus right off—root and all—without any pain or soreness.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes.

COULDN'T TELL

PURE COD LIVER OIL

And you, too, will be surprised and delighted when first you taste pure cod liver oil in this new form. Gone is the taste you used to dread—and in its stead a rich and mellow chocolate taste, so good you'll want to lick the spoon!

Yet coco cod is pure cod liver oil—with nothing but the objectionable taste taken out. And nothing added but pure egg yolks—a scientific combination that makes coco cod the only cod liver oil containing all the vitamins necessary for vibrant, virile health. So don't deny your system the marvelous benefits that follow taking pure cod liver oil—Nature's most remarkable blood-reddener and body-builder.

Children love the taste of coco cod—no longer need they be coaxed to take pure cod liver oil. It quickly paints their cheeks—builds strong and sturdy bodies. Coco cod is genuine cod liver oil—it brings sparkling health to young and old. Ask your doctor. Then go to the nearest druggist's and get just one bottle of this concentrated goodness.

Makes Fat People Slim

New York Physician Perfects Simple and Easy Method of Reducing Weight

Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician, of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excessive weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without unnecessary change of diet or burdensome exercise. He also says that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge, to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

INCREASE IN BEER PRICE CAUSES ROW IN BAVARIA

Children Deprived Valuable Food, Parents Declare at Mass Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The beer war in Bavaria, which started as a result of a 15 per cent boost in the price, has spread to such an extent that breweries, despite the 12 to 15 per cent dividends declared for 1926, are getting worried.

"Drink no more beer than is necessary to sustain life" is the slogan echoing through the highland country. Water is supplanting beer as a "chaser" for cognac. A mass meeting of men and women at Reichersbeuern passed a resolution declaring that the price of beer had risen out of all proportion with milk and that children were being deprived of a valuable food. A common jest in Bavaria especially is that infants are raised on bottled beer, a nipple being put over the mouth of the bottle.

The beer-garden price despite the additional Federal tax, is still cheaper for high quality beer in Bavaria than in most other states. A half-liter stein (about a pint) sells from five to seven cents.

NATIONAL NEGRO HISTORY WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

Exercises in St. Louis to Consist of Program at All Saints Church on Feb. 13.

Schools, churches and social organizations, throughout the country during the week of Feb. 6 to 13 will invite attention to the record of the Negro.

Dr. Carter G. Woodson, a Negro graduate of Chicago University and Harvard, is the father of the organization known as "The Association for the Study of Negro Life and History." The historical departments of both Harvard and Chicago University have recognized the importance of his endeavor.

St. Louis will celebrate Negro History Week with a program at All Saints Church on Sunday evening, Feb. 13. The topic, "The Negro in the Discovery and Exploration of America," will be discussed by George L. Vaughn. Appropriate music will be rendered. A temporary organization has been formed of the St. Louis Branch of the National Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. A plan is under way to make this a permanent organization.

TO PUT IODINE IN FERTILIZER

Prussian Government Behind Move to Combat Goiter.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The Prussian Government proposes to combat the alarming increase of goiter by inducing fertilizer concerns to include iodine salts in various patented fertilizers. The extraordinary procedure is outlined in a report of Director Henry Krohne of the Health Department, who requested the Prussian Diet Finance Committee for a 50,000 mark appropriation to combat the spread of goiter.

Since iodine is considered a specific for the affliction, Director Krohne said, the cropping up of the disease is directly traceable to the substitution of German chemical fertilizers for saltpeter which used to be imported from Chile and which contained iodine. Plant food now contains little or no iodine, he said, as a result of the change in fertilizers.

A Laxative to Rely On

Take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for Constipation. Mild and Gentle. Never Loses its Good Effect

YOU know how much more difficult it is each year as you get older to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise,—then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a particular medicine that acts as near to nature as has yet been found. It is a prescription written thirty odd years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell and used most successfully in his practice. It is known today as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you can buy it under that name at any drug store. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months, and all can use it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly, gently and without griping. It so trains the stomach and bowel muscles that in time medicine of all kinds can be dispensed with. When people learn of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and see how wonderfully it acts they realize how unnecessary it is to use drastic salt waters, pills and powders, for these do but temporary good and are weakening to most constitutions. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, on the contrary, is so natural and safe (it contains no narcotic or strong drugs) that generations of mothers have given it to their babies.

Take a spoonful the next time you are constipated, or have any ailment due to constipation such as biliousness, headache, bad breath or indigestion. If Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should ever fail to do as claimed, you can have your money refunded. More people use it than any other laxative in the world.

Write "Syrup Pepsin," 521 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois, for a free sample bottle.

"The Green Hat" Comes With Katharine Cornell For Week's Only Drama

American Theater Again "Dark" With a Motion Picture Only Attraction so far Scheduled for That House—"The Dove" at Empress.

TIME was, with six or seven theaters running 30 weeks in the year with "road show" attractions something like 240 plays a year were presented in St. Louis in addition to a weekly change in bill by one or more stock companies. This season the American Theater will present about 15 shows while the Shubert-Rialto may have 25 attractions with perhaps 30 plays being presented at the Empress by the National Stock Company.

But if the road show attractions have fallen down this season the National Players out at the Empress have gone merrily along in a battle to keep the drama alive. Of course director Woodward, one of the real old timers in the show business, is not insensible to the jingle of the mighty dollar but, at the same time, he has been endeavoring to do something really worth while with the stock company here. It has been an uphill fight with many weeks of really excellent productions playing to small business. Now, however, the tide seems to have turned. In the week just passed the Empress played to capacity audiences at every performance with "The Patsy" and the outlook for the present week is just as promising for "The Dove."

"THE Dove," which has never been seen in St. Louis—it was played in New York by Holbrook Blinn—is the most pretentious offering which the National Players have attempted. There are 40 people in the cast. Mr. Woodward gave this play in Kansas City a few weeks ago with the company which has since been moved to the Empress here. He has also shipped over the scenery which was built for the Kansas City show.

This week, right at what should be the height of the theatrical season, the American is again dark and next Sunday a motion picture, "Beau Geste," comes into that house for a run of several weeks. So far no more bookings have been announced for the American, although it will probably get a half-dozen plays or musical shows before summer. Incidentally, Ziegfeld's Follies ended its season with the performance at the American last night, the show closing and returning to New York. When a Follies show has to stop in the first week in February one can get a pretty fair idea of the deplorable condition of "the road." Receipts for the Ziegfeld offering here last week were probably $10,000 less than that show usually gets in St. Louis.

THE Shubert this week has "The Green Hat," with Katharine Cornell in the role of Michael Arlen's heroine. St. Louis has never seen Miss Cornell, whose rise has been rather meteoric. She made her first appearance on the stage at the Comedy Theater, New York, with the Washington Square Players, and remained with this company for some time, playing in "Bushido," "The Death of Tiniagiles," "Plots and Playwrights" and others. Miss Cornell then went with the Jessie Bonstelle Stock Company, where she appeared in "The Gypsy Trail," "Daybreak," "Broken Threads," "Fanny's First Play," "Lilac Time" and others. She subsequently toured with "Cheating Cheaters" and with William A. Brady's company in "The Man Who Came Back." Miss Cornell then went to England, scoring a success when she played Jo in "Little Women." On her return to America, she toured in "The Man Outside." Then came her appearances in "Nice People," "A Bill of Divorcement," "Casanova" with Lowell Sherman, "The Outsider," "Tiger Cats" and "Candida."

THE Orpheum, beginning today, will feature several musical comedy stars, Cecil Lean and his professional and life partner, Cleo Mayfield, who recently closed with "Bubbling Over," and who were featured last season in one of the "No, No, Nanette" companies, will offer a program of their original song hits, embellished with patter.

Theatrical Calendar

SHUBERT RIALTO — Katharine Cornell in "The Green Hat."

AMERICAN — Closed for the week.

EMPRESS—Stock company in "The Dove."

ORPHEUM — Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield, musical comedy stars, in a program of their own songs; the Deere Girls in a vocal repertoire; Renee Robert and Jay Velie; The Great Lester; several other vaudeville acts and "Man Bait," a picture, featuring Marie Prevost and Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE— Jimmy Allard, comedian, and company, in "Going Up," a musical comedy; seven other variety teams, and "Flames," a picture, with Virginia Valli and Eugene O'Brien.

GAYETY—"White Cargo."

GARRICK—Burlesque.

Missouri Glee Club at "Pop" Concert Today

MODERN youth will hark back almost 400 years when the University of Missouri Glee Club appears as a feature of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's University of Missouri day "pop" concert at the Odeon this afternoon and sings, among other things, the "Adoramus te" of Palestrina and the "Miserere" of Allegri.

The club will sing unaccompanied under the direction of Herbert Wall, its musical director. Far from the traditional glee club songs are these two choruses, the former one of the most beautiful masterpieces of the man whose genius made over the music of the Roman Catholic Church, the latter that "Miserere" which was the special appurtenance of the Sistine Chapel, and which, unpublished, was forbidden to be heard outside its walls under pain of excommunication. In addition the chorus sings Robert Schumann's "The Lotus Flower" and "Autumn" of Gretchaninoff, a Russian song writer.

Orchestrally the program will present the "Victory Ball" of Maj. Ernest Schelling, the musical comment of a soldier who was there, upon the world's reactions to the World War; Jean Sibelius' "Finlandia" and the "Larghetto" from Beethoven's second symphony, among other numbers.

In detail it is:

Overture to the drama "Phedre"—	Massenet
Second movement "Larghetto," from Symphony in D major, No. 2	Beethoven
Choruses a Capella—(a) Adoramus te, Palestrina; (b) Miserere, Allegri.
Fantasy for Orchestra, "A Victory Ball"	Schelling
Liebestraum	Liszt-Stock
Choruses a Capella—(a) The Lotus Flower, Schumann; (b) Autumn, Gretchaninoff.
"Finlandia" Symphonic Poem Op. 26, No. 7	Sibelius

"Variety" Voted Best Movie of Last Year In a Nation-Wide Poll

Leads American-Made Pictures by a Wide Margin in the Opinion of Reviewers—How Chaplin's Hollywood Studio Looks Today.

By NIE.

SOME weeks ago in these columns we attempted to pick the ten best movies of last year and headed the list with "Variety." In a nation-wide canvass by a motion picture trade publication of what the critics of the country considered the ten best 218 newspaper writers compiled lists and of this number 169 picked "Variety" as leading all the rest.

The significance of the thing is that "Variety" was a foreign made picture, a fact which is probably not specially pleasing to the Hollywood directors. Not among the first ten but receiving more votes than a great many American films were "The Waltz Dream," "Nell Gwyn," "Michael Strogoff," "Potemkin," "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Slums of Berlin" which reached our screens by way of German, English, French, Italian and Russian studios.

Here are the best 10 as selected by the movie reviewers with the number of votes given each picture:

Variety	169
Ben Hur	114
The Big Parade	108
The Black Pirate	108
Beau Geste	100
Stella Dallas	95
The Volga Boatman	94
What Price Glory	66
The Sea Beast	62
La Boheme	49

Of interest is the fact that three of the films were made by Metro. Famous Players and United Artists had two each, while Producers Distributing Corporation, Fox and Warner Brothers had one apiece.

Also it will be noted that not a comedy—no Chaplins, Lloyds or Langdons—appear on the list.

WITH the Skouras Brothers endeavoring to throw all of their big pictures into the Missouri and Ambassador—and there are not enough good ones for those two houses—the Grand Central has become a sort of stepchild in the local chain. Now that house is preparing, apparently, to play down its film offerings and make a run on stage shows. Bill Goldman, that astute showman who learned the business in the tents in the early days of the movies and who started the ball rolling around the country with big stage presentations at the old Delmonte and later at the Missouri when that theater opened, has taken the matter in hand. This week he is putting on, largely with local talent, a most pretentious show which will drive Gene Rodemich and his orchestra off of the stage and into a specially built stand out among the customers.

The experiment will be watched with interest for it may lead to the permanent building up of the Grand Central as a sort of glorified vaudeville house with the picture in a secondary position which might relieve, to some extent, the overseated condition of the movie field here.

FROM a correspondent in Hollywood comes word that like a once-busy anthill, upon which some careless, wandering foot has trod, the Charlie Chaplin studio, where the Pantomania antics of the famous comedian were recorded on celluloid for the delectation of movie fans of the world, today lies in desolate abandonment—a ruptured valve in the heart of Hollywood.

Curious tourists gather outside the high fence, peering through knot holes and staring at the bungalows enclosing one side of the lot. These bungalows, once living quarters for actors and other members of the studio staff, are now vacant, forming a truly deserted village. A surly watchman employed by the receivers named in the divorce proceedings, guards a small gate, which alone of all the entrances is not yet nailed shut. Two other watchmen silently patrol the interior. These three persons are the only signs of life remaining in what not so long ago was one of the most active and buzzing film workshops on the coast.

The studio is on Labrea avenue, just around the corner from Sunset boulevard. Fronting the boulevard is the large house, once occupied by Chaplin when Mildred Harris was his wife. Latterly it has been occupied by Syd Chaplin, Charlie's brother. From the rear

New Cast and 6 New Plays for Municipal Opera

FOLLOWING a meeting of the board of directors of the Municipal Theater Association, it was announced yesterday that practically an entire new cast of principals had been engaged for the 12 weeks of al fresco productions which the association will present at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, beginning Monday night, June 6. The opera season will begin a week later than usual, in order to avoid the unfavorable weather that has always been encountered at the start of previous seasons. The closing date is set for Sunday night, Aug. 28.

The Cast Committee of the association returned from New York last week and reported to the directors that it had been decided to re-engage only two members of former casts, and that these two principals had appeared mostly in secondary roles in previous summers. Announcement as to the newcomers is being withheld until signed contracts have been executed. The directors were advised that the 1927 cast would be the best singing organization that has ever taken part in a summer season at the Forest Park amphitheater.

THE directors approved the repertory submitted by the Executive Productions Committee. The list includes 11 light operas and one grand opera. Six of the pieces, "Katinka," "Mikado," "Sari," "Robin Hood," "Miss Springtime" and "Gypsy Love," have been produced previously by the association. The six works which will have initial productions at the Municipal Theater are "Rose Marie," "The Dollar Princess," "The Balkan Princess," "The Serenade," "Princess Pat" and "Tales of Hoffman," the latter being a grand opera, for which special singers will be engaged and which will have a spectacular production along the lines given "Il Trovatore" last summer. The production of "Rose Marie" will be the first made by any company other than those appearing under the management of Arthur Hammerstein, who said that production rights for the piece were given to the local organization solely because of the part that Municipal Opera is playing in developing the art of light opera in America.

Improvement projects at the Municipal Theater are progressing and many new conveniences will be provided for next summer's patrons. New entrances to the auditorium are being built, the stage is being remodeled and arrangements are being made for 450 additional box seats at each performance.

The season reservations and convention orders for next summer now approximate $90,000, the largest advance sale ever recorded so far ahead of a season's opening date. It is believed that when the association begins to accept season orders for the new box locations the amount of reservations will greatly exceed $100,000.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.

MIDWAY through a season made a trifle depressing by more than the average number of dire and even deleterious dramas, it is natural for the confirmed first-nighter to gaze ahead along the serried evenings that stretch away to June—to gaze ahead and wonder pensively on the chances of finding some Monday nights not altogether azure.

Your correspondent stood thus on his little eminence a fortnight ago and shaded his eyes in the approved manner of all dust-mantled wayfarers. The vista seemed uneventful. As far as those eyes could see there was just the prospect of a lot of plays, one much like another (and most of them, oddly enough, by Martin Brown) with here and there, of course, an all-star revival of some old favorite like last Monday's massive resurrection of "Trelawney of the Wells," put on with a troupe selected, seemingly, by an interpreneur minded to solve, in one magnificent gesture, the unemployment problem of the season. Your correspondent sighed and picked up his knapsack prepared to trudge on with something less than that usual elasticity of his which is so often confused with bounce. Yet lo, just ahead, were three of the most satisfying evenings he had enjoyed in many and many a day.

ONE of these was "Saturday's Children" a wise, crisp, absorbing comedy, exquisitely played at the Booth. Of this play, more—much more—hereafter. I feel no immediate urgency in recommending it for even without such drumbeating, the entire citizenry hereabouts seems possessed to get into the Booth all at once. This is giving the Actors' Theater, which produced "Saturday's Children," the new and intoxicating experience of turning people away.

ANOTHER was "Cradle Song" so skillfully staged by the surprising Miss Le Gallienne down in Fourteenth street. This is a tender, rueful comedy wrought from the Spanish of the Sierras—a play as simple and as haunting and as sweet as chimes heard in a green valley. It is a tale spun inside the old walls of a little, hillside convent, filled with fond raillery and at the expense of the fluttering sisters and speeding, as with a kiss of benediction on the brow, the exit into the beckoning outside world of the young, tremulous girl who, 18 years before, had been left a nameless disowned morsel on the convent steps. Across the cool, gentle dusk of this play that world's reminding sunlight throws a latticed pattern of nostalgia and into its gracious hush, the symphony of the world's sounds sifts so muted that it is but half distinguishable from the hum of a myriad of bees

Moliere Comedy and Ibsen Drama To Be Given at Artists' Guild

THE move to establish a Little Theater in St. Louis—a dramatic Little Theater, not a movie house—is taking form rapidly and two rather pretentious offerings are to be made by different organizations. The first of these will be by the Guild Players, who, under the direction of Joseph Solari, will present Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," at the Artists' Guild tomorrow and Tuesday nights.

This comedy has never been produced in St. Louis. It was one of the most popular in Moliere's day and one still wonders at its modernity. The story goes that Moliere's family wanted him to be a doctor but he chose the stage. This comedy was written to satirize the profession for which he had small sympathy.

It concerns the adventures of one Sganarelle, a faggot-maker whose wife, Martine, indignant over a beating received from his hands, meets two servants who are in search of a doctor to treat their master's daughter who has been stricken dumb. Seeing a chance to repay her husband's beating Martine tells them that Sganarelle is a famous doctor but is very eccentric and pretends to be what he is not and the only way to make him confess his knowledge is to take a cudgel and beat him soundly.

With a severe beating as his only license Sganarelle uses his smattering of Latin phrases to bluff his way into a reputation as a great doctor.

The cast includes Gordon B. Sommers as Sganarelle; Emily Phelps as Martine, his wife; Culver L. Hastedt and Percy Ramsay as Valere and Lucas, the servants; Roy H. James as Geronte, the father; Mildred Carpenter as Lucinde, the daughter; Hazel Ewald as nurse Jacqueline, and David Leavitt as Leandre, in love with Lucinde.

The other organization, The Players, is now rehearsing for its forthcoming production of "Hedda Gabler" by Ibsen, which will take place at The Artists' Guild Theater from March 9 to 12, for four performances, which is two more than usual.

"Hedda Gabler" has not been performed professionally in St. Louis since 1908 and this is the first time amateurs have attempted the play here. It will be the most ambitious production The Players have attempted in some time. The production is under the direction of Peter Greig.

Hazel Ewald as Jacqueline in "The Doctor in Spite of Himself."

Children's Concerts By the Symphony

The process of building an intelligent and sympathetic body of concert goers out of the children who are now making their first contacts with music will be continued by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in the fourth young people's concert which will be given in two series at the Odeon.

The first concert of the series will take place Feb. 10, beginning at 3 o'clock, and the second on Feb. 17 at 2:30. Besides the musical program the harp, as a contributing factor in the orchestral ensemble will be discussed by means of lantern slides and demonstrations.

The audience will also take part in the performance of one number. This will be an adaptation of Heinrich Heine's immortal poem, the "Lorelei," to music by Friedrich Silcher. As a means of creating associative ties in the minds of the auditors they will be asked to make up words to fit the principal themes in the final movement of Beethoven's First Symphony. Prizes will be given for the most suitable and original words.

Behind the Screens

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5.

MUCH has been said in motion picture circles since F. W. Murnau made "The Last Laugh" on the value of "camera angles" and unusual lighting effects. Murnau won international recognition by his deft use of these phases of film production in this widely discussed picture, with the result that William Fox brought him to this country from Germany to make "Sunrise," a version of Herman Sudermann's novel, "A Trip to Tilsit," which is now in production at Fox Films West Coast Studios. Mr. Murnau's views on "camera angles," therefore, are interesting.

"Different camera angles and unusual lighting are of value to a picture only when they enhance the dramatic value of the scenes," says the German director. "They should never be used merely as tricks. If they are injected here and there in a picture just to attract attention, then they are a detriment; they take the mind of the audience away from the story and destroy its sequence and hinder its dramatic value. Camera tricks that are just tricks are jolting to the senses of the audience." Murnau is nearing completion of "Sunrise." The cast includes George O'Brien, Janet Gaynor and Margaret Livingston.

CHARLES CHAPLIN still has the record for long lapses between pictures. It is more than a year since "The Gold Rush" was first shown, and there is little prospect of a release for "The Circus," now before late in the spring, or perhaps even early in the fall. In any event, it will be nearly two years between new pictures for Charlie. Meanwhile, a great many of his older ones have been reissued.

Doug Fairbanks is in virtually the same classification as to releases now, although less temperamental about his activities. His new picture, "The Brotherhood of Man," will not go into production until fully a year after the release of "The Black Pirate." A year and a half, at least, will have elapsed ere it is shown.

It will be a year between releases for Mary Pickford this time, Harold Lloyd has been maintaining about an eight months' average in the past year or so. Norma Talmadge's "Camille" will be nearly a year after "Kiki." Constance Talmadge makes her films none too frequently.

TOM MIX, who has been one of the most consistent film-makers in the game for many years, releases seven pictures today where he made an average of 10 to the year not so long ago. He is a good barometer for the program type of picture that is very popular in small town and neighborhood theaters.

Mix declares that he had to work just as hard to make the seven as the 10, but the amount of detail for a picture, the care that has to be given to a story, the more difficult location trips that have to be

Bach Featured On Week's Bill By Symphony

Dusolina Giannini to Be Soloist Friday and Saturday, Singing Arias From "Force of Destiny" and "Lohengrin."

DUSOLINA GIANNINI, the young American prima donna who sings with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra as soloist of the regular concert pair at the Odeon next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, got her first hearing by accident—the inability of another singer to appear on a scheduled program. She had learned how to sing from Mme. Sembrich. She had a voice and talent besides a musical tradition running back in her family for more than a century.

That was witnessed last December when a cable dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from Hamburg, Germany, told of her appearance there in the opera, "Madame Butterfly."

"The critics," said the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "frankly admit that thus far they thought of 'Butterfly' as a rather harmless pretty Oriental girl who deserved pity but did not elicit a particularly strong appeal. Giannini transformed the opera into a gripping accusation against so-called civilization, and especially against false standards of honor adopted by men."

GIANNINI made her unheralded debut in concert less than four years ago. Kurt Schindler had arranged for a program of his Schola Cantorum a group of old Italian folk songs which Anna Case was to sing. Miss Case was suddenly stricken ill and Schindler appealed to Mme. Sembrich for advice and help. Miss Giannini was in the studio at the moment. He heard her voice and 24 hours after she had met the director of that famous choir. Miss Giannini stepped onto the platform of Carnegie Hall, sang five of those songs from memory and was launched upon a career.

For her appearance with the orchestra Miss Giannini will sing two arias: "Pace, Pace mio Dio," from "The Force of Destiny," and "Dich teure Halle," from Lohengrin. The first is the most famous air of Verdi's standard and popular work, that in which the heroine Leonora appeals for death to release her from the complications of tragedy which have stalked her love. The Wagnerian song is one of the composer's greatest and is sung by Elizabeth in greeting to the hall in which the Minnesinger's tournaments are held.

ORCHESTRALLY the program will present as a feature Bach's Second Brandenberg Concerte, written in the key of F major for a quartet consisting of violin, flute, oboe and trumpet, with an accompaniment by orchestra. This presents the principal players of the four sole instruments. Sylvian Noack, concertmaster and solo violinist; John F. Kiburz, solo flutist; Ermete Simonazzi, principal oboe, and Joseph Gustat, principal trumpeter, as the members of the quartet. The work presents unusual difficulties, despite its rare beauty. Bach's trumpets were instruments with a range altogether unknown to the instruments of the present day, and the concerto is presented in an arrangement by the conductor, Felix Mottl, adapting it to modern orchestral performance.

The opening overture, Edward Collins' "Tragic," is a novelty upon this program. It is by a young Chicago composer, pianist and teacher, who was a protege and a pupil of Rudolph Ganz, studying with him at the Chicago Musical College and later in Berlin. The Tragic Overture received the $1000 prize for the best American composition offered at the North Shore Music Festival, Evanston, Ill., last May.

Two Wagnerian excerpts will be heard from the orchestra, the Third Act Prelude and the Nachtgesang of "Tristan and Isolde" and the concert comes to a close with Igor Stravinsky's "Fire-Bird" suite.

The detailed program is:

"Tragic" Overture .... Collins
Aria, "Pace, Pace mio Dio," from the opera "La Forza del Destino" .... Verdi
Two excerpts from "Tristan and Isolde" .... Wagner
(a) Prelude to Third Act; (b) Nachtgesang.
Aria "Dich teure Halle" from "Tannhauser" .... Wagner
INTERMISSION.
Concerte in F major for Violin, Flute, Oboe, Trumpet and Orchestra (Second Brandenberg Concerto) .... Bach

Eden Glee Club Begins Tours.

The Glee Club of Eden Seminary has planned several tours covering a radius of approximately 500 miles a tour. This is in addition to the regular spring tour which takes in a definite section of the country. The first began Friday. Four concerts will be given at Keokuk, Fort Madison, Donnellson and Burlington.

Symphony Concerts for Children.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Symphony concerts for children, like those sponsored in St. Louis by Rudolph Ganz are being fostered by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra with Eric De Lamarter as conductor. The organization is aiding in formation of hundreds of glee clubs in city schools.

DUSOLINA GIANNINI, - Soloist with the Symphony this week...

Facing the Music

GRACE LESLIE, contralto, will make her St. Louis debut as guest artist with the Morning Choral Club Tuesday evening at the Odeon. The concert will be under the direction of Charles Galloway. Membership tickets for this and the second Odeon concert of the club on April 19, when Jurien Hoekstra, baritone, will sing for the first time in this city, may be secured from Mrs. E. Anson More, 4856 Westminster Place. Miss Leslie will sing the Prison Scene Aria from Meyerbeer's "Il Prefeta," and groups of German and Enlish songs. The Club will sing Lee Braum's "Ode to Music," "The Dancer of Fijaaid" and other numbers.

ALL arrangements have been completed for the Feb. 22 concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Odeon and an unusually large mail-order demand for tickets is one evidence of interest. Leopold Stokowski will conduct the orchestra. When he completed his tenth year as head of the orchestra he was chosen as the first recipient of the Philadelphia award. This prize, founded by Edward W. Bok, comprises a cash award of $10,000 and a gold medal by Violet Oakley, and is conferred on the man or woman whose achievements have done most to spread the fame of the city. Stokowski is now in the fifteenth year of his conductorship in Philadelphia, going there from Cincinnati. Stokowski conducts entirely from memory, a feat made all the more remarkable when it is recalled that he conducts more than 100 concerts each season.

Appreciation of the familiar melodies included in previous Sunday concerts by Loew's Orchestra has caused Don Albert to include selections from another Muny Opera favorite in today's concert at 1:30 o'clock. This will be the overture to Victor Herbert's, "The Fortune Teller," introducing the familiar "Gypsy Love-Song."

The Chicago Civic Opera Company, which gives one performance at the Coliseum Friday evening, March 18, opened its tour in Boston last Monday, in "Aida" with the largest receipts in the history of opera in that city. The company comes to the Coliseum in March for the single performance in which the outstanding figure will be Mary Garden who has not been in St. Louis for some seven years. Miss Garden will be surrounded by Cesare Formichi, Ernesto Torti, Jose Mojica, Florence Misgen, Antonio Nicolish, Helen Freund, Desire Defrere, Alice d'Hermanoy, Maria Claessens, Fernand Ansseau, Lorna Doone Jackson and others. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

The Morning Etude Music Club will give its annual frolic Thursday, Feb. 11, at 10:30 a. m. at the Missouri Hotel Auditorium, Eleventh and Locust streets when a comic operetta, "Hearts and Blossoms" will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Carolyn Johnson. In the second act, an original composition, "Brown Sugar Baby" by Alma Russell Morse, a club member, will be interpolated and sung by the composer. Mrs. Madeline Johnson will direct the chorus and Mrs. Louise Gardner will be the accompanist. Mrs. J. Agatstein will be in charge of the dance features.

The fourth free organ recital by William Theo. Diebels, will be given at the New Cathedral this afternoon at 3 o'clock, presenting these boy sopranos of the choir: Richard Lancaster, Richard Osner, William Monahan, Robert Weber and James Woods.

Mme. Edna Swanson Ver Haar has been selected as the artist for the Apollo Club's second concert of this season, to be held at the Odeon Wednesday evening, Feb. 16. Mme. Ver Haar was born in Chicago of Swedish parents and all of her schooling was done in Chicago with the exception of one season in England with Oscar Seagle, the English baritone. She received her early musical education with John Ortengren, who is now treasurer of the Royal Opera in Stockholm, Sweden. The Executive Committee of the club announces that there are still some associate memberships available. Any St. Louisan who is a lover of good music may obtain an associate membership for the two remaining concerts by applying to President Phil A. Becker in the Boatmen's Bank Bldg., the director, secretary, or any active member of the club.

ANIMAL ACTORS IN MOVIES SUPPORT 500 IN STYLE

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 5.—Fred Datig, casting director for Paramount studios, says at least 500 people in the film center live well, eat regularly and have motor cars and bank accounts supported by trained animals working in the pictures.

SECOND THOUGHTS ON FIRST NIGHTS

among the drooping roses on the other side of the wall.

THE third play was "The Road to Rome," which came on Tuesday night to the Playhouse—a challenging and immensely good-humored comedy wherein Robert E. Sherwood, under the guise of spinning a ribald, irresponsible yarn about Hannibal's alarming advance on ancient Rome, unpacks his heart of certain things he had been minded for some time to say on the subject of war, things which he had earned the right to say in the kilts of the Black Watch and the blood and pain of a valley called the Somme.

Believing, I imagine, that all wars are barren, futile outbreaks born of the colossal social and political incompetence of the blundering, incorrigibly childish human race, Mr. Sherwood chose his own dry nonchalant way of saying so. What he did was to turn camp-follower of the dazzling Hannibal's army following that brilliant Carthaginian through Spain and across the angry Rhone, walking precariously behind the elephants in their fabulous negotiation of the Alps and jogging alongside the Numidian cavalry until the very lights of frightened Rome winked from the hills across the valley. And he made this march only that he might turn on Hannibal on that eve of fruition and ask: "What of it?"

That is always a disturbing question. Dorothy Parker, in her incomparable "Enough Rope," asks it in one devastating quatrain called "Philosophy" which runs in this wise:

> If I should labor through daylight > and dark,
> Consecrate, valorous, serious, true,
> Then on the world I may blazon my > mark;
> And what if I don't, and what > if I do?

And that question, which can make us all uneasy at any time, is peculiarly unsettling to the soldier who, after coming out, if at all, from bloody battle, is always at a loss for an answer to the question in his own heart as to why in the name of common sense he had ever gone into it.

The author of "The Road to Rome" puts it gravely to Hannibal—frames it in the red, provoking lips of a Roman matron who, on hearing that there was likely to be a good deal of violating of Roman womanhood in event of the Carthaginian's sacking the eternal city, had hustled out to meet the invaders with the vague notion of not leaving the assault upon herself to the caprice of tasteless inconsiderate chance. It is this lovely lady who comes to Hannibal's tent on the eve of triumph and upsets all history by whispering in his tired ears the pertinent but destructive question: "Why have you done all this?" For the life of him, Hannibal cannot think of an answer. At the mere disturbing suggestion that he just try being real for once in a way, his sword-arm drops to his side and puzzled Rome is left to attend, in due time, to its own destruction.

SHERWOOD tells all this in the racy idiom of his own day. It is the same device which has so popularized Professor Erskine's recent dalliance with Miss Sparta and still more recent speculations as to the faintly distasteful reputation of one Galahad. But before the Erskine books enriched that embarrassed pedagogue, Maurice Baring had done it all most gaily in his book called "Diminutive Dramas"—equally historical pieces every one of them and every one fit for the stage albeit a producer might well be reluctant to present a play like "The Bridge," for instance, which calls for a cast of 2000 and lasts only five minutes.

A fair sample of the Baring method is that brief, shrewd comedy called "Catherine Parr," wherein one is vouchsafed a glimpse of Henry the Eighth at breakfast with his sixth wife and can relish the aggrevating trick she has of accepting his slightest disapproval of the way the eggs are cooked as a signal that she would better prepare her pretty head for the block.

SHERWOOD has no end of fun with the Hundred Per Cent Romans and with Hannibal's dawning suspicions that not the great god Ba-al but more likely the Carthage Chamber of Commerce was backing his expedition. Most I think he enjoyed writing that colloquy of the three slouching infantrymen at ease in Hannibal's headquarters, echoing deliberately, as it does, the chorus of the corporals in "What Price Glory" and winding up when one of the lounging Carthaginians, after hearing his fill of his buddy's grousing, yawns and says: "Well, you WOULD see the world, soldier."

Since, in his leisure moments, Mr. Sherwood edits that jocose weekly called "Life," I might suggest that he direct one of his artists to conjure up a picture of the Skeptics' Society meeting in a state of exhaustion after their effort to decide whether, as a matter of fact, all roads to lead to Rome. I make the suggestion here without hope of material reward, just as I can think of no way to repay the First Wit of his Time who, in the rush of Tuesday night, helped a harried colleague out by proposing a title for his review. It was his notion that it should be "Good Gracious, Hannibal."

taken, and the larger number of people engaged in a production, have necessitated more time and effort as regards each picture.

Babe Ruth will start in his new role as film star playing opposite Anna Q. Nilsson in a production called "Babe Comes Home," early in this month. Ruth is expected to finish his camera work in about a month, which will allow him ample time to resume his spring baseball practice at St. Petersburg, Fla. The King of Swat was on a vaudeville tour of Cailfornia when offered the screen job as leading man for the film version of Gerald Beaumont's baseball story, "Said With Soap."

Production is on the increase at the Famous Players-Lasky studio here. Twelve pictures are now under way, with others in preparation.

"Rough House Rosie," Clara Bow's next starring vehicle, which Frank Strayer is directing is one. Two other stars have begun work in their respective productions, Pola Negri in a screen adaptation, as yet untitled, of one of Ernest Vajda's plays, under the direction of Mauritz Stiller, and Emil Jannings in his first American-made vehicle, "The Man Who Forgot God," under the guidance of Victor Fleming.

Also in production on the lot are "Wings," the air service epic, whose company has just returned from the San Antonio location; "Special Delivery," Eddie Cantor's second screen comedy; "Evening Clothes," with Adolph Menjou as the star; "Afraid to Love," starring Florence Vidor; a new picture starring Wallace Beery; "Ritzy," the Elinor Glyn story in which Betty Bronson is starring; "Too Many Crooks," co-featuring Mildred Davis and Lloyd Hughes; Raymond Griffith's next attraction; "Fashions for Women," Esther Ralston's first starring vehicle.

"Soundings," with Lois Moran and Douglas Gilmore in the leading roles, and "Arizona Bound," Gary Cooper's starring vehicle, are slated to start within a few days. "Children of Divorce,' "A Kiss in a Taxi" and "The Mysterious Rider' have just been completed.

Dolores Del Rio, the Charmaine of "What Price Glory," has been proposed for the leading roles in film transformations of "Carmen" and "Tosca," for Fox. Victor McLaglen will be her toreador.

Conrad Veidt, German screen star, has arrived with his wife and child to play in "The Chinese Parrot,' based on a mystery play by Earl Derr Biggers. Veidt is known in this country for his parts in "The Three Wax-Works," "The Cabinet of Dr. Cagligari' and "Ivan, the Terrible."

David Wark Griffith, according to reports, is to become associated with the Pathe company and will begin work under this new management soon. It is said he will make two pictures and supervise eight for Pathe. The films will be made here on the coast.

Gloria Swanson has issued a denial of the published report that she would quit the independent field and United Artists after one more picture on her own and return to Famous-Players-Lasky. She says she is happy in her new work and adds that the new film is to be called "The Love of Sunya."

Evelyn Brent has completed one of the featured roles opposite Thomas Meighan in "Blind Alleys," and is back on the West coast. Her next assignment is one of the principal roles in the picturization by Arthur Rosson of Ben Hecht's "Underworld," a story of gang life in which Ricardo Cortez has the male lead. Miss Brent will play the sweetheart of a gang leader.

First National announces that "The Little Cafe" will be produced at the Burbank studio with Leon Errol as star. It is a translation by Tristan Bernard of the French musical comedy, "Le Petite Cafe." Errol recently made "The Lunatic at Large" for First National in the East.

Dr. Rudolph Lothar is now a member of the film colony of the West Coast and has been engaged to write several original stories for production on the screen. Dr. Lothar resided in Vienna for 30 years, with many trips to other parts of Europe interspersed. His travels have embraced France, Italy, Spain, Switzerland and other countries and his dramatic work includes 25 stage plays produced in practically all languages.

Madge Bellamy and Lawrence Gray have gone to Long Island where they began work immediately as sweethearts in Herbert Brenon's production temporarily entitled "The Telephone Girl." Other principals in the cast, are Warner Baxter, May Allison, Holbrook Blinn, Hale Hamilton, Hamilton Revelle and William E. Shay.

With the final assembling of several spectacular scenes of the Battle of Jutland, Robert Kane's picture of the navy, "Convoy," is at last ready for preview. The serial was four months in the making. The pictures of the marine battle were borrowed from the German and British Navy Departments, while the United States Navy Department co-operated in the production of the picture by lending several reels of the American battle squadron made during the war. Dorothy Mackaill, Lowell Sherman, Lawrence Gray, William Collier Jr., Ian Keith, Jack Ackroyd, Ione Holmes, Gail Kane, Vincent Serrano and Eddie Gribbon head the cast.

The last shot of the Spanish-American War has been fired, nearly 29 years after the close of the historic encounter in Cuba. It marked the filming of the last scene of "The Rough Riders." Victor Fleming is directing. The picture, which features Noah Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell, Charles Emmett Mack, Mary Astor and Frank Hopper, now goes to the cutting department to be assembled.

Monte Brice, who just completed "Casey at the Bat," Wallace Beery's first starring vehicle, as his megaphone assignment, will Beery again in "Fireman, Save Child."

"Cradle Snatchers," the stage farce, has gone into picture production. Louise has the lead role. Others cast are Dorothy Phillips, Wales, Phillip Smalley, Nick Joseph Striker, Sammy Cohen Arthur Lake.

"Ankles Preferred," a drama featuring Madge has just been completed. The includes J. Farrell Macdonald, lan Forrest, Barry Norton, Compton, Lillian Elliott and Housman.

The title of Constance madge's latest picture has definitely set as "Venus of Also, Carmelita Geraghty, Hopper, Mario Carillo, Tom etts and Charles Herzinger been added to the cast with tonio Moreno, Playing opposite star; Julanne Johnston, Martindel, Michael Vavitch, Vaverka, Arthur Thalasso, Andre Lenoy. BUREAU OF MINES DIRECTOR PRAISES ANTI-SMOKE LEAGUE

St. Louis Commended for Vigorous Campaign; $250,000 to Be Sought in Campaign.

The work of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League has attracted the attention of the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Commerce at Washington. O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the bureau, in a letter to William G. Christy, executive secretary of the league, commends the "vigorous way in which St. Louis people have taken hold of their smoke problem."

"You already have made useful contributions to the technical and administrative phases of the subject," he wrote. "You have demonstrated the need for a continuous effort such as is given to other municipal housekeeping matters, and a realization of and provision for such sustained effort is the best guarantee of ultimate success."

It was largely on the recommendation of Hood that the league decided this week to launch its campaign for $250,000 for a three-year working program, Christy said.

Shows Temper by Breaking Bread.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Gen. Erich Ludendorff discloses his temper by the manner in which he breaks his bread, said Prof. Hugo Vogel, who was commissioned to paint Ludendorff at army headquarters during the war.

"Ludendorff has a peculiar habit of breaking his bread in small bits the minute he sits down for a meal," Vogel says. "These small pieces of bread he moulds into pellets. If he makes them slowly, with one hand only, it means he is in good humor. If he turns them quickly, a storm is brewing. And if he uses both hands, things are in pretty bad shape and everybody is extremely careful not to irritate him."

Home Skin Peeler Keeps Face Young

The skin is very sensitive and must be given great care in order to keep it beautifully soft and velvety. Harsh winds and cold weather raise havoc with a woman's complexion, and particularly, when they are in and out of public buildings, stores, elevated trains or street cars, at this season usually overheated, then out into the cold, crisp air. Such changes of temperature cause the aged skin to contract and expand, to become dry, sallow, rough and lifeless. There is nothing better for removing this parched mask of skin and bringing to the surface the new skin of youth, than pure mercolized wax. Obtain an ounce from any drug store or beauty counter and apply to your face, like cold cream, before retiring and wash off in the morning. Dead skin, freckles, moth patches and liver spots will be gently, but surely, washed away with the wax. No discomfort to you. Your face will feel youthfully smooth and satiny, with cheeks glowing and tinted softly as a rose petal. Try it today. It's marvelous. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

NEIGHBORHOOD ART CENTERS DEVELOPED

St. Louis League Exhibiting 232 Pictures by 73 Artists in Eight Sections.

Development in the last year in St. Louis of a group of continuous "Neighborhood Art Center Exhibitions," offering a new factor in the American art movement, is announced by the Exhibitions Committee of the St. Louis Art League, in issuing a catalog for eight such displays now going on simultaneously. The collections contain 232 pictures by 73 artists, and are located in seven branch public libraries and at the Neighborhood House.

A year ago, citing a series of art extension exhibitions held at the Carondelet Library as a success, the plan was announced to extend this service so as to have local art center displays north, south, east and west in the city and its environs, where would be shown well-chosen examples of art and more particularly the work of artists of St. Louis. A beginning was made with collections of Missouri landscapes.

The committee believes that the co-operative Neighborhood Art Centers, as now established in St. Louis, form one of the most effective and characteristically American developments in the movement to make art familiar, as far as possible, to everybody; and the idea is expected to spread.

Practical Educational Value.

For years the St. Louis Art League has sent traveling exhibitions for display both within St. Louis and to neighboring cities. No such thoroughly organized work as the present undertaking has previously been attempted, however, and the committee considers that once more St. Louis is offering other cities a new educational suggestion of great practical value.

The neighborhood art exhibition is a natural growth here in St. Louis. The Public Library and some of its branches, with several of the public schools, a number of clubs and some hotels, frequently have given space for the league's "extension exhibitions," after opening displays at the City Art Museum or the Artists' Guild galleries, but the development of this work received a severe setback when the war put art aside as nonessential, and since that time it has languished.

Credit is given by the Art League Committee primarily to the unselfish co-operative spirit of the artists of St. Louis, who have affiliated in this enterprise and contributed their work often at the expense of refusing other demands.

Co-operation Helps Movement.

Co-operation of the Public Library and its branches and other institutions where art-interested people are associated, has provided a practical basis for the movement. Naturally, public desire for this service was first felt in the libraries, because, the committee believes, the very existence of the branch library is in itself a demand that cultural facilities be taken to the people, instead of being concentrated exclusively in a central location not at all times convenient to reach.

The Art League Committee puts forward the neighborhood art center idea as modern in spirit from the viewpoint of economy as well as in other ways.

"When a satisfactory art exhibition is assembled," the committee says, "it always represents a heavy cost to the artists as well as a considerable expense to the sponsoring organization, and sometimes after a great deal of effort the exhibition is shown only to a comparatively small group of people

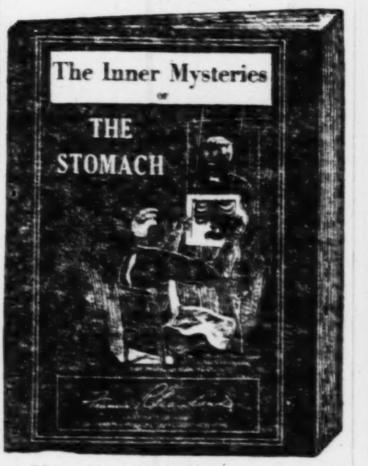
STOMACH SUFFERERS
NOTICE!



The Inner Mysteries of THE STOMACH

Here is a new free book entitled "The Inner Mysteries of the Stomach" written by a physician specialist who has studied the workings of the human stomach and vital organs for over thirty years. It is finely illustrated with X-Ray photos revealing facts regarding the most probable cause of your troubles that have been ignored by doctors for years! If you value your health and wish to be free from stomach disorders and troubles arising therefrom, write for a copy of this wonderful new book! Its free distribution is aiding the authorities to decrease the appalling high death rate due to ignorance, wrong diagnosis and neglect of unsuspected, serious stomach disorders that have kept people doctoring without relief for weeks, months and in some cases years. Any reader of this paper can obtain a copy of "The Inner Mysteries of the Stomach" absolutely free by sending letter or post card requesting it, to department below.

Address, Dr. F. R. Ward, Dept. 17-O, 241 West 72nd St., New York, N. Y.

Neighborhood Art Centers

belonging exclusively to a limited circle, so that the general public is reached only by items in the press.

"But once assembled and catalogued, such an exhibition, if appropriate, can be taken around the city and shown in wider circles, at a relatively small expense. Perhaps in no other way can it reach such large numbers of people. Even the annual thumb-box exhibition, it is noted, after being seen by thousands at the City Art Museum, finds new interest in this way, and in return, it is suggested, is likely to start some new visitors toward the museum."

Art Centers and Exhibits.

The group of art centers with the exhibitions as now installed include:

Carondelet Library, 6700 Michigan avenue, 62 pictures by 34 artists.

Soulard Library, Soulard and Seventh streets, 32 pictures by 27 artists.

Barr Library, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, 14 pictures by 10 artists.

Divoll Library, Eleventh and Farrar streets, 14 pictures by 14 artists.

Sherman Library, Kingshighway and Easton avenues, 43 pictures by 34 artists.

Crunden Library, Fourteenth street and Cass avenue, 24 pictures by 15 artists.

Wellston Library, 1634 Hodiamont avenue, 16 pictures by 12 artists.

Neighborhood House, Nineteenth and Wash street, 45 pictures by 28 artists.

Each of these exhibitions, through the selection of the examples, the Exhibition Committee suggests, gives an impressive idea as to the scope and strength of St. Louis art.

In some of the libraries the architectural dispositions lend themselves to the distribution of many pictures in several rooms. In other instances, the library has but one room, and the wall space available for pictures is perhaps rigidly set by the spacing of the windows. The Divoll Library, with its main feature a single, large, fine room with wide spaces between the windows, has seemed to call for a limited number of quite large, impressive canvases. The Soulard Library, somewhat similar architecturally, but with many windows closely spaced, calls for a larger number of pictures smaller in size. The Carondelet Library, in which many Art League exhibitions already have been held, lends itself remarkably well to the arrangement of a large and varied collection. The Barr Library building, somewhat like the Carondelet in arrangement, has three principal rooms in which art exhibits, such as the present, including several important pictures, can be shown to advantage.

Space at Sherman Park.

The Sherman Park Library, occupying a very spacious room in the Sherman Park Community Center building, has a number of large wall spaces, and in one of these is installed a notable decoration by Richard Miller, with several figures about life-size, while other walls show decorative landscapes by Prof. Wuerpel. Here also is the noteworthy and expansive painting of the old Courthouse, by Charles K. Gleeson, to which a jury of New York artists awarded the $500 prize given by the Art League for the best picture of that year's local salon.

The Neighborhood House is an especially interesting center of art educational interest. A collection was installed there about a year ago in honor of the opening of the new building, and it has been necessary to keep the installation going ever since, with changes from time to time, as the young people of Neighborhood House are much interested, and Director L. C. Harnish says that the spirit would be taken out of the place if it were deprived of the art display. Here, especially, the arrangement of the pictures has little of the feeling of a formal exhibition. The architectural character of the building seems to make art at home, instead of accepting it as an honored visitor.

Artists Exhibiting Work.

The artists now participating in the neighborhood art center exhibitions include:

Prof. John S. Ankeney, Federico Aquardo, Joseph Banks, Tom P. Barnett, William Bauer, Paul F. Berdanier, J. Charles Berninghaus, Oscar F. Berninghaus, Mrs. C. F. Bischoff, Thomas R. Blow, Sheila Burlingame, Leola Bullivant, Augusta Calman, Frederick Green Carpenter, Fred J. Carpenter, Mildred Bailey Carpenter, Kathryn Cherry, Carroll C. Supper to Follow College Club Show

AN attractive supper party hase been arranged in the Crystal ballroom of Hotel Chase following the College Club benefit performance of the "Vagabond King" Feb. 21, at the Shubert Rialto Theater. The decorations will be in red and white, and colors of the College Club. Dancing will follow the supper.

A new series of entr'acts have been planned for the performance. The singing of college songs will be limited to a few and other schools will be brought into prominence by speeches by prominent local alumni, interspersed with original poems to be read to the audiense.

The College Club statistics show that $35,000 have been spent in the past 20 years for the furthering of college education. One hundred twenty-seven young women have been presented with freshman scholarships, and 65 loans have been made to others for sophomore, junior and senior work. Of the scholarships, 62 were for Washington University; 31 for the University of Missouri and the remainder scattered among Eastern schools.

MISS MARY EUGSTER
Of Bedford, England, the guest of Mrs. Hayward Gatch of 32 Portland place.
—Ashen-Brenner.

Mrs. Oscar Bilharz of Kansas City today announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Natalie Elizabeth Bilharz and Guido R. Rahr of Manitowoc, Wis. The Bilharz family resided in St. Louis until a few years ago and have many friends here.

Miss Bilharz is a graduate of Hosmer Hall and of Pine Manor, Wellesley, Mass. The wedding will take place in the late spring.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clark Smith of Douglastan, Long Island, N. Y., who has been visiting Mrs. Charles H. Gore of 4252 McPherson avenue, departed Wednesday for her home. She was accompanied by Mrs. Gore's daughter, Miss Laura Gore, who will be her guest until late in the spring.

MISS HELEN MARTHA WOODS
She has departed with her father, Parker H. Woods, and Mrs. Woods for a trip to Florida and Cuba.
—Kandeler.

Mrs. Hudson Bridge of the Forest Park Hotel will depart the latter part of the week for Miami, Fla., where she will make a late winter visit. Mr. Bridge departed for Miami yesterday.

Mrs. John McHenry Dean of 6401 Ellenwood avenue, assisted by Mrs. Robert Bonnell and Mrs. Allan Wyman will entertain informally the members of the Smith College Club, Wednesday, at 12:30 o'clock.

Speakers for February Announced by the Junior League Club

Refugee Russian Baroness Among Speakers—Duplicate Bridge Tournaments and "Open Day" Added.

AN extended and more comprehensive program, to be put into effect this month, has been announced by the Activities Committee of the Junior League Club, Mrs. Edward Schofield Travers, chairman. In addition to the Monday morning lectures by various speakers, which have been part of the winter programs for several years, there will be a 1 o'clock luncheon followed by a duplicate bridge tournament, on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, with Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom in charge.

The first round table discussion on the subject, "Philippine Independence," will be held next Thursday morning under the direction of Miss Lenore Cahill. Each Friday of the month will be known as "Open Day," when a specially prepared luncheon will be served, to which members of the league are priviledged to bring non-member friends. Miss Alice Scott, president of the local chapter, and Mrs. O. P. Joseph Falk, have been appointed chairmen of open day arrangements.

Each of the foregoing events will be held in the Junior League Club rooms, 4914 Maryland avenue, which were fitted up a year ago for meetings, examinations of provisional members, and for the completion of work done in the occupational therapy department of the league.

The February calendar for the lectures is as follows: Monday, Feb. 7, Dr. William L. Sullivan on "Current History"; Feb. 14, Homer St. Gaudens on "The Spirit of Modern Art"; Feb. 21, Baroness C. de Hueck, "My Experiences in the Russian Revolution"; Feb. 28, Dr. William L. Sullivan, "The Wilderness of Philosophy and Some Rules for Finding Our Way Through It." The lectures are open to anyone interested and begin at 11 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained at the club rooms.

ADAPTO SHOES
for STOUT WOMEN and MISSES
IT'S hard to believe, when you look at any beautiful pair of ADAPTO Shoes, that they are going to be supremely comfortable to wear. ADAPTOS have none of the frumpy appearance of so-called "health shoes". But you will sense their comfort-giving features the moment you put these shoes on. Their high arches will curve up to fit and support your own arches, restfully, properly. Their narrow heel seats will glove-grip your own heels snugly. You'll be absolutely foot-free, comfortable!... If ordinary shoes have cruelly distorted your feet, first visit our Foot Service Department* for free examination and professional advice. Then start a new day in ADAPTO Shoes—designed for your comfort, styled for your pleasure. Sizes up to 11, widths AAA to EEE.

Weddings and Engagements of The Last Week

Mrs. Herbert T. Brown of 6675 Washington boulevard, gave an attractive bridge luncheon Saturday, Jan. 29, for her daughter, Miss Virginia Lee Brown. The table was elaborately decorated with pink roses, with a rose at each plate to which were tied tiny pink hearts, one for each of eleven of the guests on which appeared the words, "In the heart of a rose a message you will find." The twelfth guest was given a scroll on which was written in old English, "This 29th day of January announces the engagement of Miss Virginia Lee Brown to Mr. Felix William Boldt—sealed by the rose"; and in one corner appeared the words, "Notary Uublic."

Mr. Boldt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boldt of 6300 Enright avenue.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Sylvia Brody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Brody of 5829 De Giverville avenue, and Samuel Gartenberg of Hot Springs, Ark., took place Tuesday night in the Oriental room of the Forest Park Hotel, Rabbi Halpern officiating. There were no attendants. The bride wore a white crepe gown trimmed in lace and embroidered in rhinestones and carried roses and lilies of the valley. A dinner for the immediate families followed, and later there was a reception for 200 guests in the ballroom of the hotel.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Peter Gartenberg, mother of the bridegroom; his brother, Lee Gartenberg; his sister, Miss Pearl Gartenberg, and Clifford Scholem, all of Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gartenberg will make their home in Hot Springs, Ark.

Miss Marie Rollig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Rollig of 700 Fairview avenue, Webster Groves, and Richard Bolston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bolston, were married Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Christ Evangelical Church of Maplewood, the Rev. C. Fritsch officiating. Mrs. Alice Brewer, sister of the bridegroom served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Bernardo, Miss Mildred Berthold, Miss Adele Ellebrecht, Miss Margaret Bolz and Miss Helen Temple. Marvelle Michel, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Allen Bolston, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the groomsmen were Grover Wood, Paul Dieckmann, Jack Schaefer, Price Temple and Harry Michel. Kenneth Kamp, James McKee, Paul Dieckman and Leo Harvey served as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of ivory georgette, made with a court train of bridal satin beaded in crystal beads and rhinestones and lined with fresh georgette. Her veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Brewer was gowned in flesh georgette and carried butterfly roses. The bridesmaids wore georgette gowns of rainbow hues and carried old-fashioned bouquets of roses. The flower girl wore a frock of pink crepe de chine.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Maplewood Masonic Temple and a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 700 Fairview avenue, Webster Groves. Mr. and Mrs. Bolston are making their home with the latter's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grosberg of 1275 Amherst place announce the engagement of their daughter, Sadie, to Samuel H. Schiffar.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lerner have returned from their honeymoon in Atlantic City, New York and Washington, and are making their home at 6606 Enright avenue. Mrs. Lerner was Miss Norma Bilins before her marriage.

The marriage took place Dec. 26 last at Hotel Chase, Rabbi Halpern officiating. A wedding dinner and a reception followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Harris of 5237 Ashland avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Opal Ruth Harris, to Richard F. Kleimeier, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Kleimeier of 4540 Natural Bridge road. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Betty Resnick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Resnick of 1341 Montclair avenue, will become the bride of William Greenstan this evening at 6:30 o'clock. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's father, and Rabbi Rosentrater will officiate.

The marriage of Miss Alice Barbeau of St. Louis, and William H. Edmondson of Nashville, Tenn., took place Thursday in Nashville. The bride was attended by Mrs. William A. Kirkpatrick, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Kirkpatrick was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson will reside at 830 Seventh avenue, South, Nashville.

February Program at Art Museum.

The Art Museum announces for the month of February the following activities: A memorial exhibition of paintings by Max Bohm; an exhibit of paintings by William Ritschel, an illustrated lecture on Feb. 12 at 3:15 p. m. by Miss Clara Blattner on "Japanese Festivals"; a lecture on Feb. 26 at 3:15 by Prof. Lawrence Hill of Washington University on "America's Contribution to Architecture."

Minister to Address Junior Chamber.

The Rev. John F. Caskey, pastor of the University Methodist Church, will address a general meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, 511 Locust street, Thursday night. A business meeting will be held at 8:30 p. m. and a program of entertainment will follow.

DR. JONES QUITS COMMITTEE

Aided in Collection of Fund for Tower at Missouri U.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 5.—The University Committee of Nine, which carried to success the raising of $1,000,000 for the building of the first units of the University of Missouri Memorial Tower and Stadium, today announced the resignation of Dr. J. C. Jones, who for three and one-half years personally directed the raising of $900,000 for those projects.

Dr. Jones presented his resignation to the committee on Dec. 1. He stated that the remainder of the work was largely of a routine nature.

Special Washington Service, Feb. 20

St. Louis Chapter, Sons of the Revolution, have arranged to honor the memory of George Washington at a divine patriotic service at Christ Church Cathedral at 11 a. m., Feb. 20. Dean William Scarlett has prepared a special service for the occasion. Other patriotic societies have been invited to join with the St. Louis Chapter in the service.

D. A. R. Luncheon Feb. 22.

The Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in the city and county are planning a luncheon Feb. 22 in celebration of George Washington's Birthday, in the Palm Room of Hôtel Chase. The five chapters to participate will be the Cornelia Green Chapter, Mrs. Frederick W. Green, regent; Douglas Oliver Chapter, Mrs. G. F. Groner, regent; Jefferson Chapter, Mrs. Lon Sanders, regent; St. Louis Chapter, Mrs. Howard Bailey, regent; Webster Groves Chapter, Mrs. Frank Thompson, regent. Mrs. W. W. Botts, state regent, of Mexico, Mo., and other State officers, will be guests at the luncheon, and other guests will be Mrs. Wallace Delafield, honorary vice-president general, and three former vice-presidents general, Mrs. Benjamine F. Gray, Mrs. Samuel McKnight Green and Mrs. John Trigg Moss.

The speaker will be Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of Second Baptist Church, and a musical program will be given, under the supervision of Mrs. Edward Glion Curtis. Mrs. Howard general chairman for the eon, and Mrs. O. S. Wi man of arrangements.

GOD WANTS ROUGHNECKS IN CHURCH, DR. MACIVOR SAYS

Addresses Committee of 247 in Effort to Fill Pews at Sunday Night Services.

God wants in His church the roughneck, the dissipated, the liar and the thief; He wants poor people as well as the rich, and many of these have real undeveloped power, it was declared yesterday by Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, at a luncheon at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

The luncheon was for the committee of 247, organized to give aid in a campaign to fill the pews of the church at the Sunday night services, for which a new program has been arranged, a large part of which is composed of music, with an antiphonal choir and congregational singing. L. C. Haworth, general secretary of the St. Louis "Y," chairman of the committee, presided.

It was announced that the effort being made for Sunday evening attendance is not intended as a boom but a year-around effort.

Cornell Professor to Speak Today.

The dangers to a world peace and a sound social development, lurking in racial animosities, will be discussed by Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell University in his address on "The Challenge of Race" before the Ethical Society of St. Louis, 3648 Washington boulevard, at 11 a. m. today. "What Is Race?" and "Have Racial Distinctions Originated and Perpetuated Themselves?" will be other questions propounded and answered by him.

Presbyterian Dinner Feb. 17.

The annual moderator's dinner for Presbyterians of the city will be held at the West Presbyterian Church, Maple and Maryville avenues, Tuesday evening, Feb. 17. Arrangements are being made for the accommodation of 500 men and women from the Presbyterian Churches of the city and vicinity. The occasion will be informal and the guest and speaker of the evening will be the Rev. William Oxley Thompson, D. D. LL.D., moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

SPRING FROCKS

Fifteen Hundred Charming New Dresses in Smart Modes and Fashionable Fabrics, Await Your Choice in Our Specialized Group at

$25

MONDAY is the day when the Spring mode makes its first complete appearance in our $25 Dress groups—when hundreds of new Frocks will reveal the fashion-news that smart women and misses are eager for at this season. The wide selection and the very superior character of the Dresses shown is a reminder of this fact; that our specialization in Frocks at $25 results in an extra measure of STYLE and VALUE in every Frock you choose from this group—which is a permanent feature on our Apparel Floor.

Advance Fashions—Smart Fabrics—New Colors in Spring Frocks for All Daytime Events

NECKLINES, sleeves, girdles, skirts—all vital points of fashion interest that receive in these Frocks the treatments that date them "Spring, 1927." New are the compose color harmonies so charmingly shown in original ways; new is the use of intricate tucks and pleats. New are the Frocks of National Park Prints so distinctive in coloring and design. New, indeed, is the picture presented by each Frock in this complete collection of modes in Georgette, silk crepe, printed silks, satins and novelty weaves, in all the lovely new green, blue, rose and beige tones, and in NAVY BLUE, which is to be a Spring favorite.

Careless Washing Spoils the Hair

The simple hair styles of today make beautiful hair a necessity.

Luckily, beautiful hair is now easily obtained. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Why Fat Is Being Fought

Largely because of short skirts. But more because a slender figure suggests health and youth and vitality.

Look about you—note how slenderness prevails. Then ask those people how they get it.

Many will mention Marmola Prescription Tablets. It is the easy, pleasant method which acts by correcting the cause. People have used it for 19 years. The use has grown and grown, until people now are using Marmola in a very extensive way.

This method is easy and pleasant. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. The method is scientific, based on modern research. It is helpful and effective, else it never could have gained the place it holds.

Learn what Marmola means to you, as multitudes have done. Perhaps you have tried strenuous exercise and starvation. Now try the easier, more enduring way. If fat is offensive to you and your friends, do this to end it—now. Then tell others the results, as others will gladly tell you.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Webster Groves

Feb. 4, at bridge. There were three tables.

The Immortals will at their meeting Friday evening, Feb. 11, have as the principal speakers Mr. C. C. Austin and Mr. L. D. Tilton.

Mrs. G. A. Veninga of Gore avenue entertained a number of friends with an informal bridge party, Saturday evening, Feb. 5.

Library day will be celebrated tomorrow. Those who care to have been asked to donate some book that can be added to the shelves of the library, or an amount toward the purchase of new books. In the afternoon at the Monday Club, where the library is now situated, Miss Jane Morey of the Missouri Library Commission will talk on the need of the public library. There will also be other speakers.

Mrs. H. C. Orchard, gave a bridge luncheon Thursday at the Algonquin Golf Club.

Mrs. M. C. Seropyan, was hostess Thursday afternoon at a bridge luncheon.

Mrs. John W. Freudenberg gave a luncheon Wednesday in honor of Mrs. W. B. Mitchell of Bartlesville, Ok., who is the house guest of Mrs. J. O. Buchta.

Mrs. H. E. Englesmann of Mason avenue has gone to California for a few weeks.

Mrs. H. J. Leschen gave a bridge luncheon Friday.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, will hold its regular meeting Tuesday with Mrs. H. R. Newcomb, in charge. Mrs. Lyle Campbell will give a talk on Alaska.

The Saturday Night Dancing Club gave its first dance for the month of February, last evening, at the Monday Club.

Mrs. W. H. Mitchener, departed last week for Marion, Ill., where she will make her home.

Mrs. H. C. Butler returned Monday from a short stay in Peoria, Ill.

SEVERAL CHANGES IN PLANS FOR ACTORS' FUND DINNER

The Committee on Arrangements and several sponsors of the dinner party for the benefit of the Actors' Fund, for which the St. Louis quota is $15,000, will meet Tuesday afternoon at the American Theater to discuss important changes in the original plans. Conflicting dates have caused the committee to abandon that part of the entertainment providing for attendance of the guests at a performance of "The Vagabond King," which plays in St. Louis the week of Feb. 20.

The plan for selling tickets to the dinner and entertainment at $25 each also has been abandoned, it was said. A smaller fee will be charged. Internationally known stars from New York are expected to attend, and every actor and actress playing in St. Louis at the time will take part in the entertainment.

Ex-Mayor Kiel is chairman of the campaign. Those who will serve with him are H. Worthington Eddy, vice chairman; Thomas H. Lovelace, secretary; M. E. Holderness, treasurer; Mayor Miller, Col. J. G. Miller, Paul J. Wielandy, Max Koenigsberg, C. W. Hatfield, Col. Martin J. Collins, Algernon F. A. Grieg, Otto E. Rugg, Walter Donaldson, Walter Weisenberger, David E. Russell and Paul Seisman. The St. Louis Theatrical Managers' Association is arranging the entertainment program.

Memorial Meeting for Noted Hebrew.

An Achad Ha'Am memorial meeting is being arranged by the Hebrew Teachers' Association for Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Shaare Zedek Auditorium, West End and Page avenues. Achad Ha'Am, whose real name was Asher Ginsberg, died at his home in Tel Aviv, Palestine, Jan. 2, 1927, at the age of 70 years. He was a famous Hebrew philosopher and interpreter of the authentic Hebraic spirit and father and exponent of spiritual Zionism. Well-known speakers will address the meeting, which will be open to the public.

Army Captain to Address Women.

Capt. R. A. Byers, Adjutant of the 102nd Division, United States Army, will speak on "The Army and Navy Bill" and Mrs. Gilbert R. Fox will speak on "Child Welfare" before the Republican Woman's Club, at the Chamber of Commerce at 2 p. m. next Thursday.

JUBILEE SINGERS AT WOMEN'S EXPOSITION

School Children to Be Admitted Free When Accompanied by Their Parents.

The second annual Woman's National Exposition, which is entering on its second week at the Coliseum, will have an augmented entertainment program and increased exhibits and activities at many of the booths and concessions beginning tomorrow.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers from Nashville, Tenn., will give three concerts daily at the Exposition, at 2, 7:30 and 10 p. m. Their program will include folk songs, spirituals and Southern melodies. No extra charge will be made for the concerts, which are open to all Exposition visitors.

The attendance last week, according to the report of the management, exceeded expectations. From the opening day, Jan. 20, to last night, the visitors increased steadily in numbers and the exhibits and entertainment program held not only the attention of all guests, but received flattering and complimentary comment.

Indian Blankets Sold.

The Indian women rug weavers and pottery makers were the center of attention at all times, with the result that visitors have purchased for future delivery practically all the Navajo blankets contained in the large exhibit. A local private rug collector visited the exhibit last Thursday and reserved upwards of $250 worth of small scatter rugs. The display is under the direction of the United States Department of the Interior and the rugs, blankets and pottery are the work of the Indian women.

The home extension department of the Agriculture College of the University of Missouri, which has an exhibition of the work of the Girls' 4-H Clubs, will continue to give daily demonstration this week of the accomplishments of its members in home economics and farming activities.

The pupils of the St. Louis public schools will continue to present their demonstrations in cooking, dressmaking, millinery and the fine arts. These demonstrations take place every evening in the six booths maintained by the St. Louis Board of Education at the exposition.

Children, With Parents, Free.

On account of the advantages which may be derived by boys and girls through a visit to these educational booths at the exhibits, the exposition announced yesterday that, beginning tomorrow, all pupils of public, parochial and private schools, accompanied by their parents, would be admitted free to the exposition, after 3:30 p. m. tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The entertainment programs in the Little Theater and on the South Plaza stage will continue. The fashion revue put on by local women manufacturers and importers of women's sport clothes, gowns, suits, cloaks and evening wraps will have additional garments on display the remaining days of the exposition.

The special entertainment features put on at the exhibition booths of firms and private individuals will also be continued with renewed vigor during the remaining three days of the exposition.

NURSING IS QUEEN'S HOBBY

Wife of British Ruler Reads Many Books on Subject.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Queen Mary probably would have been a professional nurse had she not become the wife of England's King. Nursing is a hobby with the Queen, but her official duties have prevented her from taking it up in the thorough manner Princess Arthur of Connaught has.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium is greatly admired by Queen Mary because of her skill as a nurse and her intimate knowledge of modern surgery, the Queen has recently been reading many books on child welfare, not only because she has accepted the responsibility of caring for little Princess Elizabeth during the absence of the Duke and Duchess of York in Australia, but because it is a subject in which she has always had keen interest.

Dr. W. M. Tippy at Bethel Church.

Dr. Worth M. Tippy secretary of the church and social service of the Federal Council of Churches in America, will preach at Bethel Evangelical Church, Garrison and Greer avenues at 10:30 a. m. today. Dr. Tippy is the man who rushed to Detroit from New York when the Detroit Chamber of Commerce and other financial interests attempted to coerce the churches of that city to close their pulpits to representatives of the American Federation of Labor on the occasion of their annual convention, and raised his voice in protest, organizing a meeting at the First Congregational Church, where labor leaders had an opportunity to speak.

Frank Libby to Speak.

Frank Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, will speak Tuesday evening on "Wanted—A Foreign Policy," at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. auditorium, Union boulevard and Enright avenue. The meeting is being arranged through the co-operation of the "Y" with the St. Louis Council of Organizations for the Promotion of Peace, the Council of Jewish Women and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. The public is invited.

Reveals Beauty

The secret of being attractive lies in accenting every charm—and lovely Miss Evelyn Averell, who has many charms, finds the delightful Black and White Face Powder reveals beauty with each caressing touch! This impalpably soft, fluffy powder, bolted many times through silk, is the last word in daintiness, and is of the same high quality and excellence as the other Black and White Beauty Creations, such as the Cleansing and Cold Creams, Beauty Bleach, Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream, etc., which you can get from dealers everywhere at the popular 50c and 25c prices.

Miss Averell, who lives at 631 Throop Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., declares: "I didn't know how well my skin could look until I began using Black and White Face Powder, which goes on so smoothly, blends so beautifully with my coloring, and adheres so long! I tell all my friends about this exquisite powder!"

Best results come from using Black and White Skin Soap along with the Black and White Beauty Creations.

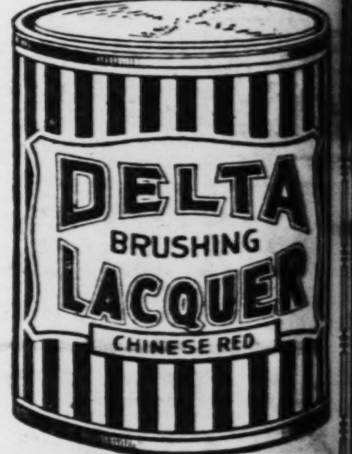
The Newest Sensation In Home Decoration



Makes "Painting" a Pleasure
Easy to Use—Dries Very Quickly
Adds Color and Refinement

In the Morning

You can now refinish your breakfast set, tables, chairs, or any other piece of furniture without the inconvenience of a long wait while they dry.

In a few hours—without any muss or fuss—fresh beauty and color can easily be given to any surface. Two coats of Delta Brushing Lacquer can be applied in thirty minutes and be ready for use in an hour or so.

Delta is so easily applied that you will be amazed at your own skill—even though you have never used a brush. That's why it is such a sensation.

Delta Brushing Lacquer is not paint, enamel or varnish. It is a durable, highly lustrous, quick-drying lacquer—easily applied with a brush to any surface without removing the old finish.

It gives an artistic and colorful surface impossible to obtain with any other finish. It can be washed with soap and water without injury.

Delta is distinctly the lacquer for all home decoration.

There's Cheer and Charm in Color

Modern life—modern style—modern taste in home furnishings—all demand homes of color and brilliancy. The cheer and charm in color make home life more enjoyable.

Your present furnishings may be modern, but do they possess the lively, up-to-date color? Drab and glooomy corners should be brightened with dainty needs which you can easily finish with Delta Brushing Lacquer.

At very slight cost you can buy many unfinished articles, such as magazine racks, book-racks, smoking stands, and footstools. Finish them with Delta Brushing Lacquer in your own color scheme.

Delta is a wonderful, artistic aid to every home owner who wants to be up-to-the-minute in colorful home decoration. You have your choice of all popular pastel and brilliant colors—in all sized cans.

Avoid substitutes. Demand Delta. Good dealers sell it.

VESTORS BEGIN BUYING SITES ON WIDER OLIVE ST.

nphatic Demand Attributed to Belated Realization of Potential Value of 100-Foot Boulevard.

700 A FRONT FOOT OR OIL STATION SITE

50,000 Deal at Southwest Corner of Twentieth Street Sets High Price Mark for Section.

By Berry Moore.

Property on Olive street, be en Twelfth and Grand boule ds, is in emphatic demand in, with the belated realization the fact that this thoroughfare, ened to 100 feet, will become a n artery—in connection with dell boulevard—from the Mis ippi River to Skinker road.

e week closed with the pur e by the Puritan Oil Co. of the hwest corner of Twentieth and e streets through the Maurer o-Beffa Co. and that by the ana Petroleum Co. of the south t corner of Olive street and mpton avenue, through Cornet Zeibig. Both sites have been ac red for gasoline filling stations, ch will replace old buildings of gligible value.

The Puritan's purchase has a ntage of 70 feet on Olive street h a depth of 70 feet along entieth street, the depth having n reduced 40 feet, incident to widening of Olive street, now process.

epresents $50,000 Investment.

ore than $700 a front foot, or a l of $50,000, representing chief the value of the site, was in ved in the purchase, according Dave Cohen, president of the itan company. This eclipses all ords on this thoroughfare west Eighteenth street. The purchase this price doubtless is based on en's ideas as to the possibili of the location.

e Roxana purchase has 80 feet Olive street by a depth of 131 5 inches, which will be sheared 40 feet with the widening of thoroughfare. A Shell filling ion, distinctive of the Roxana pany, is being designed for the er. The site was owned by ohn Keegen, who purchased in 4 through Cornet & Zeibig.

egotiations, it is understood, ally have been concluded by nk Yawitz for the southeast er of Twenty-third and Olive ets, owned by the Anheuser ch Co., according to realty cir . The purchase is being made arently as a speculative venture, h no building plans. The south corner of Jefferson avenue Olive street is also under nego ion, it is understood.

Marks Revival of Interest.

hese are the first outstanding chases on Olive street, how , since the plan was disclosed a parked right of way for street on this thoroughfare, which negotiations in the section e or less in abeyance. As has n told, the parkway plan pre ably has been abandoned, with result that speculative oper s, as well as permanent in ments, soon promise to be on aggressive scale. The thorough previously had been an im ively buoyant section of the estate market.

her notable purchases during last year or two included the heast corner of Twentieth and e streets by Frank Dallavale, ugh Cornet & Zeibig, and the hwest corner of Twenty third Olive streets by Mrs. Nellie mper, from Dallavalle, through John S. Blake & Bro. Real e Co.

allavelle, in the early stages the movement on this thorough purchased the northwest cor of Olive and Twenty-third ets, owned by Robert Dulla, an er of the American Tobacco a client of the Mercantile Co.

ese purchases were manifest peculative, in anticipation of lopments on a large scale on street with the widening of thoroughfare. The prices re d in these instances were not osed.

everal Speculative Sales.

e southwest corner of Olive and Ewing avenue, recently purchased for an eight-story ing by Dallavella. The Maurer -Beffa Co., along with Bradley nette, handled this transac . The proposed parkway plan the street cars halted this as a number of other large projects, which otherwise would be in process of construction.

The southwest corner of Fifteenth and Olive street, only recently was purchased by a client of J. H. Farish & Co. It was owned by Carroll Berkley, a professional operator, who had acquired it from Thomas G. Watts, another operator. Substantial profits were made in both instances, it was understood.

$100,000 Site Transaction.

Another feature of the early movement on this street was Alfred Siegel's purchase of the southeast corner of Eighteenth and Olive streets from the McDonald estate. It was effected by Corner & Zeibig through Ralph Coale, for a price around $100,000. Following this purchase, the southwest corner of Eighteenth and Olive streets was sold to a syndicate headed by J. C. Reed.

An ornate structure is being erected on the southwest corner for for the St. Louis National Bank, which Reed apparently acquired for it. The bank now has headquarters in Union Station.

Razing of old buildings to make way for the widening of Olive street has made many other sites available for building projects, which sooner or later will develop as a result. These include a number of corners available both as to size and location for buildings on a large scale. Among others, notable of these are the southwest corner of Jefferson avenue and Olive street, the southwest corner of Beaumont and Olive streets, and the southeast corner of Eighteenth and Olive streets mentioned in the foregoing.

Gigantic Structure Planned.

The triangular wedge extending west from Channing avenue between Lindell boulevard and Olive street is being exploited for a gigantic office building, with shops, theater and other features. The plnas have been made by William Gruen, architect, who says that the project is only awaiting the widening of Lindell between Channing avenue and Grand boulevard.

The widening of Lindell boulevard between Channing avenue and Grand boulevard will be the last link of the 100-foot boulevard between Twelfth boulevard and Skinker road, and will relieve a badly congested condition.

The location of the new building of the Missouri Pacific Railway at Thirteenth and Olive streets has had a wholesome effect on Olive street, both east and west of Twelfth boulevard.

11 Acres in County Sold.

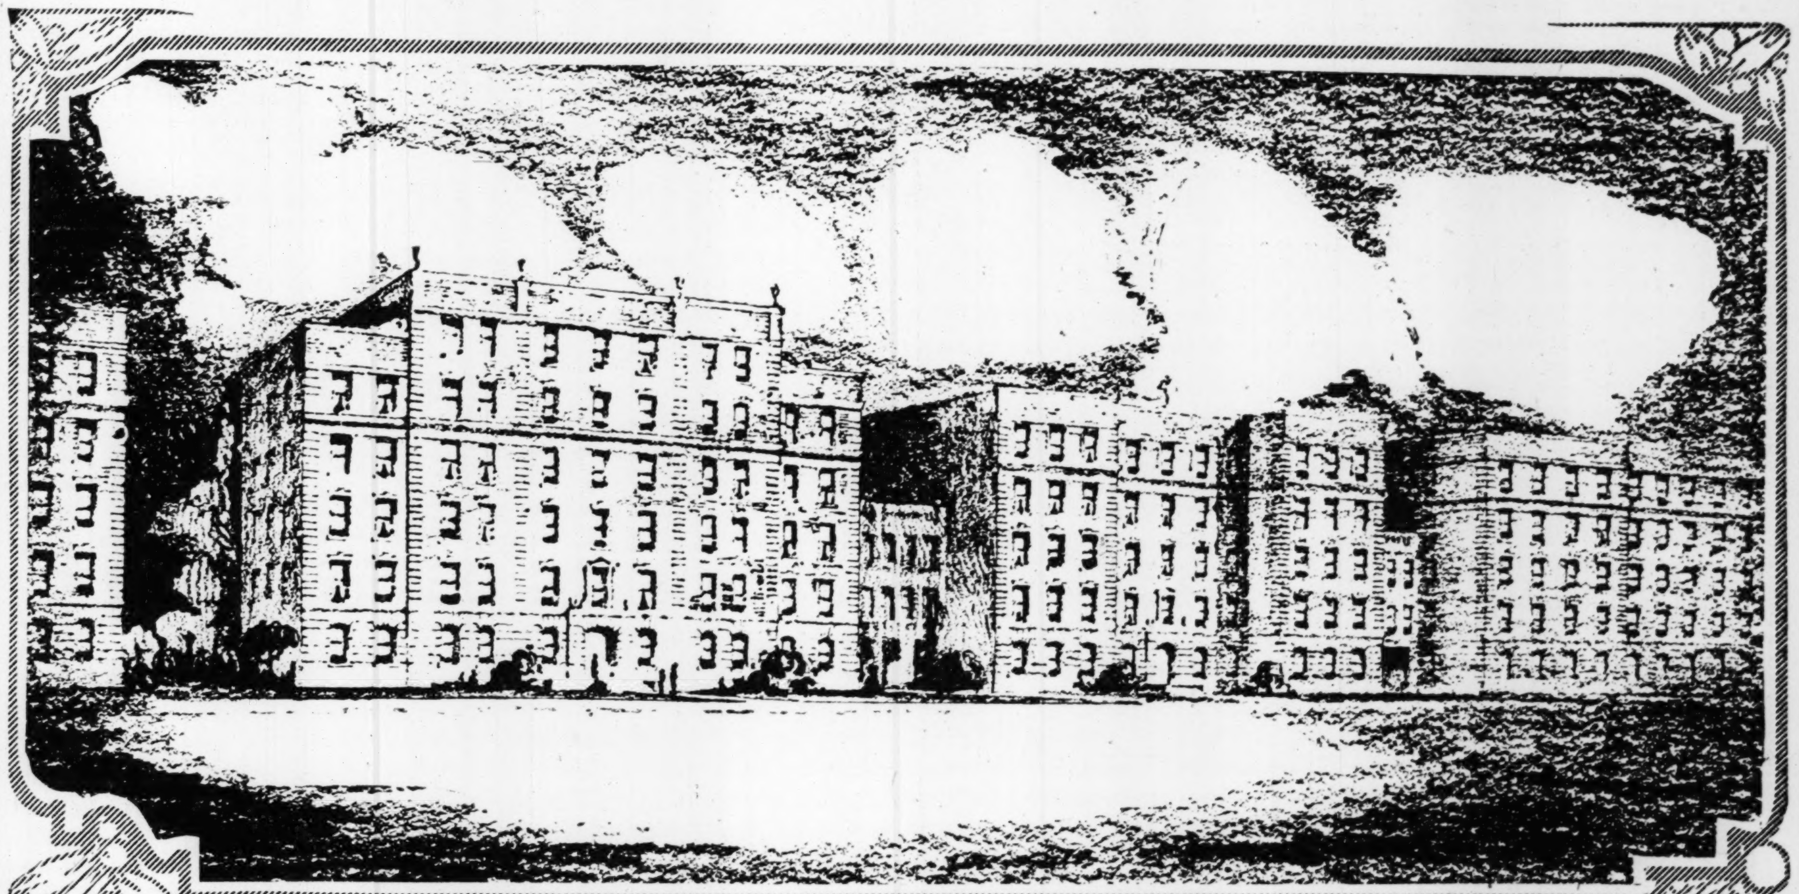
The Mercantile Trust Co. reports the sale of approximately 11 acres on the south side of Manchester road, east of the Berry road, for Mrs. Ada Blossom to Frank Tegethoff, who will subdivide it into building lots.

John Wynn Joins G. A. Caine.

John A. Wynn, associated for a number of years with the Gus Arendes Real Estate Co., has become a partner of George A. Caine, sales engineers, with offices in the Syndicate Trust Building.

The company represents manufacturers of builders' supplies.

Institutional Buildings; Apartment and Residence Sold



Design for Nurses' Home at St. John's Hospital. The unit at the left is the addition to be built. Complete picture shows the hospital as it will then appear.

ST. JOHN'S PLANS NEW HOME FOR 125 NURSES

Excavation for Structure, Containing Many New Features, Will Start at Once.

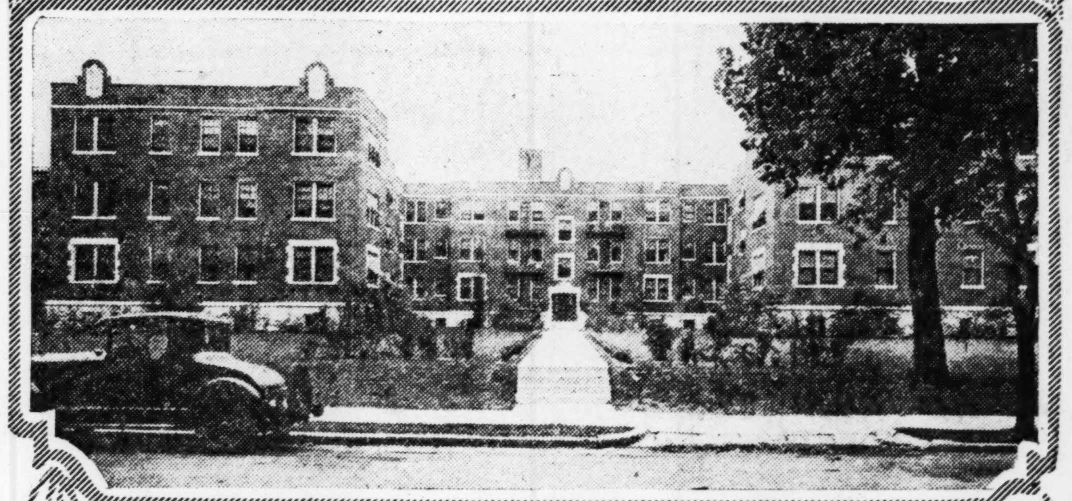
The new nurses' home, to be built for St. John's Hospital, adding another building to the group on Audubon and Euclid avenue and Parkview place, is to be the third of a possible six buildings to complete the scheme.

It is to be on the north side of Audubon avneue, between Kingshighway and Euclid, and so placed that the nurses will be centrally located in the group. The building will have accommodations for approximately 125 nurses, with separate living quarters for the sisters adjacent to the present convent building.

The building is unique in its design, in that it has private bath accommodations to each two private rooms. The first floor will afford convenient social accommodations, a recital hall, approximately 50 by 60 feet with a concert stage, a general reception room and parlor and a spacious library or study room. The entire basement is devoted to a dustproof trunk room, with the exception of the north portion, which houses a gymnasium.

On the seventh floor, at either end of the building, there will be a tile terrace, on the west side devoted to the nurses, and on the north side devoted to the sisters, affording outdoor recreation space. Centrally located on the third floor there is to be a general living room and lounge room with a kitchenette adjoining.

The building is to be thoroughly fireproof and of the most modern type of construction. It will be seven stories in height, in keeping with the style of the present building. Excavations will be started this week. Plans were made by George D. Barnett, Inc.



Apartment building at 5882 Cabanne purchased by Joseph Boxerman.

ST. LOUIS TO HAVE NEW DEPARTMENT STORE

St. Louis Union Trust Co. has acquired a long-term lease of the building formerly occupied by Penny & Gentles, at Broadway and Morgan street. This entire structure will be converted into a store to be known as the Boston Store.

This building has been thoroughly overhauled and repainted, both inside and out, and is in first-class condition. It has been sublet for dry goods, shoes, millinery, clothing, dress goods, linoleum, house furnishings, drugs, wall paper, musical goods, radio and a restaurant.

These departments will open soon and operate under the name of the Boston Store.

Residence of Mrs. James H. McTague at 5290 Westminster place, which has been purchased by Mrs. Adeline P. Haines.

ALBERT T. TERRY & CO. SELLS HOME FOR MRS. J. H. M'TAGUE

Albert T. Terry & Co., reports the closing of contracts for the sale of the home of Mrs. James H. McTague, 5290 Westminster place, to Mrs. Adeline P. Haines, who will occupy the house soon. The house contains two large living rooms, dining room, kitchen on first floor; four large rooms, several baths on the second floor; four rooms and bath on the third floor.

EPSTEIN FIRM SELLS BRENTWOOD RESIDENCE

J. I. Epstein & Son report having sold 8823 Warren avenue in Brentwood, a two-story six-room stucco bungalow, for W. L. White to a client of the office.

The firm also reports the sale of a lot, 33 1-3 feet on the south side of Lindell boulevard, just west of Asbury avenue, which will be improved with a seven-room residence; the leasing of the northwest corner of Manchester and Bellevue avenues in Maplewood for 10 years to "Sid's Filling Station." This corner will be improved with an up-to-date filling station and accessories.

Epstein & Son also report financing two four family apartments on the corner of Lawn and Potomac streets in "Kingshighway Hills," the new subdivision on South Kingshighway, just north of "Southampton," representing an investment of $55,000.

FEDERER REALTY CO. SELLS BLOCK ON SOUTH BROADWAY

The Federer Realty Co. reports the sale of a block fronting 300 feet on South Broadway, bounded by Maeder street, Pennsylvania avenue and Hill avenue, to Arthur R. Darr, who will improve it.

Also reports the sale of a double flat, 4718 South Grand boulevard, for Eugene A. Freund, to Mr. and Mrs. John Pitzer; 3653 Michigan avenue, a brick bungalow, for Frank C. Rumping to Mrs. Lorena Winterberg; 5487 Lisette avenue, bungalow, for Gorden-Horen Realty Co. to Henry Bernhardt.

Sold for Bertha Bulla bungalow, 4009 Dover place, to Theo O. Fath; also 4001 Dover place for Mrs. Bulla to John E. Jones; sold for Mrs. Lorena E. Winterberg, double flat, 3509 Belt avenue, to Frank C. Rumping; brick cottage, 3733 Ohio avenue, for Albert Grueter to Bernard J. Westmann.

BLAKE REALTY FIRM SELLS FURNITURE STORE BUILDING

John S. Blake & Bro. Realty Co., report the sale of the building at 918 Morgan street for the account of Hellrung & Grimm Furniture Co. to Frank Dallavalle. The building is of reinforced concrete with four floors and basement, electric elevator, steam heat. The city will take off 30 feet for the widening of Morgan street. The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. assisted in the transaction.

MORE FLOORS TAKEN BY ARMY-NAVY STORE

Barney Grossberg Acquires Additional Washington Avenue Space for 15 Years.

Barney Grossberg has acquired a 15-year lease of the first floor, basement, mezzanine floor, second floor and fifth floor of the building at the southeast corner of Tenth street and Washington avenue, through Martin & Breitt.

The first floor and basement of the building has been occupied by Grossberg with an army and navy store for the last three years under a sublease from the Rogers Recreation Co.

Additions to Grossberg's wares to include radios, hardware, electrical supplies and various other things have made necessary the floor expansion, which will give the store a total of 58,000 square feet.

The Rogers Recreation Co. occupies the third and fourth floors as bowling alleys, said to be the most up-to-date in the country, controlling the entire building under a 15-year lease from the Tutt Estate, owner of the property.

As provided for under the new lease, Grossberg will pay the Rogers Recreation Co. an annual rental aggregating $51,000, which places the building on a substantially higher investment basis.

The building has a frontage of 125 feet on Washington avenue by a depth of 150 feet, extending through to St. Charles street. The original lease of the building was made three years ago from the Tutt estate to the Rogers Recreation Co.

TAILORING FIRM SIGNS LEASE IN NEW PAUL BROWN BUILDING

Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., agents for the Paul Brown building, report having closed a lease with Croak & O'Neil, tailors and importers, at present located at 204 North Eighth street, on the large store at 210 North Ninth street, north of the entrance to the Paul Brown Building.

In order to meet the requirements of the tenant a balcony will be built over the entire storeroom, which will be used both as sales room and workroom for the tailors. New fixtures and decorative appointments will be installed by the lessee. The premises will be ready for occupancy some time in March, but the exact date of removal to the new quarters will be announced later.

A storeroom at 2832 Washington avenue was leased to the Mason Tire & Rubber Co. of New York and they have already taken possession of the premises.

A storeroom at 1107 Clark avenue, in the two-story building recently erected by the Preisler Realty Co., was leased to the Triangle Conduit Co.

Siegel Bros. Millinery Co. and the Max Katz Garment Co. have leased the premises at 1408 Washington avenue formerly occupied by the Rice & Hutchins Shoe Co. Another lease was closed during the week to George E. Keith Co. or Walk-Over Shoe Co., for the entire four-story and basement building at 1521 Washington avenue. Under the new lease, which is for a period of 10 years, the company will maintain their wholesale headquarters in this building for this district.

$500,000 PAID FOR TWO APARTMENTS ON CABANNE AV.

Joseph Boxerman Buys Building at No. 5882—W. B. Burgess Purchases Cromwell Property.

RENTALS TOTAL MORE THAN $72,000 A YEAR

Both Structures Embrace 30 Apartment Suites—University Park Building Is Sold Also.

Cabanne avenue apartments, with anual rentals totaling $72,000, changed ownership yesterday, the transaction involving more than $500,000, according to the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Real Estate Co. and Stanley Epstein Inc. The rentals represent a 100 per cent occupancy.

A comparatively new building of fireproof construction at 5882 Cabanne was acquired by Joseph Boxerman through the Anderson-Stocke-Buerman Co. and the Max Goldman Real Estate Co. for $300,000, other property being taken in part payment. Annual rentals approximate $35,000, according to the agents.

Occupying a lot 160 by 215 feet, the building has 30 apartments, alternating in four, five and six-room suites, with a two-car garage under the first floor. All the apartments are under lease.

Cromwell Apartments Sold.

Vincent A. Chinberg erected the building and was the grantor in the transaction. The structure is one of a number of buildings erected by Chinberg in the Cabanne and Chamberlain Park districts and financed by the Anderson-Stocke-Buerman Co.

The Cromwell Apartments, recently completed at 5364 Cabanne, were purchased by William B. Burgess, president of the Burgess Screen Co., through Stanley Epstein Inc., for a reported consideration of $250,000. The Ada Realty Co., Jacob Ruben, president, was the grantor in the sale.

Embracing 30 apartments of five rooms and sun parlor with Kraft decorations, the building is on a lot 150 by 243 feet. There is a garage for the exclusive use of the tenants, and annual rentals approximate $38,000.

Replaces Old Residences.

The two buildings are typical of the character of construction that is replacing the stately old residences of Cabanne place. The foregoing sales are regarded as precursors of a notable movement in buildings of this type.

The Rengel-Weber Co. reports the sale of a four-family apartment building at 7287 Delmar boulevard, University Park, owned by Frank Leibinger, to Ella and Ann Laventhal and Alexander and Mary Laventhal, who will occupy it. The building has the newest features, including Kraftex walls, electric refrigeration, incinerators and oil burners.

PRAISES SCOUT WORK AS GREAT AID TO BOYS

Dr. G. J. Fisher of New York Addresses Annual Dinner of St. Louis Council.

"The crime wave among the youth of America is to a large extent a rebellion against the cramped, artificial life of the average boy, and not entirely viciousness," said Dr. George J. Fisher of New York City, deputy chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, at the annual dinner of the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts, at the Buckingham Hotel last night.

Six hundred scout executives, scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters and troop committeemen were present.

"Never in the history of the world has youth lived in such artificial environment," Dr. Fisher continued. "In crowded tenements or equally crowded apartment houses, massed in large groups in homes, schools and play, the boy of today finds little outlet for his creative ability, and small chance of wholesome activity for his restlessness. Many a deed that in our fathers' time was counted as 'boy's mischief' now is a misdemeanor.

"The Boy Scout movement today is restoring normal conditions in a boy's training. It makes him self reliant, it offers him a program of useful and pleasureable activities, it gives him back the old primitive urge to create, and it makes him an individual, self-respecting member of society, instead of a dull, restricted part of a massed, colorless community."

Clarence Howard, president of the St. Louis Council, presided at the dinner. Earle W. Beckman, Scout Executive, reported there are 238 Scout troops in St. Louis churches, schools and neighborhood centers, with 6159 Scouts and 411 commissioned Scout officials.

Howard was re-elected president, Frank V. Hammar, chairman of the court of honor and H. D. McBride, scout commissioner. Other officers elected were: Treasurer, C. C. Mills; secretary, L. S. Haslam; first vice president, Chester B. Curtis; second vice president, Francis M. Curlee; third vice president, E. D. Nims. The following were elected on the Executive Committee: J. E. Baker, L. W. Baldwin, E. N. Birge, G. W. Burbach, Paul W. Brown, Thomas R. Collins, H. W. Danforth, Alvin D. Goldman, H. S. Holbrook, Carl Holekamp, Louise O. Honig, William T. Jones, J. G. Lonsdale, Walter Lorch, Robert L. Morton, Louis Portner, Ernest Schultz, J. W. Skelly and Festus J. Wade.

LONDON EDITOR PERCEIVES SOVIET CONSPIRACY IN CHINA

U. S., He Says, Could Kill Russia's Revolutionary Plans by Refusing Loans.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Sunday Observer prints a three-column article by its editor, J. L. Garvin, on the speech made by the American Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton, at Plymouth last evening, advocating Anglo-American co-operation as the remedy of most of the world's evils.

Garvin argues that if the United States should proclaim that not a cent of American money would be lent to Russia until the conspiracy for a world revolution was abandoned in China, and everywhere else, it would do more than anything to put Russia on a sound basis, because it would encourage the moderates in Russia in a new foreign policy of nonaggression as a necessary sequel to a new economic policy.

RITCHIE WANTS STATES TO RULE ON DRY LAWS

Maryland Governor Demands Return to Traditional American Self-Government.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A plea for settlement of the prohibition question by a return to "the traditional American doctrine of local self-government and state determination," was voiced here tonight by Gov. Albert Ritchie (Dem.) of Maryland.

Gov. Ritchie offered his plan at the annual banquet of the Real Estate Board of New York in a speech characterized by a denunciation of what he termed the tendency to make law "a system of social control, a scheme to regulate personal conduct and practice."

Advocates of this new era "are intolerant of the orderly processes of government and of the opinions of others," the Governor charged. He added that if they cannot get what they want from the states, "they would take all power away from the states and give it to the Federal Government." He termed the new trend "a spirit of excessive Federalism" and expressed the belief that it is "fast destroying the American system of sovereign states united in a sovereign nation."

In support of this contention the Governor pointed to efforts to pass a Federal child labor law and establish a Federal department of education, two subjects which he declared belong fundamentally to the states.

"I believe in the right of each state to settle in its own way questions which intimately concern its people, its peace, its order, its morals and its customs," said the Governor. Prohibition is such a question and there is grave danger in ignoring the fact that that the urban element is against Volsteadism," he added.

"Why intensify the conflict between the rural and the urban?" the Governor asked. "The South and West are rich in achievement and richer still in promise. If they want prohibition, they are entitled to have it, but why submerge the infinity of problems that confront them in a futile struggle to enforce prohibition in states which do not want it?

"It is for principles I plead, for policies, for fundamentals. And a return to local self-government will, more than any other one thing, tend to put an end to sectional controversies, group interests and class conflicts."

Impelling forces in any real party program come from the bottom, not from the top, according to the Governor, who asserted that "last fall's elections give us encouragement to believe that political hypocricy, political cowardice and political buncombe are coming to be no longer political assets." He added that the "strong common sense and instinct for reality which are striking American characteristics are again making themselves felt in American politics."

Differences which can only breed discord when handled nationally will disappear when handled locally, in the opinion of Gov. Ritchie.

15-Pound Watermelon Brings $3.

South American fruit other than bananas is not shipped to St. Louis often, and yesterday a small shipment of melons and peaches received by the Besele-Rudloff Produce Co. sold quickly. It included a 15-pound watermelon, sold for $3; two crates of honey dew melons, sold at $8.50 a crate of six, and two crates of peaches, sold at $6.50 a crate of 50.

CHEMISTS FIND NO CAUSE FOR DEATH OF ELROD

Theory That Sweetheart, 19, Broke Jealous Admirer's Heart Testing His Love.

By the Associated Press.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Feb. 5.—A final examination of the vital organs of Charles L. Elrod of Lewellen, Neb., who was found dead in his hotel room here Jan. 9 under mysterious circumstances, failed to reveal the cause of his death.

A report from University of Iowa chemists said no traces of poison could be found. The body bore no marks of physical violence, and some doubt was expressed whether the cause of death ever would be established.

One theory advanced by investigators was that he may have died from a broken heart because he was wildly jealous of his sweetheart, Veda Bellefeuille, 19-year-old high school girl. She had sought to test his love through letters she had written, to which she signed the names of her supposed rivals, taken from magazine stories.

5 REASONS WHY
YOU SHOULD LIVE IN WEBSTER GROVES
SURROUNDINGS.
LOCATION.
COMBINATION OF ADVANTAGES.
RESIDENTS.
FINANCIAL INVESTMENT.
You'll enjoy living in Webster Groves because of what is offered in better living conditions, expressed in charming homes and gardens, pure fresh air and safe places for the children to play.
Webster has every comfort, convenience and facility of the city plus an environment and community spirit that means neighborliness and contentment — excellent schools, churches, clubs and markets.
The residents of Webster are people of refinement with high ideals, whose aim has been to make this the ideal "Home Town."
Webster is a stablized residential community, no shifting population, no changing environment and resultant depreciation in values. Therefore, a home in Webster is a safe and sound financial investment.
We have a large list of homes and building sites offered at attractive prices. Let us show you Webster Groves.

WEBSTER 308
We are agents for new houses, etc., that have been built for homes where owners have moved away or for other reasons must sell. They undoubtedly will accept any reasonable offer. We can direct you quickly to where you can make the best purchase answering your requirements. For instance:
454 WEST JACKSON ROAD, Sherwood Forest—A new house with reception hall, large living room, dining room and kitchen. Three rooms and bath, second floor. Owner expects to move.
300 PARK ROAD—WEBSTER PARK—Large rooms, two baths, lot 125x300. Owner moved to another city.
20 ORCHARD AV.—Large living room, sun parlor, two glazed sleeping porches, hardwood floors, hot-water heat, oil burner, electric refrigeration; two-car garage; 100-ft. lot. Price way under $20,000.
411 GREELEY AV.—5 rooms, hot-water heat. Owner moved to New York.
For example: We think we can get you an eight-room house with three baths, sleeping porch, hardwood floors throughout, hot-water heat, oil burner; two-car garage; lot 100x283. Where owner says he has been offered $80 per front foot (Gray Av. near Swon), for $15,000 or $16,000.

ANDREW CARNEGIE SAYS:
"Unless you have soot on your window sills, your city is not prospering." St. Louis is now called the dirtiest city, and no doubt it is prosperous. But why live in such a sooty city? Many of us don't, and there is no reason why you should. Pasadena Park is beyond the smoke zone and there the sun shines on the trees and flowers, on the attractive homes and happy, healthful families. DISTRIBUTORS
CAPABLE OF EARNING $20,000 TO $30,000 YEARLY.
Exclusive territories are open to successful financially responsible sales executives or sales organizations. The type of individual we seek can secure a franchise assuring large and constantly increasing profits.
The product—the only inexpensive automatic fire extinguisher of its kind—is tremendously successful wherever introduced.
Has already demonstrated sales possibilities of practically unlimited scope. 18,000 practically sold themselves before any sales organization was in the field. The only automatic device that fights fire alone, without human aid. Puts out fire in home, office, plant or any other structure whether you're there or a thousand miles away when the fire starts.
This distributor's franchise will be given only to men of the highest caliber. We suggest immediate action if seriously interested.
INTERNATIONAL FIRE EQUIPMENT CORP.

FORREST FERGUSON.

W ITH the aid of a man within the company for many years, it now is possible, for the first e, to piece together a connect- intimate narrative of the causes ding to the sensational crash, in tober, 1925, of the Ferguson-Mc- nney Manufacturing Co., and s to clear up several questions t have perplexed the public d.

Did any of the officers "salt y" any of the huge sums ob- ed from banks? If not, where the money go? These and oth- facts are details that never have n quite clear.

No commercial failure in its his- y so startled St. Louis. A com- ny, for 25 years regarded as servative, substantial as the very nks it bilked, crashed over- ht, carrying with it into the t the name of a citizen, time- nored and trusted; owing $3,- 0,000 to banks; owing other ditors $450,000; bringing total s to preferred stockholders, ny of them old employes, who d invested $1,000,000.

The nominal head of the com- ny, Forrest Ferguson, was re- led as a borrower of $260,000 the company's money by the ubtful, familiar I O U method— ps of paper worth virtually hing.

Loans Obtained by Fraud.

Above all, it was disclosed by banks that their loans to the pany had been obtained by d, and that by one of the city's ding citizens—Murray Carleton, n of reputed great wealth; head another large wholesale busi- bearing his name; leader in r affairs; member of ultra- usive clubs; crony of the very n he duped; church leader; spicuous figure in St. Louis for rly half a century.

No comparable tragedy had oc- red in all the city's history ess it be the disclosure 25 years that James L. Blair, general nsel of the World's Fair, and a civic leader, was a forger.

There was a time when the Fer- on-McKinney was all that it med. Its business was manu- turing workingmen's clothes, efly work shirts and overalls. It the ambition of Forrest Fer- on to make it the largest man- cturer of overalls in the coun- He reached that mark. The uson-McKinney company, in trade, was the barometer for alls. Its product had excep- al quality. Even today the tee, who is finding difficulty ping up enough leavings of the pany to pay 30 cents on the ar on its obligations, gets or- from far and wide for over- A reputation built up over a rter of a century does not die night. Ferguson's unsound ef- to keep the quality up, keep price down and continue to r out a volume of $8,000,000 a was one of the factors that e the company, as will be seen. rhaps, if he had kept his eye the overall business, he might succeeded, but it wandered his interest divided between business and another ambition be a gentleman farmer. And first of his I O U's went to fy that ambition. It was in 9. All the details now are in open. They stand of record in trustee's office.

Venture as Farmer.

erguson formed the acquaint- of a man named McCoy, a ntific" farmer, a book farmer, as this acquaintance that fired uson's native instinct for ing—native, because of 125 the Ferguson family home been a farm near Dyersburg.

cCoy found a farm in Louisi- that tickled his imagination. s a large farm—400 acres and resque. It fronted for a mile lake that once had been the nel of the Mississippi. It d back fan-shaped—rich al- l land adapted to cotton and for the money crop, corn for ock, some timber, pecan trees, some 60 tenant houses and ster's house—a quaint, old ern mansion, with wide gal- set down in a grove of live covered with moss.

rguson bought and installed oy as manager. The price was ,000, plus two apartment s which Ferguson owned in Kansas City. Thereupon the I O U's of President Ferguson began to appear in the till at Ferguson-McKinney. In a short time they piled up to $71,000. It is significant to not here that this sum plus $30,000 for which Ferguson mortgaged his new farm was approximately its purchase price.

The sum began to cause comment with the company. It was suggested to Ferguson that he make some disposition of his indebtedness—just hints, because, after all, he was president and it was somewhat presumptuous for a subordinate to suggest what the president should do.

Disposition of I O U's.

Ferguson did make some disposition of the indebtedness. He instructed that it be charged to his department—Department No. 66, the department of which he was active sales head, the overalls department. There it rested and rests to this day.

There has been no mention of it in the recent court prosecutions, because the statute of limitations has run on it and it cannot be legally revived. But the debt never was paid, though the I O U's disappeared and in their place the $71,000 took its place among the overalls.

Ferguson had a curious practice with respect to these I O U's and the reason was not apparent to persons within the company. He labeled one of the pigeon holes on his desk with the inscription: "I owe $71,000," changing the figure as the amount of his indebtedness changed.

The drain of the farm upon Ferguson-McKinney did not stop with its purchase. Improvements were necessary, in McCoy's opinion, and the money for improvements was obtained by Ferguson from his company. There were operating losses. A 400-acre farm is a business man's job. Even the trustee has discovered that, and has ceased to try to operate it. Rather than incur losses and impair it as an asset, he has let it remain tenantless this year. The sum which Ferguson poured in for improvements and losses was another $100,000—represented by I O U's in the Ferguson-McKinney till when the crash came.

Total of I O U's $188,000.

The total of these I O U's was $188,000. The additional $88,000 went to the Ferguson family farm at Dyersburg, Tenn. Ferguson converted it into a show place, stocking it with prize flocks and herds. This in spite of the fact that he owned only nine shares in it. The larger share was willed by his parents to his sisters. Forrest was known to the family as its most wealthy and prosperous member and so his share was cut down. When he began pouring Ferguson-McKinney money into it he called his contributions "gifts" and the family accepted the $88,000 as such.

Thus the total of Ferguson's subtractions from Ferguson-McKinney became $260,000. They stand at that today. The only other money he drew from the company, in recent years at least, was $50,000 in dividends on preferred stock and his $7500 a year salary. He owned approximately one-third, or about $350,000 of the company's $1,000,000 preferred stock, which in its 25-year history, paid only nine quarterly dividends.

In return, Ferguson turned over to the trustees "his last dollar," he said. These assets, listed by Ferguson at over $100,000, have produced so far just $27,000. There remains the Louisiana farm, but the trustee has been forced, to preserve his equity, to pay off the $30,000 mortgage placed by Ferguson upon it. He has spent $15,000 more to preserve it in saleable condition and now is awaiting a purchaser for cash.

No one has been able to discover that Ferguson did not turn over his last dollar. None of the $300,000 obtained from banks went to Ferguson. He apparently is broke. His statements as to his indebtedness made at the time of the failure have about checked out. Drafts to match most of the I O Us have been found. In fact, he has been singularly frank throughout the whole investigation following the crash. He was frank with bankers on the first day the firm closed its doors.

Ferguson Frank in Admissions.

Upon learning that "something was wrong" at Ferguson-McKinney, the writer went directly to Ferguson. He made a clean breast—not of his I O U's at the time, but later—a statement that the company was hopelessly involved and in the hands of the banks. Thereupon the writer received a telephone summons from a banker, who suavely informed him that the company had some paper to meet and had not the cash to meet it and that the bankers were determining what could be done, and it was possible that the difficulty could be tided over. "The company is not in the hands of the bankers," this banker said.

Straightway the reporter returned to Ferguson. "I told you the facts," he said. "The company is in hands of the bankers, and is hopelessly involved. The loss will be large."

That was Saturday. On Monday the bankers admitted that Ferguson's statement was the more accurate. This writer found the incident characteristic of Ferguson. Some of his statements were difficult of credence in the first days when rumors were flying fast, but no subsequent development, including facts now coming to light, have indicated that Ferguson did not make a clean breast so far as he was concerned.

There is nothing in the records of the company that by now have been scanned minutely to indicate that Murray Carleton ever profited personally from the frauds in which he undoubtedly played the controlling part. He drew a modest salary as treasurer of the company. He had no preferred stock as Ferguson had and nothing was ever paid on common stock. Carleton's estate at his death was so meager in comparison with his rated wealth that it may be concluded that he actually received no part of the large sums he manipulated.

Where the Money Went.

Where, then, did the money go? The employe who had for many years knowledge of the practices of the company can account for most of it. The total liabilities of the company at its crash were $3,750,000. The salvage is about $1,500,000, leaving the net loss to be accounted for $2,250,000.

The first item to be set down is dividends. In the days when it was prosperous, the company carefully conserved its profits and there were no dividends. It was not until it began to topple that it paid dividends—to give the air of well-being necessary to keep its standing at the banks. A total of $157,000 was disbursed in dividends in 1923, 1924 and 1925. The only source of these dividends was money loaned from banks. The business itself was losing money in those years, and losing it fast. So, $157,000 of the missing money went to pay unearned dividends.

The second item discloses a curious fact. In 10 years the passing of money between the Carleton Dry Goods Co. and the Carleton-Ferguson company totalled nearly $10,000,000. The purpose of the exchanges has been frequently told. When an auditor was due at one company, the other shot money across the street to give it a good statement, for a good statement was necessary to bank credit. These borrowings, up the last minute made the company able to keep up every semblance of health, even to discounting its bills.

It has not previously been made clear, however, that for eight of those 10 years most of the money came from Ferguson-McKinney to succor Carleton Dry Goods and it was not until the years 1924 that Carleton Dry Goods came to the rescue of Ferguson-McKinney. The money that for eight years, nearly $1,000,000 a year, was sent by Ferguson-McKinney to Carleton Dry Goods was money borrowed at the prevailing rate. And Carleton Dry Goods paid no interest to Ferguson-McKinney. It is now estimated that the actual cost to Ferguson-McKinney of this money was $200,000 in interest and that sum must be set into the losses.

Item of Foreign Accounts.

The third item is foreign accounts. Ferguson-McKinney overalls sold in Central America, but it was a disastrous business. The company lost in two ways—first in fairness of those far-off merchants to pay for goods and second because, during the long lapses between orders and their shipment, due to distance, market prices changed and, as it happened almost always against the company. It contracted for much of its foreign business at a loss. From the books it is estimated that this item was $250,000 to be added to the losses.

The next item is $500,000 which the company sank in the Alligator Clothing Co., one of its subsidiaries, later reorganized and now flourishing under a changed name. Ferguson created this company and its capital stock was furnished totally by Ferguson-McKinney and subsequently lost. Ferguson-McKinney suckled this company, also, over many years with money borrowed from banks at current interest rates and loaned to the Alligator Clothing Co. at no interest and the sum of this item is reckoned low at $200,000.

Add to these items the $260,000 lost upon Forrest Ferguson's I O U's and the sum of accountable losses becomes approximately $1,600,000. That leaves $650,000 still unaccounted for.

And it may now be accounted for —and more—by the business practices into which Ferguson fell.

Change in Practices.

The Ferguson-McKinney Co. had a real surplus in 1921 of $500,000. It held its own—no profit, no loss —in 1922 and 1923, but suffered great loss in 1924.

Its market collapsed. Buying practices changed. Hand-to-mouth buying became more pronounced. The company's anticipated volume did not materialize. Yet its commitments for raw materials had been made in anticipation of unslackened demand for overalls.

An actual, concrete case may be cited. The company had orders with an Eastern mill for 2000 bales of denim. It had need, the year developed, for only 1000, yet it was committed to accept the 2000 at a cost exceeding $500,000.

It is said that, under the spur of a command by Murray Carleton —"realize on this surplus within 10 days"—the Ferguson resorted to an expedient regarded as unethical in the trade. It will be recalled that the company had been a great, if not controlling influence in the primary market for denim. Ferguson took his surplus to the secondary market—the polite nomenclature for the pirates and sweat shops and price cutters. He sold below the cost of the material to him, naturally. In turn the purchasers made up overalls to compete with Ferguson-McKinney's own product, and at a lower price. Ferguson, to maintain the volume of which he was so proud, cut below the pirates—below his own actual cost of manufacture.

Loss Rapidly Piled Up.

Practices such as these pile up a loss rapidly. In its last two years the Ferguson-McFinney company became notorious in this respect and were a thorn in the side of legitimate competitors. There was some gossip that the purpose was to force a purchase of Ferguson-McKinney and that the salvation of the company would be worked out in that way—at least the loss might not be total.

It was this disastrous policy that created the deficits that were covered up with padded inventories and pared liabilities in statements to banks.

Ferguson was apprehensive of the ultimate result long before the crash and so told Carleton. That grim figure silenced him with: "You leave it to me."

Here, if not long before, business men, exhausting every reputable recourse to save themselves, would have gone to the front door and locked it—would have confessed bankruptcy. Not so Carleton. He cherished his reputation for business prosperity, shrewdness and his general standing too dearly to proclaim himself, at the end of his years, a failure. "Leave it to me," and he continued the struggle, hoping for the day when some change of business fortune might rescue him.

Carleton Finally Gave Up.

But there came a day, when his physical strength ebbed, when he was confronted with realization that he could struggle no more, and he gave up. He sent for Morton Jourdan, his attorney. "The jig is up," he whispered, and told Jourdan to assemble the bankers. Jourdan did, and next day came the revelation that Ferguson-McKinney was broke.

Both Carleton and Ferguson were indicted in State courts. Death intervened between Carleton and his day at the bar. William O. Reeder, employed by the bankers, was named a special Circuit Attorney for prosecution of Ferguson. He thought the indictment as framed by Assistant Circuit Attorney John Bowcock weak, but Circuit Attorney Sidener declined to correct the weakness, relying on Bowcock. Reeder advised that Ferguson be tried first upon the indictment charging obtaining money under false pretenses, feeling that the chance of conviction there was strong and the chance of conviction under an embezzlement charge, as drawn, weaker. Sidener ignored him and elected to try on embezzlement first. Reeder retired from the case. The charge collapsed. A demurrer was filed. Testimony was that Ferguson obtained the money on his IOUs by the usual processes of the company for disbursing money, and hence that the clause of the State law governing embezzlement, "without the consent of the owner," had not been violated because the checks to Ferguson bore the usual signatures necessary to validate them.

Thereupon Circuit Attorney Sidener surrendered completely—dismissed all other indictments against Ferguson, including that charging obtaining money under false pretenses.

Government Intervened.

That would have ended prosecution had not Federal authorities intervened and Ferguson, with Alfred Baggot, who was Murray Carleton's messenger in the days of his illness, were indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud, because the false statements of the company's condition were sent through the mails to obtain loans from Eastern banks.

That trial is just concluded. Eleven jurors voted to convict Ferguson. The twelfth was inflexible for acquittal and there must again be a trial. So much dissatisfaction was expressed with the dismissals of State action that Ferguson has been re-indicted in State court.

GORDON BENNETT RACE TO BE HELD IN U. S.

Date and Place for International Balloon Event to Be Announced by April 1.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Gordon Bennett international balloon race will be held this year in the United States, according to a decision of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, announced here today.

The date will be fixed by the National Aeronautical Association and will be between July 1 and Sept. 15. The date and place will be announced not later than April 1 and entries must be filed with the association not later than May 1.

The Navy Department recently announced that it would enter a balloon in the elimination race to determine American representatives in the international event. Lieutenant-Commander Dr. M. R. Pierce has been chosen as the commanding officer of the naval unit for the elimination events.

EX-CONGRESSWOMAN'S ESTATE SAVED BY GAS

Well Will Enable Miss Alice Robertson to Pay Her Taxes.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Feb. 5.—A grimy oil derrick rising from the ashes of her country home has strengthened the faith of Miss Alice Robertson, former Oklahoma Congresswoman, that "the Lord will provide."

"Miss Alice," as she is affectionately known, said today that the gas well struck yesterday on her country estate, would enable her to pay taxes on the place when they become due March 15.

A series of misfortunes has beset "Miss Alice" since she became Oklahoma's first woman member of Congress, several years ago. A comfortable fortune she had amassed by conducting a cafeteria in Muskogee melted away after she started her political career.

Free Bridge Association to Meet.

A meeting of the Citizens' Free Bridge Association will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Public Library.

NO TAXI PARKING ON TWELFTH

Police Rescind Special Permit After Conference.

A special order permitting taxicabs to park in the center of Twelfth boulevard between Locust and St. Charles streets will be withdrawn tomorrow when all parking in that section will be banned. So many controversies between private automobile owners and taxicab drivers have resulted from the privilege granted to the taxicabs that the police, after a conference yesterday with taxicab company managers and Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks, decided to solve the difficulty by forbidding all parking.

Taxicabs will now be allowed to park at the west curbing of Twelfth boulevard and north of Hotel Jefferson until they are called.

CHARGES OF GRAFT TO GAIN COOLIDGE DELEGATES IN '28

Senate Committee's Evidence Indicates Third-Term Boom May Be Behind Job-Selling in South.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — The question of whether postmasterships and other Federal offices recently have been distributed in Southern States for the purpose of obtaining delegates for President Coolidge in the Republican National Convention in 1928, is likely to arise if the Senate Judiciary Committee carries out the proposed investigation of the sale of Government offices, it was learned today.

A resolution providing for such an investigation is pending before the Senate, having been favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee. Because of the possibility that it might produce revelations harmful to Mr. Coolidge's third-term boom, some administration Senators will make strenuous efforts to block it, when it comes to a vote a few days hence.

In the great mass of evidence which has been submitted to the Judiciary Committee, purporting to show wholesale trafficking in Federal appointments, there have been some indications that the distribution of plums has been governed by a desire to insure State delegations that will vote for the renomination of President Coolidge in 1928.

Norris Would Do the Work.

As now drafted, the resolution for an investigation would authorize Senator Norris, chairman of the committee, to name the members of the sub-committee, which would actually perform the work of inquiry. This would eliminate the possibility of any effort to "whitewash," or suppress evidence, because Norris, head of the progressive group in the Senate, is under no obligations to the President or anybody else.

If the evidence now in his possession is reliable, Federal offices in many Southern States have been sold in the last few years, as he put it, "as a merchant sells lard." Most of the evidence concerns the appointment by President Coolidge of Postmasters, District Attorneys, Revenue Collectors and United States Marshals. Prices paid for obtaining the appointments ranged from $200, for an office paying $1200 a year, to $1200 for one paying $2200.

In most of the Southern States, which have no Republican members in Congress, recommendation for Federal appointments are made by the respective members of the Republican National Committee. In a number, the committeemen and committeewomen are Negroes.

Charges From Mississippi.

The Republican National Committeeman for Mississippi is Perry Howard, a Negro, and the committeewoman is Mary C. Booze, also a Negro. Dozens of communications have been received by Norris, charging that appointments, mostly of postmasters, have been made in that State in consideration of money paid to W. L. Mhoon, Howard's law partner, and to E. P. Booze, husband of the committeewoman.

Investigations of the situation were made by the Department of Justice and the Postoffice Department. Norris recently requested that the reports of the investigators be forwarded to him. Postmaster-General New complied promptly, but Attorney-General Sargent has not responded. Howard is now employed in the Department of Justice as a special assistant to Sargent.

If the Senate votes an investigation, Norris undoubtedly will ask it to require Attorney-General Sargent to produce the desired evidence.

Booze Alleged to Have Got $300.

In the case of one Mississippi postmaster, the evidence already submitted charges that he was required to pay $300 which eventually was traced to Booze's bank account, and also was required to contribute $50 to the Republican National campaign fund in 1924. His salary is $1800 a year.

Inquiry in another case apparently disclosed that a postmaster received $2200 a year was required to pay $1200 to two of Howard's cousins, for having his temporary appointment made permanent.

A candidate for a postmastership paying $3400 a year, was required to pay $500 down and $500 when he received the appointment, the evidence in this instance indicating that part of the money went to Booze.

Dozens of similar cases have been reported to Norris, the reports in many instances being supported by canceled checks, letters and affidavits.

A majority of the allegations charge that the payments were required on the pretext of covering "incidental expenses." In others, however, it is charged that payments were extorted from persons already in office, on pain of losing their positions. Virtually all the officeholders who say they paid money to Negro Republican politicians, are white persons.

Taylor Says Secretary, Not He, Collected From Job-Holders.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Representative J. Will Taylor (Rep.), Tennessee, denied today to a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that he had solicited campaign funds from Postmasters, as charged by his political opponents in Tennessee.

Taking the oath at his own request, he told the committee that his secretary, Miss Dorothy Schultz, had sent letters to some Postmasters under his signature in 1924 asking funds to meet a $3000 deficit in his 1922 primary campaign, but that he told Miss Schultz he didn't approve of it, and ordered her to return the money.

Fred Arnn of Chattanooga, cross-examining Taylor, asked if he returned $100 received from Joseph Morrow, former Mount Pleasant Postmaster.

"No, I haven't," Taylor answered. "I didn't know he had given $100 until this scandal came up. I will give it to him."

"You have known about it for a year," said Arnn.

GAS EXPLODES IN CHURCH, KILLING MAN AND WOMAN

Toledo Coroner Denies Reports That Explosives Planted in Building Caused Tragedy.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 5.—Natural gas was responsible for an explosion which wrecked the interior of the old First Congregational Church here today, killing two persons and seriously injuring a third and causing damage of $150,000, Coroner Charles J. Henzler and fire officials said tonight.

The dead: Mrs. Katherine Wilt, 36 years old, caretaker of the church buildings; Clyde Wilt, 40, her husband, who accompanied her to the church before going to work.

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, 33, sister-in-law of Mrs. Wilt, who had gone to assist her in preparing the building for the Sunday service, is in a hospital with serious burns.

Reports that explosives planted in the church building caused the blast were denied by Henzler. He said there was no apparent mystery. A leak in the gas lines is thought by fire officials to have allowed the gas to accumulate during the night and after the three persons entered the building it was ignited when one of them struck a match.

FORMER LAW ENFORCEMENT WORKER HELD, STILL SEIZED

Federal Charge Against Otto Turley Once Undercover Agent in St. Clair County.

Otto Turley, one-time paid undercover investigator of the St. Clair County Law Enforcement League, a Ku Klux Klan subsidiary, was arrested yesterday at his home, 815 North Sixteenth street, East St. Louis, by city detectives who found a whisky still in the basement.

Turley, with his brother Charles, were members of a squad of investigators who, during the summer of 1924, filed 350 affidavits with the Federal District Attorney, stating they had made purchases of liquor from East Side saloonkeepers and druggists. Charles Turley later was tried on a charge of possessing liquor but was acquitted.

The detectives entered Turley's home with a search warrant while he was absent and found the only stairway to the basement leading from the bedroom. Turley was arrested when he returned.

Beside the still, which was of 100 gallons daily capacity, the detectives found barrels containing 200 gallons of steam-heated mash and five gallons of alleged moonshine whisky. Soap, part of which had been used to calk seams in the pipes also was taken.

An information was issued by Federal Commissioner Felsen charging Turley with possession and manufacture of illicit liquor and possession of a still. He is being held pending arraignment, but denies ownership or knowing the still existed. He describes himself as a carpenter, 42 years old.

THREE PERSONS DIE IN FIRE

Lieutenant, Daughter and Guest Killed at Quantico.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Three persons lost their lives last night in a fire in a dwelling house at the Marine barracks, Quantico, Va.

The dead are: Lieut. Andrew R. Holderby III of the Marine Corps, in whose home the fire occurred; Miss Eleanor Griffin, a house guest, whose home is in Washington and Clotilde Holderby, 4-year-old daughter of Lieut. Holderby. Another house guest, Miss Carolyn Griffin, a sister of Eleanor Griffin, was badly injured and taken to the hospital at Quantico. Lieut. Holderby's wife and an older daughter escaped without injury. Lieut. Holderby was a native of Richmond, Va. He served in the World War and with the marine establishment in Haiti.

Millinery Company Seeks to Collect Dress Bill.

Suit for $505, alleged to be due the Sonnenfeld Millinery Co. for clothing, was filed against Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Cardinals, and his wife in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday.

The petition alleges that Mrs. Hornsby bought dresses worth $450 at the store Sept. 23, last, just before the victorious completion of the National League season by the Cardinals, and that she bought a $55 dress there Oct. 21, shortly after the team had won the World's championship.

COOLIDGE WANTS U. S. IN LEAGUE ECONOMIC PARLEY

Asks Congress for $15,000 Appropriation to Send Delegates to Geneva Session, May 4.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—American participation in the Geneva Economic Conference called by the League of Nations was recommended to the Senate today by President Coolidge.

Requesting an appropriation of $15,000 for the expenses of delegates to the conference, which will begin May 4, the President said "this country should stand ready to aid in the study of means to promote economic progress."

His recommendation went also to the House, and with it Mr. Coolidge forwarded a copy of the invitation from the Council of the League of Nations and called attention that delegates to the conference "cannot in any way bind their Governments and will not be qualified to act as spokesmen of an official policy."

"I consider it important," the President said, "to participate in the appointment of members, not only in order that this Government may be adequately informed of discussions in their relation to American interests, but also in order that the American point of view may be duly presented in the hope of contributing to development of sound economic foundations of friendly intercourse and prosperity.

"The United States is taking its part in the study of the problem of arms limitation at the invitation of the League of Nations. This country should also stand ready to aid in the study of means to promote economic progress.

"This is not the occasion to discuss specific problems, outlined in the agenda. It is sufficient to note that the conference contemplates an inquiry into important problems affecting American interests. This Government will have the benefit of its deliberations, but will not be bound by its results."

The President said the Preparatory Committee which laid plans for the conference explains that its purpose is to organize a general consultation in the course of which the various programs and doctrines may be freely exposed without the freedom of discussion being restricted by an immediate necessity to transform the conclusion of the confernece into international engagements."

BAKER NAMES COL. ADAMS TO SUCCEED GEN. RUMBOLD

Missouri Adjutant General Resigns After Governor Rejects Proposed Bill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5. — Immediate acceptance of the resignation of Adjutant General Frank M. Rumbold, of the Missouri National Guard, submitted late yesterday, was announced today by Gov. Baker, together with the selection of Lieutenant Colonel A. V. Adams of Jefferson City now chief quartermaster of the National Guard, as Rumbold's successor.

The resignation is effective March 1.

Baker declined to comment upon the resignation, which was forecast in the Post-Dispatch several weeks ago, after the Governor refused to include in his legislative program a bill proposed by Rumbold that would make the Adjutant-General the executive officer of the Missouri military council.

After the first bill proposed by Rumbold was not included in the Governor's program, another measure was drawn by the Adjutant-General at the Governor's suggestion, which also was rejected, it is understood.

"I came out here to do some constructive work for the National Guard at a personal sacrifice," Rumbold said. "If I find I cannot get that work done, then the thing for me to do is get out. I'm not looking for a job."

Friction has developed at intervals between Rumbold and Brigadier-General W. A. Raupp of Pierce City, commanding general of the National Guard, over administrative functions.

Shinn Chicks Are Better Thats What 10,000 Chick Buyers Say

Reports like these are absolute proof that our chicks are egg-bred. Mrs. G. A. Switzer writes "My 590 pullets hatched from Shinn Hatched Chicks laid $400.00 worth of eggs from November 15 to December 15." Another says, "Your chicks are as good as those costing 70c each." Another says, "Raised 98 out of 100"; another says, "I bought 1000 of your 10-cent chicks and 1000 chicks costing 20 cents from another man, the best breeder in our state, and yours won out on every point. To date they have laid just 24 9-10 per cent better than his." Chicks as low as $8.80 hundred and as many as you want. Catalog Free.

CARLOTTA'S TRAGIC REIGN AT AN END

Her Phantom Court Dissolves

Once Empress of Mexico, She Spent Her Life in the Shadows, Awaiting Her Lost Maximilian.

Carlotta as she looked at the zenith of her career

AN EMPIRE has come to an end at last. While life remained to Carlotta, Empress of Mexico, the court over which she ruled long ago existed as truly in the shadowy fantasies of her mind as it did for the two years that ended in tragedy for Emperor and Empress. [illegible] she slept away at the Chateau of Bouchoute, not far from Brussels, recent news dispatches say, and there vanished with her the last vestige of imperial splendor.

Above the palace in Brussels the flag [illegible] half staff, members of the Belgian [illegible] recently decked for the nuptials [illegible] marriage, with somber black. Not [illegible] merely a ceremonial gesture [illegible] cause the old lady who died in her eighty-seventh year chanced to be aunt to King Albert.

They honored a woman of high spirit who played a brave part in a briefly brilliant scene, who ruled with imperial dignity until the house of cards collapsed, to exist for more than 60 years thereafter only in her own melancholy delusions.

Many elements entered into the fantastic [illegible] for empire in troubled Mexico. Not the least was a band of hard-riding dare-devil Missourians under General Jo Shelby, who, when the Confederacy ended, sought to enlist under the flag of the Emperor Maximilian, sought a new land and a new home far from the ravages of the Civil War.

FOR a time Carlotta, known then as Charlotte, and the Archduke Maximilian, brother to Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, knew such happiness as is granted to few. For several years after their marriage in 1857 they traveled over the world. Both were accomplished linguists; both were fond of travel and study. Maximilian was handsome and of excellent bearing, with an intellectual face, almost that of a mystic. Carlotta was one of the most noted beauties of Europe, brought up in the strictest etiquette and training at the Belgian court.

Tiring of travel, Maximilian created for his bride the dream palace of Miramar, on the shores of the Adriatic, but a few miles from Trieste. Nothing was spared. Great hall opened into great hall, adorned with art treasures from all over the world. Rose gardens and marble terraces swept down to meet the blue of the sea. The people about Trieste adored Maximilian, to the intense jealousy, it was reported, of the less popular Emperor Francis Joseph. There was nothing to mar the serene joy of the noble pair.

The peace and joy of Miramar was not long to endure. Napoleon III, with his Empress, Eugenie, and his illegitimate brother, the Duc de Morny, were hatching an ambitious plot. Napoleon had always hoped to see an empire established in America, a power that might rival the United States, then torn by civil war. This fact, coupled with the disturbed state of affairs in Mexico, gave him an opportunity. With Spain and England co-operating, France intervened and sent troops to quell disorders and supposedly to protect French interests.

It was a short step to complete French domination of the turbulent republic to the south. Temporarily having the liberal, [illegible] forces in check, Napoleon, urged by Eugenie and the unscrupulous Duc de Morny, who saw a chance for financial gain, offered the uncertain crown to Maximilian. His agents, journeying to Miramar, painted the possibilities for empire in glowing terms. Maximilian at first refused, governed by his studious and pleasure-loving temperament.

But Carlotta [illegible] dreams of imperial [illegible] was the hand [illegible] her father [illegible] King Leopold [illegible] and she was [illegible] of Mexico [illegible] of empire had been [illegible]. Napoleon repeated his offer, and Maximilian indicated that he would accept if there was evidence that the people of Mexico really wanted him for their Emperor. To Napoleon, master of political [illegible], this condition was easily satisfied. He arranged a mock election, manipulated by his [illegible] and [illegible] majority.

WITH all pomp [illegible] audience [illegible] at Miramar, Maximilian was named [illegible] and Carlotta Empress of Mexico. They stopped at Rome en route to their new country to receive the benediction of [illegible] Pius IX for their enterprise. Happy and carefree, never realizing the difficulties of the situation that confronted them, the Emperor and Empress made plans for their new court.

The arrival at Vera Cruz was not auspicious. There was no [illegible] to greet them, no sound of acclaim. The hot wind known as the "northers," which sometimes blows for weeks on end, carried the [illegible] of the city even out to their ship. At Mexico City French officers had arranged a welcome, even paying for the flowers that were thrown under the wheels of their state carriage. This slightly cheered the new rulers, and they started to organize their court.

Disregarding more serious problems, they spent much time in the creation of a royal atmosphere in the old [illegible]. By her grace and [illegible] Carlotta won over the ladies of the [illegible] ican families, many of whom she made ladies in waiting. There were balls, receptions, court dinners and musicals innumerable. Money was spent without restraint. Carlotta reveled in the pomp of empire. In her scarlet robes of state the simple peons acclaimed her as little less than a goddess—the blonde goddess destined according to ancient legend to return and bring happiness and prosperity.

In the midst of all this gayety and pomp the first slight foreshadowings of disaster were scarcely recognized. There was friction between Maximilian and the French officers. Money ran low in the imperial treasury. General Porfirio Diaz and Benito Juarez, leaders of the liberal factions, [illegible] and to a foreign Em- [illegible] disaster. Nor did Maximilian prove a wise Emperor. He was weak and vacillating. With the close of the Civil War the United States looked askance [illegible] on the new empire.

Worst of all, Napoleon began the withdrawal of the French troops by whose strength Maximilian ruled. The French Emperor's ardor for a Latin kingdom [illegible] cooled. In the role of saviour General Shelby and his Confederates, 1000 strong, including such men as Generals Sterling Price, John B. Magruder, Preston Walker and Hawthorne, and Major John N. Edwards, came to Mexico City to offer the services of his miniature army. The unwise Maximilian refused their offer, choosing to rely on his own forces. The admiration of these hardy fighters for the young Empress was unbounded, but since their services were not wanted they could do nothing. As a tribute to her they founded a settlement which they called "Carlotta."

SO DESPERATE did the situation become, as the French troops were withdrawn and the liberals gathered strength and power, that in June of 1866 Carlotta left for Europe to plead with Napoleon, believing that enemies had set the [illegible] Emperor against their cause. Maximilian accompanied her for a few miles out of Mexico City, and there, in the desert, while her suite waited, they said a passionate farewell. It was the worst season of the year to travel, and Carlotta endured many hardships before she reached Paris on August 10. But always to spur her on there was the thought of the desperate plight of the young Emperor, ringed about by his enemies in a foreign and barbarous land.

Napoleon and Eugenie were at St. Cloud, a few miles from Paris. Leaving behind all the attendants who had come with her, Carlotta drove the distance alone, ready to make any sacrifices, ready to demean herself before the French Emperor if only he would restore his aid. It was some time before she was allowed to see Napoleon. He was out, they told her; he was ill. Her determination was unshaken. At last she was granted an audience.

All her pleading was in vain. She flung herself at the feet of Napoleon, and when Eugenie entered the room to take a part in the conference she implored her for help with a passionate intensity that approached hysteria. When she realized the finality of their cold, unyielding refusals her mind tottered and balanced perilously on the verge of insanity.

"What could I, the daughter of a Bourbon, expect from a Bonaparte?" she asked, drawing herself up as the interview came to a close. They offered her a glass of orange juice to calm her. "Poison, poison!" she screamed, pushing it aside.

Returning to Paris, she gathered the members of her suite about her and ordered all haste made for Rome. There was one more desperate chance to save the man she loved. She pinned her flagging hopes on an interview with the Pope, who might save the situation if he would influence Napoleon in favor of Maximilian.

The Pope readily enough granted her an audience. She was received as an Empress in the great throneroom, with all the papal court assembled about the walls. But her heart sank; she had hoped for a private audience with the Pontiff. When the formal ceremony of reception and benediction was at an end, the Pope led her into his private apartments. For an hour she was closeted with him. When she came out, her attendants read defeat in every line of her downcast face.

SERIOUS signs of mental derangement now began to manifest themselves. She shut herself up alone, and would take no food. For 20 hours she was alone with her despair, while outside the door to her chambers her maids in waiting and secretaries listened, trembling and frightened. At last she appeared in deep mourning, without a single ornament on her person, and, choosing one attendant to accompany her, went again to the Vatican.

Again the Pope received her. Her passion and hysteria knew no restraint when again the Pontiff denied her request. She vowed that she would not leave the Vatican unless her wishes were granted, swearing she would sleep in the corridors. Alarmed, the Pope explained that no woman had ever slept under the Vatican roof. As her hysteria grew a physician and Carlotta's attendants were summoned. At the consent of the Pope an apartment was prepared for her and she spent the night in the Vatican, pacing the length of her room. It was plain to be seen now that Carlotta was deranged. She suspected various members of her suite of poisoning her.

The Count of Flanders, her younger brother, arrived to take charge of her. He took her to Miramar, hoping that the sight of scenes where once she had known happiness might help to restore her mind. Here she was plunged into a melancholia even more terrible than that which had seized her in Rome. "They will kill him. I know they will kill him. I know the Mexicans," she said often. Her brother took her to the Chateau of Laeken in Belgium.

A few months later, Maximilian, with two Generals who had remained loyal to him, faced a firing squad at Queretaro, where he had fled from Mexico City. "Poor Carlotta!" he is said to have murmured as he fell in the dust.

"If your sufferings are too great and God shall call you to join me, I shall bless the divine hand which has weighed so heavily upon us. Adieu, adieu! Your poor Maximilian," he wrote to Carlotta in the hour before his death.

AFTER a time Carlotta was taken to the seclusion of the Chateau of Bouchoute. She never left the estate, with its 400 acres of wooded park and meadow. Sometimes, it is thought, she knew of the tragedy that had befallen her. Again, she seemed to live entirely in the past, preserving the pomp of an imperial court to the last.

"I cannot find Maximilian," she often told the occasional visitor who was permitted to see her. "If you come back in the afternoon you will be able to see him."

For 60 years she lingered in the strange world of her illusions. Her physique seemed excellent. She survived several serious illnesses. Quietly, without pain, she died at last. Twenty men of the old Imperial Guard, all that remained of the glittering pageantry of empire, followed their Empress through the wind and snow of a blizzard to a final resting place beside the Kings and Queens of Belgium.

Once He Lived in a Piano Box

But Little Johnny Carroll Came in Time to Be Guide and Host to Royalty—And That Was Why the Cincinnati Orphans Met Queen Marie of Rumania.

Colonel John H. Carroll as a boy of 8 and as he appears today.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON, D. C.

SEEST thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before Kings." It is written so in the Proverbs of Solomon. And Solomon knew the ways of Kings — and of Queens.

Although Solomon wrote 2900 years ago, his ancient wisdom comprehends a story of today—the story of Johnny Carroll, who, as a boy of 5, was diligent in his business, which was blacking boots; and to whom, as a man of 70, was intrusted the care of a Queen. An orphan, scarcely out of babyhood, his only home for two years was an old piano box in a Cincinnati alley. A man at three-score years and ten, still young, suave, contained, courtly—in his keeping rested the honor of the United States when Queen Marie of Rumania came to this country not long ago to be the nation's guest. He guided the destinies of her tour while Queen Marie flitted in luxury from Atlantic to Pacific and back again, as one to the manner born.

And perhaps he was. For of the story of the life of Colonel John H. Carroll there is little record before that morning, when his mother, that beautiful and gentle creature whom he loved and trusted, left him for a moment in a railway waiting room in Cincinnati—and he never saw her again.

PERHAPS you can see that Cincinnati waiting room on a broiling summer morning in 1862. Weary-eyed, flat chested women from the hills in homespun dresses. Pale-faced, and aged soldiers in blue uniforms, waiting for the train to take them home. People drowsing on their carpet bags on those hard benches. Scared negroes, with their all done in a bundle. Light-hearted youths wearing fatigue caps jauntily, just setting off to war. A bearded officer with epaulets and clanking saber.

And a weary woman, with fevered, anxious eyes, in silkene crinoline, whose chubby boy turns his blue eyes up to hers.

"I wanta see papa."

"Pretty soon, dear."

The little one cannot want as much as she. Her heart almost stops as she thinks of him in a hospital, down in Kentucky—"that dark and bloody ground." Wounded. Perhaps now dead. She would fly to him—and the train is so long in coming. Minutes have leaden feet. There are hours to wait. The sun blisters down. The room is hot, stuffy, smelly. No wisp of air can penetrate between those Cincinnati hills.

"Mamma, I wanta apple."

She gives him one. The thought comes of a purchase she would like to make.

"Will you be a good boy and stay here just a minute while mamma's gone?"

"Yes, mamma."

"And not go away at all?"

She kissed him and hurries to the street. His big blue eyes watch the flies upon the ceiling as he munches his apple. How can they walk up there? He looks around the room at the black people. They are funny, with their china eyes and glistening teeth, their wide smiles and their funny laughter. The apple is gone. Even to the core. He sees a pickaninny. He'd like to have him to play with. Grandpa had a little pickaninny for a playmate when he was a boy, way down South. He watches the doorway anxiously for his mother. People come and go. A train comes and goes with a great bustling of folks. The little pickaninny went with the train. Where is his mother? A great tear glistens in the little boy's eye and trickles down beside his nose. He mustn't cry. He must be brave. Like father, who is a soldier, and who marched off in his new blue suit. He wants papa. But he wants mamma more. The tears come faster. But mamma doesn't come. She never comes.

He can't be brave forever. He has swallowed sobs until he almost chokes. The tears have grimed and streaked his face where he tried to wipe them away with the back of his chubby hand. And, frankly and with violence, he cries: "I want my mamma."

The station agent crosses to him. "What's the matter, little man?"

"Your mamma will be back in just a minute now," he soothes. His talk is brave with promise, yet in his heart he fears.

"You come with me, I'll find her. Be a brave man, now."

It is easier to be brave when you listen to his voice. He takes the youngster by the hand. He walks him through the room and out onto the station platform, and takes him up close to see the puffing engines. Night comes on. The agent takes the youngster home.

The next day and the next the agent returns the strange child to the station. Sometimes Johnny weeps. More frequently, now, he is finding strange and interesting things around here. There is a boy who sells papers. He has the biggest voice, for the littlest boy. Johnny tries to imitate his call.

"What's yer name?"

"Johnny Carroll. What's choors?"

"George Wilson. I sell papers."

"I'd like to," says Johnny. "My mamma went away and left me here."

They become friends.

Another day and the station agent abandoned hope. There were mouths of his own to feed at home. He knew, as his wife had said, that he couldn't be feeding every vagrant child that came along. And keeping it. He wasn't to bring young Johnny home again, was her last word.

He didn't. He locked the station and stole away. Johnny, alone, crying, without a place to sleep, encountered George Wilson. "You come with me. I just got a dandy place to sleep."

George took him up back streets and through an alley. There was an old piano box in there. George showed him how to crawl in. It was almost as big as a house.

For more than two years that piano box was the only home of those two boys. There were no compulsory education laws in those days of the 1860s. Nor did children's aid societies flourish.

THE waifs, in the stress of war, were as leaves in a storm. No one heeded them. George Wilson, resilient, self-reliant, foreseeing, planned their way, largely, as became a man of 7, and then 8, and then 9 years. He managed to get a bootblack's kit for his young partner. Two couldn't sell papers near the station. But one could sell papers and one could black boots. They pooled their profits and had enough to eat, mostly, though, when the days were wet and the streets were filled with slush or mud, Johnny Carroll's earnings were little or nothing. But on fine sunshiny days in spring and summer, and even winter, the little fellow reaped a harvest from staid respectability and young bloods. He went about it like he meant business—and always did a real good job.

If they were crowded in their alley house it was, in winter, but a blessing. Johnny soon learned the warmth there is in newspapers. Of these, and of the gunnysacks they had gathered, they made their covering, and snuggled close—spoon fashion—when the nights were cold and snow and sleet drove down upon their tiny roof. They learned, of course, something of each other's histories. George Wilson was grave and responsible. Sometimes he worried about church. The parents of the little waif had been religious. He was, too, in his groping way.

Came the Christmas of 1864. George saw that the two cleaned up as best they might. Their very faces shone with the evening scouring. And they attended a Christmas celebration at a Sunday school. There was the great green tree glittering with candle light and frosty festoons, and loaded down with packages. Before it sat the children, eager-faced, wide-eyed in wonder at its beauty, and at Santa Claus, round and merry, red-faced, with twinkling eyes behind his great white whiskers.

They heard the Bible story, George and John—the story Johnny's mother used to tell him, smiling with her dear, sweet face—of the Babe in Bethlehem's stable, and the shepherds and the Kings. The children sang hymns that were happy and joyful. And Santa Claus began to hand out gifts to all good little boys and girls.

WEREN'T they good little boys? One by one old Santa passed the gifts across—to others. A pair of skates gleamed high upon the tree. Just what Johnny wanted. He couldn't take his eyes off them as package after package was handed out—to others. And the skates went, too. To a little boy of Johnny's size. But Johnny was a man. Or else, he would have cried.

They left the Sunday school party empty handed—George and John.

"Do you s'pose old Santy made a mistake and give them skates to him and they was meant for me? Do you s'pose he couldn't read?"

"But that wasn't Santa Claus," George protested bravely. "That was just somebody dressed up. The preacher, maybe. Santa Claus couldn't have stayed there that long. He's got to get around everywhere."

"And will he come to us?"

"Sure he will."

"But we ain't got no chimney to our house."

"He can get in. And he never forgets good boys that hang their stockings up. And we've been good."

So Johnny Carroll hung his stocking up. At the opening to the piano box. He wrapped his naked foot up in some paper. It grew cold and stabbed with pain. He never said a word. And it numbed itself in sleep.

When Johnny awoke he had a frozen foot. And his empty stocking flapped outside the old piano box. Santa had failed him. It was almost as bad as when his mother didn't come back. Almost. Not quite! He didn't cry. He was a man. A man of 7!

They did what they could for the foot. George rubbed it with snow, as he had seen men do with frost-nipped ears. It hurt a lot. Johnny moaned with the pain. But he didn't cry. It got better for a time. And then with spring got worse again. So bad he couldn't walk. George had to make the living for the two of them. He slung Johnny's bootblack kit across his shoulders when he went out to sell his papers. Sometimes the foot would be a little better. And then Johnny would hobble out, and maybe down to the station where George was.

On one such day, in early spring, the foot ached and throbbed with stabbing pain. Try as he would, the little waif must cry.

A tall, grave, solemn man, with kindly face, in a suit of drab, came by and saw him.

"Why are thee crying, my son?"

"My foot is froze."

"Why does thee not go home to thy father and mother?"

"I ain't got none."

"But why"——

So Johnny Carroll told his story to this man who asked so many questions, and who chanced to be, for all of his queer speech, and his quaint drab wear, one of Cincinnati's leading business men. After the boy had told it the grave man said: "Come with me, my son."

And in that way Johnny Carroll came to the Penn Mission Home, an institution newly established by the Quakers, to care for children made orphans by the Civil War.

"Can't George come, too?"

George was found. The good Friends made no question. They did not ask for red-taped proof. They saw the boy's grave need. They did their kindness—"unto the least of these."

For more than two years Johnny Carroll stayed at the Quaker orphanage. He was now 10 years old. There came to Cincinnati a Quaker farmer from Monrovia, Ind. He was an uncle of the man who afterward became Governor Herbert D. Hadley of Missouri and later Chancellor of Washington University. He saw Johnny Carroll in the Penn Mission Home. He liked the boy. And Johnny went to live with him. Till he became, in fact, a man.

There was gentle, thoughtful courtesy and kindliness in the home of these good Indiana Friends. That grave and courteous dignity which is the hallmark of authentic gentle blood. There was labor. But the labor had the dignity of Divine command: "By the sweat of thy brow." There was little enough of schooling—in the usual acceptance of the word—but there was time for serious-intentioned reading, and for contemplation of life's significance. John Carroll spent not more than six weeks in school. But he learned to read. And he could get books and study.

As, when he learned that there would soon be held at the county seat an examination for entrance to West Point. He was 14 then. John Carroll decided he would be a soldier. He talked with the Congressman, and learned he was without sufficient mathematics. Nor would his grammar pass.

"But," he was told, "if you will study, there will come a chance for the other appointment next year." The friendly Congressman guided the boy in what books to choose for study. The year passed. John Carroll had mastered the books. He passed the examination. "I shall appoint you," he was told by his friend, the Congressman.

Now John was ready to tell his foster-parents of his plan, until then hidden from them.

THOMAS HADLEY heard the news with his calm gravity. "Thee knows, my son," he said, "that when thee was a child thy mother abandoned thee. Thee knows we have given thee our love and care, a home and a religious training, since thee came to us. And thee knows that we are Friends, and abhor war and all its pomps, and all its butcheries, and blood, and cruelties. Then will thee, who are one of us, now be a soldier to shoot and kill and make of war a business? Is it right, son, that thee desert us, who have never departed from thee?"

His dream of glories came toppling about John Carroll's head.

It wasn't right. He could not say it was. He knew that there was a duty to the right; such a duty as had carried his father into the Civil War—and the heart of his mother with him—although her parents, with their Southern blood, had been Southern sympathizers. He saw that it was right to stay with Thomas Hadley. He might grieve in silence. But he stayed.

He studied more. He taught school. He bought law books with money that he had earned. In Quaker thought a lawyer was almost as bad as a soldier.

But the boy dreamed of the law as of abstract Justice. And of himself, as Justice's most humble servant. And thus he reconciled his conscience. Before he was 20 he had passed the examinations and was admitted to the Indiana bar. A few years later he came to Missouri. He made his home at Linneus. People began to notice him. He did what he said he would—and when. He seemed to know the law. The field was restricted, so he moved to Unionville. Again he was diligent. And not less popular for working.

"He's a nice fellow, Lawyer Carroll. And when he says the thing's the law, it is. And when he says he'll draw a paper, he gets it done on time."

That was what they said of him—his neighbors. Later, someone wondered why Lawyer Carroll wouldn't make a real good Prosecuting Attorney. He did things. And he was straight. And he wasn't afraid.

He was a good Prosecuting Attorney. The Burlington Railroad needed a lawyer at Unionville after his term was done. It retained John H. Carroll. He was diligent about his business for the railroad. It discovered that he was not only a good lawyer, but a good politician. It got to sending him to Jefferson City as its representative during legislative sessions. Newspapers called him a lobbyist. They also noted that he became a power in politics.

HE WAS on the Democratic State Executive Committee. An important figure. William Llewellyn Saunders wrote a story of the life of Colonel John H. Carroll—for by this time he was an honorary Colonel on the staff of Governor David R. Francis—and, published in the old St. Louis Republic, it was circulated widely. Among those who read it was a New York family that for almost 30 years had sought the little boy left in the Cincinnati railroad station in the summer of 1862 by the mother who went out on an errand, and had not come back.

Colonel John Carroll took the first train to the up-State New York town from which the telegram was sent. On the edge of the village he found a quaint old house that seemed fragrant with dim memories. No answer to his knock. No one appeared to be at home. Searching his recollection for something he knew, he wandered around to the back, and into the orchard. A gray-haired woman, from a ladder, was picking apples. She descended, coming toward him with her apron filled. And then the apron and the apples dropped——

"It's little Johnny Carroll," she cried. "You have your mother's blue eyes and dark hair."

"And mother?"

"She died of sunstroke, that day in Cincinnati."

"And father?"

"Died in the South. He never recovered from his wounds."

It all seemed misty, dreamlike, fragrant, sad, across these years. Tears clouded in her eyes as she told the story. His mother's family had been forced to flee to Canada because of their Southern blood. Colonel Carroll was happy to have found his relatives, and gladdest of all to learn that only death could have kept his mother from coming back to him. But yet—he said as he spoke of his childhood the other day—the new-found relatives did not take, and could not take, the place of those who had cared for him when he knew no kin—Thomas Hadley and young George Wilson.

"And what became of Wilson?" In Tacoma, Wash., he is a business man, comfortably successful. America's breadth may separate the two. It cannot cut the bond between them. Some years ago Colonel Carroll was taken ill in Philadelphia and sent to a hospital. George Wilson heard of his illness. There came a letter to the boy with whom he had shared the piano box. It contained a draft for $1800.

"I've $3000 in the bank," the letter said. "Here's half, John. And if you need the rest, just say the word."

"And there was I," said Colonel Carroll, "surrounded by my friends and my family, and not in the slightest need in the world. All I could do was return the money and thank George from the bottom of my heart."

But back to those days in Unionville, Mo., where Colonel Carroll still retains his residence. Undoubtedly, he had made a mark for himself with the Burlington Railroad. It needed a representative in St. Louis. It picked on Colonel Carroll. The Jim Hill interests took over the railroad. They took over Carroll, too. He became the head of their legal department. He lived, in St Louis, in a big fine house at Belt avenue and Delmar boulevard—this man who as a boy had only a piano box for domicile.

THEN came the World War. Colonel Carroll went back to Washington to take a dollar-a-year job on the War Industries Board. He stayed on in Washington.

When Marie of Rumania came to America with her son and daughter, last fall, Samuel Hill, a son-in-law of James J. Hill, known in the West as a highway builder, and in Europe as the friend of Kings, a round and smiling man, with an aureole of silver hair, was her official host.

But someone must have actual charge of the party, arrange its lightning schedules, organize, mobilize, care for an infinitude of details, correlate the plans of civic entertainment with the broad plan of the tour. Approve this. Disapprove that. Observe the niceties of etiquette. Sam Hill picked for the job the waif, who had had his home in the Cincinnati alley. Quietly, calmly, unflustered though the heavy cannonading of social battles popped about him, Colonel Carroll did his job. Suave, courteous, gracious, kindly, he gave his orders—as though he might be making a request—so that those who carried them out had a sense of a favor done. He was gallant. But he was adamant. He was quick in decision. But he was precise.

Then came Chicago. Word of King Ferdinand's illness reached the Queen. The tour was abandoned. To New York every stop was cut. And among those stops was Cincinnati.

But Colonel Carroll knew the Queen's train must stop in Cincinnati a few minutes—somewhere down in the railroad yards. And when it reached the yards, and made the stop, the Queen stepped out on the observation platform on Colonel Carroll's arm, to confront 65 shining, happy children—65 orphans, from what once had been old Penn Mission House and now, is the Cincinnati Children's Home.

"Your Majesty, these are my brothers and my sisters," Colonel Carroll said.

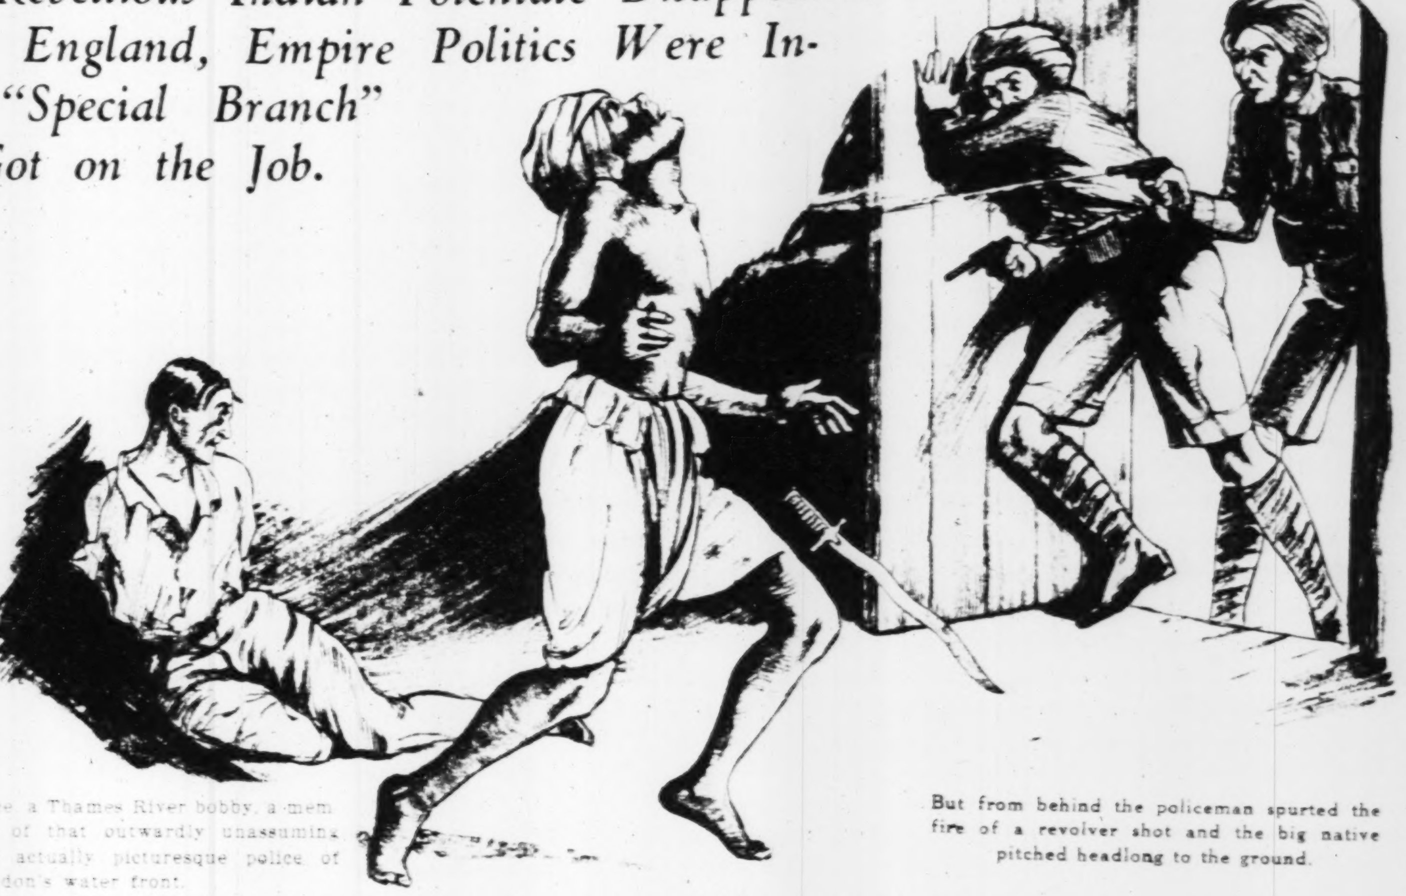
Marie of Rumania smiled. And whispered to a lady-in-waiting, who rushed back into the train, while Her Majesty presented the children with a large photograph of herself and family, which she had inscribed. And then the lady-in-waiting brought forth a 15-pound box of candy. The largest that Queen Marie had.

"For you, my children," said the Queen. And the train sped on.

Colonel John H. Carroll had been diligent in business. He had stood before Kings. But he had not forgotten that he, too, was a waif.

Scotland Yard Finds the Missing Prince

When the Son of a Rebellious Indian Potentate Disappeared Going Home From England, Empire Politics Were Involved—So the "Special Branch" Immediately Got on the Job.



But from behind the policeman spurted the fire of a revolver shot and the big native pitched headlong to the ground.

The fifth story in the Master Man Hunter series, which follows herewith, is another chronicle taken from the records of Scotland Yard. An Indian Prince disappeared and for reasons of State the search for him had to be conducted without the knowledge of the public. So the astute offices of the Special Branch were called in and in due course the young man was restored to his father without anyone's being the wiser except those immediately concerned. What intervened makes the story.

By JOSEPH GOLLOMB

SUPPOSE yourself in this article, to be solving a fascinating picture puzzle. I submit to you the following figures—not mere pictures, though they are in fact picturesque enough—but actual living parts of a famous whole:

1. In a little dinghy on the Thames a quietly smoking man in blue.
2. A Hindustan native on a ratty little pony.
3. A Paris-frocked society bud gambling at Monte Carlo.
4. A perspiring editor working over damp proof sheets.
5. A loudly dressed race track "bookie" drinking in a thieves' resort in London.
6. A scholarly looking man thumbing catalogue cards.

The game I put to you is to combine these dissimilar figures into the most compactly built unit that has ever gained fame for the precise working together of all its many and varied parts. What can that whole be? The answer is Scotland Yard.

From a first-hand study of the way the police of several nations hunt criminals, I have been impressed by this fact above others, that a race hunts men with the same traits with which it plays its games. The Anglo-Saxons, famous on cricket and rugby fields for magnificent teamwork, show the same talent when they go man hunting for Scotland Yard.

But, just as in Rugby, at any given moment it is some man that carries the ball, so in any hunt on the part of Scotland Yard, it is always some man or group or division of Scotland Yard that heads the play. But whoever heads the play remembers that it is not a running race he is leading, but a team.

In the particular instance I want to relate, it was the Special Branch of Scotland Yard that was at the head of the hunt. This is the least known department of that little known but famous institution. Its quiet name, Special Branch, in itself is designed to avert speculation about it on the part of the public. It is also the one department that has about it more the glamor of good fiction than even the rest of Scotland Yard.

For it is the duty of the Special Branch to guard the British Empire, the lives of those whose hands are on the helm of its Government and to protect in England the Ambassadors and royalty of other countries.

It is the duty of this branch of Scotland Yard to render safe both state and statesmen from a class of people the ordinary detective does not understand so well, from men and women who work in the dark not to steal a million dollars, not to revenge a personal hurt, but to overturn a state, to pick and mine a nation's strongholds, to shake the British Empire to its foundations if they can.

ALTHOUGH I had a most interesting half-hour with the recent chief of Special Branch, Sir Basil Thompson, himself a writer, I can report less of the machinery of his department than of the rest of Scotland Yard. For with all the generous courtesy the chiefs of Scotland Yard extended to me, the door to Special Branch was opened for only the most fleeting glimpse.

In the particular case I want to describe as illustrating the teamwork of Scotland Yard with, this time, Special Branch heading the play, the names are assumed for reasons that will become apparent with the telling.

It so happened that one of the lesser but most troublesome of India's native rulers was having a stormy struggle with revolutionists within his little domain. At the same time he was getting on the nerves of the British Government, and the British Government was affecting his nerves just as badly.

Raj Bey, as we shall call him, was, from the British Government's point of view, a bad boy, doubly troublesome because his influence among the other Indian Princes was considerable. On the other hand, Raj Bey considered the British Government an invading tyrant, who had robbed him and his fellow Indian Princes of their ancient powers and was plotting to rob him of what little influence he still wielded.

When among his subjects, therefore, there arose a revolutionary movement directed against his tyranny, Raj Bey was convinced that it was really directed by the British Government.

Now, the latter had enough to do carrying its own burdens. In reality the British Government was not in the least interested in the outcome of this revolutionary movement. Also, it was to the interest of the British Foreign Office to convince Raj Bey that it had not inspired the agitation against him nor sympathized with it.

Raj Bey had sent his oldest son—let us call him the Prince—to be educated at one of the big English universities. He did this with the canny motive of having his son, who would succeed him, learn the ways of the British, that he might the better circumvent them some day, when he himself became ruler.

The Prince was a sensitive, highly intelligent youth of 18, who took to Western culture and ideas rapidly. Among the things he soon grew away from was his father's love for splendor and personal show, and in its place he acquired genuine simplicity and democracy. He was bookish in taste, cultivated few friends, and these mostly among the good students at the university, regardless of their station in life.

ONE day the Prince packed a few bags and without fuss and feathers took the train down to London, thence to go back to his father's troubled little realm for a summer vacation. There was no intimation of anything wrong having happened to the Prince until a month later. Then a wireless in code from the British Government in India reached Special Branch.

"Raj Bey and the royal party waiting at the station in their capital for the Prince's train had waited in vain."

The Prince had completely and mysteriously disappeared somewhere on his journey between his university and his father's home. Whereupon Raj Bey began raging against the revolutionists in his land as the kidnapers of his son, and against the British Government as fellow agents in the crime.

But his raging was in private. For, with the tortuous psychology of the Oriental, he felt that he could do more in secret and by devious ways toward rescuing his son than by crying aloud to the world. At the same time, he believed he could more effectively revenge himself on his enemies—among whom he included the British Government—by keeping the matter quiet as far as possible.

So he explained that his son did not arrive when expected because he had decided on a leisurely hunting trip incognito, his telegram announcing the change of program had unavoidably been delayed.

But some of Sir Basil Thompson's correspondents in Raj Bey's palace sent word that Raj was making dangerous capital of the kidnaping—dangerous to the precarious peace between the British Government and a group of the Indian Rajahs of whom Raj Bey was a leader.

The order went forth, therefore, that Special Branch was to find the Prince, but to search for him as quietly as his own father was doing. There were reasons of state why the kidnaping should not stir up a public commotion, reasons, however, with which this story is not concerned.

Through the ether over two continents there went out wireless messages to Sir Basil Thompson's correspondents, silent summonses to the hunt. In London, with Special Branch leading, the whole machinery and team of Scotland Yard swung into the search.

The Prince's life at the university was examined minutely, all his associates secretly investigated—with no result. His last known movement was when on the afternoon of his disappearance he boarded a train at the university town.

A council of Scotland Yard chiefs was held and the abstract possibilities of what may have happened were canvassed. Raj Bey's revolutionists were at first the most promising explanation. But Sir Basil Thompson's correspondents in the ranks of the revolutionists said no.

Another possibility was that the Prince might have been killed by someone he had met on the journey for loot or he might be held for ransom. Further, he might have had his own reasons for disappearing. But the latter possibility was rejected as groundless.

The council did not rest long in abstract discussions. Part of Scotland Yard's hidden machinery is that strangest of things to keep hidden—a string of newspapers, daily, biweekly, weekly and occasional. In most of these there appeared the photograph of a young East Indian, sensitive and aristocratic of face, bearing no name or description.

For although the newspapers of Scotland Yard are limited strictly to police circulation and strictly forbidden to anybody else, there are thousands of copies circulated and Special Branch was anxious to keep the matter exceedingly quiet. With the photograph went a line of apparently innocuous caption, but translated by those who knew, it read: "Information wanted on this person dating later than May 12."

TWO hours later there reported to Special Branch the second figure of our puzzle—a quiet, weather-beaten man in double-breasted blue coat and trousers and blue peaked hat, on which two anchors in silver were crossed.

He was part of Scotland Yard's uniformed force, a Thames River bobby, a member of that outwardly unassuming and actually picturesque police of London's water front.

He had come to report something in connection with the photograph of the young East Indian about whom information was wanted. It seems that this Thames River bobby was sitting in his little dinghy near Waterloo Bridge, two days after the Prince had disappeared, quietly smoking his pipe. The bobby did not know at the time that a Prince was being searched for.

The night was soft with approaching summer. Down the river came a gay little open launch with a party of four young men on board, apparently bound on pleasure. One of them was the young East Indian of the photograph. What had drawn the attention of the bobby, who, among many other picturesque duties, acts as traffic officer on the water, was that the port light on the launch was almost out.

The bobby took hold of his oars, pulled to midstream and, meeting the launch, warned its occupants that their light was dim. It was then that he saw the young man of the photograph. He was apparently asleep, his head resting on the shoulder of a companion, who also seemed ready to fall asleep.

The other two young men, both white, were singing in a manner that told the bobby of stops at refreshment places for something stronger than tea. But there was nothing otherwise out of the way about the whole party.

As the young man at the wheel seemed only gay, without being in the least "plastered," the bobby contented himself with a warning about the light, and on being politely met with a compliance of his order, he pulled his dinghy back to shore.

THERE he made a note of the occurrence in his notebook, including the name on the bow of the launch, a thing he was bound to do by police regulations. But his trained memory also subconsciously recorded the faces of the young men. This note came vividly into consciousness when the bobby got his copy of Printed Information, the morning newspaper of Scotland Yard, containing the photograph of the Prince.

The bobby recognized the photograph and came to Scotland Yard to report what he knew and something he learned later. The later information was that the launch had been stolen further up the river, but had been abandoned near the mouth of the Thames and restored to its owners by the police.

Special Branch was impressed with the bobby's report. It told them that they had an exceedingly clever gang to play against. That it was a kidnaping case was fairly clear. A gang that drugged its victim, stole an open launch, got one of the confederates to play drunk and to support the drugged young man on his shoulder, while two others sang as they went down the Thames, was no ordinary gang.

There was originality and boldness in the procedure. At the mouth of the Thames there was undoubtedly a yacht waiting to take the Prince on board and sail—where? Special Branch eliminated America as the possible port of call for whatever vessel had borne the drugged young Prince away, which left only all of Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia to search.

The bobby could remember only vaguely the other young men of the party—it was night and the boat was poorly lit. But that little gay note of the abductors singing he was sure of. So on that slender thread Scotland Yard began to spin its web.

One of the most effective weapons in the criminal hunting arsenal of that institution is based on the richly proved fact that criminals are creatures of habit, like the rest of their fellow men, and that they repeat successful technique in their crimes, just as a popular novelist repeats tricks of writing that have already proved "sure-fire."

There is, therefore, at Scotland Yard a vast catalogue, the Criminal Registry Office, or "C. R. O." as it is familiarly spoken of in the Yard, consisting of scores of thousands of cards in steel cabinets, on which are noted the tricks and turns convicted criminals had used in the carrying out of their crimes.

"Singing to cover up their crooked work, eh?" murmured a scholarly looking man in C. R. O. "Let's see who else likes to sing at his work." It was Inspector Hendry, the man in charge of C. R. O. and largely its creator. Bending over some of the drawers in the steel cabinets, he began thumbing some of the many cards there.

After some time 10 cards were taken out of the catalogue for further study. Interest finally focused on a young man who was known to Scotland Yard as "the singing plumber."

THE record showed that Samuel Westwick, alias Pipes, alias several respectable sounding names, was convicted of burglary, had served several years and was now somewhere in the wilderness of London.

A search throughout London's underworld resorts soon located Samuel Westwick. He seemed to be at ease in the world, living in comfort, apparently without doing plumbing or any other kind of work.

A few evenings after he was located he was in his favorite drinking place, a bar near Jermyn street, when a loudly dressed young man struck up an acquaintance with him over drinks. It soon developed that this young fellow—whom we include in the little gallery of figures I have noted before—was a race track bookie who had been fairly lucky of late and was feeling brotherly to the world at large and to Samuel Westwick in particular.

He was an amusing cockney, shrewd, apparently, and Samuel Westwick soon began to suspect—for their friendship ripened fast—that up his sleeve the bookie had interesting possibilities for money making.

Sure enough, after their friendship had ripened quickly, the bookie told Samuel Westwick that there was money to be made in connection with a coming crooked race at Epsom Downs.

But the sum involved was too big for the bookie to get together. Did Samuel Westwick know of anyone who could "touch big money" in behalf of such a possibility? The owner of the horse which would surely win should the favorite be "pulled" was out of the question for the deal. But those who bet on his horse would be sure to clean up.

Westwick said he would see. There was somebody he would write to and it would take several days for the answer to come back. He did write. He dropped the letter in a box and went away to spend a pleasant evening with his new bookie friend. Half an hour after he had left the letter box a mail man collected the contents. But instead of taking it to the postoffice he sent it to Scotland Yard.

There all the letters were opened and read and one addressed to "James Pierce, Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo," was retained; the others were forwarded to their destinations. This letter appeared to be written by an idiot, it was such gibberish.

"Give Uncle a slap soothingly," was a sample sentence. But Scotland Yard's experts in deciphering codes got to work and found the key to the "gibberish." Translated, it set forth the bookie's scheme and asked "Lonnie" if he saw anything in it to interest "us." Then the letter was sealed again and sent on to its destination.

SEVERAL days later the postoffice held up a letter addressed to Samuel West. Scotland Yard got it without delay and read in it a laconic "no." There was not even a signature to it.

Hotel de Paris, at Monte Carlo, where the monosyllabic letter was written, is the hostelry that stands a few feet away from the world-famous gambling Casino.

Among the latest arrivals at the hotel was a young American woman, almost young enough to qualify as a flapper. She was traveling alone, a spectacle to which Europe is now becoming accustomed when the woman is an American. And she was spending considerable money, which is also expected of Americans.

Her success at the roulette tables in the Casino was indifferent. But her stakes were big. She found herself sitting one afternoon next to a dashing-looking young English couple who were having poor luck. In fact, this young woman's jade-colored 1000-franc chips got swept up by the croupier's rake several times along with the chips lost by the English couple. Finally she flashed them a smile.

"Gee whiz, we seem to be in the same leaky boat together!"

She was a sociable creature, it soon developed, the daughter of a Chicago meat magnate, who got "sick" of everybody and was traveling alone to get a change. Her talk betrayed without too great blatancy that her chief problem was how to spend money interestingly. The English couple covertly looked her over, spent several evenings with her, got friendly quickly and were soon helping her with her problem of how to spend money interestingly.

The man was about 29; a typical Englishman of the upper middle class; from his own account, wealthy and without career other than boredom. For since the thrill of the World War, which he had had for three years as artillery officer, life seemed particularly dull.

His name was James Pierce. The young woman with him, a pretty woman, but with a hard, keen look of intelligence in her face that looked oddly out of character, was Janet Sanders, an heiress of Devonshire, engaged to Pierce.

The young American, sad to state, was a rebel against her country's edict as to alcohol, and one evening expressed her protest by imbibing too much of the stronger beverages, when the three of them were together in the suite occupied by Janet Sanders.

EARLY in the evening she passed into a state of leaden sleep, and Miss Sanders made her comfortable on a couch. Her whispered comment was: "She sleeps like a lamb. She will be ready for shearing soon."

The young American apparently awoke in the dead of night, stumbled noisily around, moaning about her "headache," demanding ice water and generally making it hard for Miss Sanders to sleep. She was finally induced to go back to the couch and sleep. But Miss Sanders thought she heard her once or twice again.

In the morning the young American was very contrite and declared she would be good for the rest of the day and stick to her own room in the hotel. But she must have retained much of her headache, for she took a walk in the fresh air that afternoon. Her walk took her quite a distance along the road to Mentone, so much so that when a machine with two serious looking men offered her a lift she accepted.

On the road, near Cap Martin, the young American took out an envelope bearing the address, "John Pierce, Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo," and a cancelled Hindustani stamp in the corner.

"That was all I could find in her room, Mr. Bray," she said, apologetically. "The Sanders woman kept waking up and I had to get what I could"——

Mr. Bray was already deep in the letter found inside, and comparing it with a cipher code he took out of his pocket.

"I've no complaint to make with your find, Miss Lanier," he smiled, grimly. "None whatsoever! But I regret that we'll have to part company so soon. You don't mind taking the trolley back to your hotel, do you?"

A Hindustani native policeman on a ratty little pony was jogging along under a broiling sun in the foothills of a sparsely settled country when he met a party of men on horseback, carrying peddler's packs. It may have been Asiatic impassivity or the enervating sun or some Here the whole party took out very ern looking Western weapons, magazine volvers of excellent make, and softly proached the hut. The native policem rapped at the door, while the other remain in deep shadow.

From the inside of the hut sounded rattle of a chain fastening and the opened cautiously. A huge head and derous shoulders showed dimly in the par opened door and some curt words in Hind stani were snarled. Their destination took them into less and ss frequented roads. By nightfall they all sted in a thicket of trees far from the bit mule track they had left. When at about idnight, they left their thicket it was on oot and very quietly. After creeping along the wake of the native policeman for half n hour the party came near what looked ke a hut made of mud.

Here the whole party took out very mod rn looking Western weapons, magazine re olvers of excellent make, and softly ap roached the hut. The native policeman apped at the door, while the other remained deep shadow.

From the inside of the hut sounded the attle of a chain fastening and the door pened cautiously. A huge head and ponerous shoulders showed dimly in the partly pened door and some curt words in Hinduani were snarled. The policeman whined reply, apparently unsatisfactory to the wner of the head and shoulders. For he uddenly flung the door open and lunged for oliceman with a kriss, a crooked nativ nife.

BUT from behind the policeman spurted the fire of a revolver shot and the big native pitched headlong to the ground. or some time the party outside waited for urther developments from within the hut. hen when no one seemed inclined to come ut, the men outside guided by pocket electric torches, cautiously ventured in.

It was a squalid place, but it held a royal risoner. Raj Bey's heir apparent, wasted ith imprisonment, was huddled in a corner, hained to the wall.

He was taken to the nearest city, given ood, rest and a regal hunting outfit wit any trophies purchased quietly from dealrs. A week later Raj Bey and his royal arty went again to the station to meet the Prince. This time the occasion was comlete and the Prince's big bag of hunting rophies formed part of a triumphal procesion. So far as the world knew the Prince's rip from England to his home was one unroken excursion of pleasure.

But a representative of Special Branch old Raj Bey with much circumstantial vidence what had really happened to is son. When the young man boarded the rain at the university town to go to London he took a first-class carriage in which e found a fellow traveler, a young man of pparent means and refinement.

The stranger struck up a conversation and t appeared that he knew several of the Prince's friends; that he was acquainted with India's problems; that he sympathized exceedingly with those who complained of England's tyranny in India, and in several ther respects proved himself a sympathetic ravel acquaintance. When, therefore, the stranger took out an appetizing looking amper at tea time and invited the Prince o join him, the young man did not like efuse.

The stranger was the James Pierce of London and Monte Carlo, the black sheep of a good family, athlete, college man, veteran of the World War and leader of a gang of lever, fearless adventurers. In the tea he roffered the Prince was a powerful narotic that sent the young man into a deep leep for days, with intervals of near-co sciousness, in which he was given more of he drug.

When the train arrived in London, Pierce, retending to be half drunk himself, told the orters that his bosom friend was "dead to he world" with drink and asked assistance o a taxicab.

Pierce kept up the play skillfully and with complete success, and whenever necesary roused the Prince sufficiently to give the effect of a man hopelessly drunk and ready to drop off to sleep again. In London Pierce's confederates, Samuel Westwick and another, stole a launch and with the Prince on board, unconscious and on Pierce's arm, went down the Thames, where the bobby saw them, Westwick singing as he used to sing as a marauding plumber.

AT THE mouth of the Thames was a small yacht chartered by Pierce a his gang which took the Prince through the Mediterranean and to India. There the Prince, still semi-conscious, was taken ashore, ostensibly a very sick youth i the care of several loving friends. In this way he was smuggled to the mountain hut, where the Special Branch men found and rescued him.

Pierce and his partner, Janet Sande really the brains of the gang stayed in Monte Carlo to act as the link between London and the rest of the gang in India. Had no Special Branch spoiled their plans the Prince would have remained in captivity some tim longer. Then Raj Bey would be discreetl informed that for a very substantial rewar —the word ransom would not be used—h could have his heir apparent back.

None of the gang were arrested. Tha would mean publicity, and neither Raj Be nor Special Branch wanted it in this case But Pierce and his confederates found lif thereafter considerably restricted in i privacy. They were followed everywhe they went; received countless visits from police wherever they found themselves, were made to feel in many ways that an comfortably omniscient eye was upon th

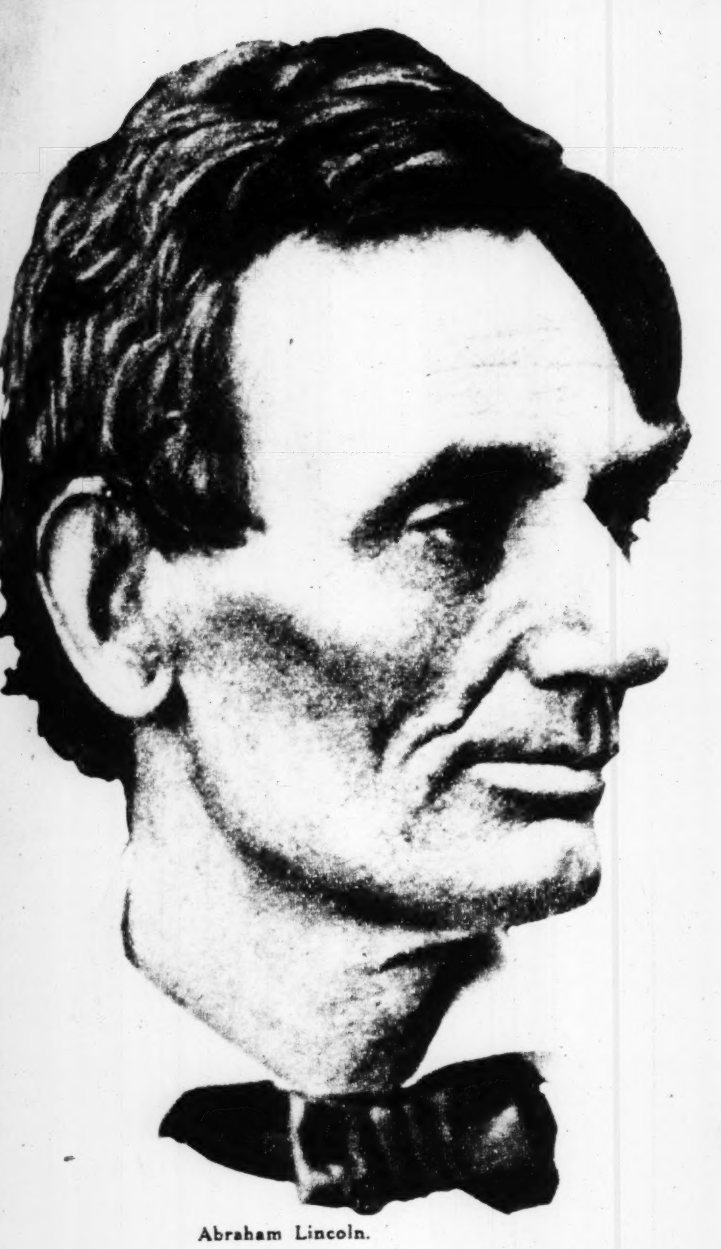
A Southerner Looks at LINCOLN

The More He Is Studied the More Individual Becomes the Man Whose Character and Genius Were the Main Forces Thrown Against the Dissolution of the Union.



Abraham Lincoln.

By NATHANIEL W. STEPHENSON,

Professor of History at the College of Charleston, S. C.

THE history of the North had virtually become, by April, 1861, the history of Lincoln himself, and during the remaining years of the President's life it is difficult to separate his personality from the trend of national history. Any attempt to understand the achievements and the omissions of the Northern people without undertaking an intelligent estimate of their leader would be only to duplicate the story of Hamlet with Hamlet left out. According to the opinion of English military experts, "against the great military genius of certain Southern leaders fate opposed the unbroken resolution and passionate devotion to the Union, which he worshiped, of the great Northern President. As long as he lived and ruled the people of the North there could be no turning back." . . .

He was neither a saint nor a villain. What he actually was is not, however, so easily stated. Prodigious men are never easy to sum up, and Lincoln was a prodigious man. The more one studies him the more individual he appears to be. By degrees one comes to understand how it was possible for contemporaries to hold contradictory views of him and for each to believe that his views were proved by the facts. . . .

There is historic significance in his very appearance. His huge, loose-knit figure, 6 feet 4 inches, lean, muscular, ungainly, the evidence of his great physical strength, was a fit symbol of these hard workers, the children of the soil, from whom he sprang. His face was rugged, like his figure; the complexion swarthy, cheek bones high, and bushy black hair crowning a great forehead beneath which the eyes were deep-set, gray and dreaming. A sort of shambling powerfulness formed the main suggestion of face and figure, softened strangely by the mysterious expression of the eyes and by the singular delicacy of the skin. The motions of this awkward giant lacked grace; the top hat and black frock coat, sometimes rusty, which had served him on the Western circuit continued to serve him when he was virtually dictator of his country. It was in such dress that he visited the army, where he towered above his Generals. . . .

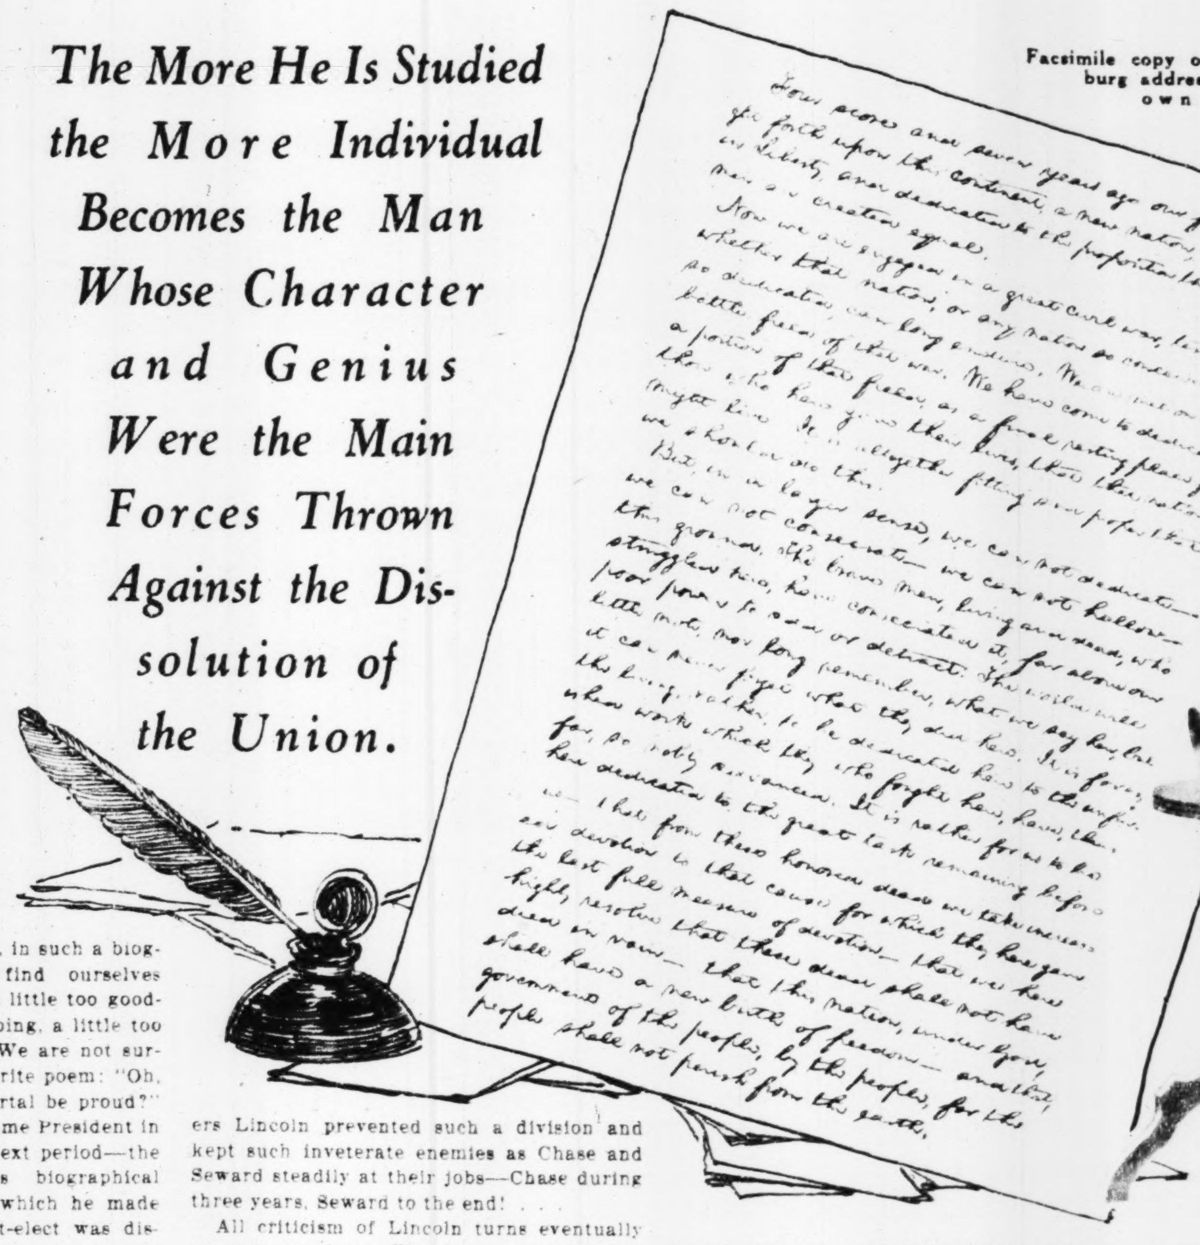
WHAT explains his vast success? As a force in American history, what does he count for? Perhaps the most significant detail in an answer to these questions is the fact that he had never held conspicuous public office until, at the age of [illegible], he became President. Psychologically, his place is in that small group of great geniuses whose whole significant period lies in what we commonly think of as the decline of life. There are several such in history: Rome had Caesar; America had both Lincoln and Lee. . . . He dabbled in politics early and without success; he left politics for the law; and to the law he gave during many years his chief devotion. But the fortuitous breaking up of parties, with the revival of the slavery issue, touched some hidden spring; the able provincial lawyer felt again the political impulse; he became a famous maker of political phrases; and on this literary basis he became the leader of a party.

The anecdotes of Lincoln sound over and over the note of easy-going good nature; but there is to be found in many of the Lincoln anecdotes an overtone of melancholy which lingers after one's impression of good nature is gone. Quite naturally, in such a biographical atmosphere, we find ourselves thinking of him at first as a little too good-humored, a little too easy going, a little too prone to fall into reverie. We are not surprised when we find his favorite poem: "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

This enigmatical man became President in his fifty-second year. His next period—the winter of 1860-61—has its biographical problems. The impression which he made on the country as President-elect was distinctly unfavorable. Good humor, or opportunism, or what you will, brought together in Lincoln's Cabinet at least three men more conspicuous in the ordinary sense than he was himself. We forget today how insignificant he must have seemed in a Cabinet that embraced Seward, Cameron and Chase—all large national figures.

What would not history give for a page of self-revelation showing how he felt in the early days of that company! Was he troubled? Did he doubt his ability to hold his own? Was he fatalistic? Was his sad smile a refuge? Did he merely put things by, ignoring tomorrow until tomorrow should arrive?

HOWEVER we may guess at the answers to such questions, one thing now becomes certain. His quality of good humor began to be his salvation. It is doubtful if any President except Washington had to manage so difficult a Cabinet. Washington had seen no solution to the problem but to let Jefferson go. Lincoln found his Cabinet often on the verge of a split, with two powerful factions struggling to control it and neither ever gaining full control. Though there were numerous withdrawals, no resigning Secretary really split Lincoln's Cabinet. By what turns and twists and skillful maneuvers Lincoln prevented such a division and kept such inveterate enemies as Chase and Seward steadily at their jobs—Chase during three years, Seward to the end! . . .



Facsimile copy of the Gettysburg address in Lincoln's own handwriting.

All criticism of Lincoln turns eventually on one question: Was he an opportunist? Not only his enemies in his own time, but many politicians of a later day were eager to prove that he was an opportunist—indeed, they sought to shelter their own opportunism behind the majesty of his own example. . . .

IT IS difficult for the most objective historian to deal with such questions without obtruding his personal views, but there is nothing merely individual in recording the fact that the steady drift of opinion has been away from the conception of Lincoln as an opportunist.

What once caused him to be thus conceived appears now to have been a failure to comprehend intelligently the nature of his undertaking. More and more, the tendency nowadays is to conceive his career as one of those few instances in which the precise faculties needed to solve a particular problem were called into play at exactly the critical moment. Our confusions with regard to Lincoln have grown out of our failure to appreciate the singularity of the American people and their ultra singularity during the years in which he lived.

It remains to be seen hereafter what strange elements of sensibility, of waywardness, of lack of imagination, of undisciplined ardor, of selfishness, of deceitfulness, of treachery, combined with heroic ideality, made up the character of that complex populace which it was Lincoln's task to control. But he did more than control it. He somehow compounded much of it into something like a unit.

To measure Lincoln's achievement in this respect, two things must be remembered: On the one hand, his task was not as arduous as it might have been, because the most intellectual part of the North had definitely committed itself either irretrievably for, or irreconcilably against, his policy. Lincoln, therefore, did not have to trouble himself with this portion of the population. On the other hand, that part which he had to master included such emotional rhetoricians as Horace Greeley; such fierce zealots as Henry Winter Davis of Maryland, who made him trouble indeed; and Benjamin Wade. Such military egoists as McClellan and Pope; such crafty double-dealers as his own Secretary of the Treasury; such astute grafters as Cameron; such miserable creatures as a certain powerful capitalist, who sacrificed his army to their own lust for profits and filched from army contracts.

The wonder of Lincoln's achievement is that he contrived at last to extend his hold over all these diverse elements; that he persuaded some, outwitted others and overcame them all. The subtlety of this task would have ruined any statesman of the driving sort.

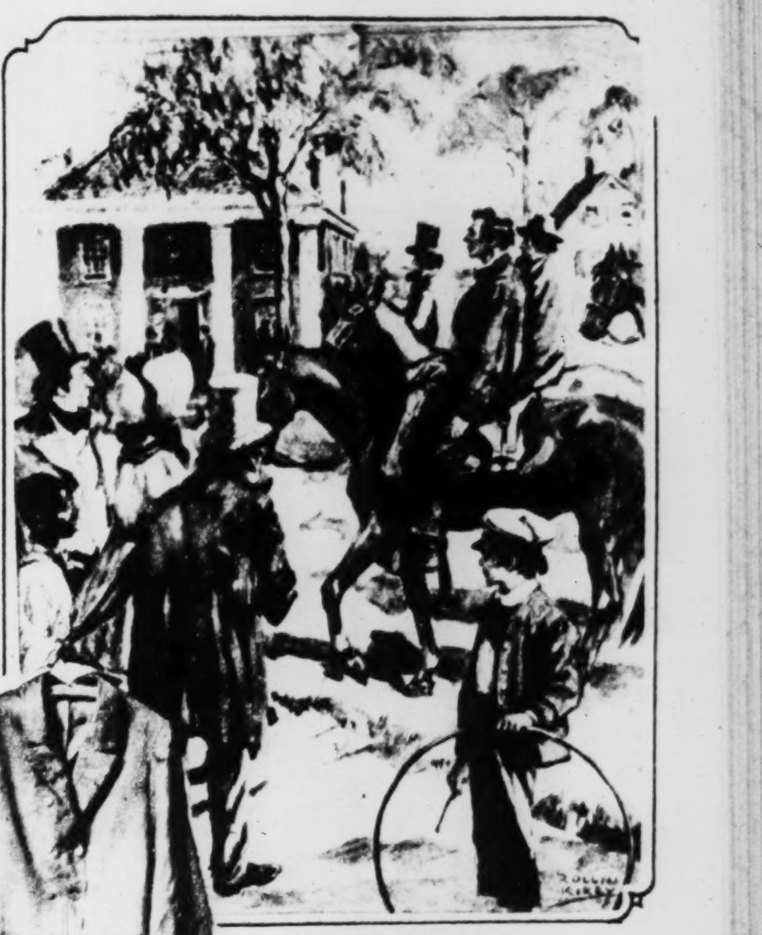
EXPLAIN Lincoln by any theory you will, his personality was the keystone of the Northern arch; subtract it and the arch falls. The popular element being as complex and powerful as it was, how could the presiding statesman have mastered the situation if he had not been of so peculiar a sort that he could influence all these diverse and powerful interests, slowly, by degrees, without heat, without the imperative note, almost in silence, with the universal, enfolding irresistibility of the gradual things in nature, of the sun and the rain. Such was the genius of Lincoln—all but passionless, yet so quiet that one cannot but believe in the great depth of his nature.

We are, even today, far from a definitive understanding of Lincoln's statecraft, but there is perhaps justification for venturing upon one prophecy. The farther from him we get and the more clearly we see him in perspective, the more shall we realize his creative influence upon his party.



Lincoln riding the circuit.

In the Lincoln of his ultimate biographer there will be more of iron than of a less enduring metal in the figure of the Lincoln of the present tradition. Though none of his gentleness will disappear, there will be more emphasis placed upon his firmness and upon such episodes as that of December, 1860, when his single will turned the scale against compromise; upon his steadfastness in the defeat of his party at the polls in 1862; or his overruling of the will of Congress in the summer of 1864 on the question of reconstruction; or his attitude in the autumn of that year, when he believed that he was losing his second election.

The Civil War was in truth Lincoln's war. Those modern pacifists who claim him as their own are beside the mark. They will never get over the illusions about Lincoln until they see, as all the world is beginning to see, that his career has universal significance because of its bearing upon the universal problem of democracy. It will not do ever to forget that he was a man of the people, always playing the hand of the people, in the limited social sense of that word, though playing it with none of the heat usually met with in the statesmen of successful democracy from Cleon to Robespierre, from Andrew Jackson to Lloyd George. His gentleness does not remove Lincoln from that stern category. Throughout his life, besides his passion for the Union, besides his antipathy for slavery, there dwelt in his very heart love of and faith in the plain people. We shall never see him in true historic perspective until we conceive him as the instrument of a vast social idea—the determination to make a government based upon the plain people successful in war.

HE DID not scruple to seize power when he thought the cause of the people demanded it, and his enemies were prompt to accuse him of holding to the doctrine that the end justifies the means—a hasty conclusion which will have to be reconsidered. What concerns us more closely is the definite conviction that he felt no sacrifice too great if it advanced the happiness of the generality of mankind.

Five weeks after the second inauguration Lee surrendered and the war was virtually at an end. What was to come after was inevitably the overshadowing topic of the hour. Many anecdotes represent Lincoln, in these last few days of his life, as possessed by a high though melancholy mood of extreme mercy. Therefore, much has been inferred from the following words in his last public address, made on the night of the eleventh of April: "In the present situation, as the phrase goes, it may be my duty to make some new announcement to the people of the South. I am considering and shall not fail to act when action shall be proper."

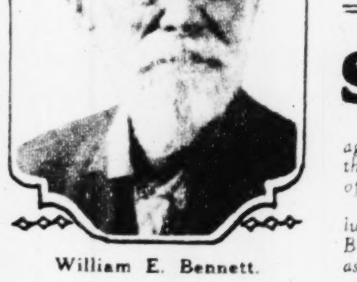
What was to be done for the South, what treatment should be accorded the Southern leaders engrossed the President and his Cabinet at the meeting on April 14, which was destined to be their last. Secretary Welles has preserved the spirit of the meeting in a striking anecdote. Lincoln said no one need expect he would "take any part in hanging or killing those men, even the worst of them. Frighten them out of the country, open the gates, let down the bars, scare them off," he said, throwing up his hands, as if scaring sheep. "Enough lives have been sacrificed; we must extinguish our resentments if we expect harmony and union."

While Lincoln was thus arming himself with a valiant mercy, a band of conspirators at an obscure boarding house in Washington were planning his assassination. . . .

The passage of 60 years has proved fully necessary to the placing of Lincoln in historic perspective. No President, in his own time, with the possible exception of Washington, was so bitterly hated and so fiercely reviled. On the other hand, none has been the object of such intemperate hero worship. However, the greatest in the land were, in the main, quick to see him in perspective and to recognize his historic significance. It is recorded of Davis that in after days he paid a beautiful tribute to Lincoln and said:

"Next to the destruction of the Confederacy, the death of Abraham Lincoln was the darkest day the South has ever known."

This Man, Now 87, Saw Lincoln Plain



William E. Bennett.

IN the fast-diminishing number of persons, yet living, who saw Abraham Lincoln is William E. Bennett, now in his 87th year and a resident of Pacific, Missouri. From 1855 to 1890 he lived at Springfield, Illinois, where for 17 years he was employed by the well-known J. Bunn Bank. This institution, after many years of prosperity, encountered difficulties during the general depression of 1873, voluntarily closed its doors on January 1, 1878, and in the liquidation paid 71½ per cent to its depositors. A year ago, Bunn's children paid off the balance of the claims with interest of more than five per cent a year for 48 years, which meant a distribution of a total of $800,000, because they knew it was their father's wish.

Bennett, since 1877, has been engaged much of the time in some kind of lumber business. While he never conversed with the future President, Bennett often saw Lincoln and a few highlights among his recollections are as follows.

By WILLIAM E. BENNETT

THE first time that I saw Mr. Lincoln to know him was in John Dillman's barber shop. Mr. Dillman was a little German barber, and his shop was located over Johnson & Bradford's book store, on the west side of the old court house square in Springfield, Illinois.

Among myself and a few other citizens of Springfield who came into the barber shop that quiet Sunday morning in 1859 was a Springfield lawyer of tall and ungainly figure. Some of us knew that the tall man was Abraham Lincoln, but both we who knew him and those who did not looked again and again at his strong and placid face.

"First come, first served," was the rule with barbers then as now. Soon Lincoln's turn came to take the barber's chair. I thought at the time I saw a smile on the barber's face as he compared his own diminutive stature with the six feet four of the striking figure. As the barber tucked the napkins under his neck and chin and was well lathering the ample face, Lincoln managed to get his long legs straightened out and his good-sized feet at rest on the foot-board.

At that long-ago time, and my youthful age then, I was little able to anticipate his great future. But I clearly remember that his personality impressed me as that of an extraordinary man.

The barber shop was reached by an outside wooden stairway. After Lincoln had been shaved, I remember seeing him walk down the stairway to the street and turn to the left, in the direction of the First Presbyterian Church, which he occasionally attended. But I do not remember whether Mr. Lincoln went to church on that particular Sunday morning.

The next time I remember to have seen Mr. Lincoln was a few days later. He was leading his little son, Tad, along the south side of the old square. The tall kind-faced father leaned down with loving patience to reach the tiny hand as the child, with four steps to his father's one, toddled along, having the right of way yielded to them by all who approached.

Later in the same year, I frequently saw Mr. Lincoln going to and from the law office of Lincoln & Herndon, located on the west side of the famous old square, only a few doors from the barber shop mentioned above.

Mr. Herndon, Lincoln's law partner, was the exact opposite of Lincoln in personality. Mr. Lincoln was cool and deliberate of speech, slow and masterful. I knew Bill Herndon well. He was of a nervous temperament, quick-spoken and impulsive. He could go out and get the gang in; Lincoln could dispose of them. Herndon's clothes were of the latest fashion, rich and snappy. Lincoln's dress, regardless of prevailing style, was a good average for those days but on the whole plain and simple. A little Corn Belt mud on his boots in his law office didn't seem to worry him much.

I often saw Lincoln in Springfield when absorbed in the study of a case. In deep thought, he walked or sat with his face a little to one side, eyes looking down, as though seeking for fundamental facts and truths. After dissecting a client's cause, and discovering that his opponent had the better case, he is said to have always persuaded his client to decline a contest.

One day while walking up the street by the old Lincoln residence, I saw Mr. Lincoln come out of the alleyway in the rear of the building in an antique one-horse vehicle. To the old, mud-splashed spring-wagon was hitched the owner's old, rat-tailed, bay horse. It was summer time. Our future Civil War President had his long, lean body and legs stretched out leisurely in the rig, his ample feet on the dash-board.

Mrs. Lincoln was standing just inside the fence, in every-day costume of that day and with animated face. It seemed that Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln were discussing some private domestic affairs. The words of the two, at my distance from them of several yards, were indistinct but very emphatic on both sides. It is to be remembered that Mrs. Lincoln before marriage was a Todd, and the Todds were known to have, in modern slang, some "pep." However, it must be remembered that Lincoln at the time was an astute attorney, with a sense of humor and very human. He only smiled as the dialogue closed, she remained standing in the yard and he drove his rat-tailed bay away and down the street.

Mr. Lincoln as a Springfield lawyer mixed work with play. Some of our other good Presidents have done the same.

The next time I remember of having seen Lincoln was on the sidewalk just outside the door of the leather store of my friends, Van Duyn & Maxon, on the opposite side of the street from the old State Journal building. A number of us were talking when Lincoln came up from a game of ball. When he was told that a wire from Chicago had announced his nomination for the Presidency, he said but a few words, was quietly thoughtful for a moment and then hastened away toward home. I heard him say, in a low and pleased way:

"I must go home and tell the little woman about it."

The last time I saw Mr. Lincoln alive in Springfield was the day he left on what is now the Wabash railroad to assume his presidential duties in Washington. A large crowd was collected at the depot to see him off. He was accompanied from his home to the train by a number of personal and political friends. The time until departure was short and there was no demonstration of importance. Mr. Lincoln stepped firmly upon the platform of the rear coach of the train, bowed his head and with quiet and forceful eloquence delivered his short and classic Springfield farewell address.

THE night of February 9, 1924, on which Caesar Cagle was killed and my deputy, John Layman, was wounded, marked the very apex of the klan's power in Williamson County, and a brief description of the situation that night in Herrin and on the following day, when I was arrested and arraigned before S. Glenn Young, will serve to show the bitter consequences that followed the klan's usurpation of official power.

Even before my prospective deputies had begun to gather in the Rome Club, the klan force, which was to drive the "undesirables" from the county, had been carefully organized. Several hundred of them, armed to the teeth, had been commissioned—by what right I know not—as special policemen and to signify their rank they had been furnished with crude stars stamped out of tin roofing, cans or any other material.

Throughout that night these unofficial policemen patrolled the streets of Herrin in automobiles and on foot, stopping citizens for questioning, slugging those who gave what they considered unsatisfactory answers. Automobiles were stopped on the roads about Herrin and the occupants were questioned by gangs of armed men about their destination, their reasons for being abroad, and many other subjects.

At the City Hall, Arlie O. Boswell, one of the klan factotums, who was later elected State's Attorney, was busy making out passes to give certain persons safe conduct through the lines established by the klan policemen. Throughout the night and even on the following day, when the troops had arrived again, armed klansmen swarmed through the City Hall and roamed the streets, making a reckless and terrifying display of firearms. In those days citizens dared not venture forth in Herrin.

WHAT made this condition possible? Why, I have been asked on hundreds of occasions, could the klansmen carry weapons, even under the very noses of the militiamen who came in to bring order? Why didn't the militiamen disarm the klan, or, for that matter, any other man who carried weapons without legal right?

The explanation lies in the fact that, under the Illinois law in force at that time, any Justice of the Peace could issue a permit to carry a weapon within the State. There were 40 Justices of the Peace in Williamson County and because many of them, particularly Abe Hicks of Herrin, were friendly to the klan, the followers of Young found it easy to arm themselves within the law. Abe Hicks, for example, issued permits by the hundred, charging $2 apiece, the legal fee. The permits, as it developed, gave the klan gunmen absolute assurance against arrest and their reckless display of weapons and open threats upon the lives of unoffending citizens only added to the atmosphere of hate.

EDITOR'S FOREWORD

READERS of newspapers in the United States are familiar with the names of Herrin and Williamson County, Illinois, where for four years there has been a feud, amounting to a minor war, between the Sheriff, his deputies and such citizens as came to the Sheriff's aid, on one side, and the Ku Klux Klan and their allies, on the other side. News items from "Bloody Williamson" have crossed the ocean and been published in the papers of other English-speaking countries.

In the last five years, 41 persons have met violent deaths in this war, besides 11 who were killed in subsequent gang feuds. Because of the excellent marksmanship of participants, the number of wounded was small. Detachments of State troops have been sent into the county nine times and have remained there as long as six weeks.

Because of these disorders, the county has acquired an evil reputation and its people have been misunderstood by the country at large. One of the richest counties in the rich State of Illinois, its population is largely of American Colonial stock. The admixture of later immigrants was only 8.5 per cent in 1920 and is smaller now. Why the county has had so dark a history since the Civil War is a matter which puzzles even the most careful investigators.

The ordinary processes of the law fell into disrepute, the Sheriff's work was narrowed to almost nothing, gun-toting became common and the people reverted to the primitive rules of defense known in the frontier days. But the armament showed a marked advance, including automatic pistols, machine guns and grenades.

One of the consequences of this condition was that many honest citizens, determined to protect their lives and property, armed themselves, even after they had been refused permits, because they were not friendly to the klan. And so it was that gun-toting became general in Williamson County. I am happy to say that at the last session of the Illinois Legislature a bill was passed which limits the issuance of gun-toting permits. The law was vigorously pushed by some of the antiklan citizens in Williamson County.

After the Cagle shooting, some of the business men of the county organized a Citizens' Committee and began to seek means of pacifying the klan and antiklan factions. At least that was their professed purpose. Later I learned that they were entirely in sympathy with the Ku Klux Klan, as following events will show.

THE Citizens' Committee called upon me and told me that my two deputies, Hezzie Byrn, now Chief of Police in Johnston City, and John Layman, who had been wounded just a short time before, were unsatisfactory officers. Without admitting the truth of their statement I told them that I was anxious to co-operate in their move toward peace and that I would appoint new deputies who would be suitable to them. They named for my appointment John Schaefer, Joe Schaefer, his son; Ed Ferges and George Walker.

What a fool I was to be thus misled by the fair statements of the Citizens' Committee. Both the Schaefers were klansmen. I suspected as much within two weeks after they had gone to work for me. Finally, while one of them was in my office one day, a klan membership card fell from his pocket. There was hell popping in the county at the time. The klan was fighting me tooth and nail. No reasonable person could expect me to keep two of their number in my employ. I fired both the Schaefers.

IN THEIR places I appointed Ora Thomas, one of the ardent antiklan leaders, and Adron Smith, a Williamson County Constable, who was recommended to me by three leading attorneys. I appointed him despite the fact that he had been one of my opponents in the nomination for Sheriff.

In retaliation for the discharge of the Schaefers, the klansmen on the Board of Supervisors refused to pay the salaries of Thomas and Smith, but they continued in my service because they realized that only by standing shoulder to shoulder could we ever hope to put down the klan.

In the early part of March, Young and some of his followers appeared in the Federal Court at Danville to testify in the trials of the victims of their raids, and the number of convictions secured was so small that they are not worthy of particular comment. On March 14 a special grand jury convened in the City Court at Herrin and 99 klansmen were indicted, including Young, the indictments arising out of the shooting-up of the hospital and other atrocities.

Arlie O. Boswell, State's Attorney.

Delos L. Duty, State's Attorney at trial following the mine massacre.

As soon as the grand jury adjourned and it became known who was indicted, great consternation prevailed among the klan membership. Apprehension was spread among them with alarming rapidity, but again Young played a master stroke. He convened a meeting of klan leaders in Williamson County and immediately laid plans to avoid being arrested on his indictment, also to prevent the arrest of the other defendants.

On March 18, the Ku Klux Klan staged a monster parade and marched to the Courthouse at Marion with their bondsmen, including Jake Pfeffer, and there they filed bonds to the amount of $4,275,000, for the 99 indictments. Yes, the klan had truly reached the apex of its strength, as demonstrated by their ability to make this enormous amount of bonds in a comparatively small county.

But the reaction soon set in. Young was getting so extortionate in his demands for money to maintain himself and his personal bodyguard that the business men who had been supporting them began to creak under the financial strain, as there seemed to be no limit to Young's avarice. One of the first to feel the financial strain was Exalted Cyclops Sam Stearns. Traveling men had begun to shun Herrin. Business was busted flat. The better element of the klan appreciated that the furore must cease.

The Williamson County organization of the klan decided that they had no further need for the services of S. Glenn Young. Young had been retained by them at a very heavy expense. For a time he had free access to Sam Stearns's bank account, and the financial drain was becoming unbearable. But Young, always an adept at creating excitement when times were dull, intended to hold on to the best plum he ever had in his wild career.

A short time after this decision on the part of the klan, something took place to cause the cyclops and his cohorts to change their minds about dispensing with Young. On April 15th, 1924, someone shot into the home of the Exalted Cyclops, Sam Stearns. Ross Lizenby, the bodyguard of the cyclops, was shot in the leg.

Again Wiliamson County was thrown into an uproar. Rumors were circulated that I was responsible for the shooting; again they sought to fasten another stranglehold on me. However, no attempt was made for my arrest in this matter.

The County Board of Supervisors met in great consternation at this dastardly deed. The fact that their honorable chairman and fellow klansman's home had been shot up, his bodyguard wounded, to them was more serious than the shooting up of Dr. Black's Hospital full of patients. Something must be done at once, to bring to the bar of justice the perpetrators of this dastardly, cowardly act. The County Board, by motion, offered a reward of $1000 to anyone who furnished information which would lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party.

Who was the guilty party that shot up the home of the Exalted Cyclops? Yes, who? Glenn Young could have collected that $1000 reward with ease. How? Let me relate the sequel.

IN THAT time of great consternation, it was decided to continue the services of their Guardian Angel, S. Glenh Young. Again the homes and firesides of the klansmen were safe from molestation. However, some time after the shooting up of the cyclops's home, two of Young's crack gunmen were arrested on a charge of bank robbery in Pope County. These men, Steyers and Frothingham, were ultimately sentenced to imprisonment in Chester Penitentiary, where they are at the time of writing, on this charge.

While Steyers and Frothingham were in the county jail of Pope County, and awaiting trial for the offense of bank robbery, they told Ross Lizenby as to who did the shooting. They told how Young framed it; how they used the famous Lincoln sedan; did the shooting while in the sedan. Sam Stearns afterwards told me that he knew Young was responsible for this shooting. It happened that Sam had been forced to close his personal bank account against the extortionate greed of Young.

After the disclosure as to who perpetrated the shooting up of Stearns's home, the matter was dropped. Young was still the klan power of the county.

Again Young had boosted his prestige with the klan throughout the nation and his power was recognized by their appointing his as King Kleagle of the East St. Louis Klan on April 25, 1924. r the shooting of Young and his wife
C w Bottoms the Williamson Coun-was greatly disturbed and Young's nts got blood in their eyes. On 22, 1924, they were out to avenge hooting of their chieftain. This was the day after the shooting of and his wife had occurred in the Bottoms.

Skelcher and Charlie Briggs were on a by-road near Cambria, a little camp in Williamson County, in a touring car when a number of klansshed from their hiding place and or-them to stop their car. Briggs after-stated that they at first thought it holdup" attempt. They just kept on

Upon the failure of Skelcher and Briggs to stop the car, the klansmen fired at them point blank, killed Jack Skelcher and seriously wounded Charlie Briggs. (This was the same Briggs that was afterwards killed in the election trouble at Herrin in 1926.) In this affair the following named klansmen were arrested on the charge of murdering Skelcher, and attempted murder of Charlie Briggs (then known as Brown): John Crompton, Marion Collard, a man named Elders and Mack Skratch. Each was placed under a $20,000 bond. This was the last legal proceeding that I ever heard of in this case.

IT LATER developed that the Dodge touring car in which Skelcher and Briggs were riding when shot was a stolen car, it having been stolen from a business man in Cobden, Union County, some time previous. This was not known at the time. In the meantime some klansmen had put the car in the famous Smith's Garage at Herrin.

The owner of Smith's Garage, John Smith, had come to Williamson County from the State of Kentucky and was a close friend of Young.

Alas for Young, his reign as Kleagle was doomed to be short-lived and his halo became dimmed when, on June 16th, Young was demoted from his kleagleship by the Grand Dragon of the Illinois Klan on account of his acts.

His extortionate financial demands made it impossible for any revenue to go to the State organization from the districts in which he operated. Besides, he was fast incurring the displeasure of some of the better class of klansmen and retarding further growth by reason of his bitter anti-Catholic activities.

When Young as a klansman launched his career of ostensibly correcting social evils and the enforcement of law by brutal methods, my readers may think that prior to this time Williamson County had not experienced such conduct, but those familiar with the old history of Williamson County will recall that the old organization of the Ku Klux Klan operated in our county in 1872.

One summer night in that year 10 masked men rode up the banks of the Big Muddy River to the home of Isaac Vancil, 73 years old, dragged him from his bed and hanged him to an apple tree in his front yard. This was the first appearance of the old Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in Williamson County, afterwards becoming the scene of the bloody vendetta and later the famous mine massacre.

Now, after some 50 odd years, the new organization of the klan returns to our midst, this time with the undercurrent of religious and racial hatred, far more ominous than in the days when the old men would sit around the Courthouse on the town square, moving with the shade, and through this human sundial was passed the word of mysterious meetings and midnight excursions to enforce law and uphold Americanism.

ONE of the most vigorous opponents of the Ku Klux Klan during the early period of Young's ascendancy and from that time forward, as far as that is concerned, was Delos L. Duty, the State's Attorney of Williamson County when I took office as Sheriff. Duty is a lawyer of first-class repute among the members of the bar of the State and his actions in opposing the klan from the start undoubtedly proved a great moral influence in strengthening the antiklan opposition. Duty had gone into office two years before me and, beyond his reputation for skill as a lawyer, had won a name for moral and physical courage.

He was the prosecutor at the mine massacre trial and carried out his duties there in the face of great public opposition. He became so vigorous in his denunciation of the klan and its purposes that finally, on July 22, he received a telegram threatening his life. It was reported to have come from Young. Whether the klan raider actually did send it I do not know. I think there is no doubt, however, that some members of the klan party sent it. The rawboned Duty, of course, disregarded it.

The next episode in the hostilities came on August 22, when Glenn Young was called to the City Court to answer some of the charges brought by the March grand jury. Young failed to appear and $39,000 worth of bonds, which had been put up at the klan demonstration in Marion on March 18th, were ordered forfeited by City Judge E. N. Bowen.

Prior to this time Judge Bowen, a young attorney who had been elected to a court which has concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court, had acquired a reputation as a klan foe and his action in forfeiting the bond of the klan guardian angel only increased the hate of the invisible empire.

Of course, the forfeitures ordered by Judge Bowen were never executed because of the lack of co-operation of other agencies. Later Young pleaded that he had been in Atlanta, Georgia, and that he was ill. That was the only reason he gave for his failure to appear in answer to the charges, and this was never supported by a doctor's statement or by any other proof.

About this period there arose a good deal of discussion over the legality of a law passed by the Illinois Legislature, which prohibited the public appearance of men in masks. It was directed, of course, against the Ku Klux Klan. In its passage, one of the two adverse votes against the measure was cast by Representative Bandy of Williamson County, who said in the discussion in the House of Representatives:

“I am not willing to throw my hat into a mess of yellow jackets.”

With the law in effect, however, I determined that I would test it at the first opportunity. It looked to me like a good means to show the citizens of Williamson County that the klan was operating entirely without the law. The opportunity for a test of the statute came on August 28, when the Ku Klux Klan had a parade in Marion.

With some of my deputies I waited in front of the Elks' Club in Marion, and, when the klansmen appeared, we walked up to an automobile and dragged out of it one of the paraders, mask, hood, sheet and all. We marched him to the jail and put him in a cell in his regalia, much to the consternation of some of the Negro prisoners. Later our masked prisoner was released on bond.

I had hardly dared to hope that the klan State's Attorney, Mr. Boswell, would cooperate with me in testing the law, and when the case was laid before him, Mr. Boswell declined to issue a warrant.

Of course, this incident did not serve to increase the love of the klan for me. The tenseness of the situation increased. Herrin became more than ever an armed camp, with Young and his men making their headquarters there and using that town as a base for their night forays. The antiklan faction had its base in the jail and Sheriff's house at Marion.

THE chief figures on both sides were never away from their guns. I slept, performed my duties and ate my meals with my pistols always within reach. There were always riot guns and high-powered rifles available to repel a possible klan attack on the jail, and there were men awake at all hours acting as sentrymen. Hand grenades and machine guns, both of the hand operating variety and those to be fired from heavy tripods, were brought into the county by both sides.

It is possible that some of my readers will condemn me for this frank admission that on my side we had all the known man-killing devices. To such criticism I can reply only that our backs were to the wall; that Young and his gunmen had been outfitted from klan funds with the very finest sort of firearms and hand grenades. We were forced as a protective measure to equip ourselves to meet their attacks, for by this time everybody knew that an armed clash was inevitable.

The fact still remains, however, that it was Young who brought the first machine gun into Williamson County. If there is any blame to be laid for the extensive use of such modern weapons, it must be laid to him.

More of Sheriff Galligan's Story

GEORGE GALLIGAN'S version of his four-year war with the Ku Klux Klan, while he was Sheriff of Williamson County, is to be published in book form. The present article is the second installment selected from Galligan's manuscript to appear in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

In the preceding article, Galligan told of the incidents leading up to what he termed an "orgy of hate": the rise of the klan, after the massacre of 21 non-union miners and guards; his inadequate staff of deputies for law enforcement; the coming of S. Glenn Young, klan leader; the friendly spirit toward the klan, and antagonism toward himself, displayed by Protestant ministers; the beginning of klan liquor raids; the killing of Caesar Cagle, klan constable, and the subsequent shooting up of Dr. Black's hospital; Galligan's arrest on a charge of murder and his "arraignment" before Glenn Young.

An investigation of the disorders at Herrin was made by Carlos Hurd, of the Post-Dispatch staff, in February, 1925, when 14 men had been shot to death in a year in factional fights. The investigator found that the fight led by the Ku Klux Klan had not been a religious or racial affair, but a campaign to "clear up" the town by stopping the open sale of liquor, and that it had been stopped at all of the 30 or more places. Some citizens of standing felt that the cleansing of Herrin was worth all it had cost, in deaths and personal grudges, others felt that the price had been too high.

CASTORIA

Why Castoria?

Years ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Sh! Girls! It's a Secret

A Perfect Complexion That Defies the Sharp, Cutting Winds—By Mme. Maree

Nature toughens the skin of those who work outdoors, but most of us must protect it. And here is how to do it. Get from the druggist two ounces of eptol. The usual price is 65 cents. Mix it with a tablespoon of glycerine and a half-pint of water. It thickens at once to a rich, heavy cream. Spread a thin coating around the eyes, temples and on the forehead, then over the cheeks; rub it in until absorbed. Instantly it begins to tighten the pores, the skin is enlivened, the dead, outer skin flakes off, myriads of little nerves and blood vessels are stimulated so that when you face a strong, cutting wind the skin protects itself, won't chap or roughen, but reddens with the glow of rich, oxidized blood and makes cheeks gloriously pink, the picture of health.

Surprise Beauty Package

I have had put up at my request a very handy and dainty package containing all the beauty makers I have been recommending for years—Eptol—Beta Quinol for the hair—Eggol Shampoo—Neroxin to remove blackheads—and Zintone for rough, red hands. I would like you to try these wonderful beauty aids, so send me 25 cents and I will have my secretary mail you one of these surprise beauty packages by return mail. Address Madame Maree, 813 Thompson Building, Chicago, Ill.

During 1926 the Post-Dispatch printed 169,255 Automobile "Wants"—40,866 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers combined.

MRS. DUMBLY

Memories! The New Hat. Artie Memorizes. The Wisdom Tooth.

HOW does your memory work? No, I'm not selling mind restorer. Nor am I conducting one of those memory tests such as you see in some of the magazines—where an unknown person insists upon your telling him in a quarter of a minute what kind of hair oil Rameses the second used and when the first peanut butter mines were discovered.

I only want to know whether anyone else's memory has a mechanism like mine. Artie, my husband, says mine backfires and that the clutch slips once in a while. He says that when I want to remember a date I throw my mental machinery in reverse—i. e. (as the dictionary says when it's going to tell something more but is too lazy to say so)—yesterday he asked me when we had Roger Flash over to dinner.

"When did I have my wisdom tooth pulled?" I answered immediately.

"I thought we were through with your wisdom tooth and had opened a conversational exchange on the subject of tonsils," he replied. "Instead of eulogizing the dear departed, can't you just try to remember when we had Roger over?"

"THAT'S just what I'm doing," I told him. "I'm remembering. "Now, let's think—I had my tooth pulled on a Monday. No, it was a Tuesday, because on my way to the dentist I met Peg Woodhead and she asked me if I was going to Sadie's party. Now, I know Sadie's party was on a Wednesday, because I had to stop at your office to get some money to pay the cleaning woman before I could go to the party—you know the cleaning woman comes on Wednesday. Yes, the party must have been on Wednesday. And it was on a Wednesday after I'd had the tooth pulled, because I remember that all the time I was at the party I kept running my tongue over the hole."

"That's an interesting detail," he commented. "But couldn't you get back to Roger for just a minute?"

"That's just what I'm doing," I explained. "I'm getting back to Roger through my wisdom tooth. Now, the question is on what Tuesday I had the tooth pulled. It couldn't have been last Tuesday, because that was the meeting of the bridge club. It was last Tuesday, because I had an argument with Mrs. Wouldbegrand over who played the first hand and we haven't spoken to each other since. We were speaking last Sunday, because I remember that all during church we were discussing that awful hat Mrs. Highhorse had on. Therefore, we played bridge last Tuesday."

"And now about Roger," he suggested.

"Exactly," I returned. "Now, I didn't have my tooth pulled a week ago Tuesday either, because that Tuesday I spent with Peg. I know it was Tuesday, because when I got home I found that the laundry man had left a paper slip instead of the laundry, that the dry cleaners had left a notification instead of my dress and that the store from which I'd ordered the new Chinese rug had left a slip instead of the rug. All those things were due on Tuesday. I'd had my tooth pulled before that Tuesday, because I remember that Peg's wisdom tooth was hurting her dreadfully and she was thinking of having it pulled. I told her of the horrible experience I'd had with mine—every detail, how the dentist"——

"And Roger?" he put in.

"Yes, yes, Roger," I answered. "I remember telling Peg that I'd bought my new purple hat the same day I had my tooth pulled, but that I hadn't worn it because I think a person looks so horrid when she's having her tooth treated and I really wanted to do the hat justice. And that brings us to the question of when I bought my purple hat."

"And Roger?" he interrupted.

"It all hinges on the hat," I explained. "And now if I can just find out when I bought it. I paid for it by check and I might have made a record of it on my check stubs. Sometimes I do."

It was a little difficult to find the record on the stubs, but I finally decided it must be the one I had marked $19.50 to H. for self. H would probably mean hat, and I certainly bought the hat for myself, and then, too, I remembered that it was reduced from $20. I had dated the stub 1-3, which I was quite sure must mean January 4.

"THEN we had Roger over January 3!" I announced triumphantly. "I remembered all along that we had him the night before I had my tooth pulled, because I put the medicine the doctor had given me for my tooth in the salad dressing by mistake, and I remember thinking that neither one of you noticed it! But why do you ask?"

"Because I've been trying to remember when the radiator in the Gaseater began to leak," he answered. "I knew it was the day after we had Roger over, because you insisted on my letting the car stand in front of the house when he was here and the water in the radiator froze and"——

"Don't go through with all that," I said. "I do detest a roundabout line of thought!"

I Was Bald!

and It Was No Joke

Look at Me Now!

You Can Grow New Hair Quick

I'm Vreeland. I take my own medicine. I practice what I preach. Look at my pictures above. Both bonafide photographs. No retouching. No changing of any sort. The first one shows me a bald headed man—getting balder every day. I dreaded to comb my hair—so much of it came out on the comb. Every shampoo left me a little more naked. The flies and mosquitoes bit in the summer and it got cold under my hat in the winter. "Gee, Vreeland, you're certainly getting bald," was tossed at me day and night. I looked 10 years older than I should. At the beach I heard one sweet thing refer to me as "Old Baldy"—and I a little over 30. I thought everybody sitting behind me at the theatre was looking at my bald spot. Men, it was no joke to be bald. You who are bald know it. I'm not telling you a thing.

When I was bald I would have given $500 for a head of hair. There isn't one among you who wouldn't do the same thing today.

But I'm bald no longer as my photograph will prove. Neither need you be bald unless you want to be. So keenly did I feel my baldness, made worse by my contact with other men who had full heads of hair, that I went to work on myself. If there was any way to make hair grow I was going to find it out. I set up a laboratory in my bathroom and there I tried out treatments originated by myself based on the soundest physiological facts. It was my hair and I could do what I pleased with it. I had a definite theory – and had not a lot of men like Edison done things which had not been done before? The details are not interesting. Disappointment, of course, at the start—then success.

My hair began to grow! I tried it on other bald-heads whom I knew. Hooray—their hair grew! My friends and their friends were pop-eyed. I was almost mobbed by bald-heads who wanted hair. Whether I'm the first to unearth the great hair-growing secret, I don't know — but listen to this —

Money Refunded

If I don't grow hair on any head under 45 years old if baldness was not caused by scars or burns.

Pay Me Nothing —

Nothing at All If You Don't Grow Hair by Using My Treatment

If you are a bald-headed man or woman or if you are getting bald — if your hair is falling out because of dandruff and you are afraid and think you might be bald some day, write to me and I'll send you all the proof you want—plenty of pictures of other hair-covered heads besides my own — heads which once were as bald or balder than mine. If you are under 45, and if you did not lose your hair from burns or scars, I'll refund every cent of money you pay me if you do not cultivate a growth of hair even in advanced stages of baldness. No apparatus. Just a simple home treatment.

Write Now—Just Send a Postal

You may not see this advertisement again because I don't do much advertising—so write while you have the chance to grow new hair quick. You can't get my treatment in stores yet — I'm too busy actually growing hair on heads that are bald. Write. I'll send you photographs, names and addresses of people who have actually grown hair.

Mrs. L. Rector, 3116 Hickory St., says:

"I'm not surprised that so many women are talking about Rinso. Before I tried it I used any soap that happened to be on sale at a bargain price. But not now! I wouldn't think of using anything but Rinso since I found out what a big work saver it is! The safe Rinso suds get my clothes SO beautifully white and clean—and without a bit of hard rubbing. Naturally they wear longer now. Besides, it makes our water so sudsy that I never bother with softeners any more. And for the dishes, windows, woodwork, etc., Rinso is just wonderful!

MRS. L. RECTOR,
3116 Hickory Street,
St. Louis, Missouri

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

Look at this wash -whiter than ever

In machine or tub, clothes get cleaner this gentle way. Even in hardest water!

YOU, too, will be astonished—to see how much whiter and brighter clothes become, when washed this new way!

No other soap gets clothes so sweet and fresh. No other soap gets the week's wash spotless so quickly, so easily. And so safely!

In washing machine or tub, Rinso loosens the dirt and stains so that scrubbing is unnecessary. Boiling, too—for Rinso whitens without boiling—sterilizes, too!

Rich, creamy suds

Rinso is the amazing granulated soap which gives thick suds even in hardest water. Not frothy soap bubbles, but rich suds. Makes the water soapy all through. Best of all, Rinso is completely safe; contains no acids, bleaches or harmful chemicals. So economical, too! It's all you need on washday. No bar soaps, chips or water softeners.

Whether you use a washing machine or not, clothes come out of Rinso suds whiter than you've ever seen them.

If the wash is very soiled, just soak it an hour or two in creamy Rinso suds before using the washer — and you won't have to do a bit of hard rubbing. The grimiest hems and edges will come snowy with just a touch. Clothes last longer—and hands stay youthful — this gentle way!

No wonder the makers of 30 leading washing machines recommend Rinso!

Best for tub washing, too

Millions who do their wash by hand will accept no soap but Rinso. It soaks clothes whiter than they could be scrubbed. Try it your very next washday, and say "Goodbye Blue Monday."

For economy and best results, follow easy directions on package.

Guaranteed by the makers of Lux – Lever Bros. Co.

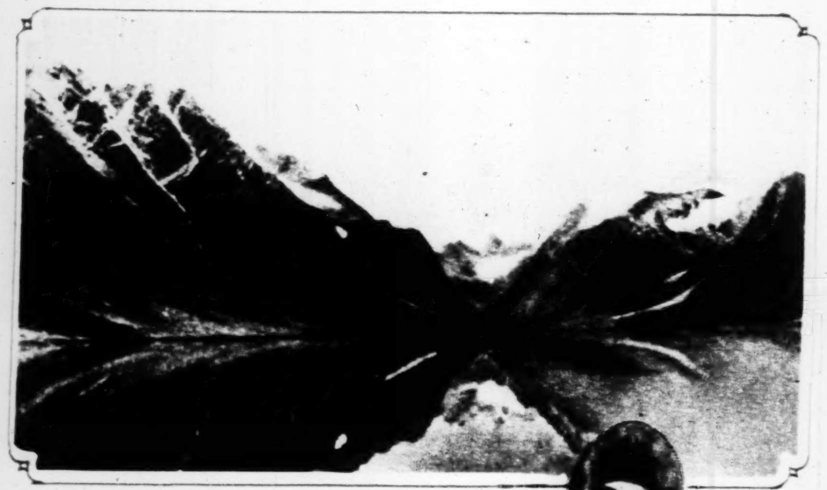
Interior of Baffin Land Yields Up Its Secrets

J. Dewey Soper, Canadian Naturalist, Travels Four Thousand Miles by Dog Team, Power Boat and Canoe and Reports it a Paradise of Smiling Skies, Gay Butterflies and Foliage.



Pangnurting Mountains, Baffin Island.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

OTTAWA.

FAR up beyond the Arctic Circle, most northerly land on the continent of America, its shores washed by waters bearing historic names in polar exploration—Davis Strait, Cumberland Sound, Hudson Strait, Fox Channel—lies Baffin Land, or, properly speaking, Baffin Island.

J. Dewey Soper.

Arctic Cotton Flower.

Though for centuries the ships of Arctic explorers have sailed past this huge island continent — third largest island in the world — in their search for "the Northwest Passage" to China and the Indies, no white man, so far as is known, had ever penetrated into the interior of this "terra incognita," and certainly none has ever crossed the entire island from coast to coast, until J. Dewey Soper, young Canadian naturalist of the Victoria Museum, Ottawa, and naturalist to the Canadian Arctic Expedition, in a series of "one-man expeditions," with only Eskimo guides as his companions, traversed the island from end to end, and returned to civilization with one of the finest collections of specimens ever brought out of the Arctic.

Baffin Island Eskimo mother and daughter.

Mr. Soper traveled over 4000 miles by dog team, power boat and canoe over this vast island, which has an acreage of some 220,000 square miles, is 950 miles in length, and 250 miles in width. He set his feet where no white man had ever trodden previously, he met inland Eskimo tribes who had never before seen a white man, and his experiences, when his complete report is available, will add another thrilling chapter to the record of Arctic exploration.

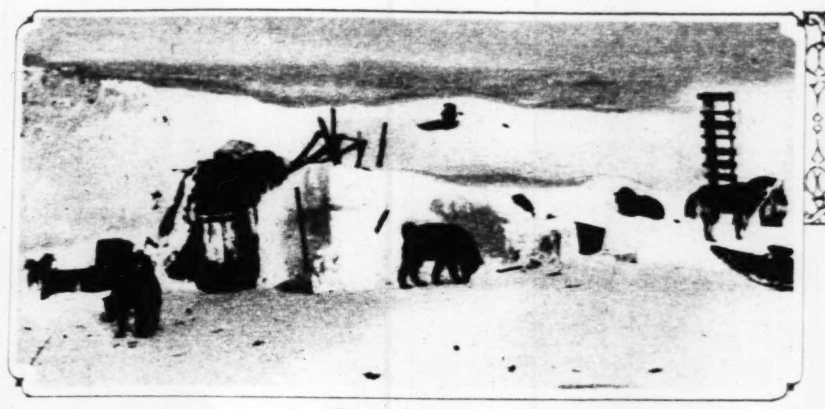
It was the quest for the Northwest Passage—that dream for which so many gallant men have lain down their lives—that first wrote the name "Baffin Land" on the maps of the Arctic, the huge island being named after its discoverer, William Baffin, who first saw it in 1612.

Four years later William Baffin, sailing 300 miles further north than did his predecessor, Davis, passed through Davis Strait, to give his name to Baffin Bay, the huge bay which separates Baffin Land from the Greenland coast to the north.

For 236 years Baffin Bay marked the "farthest north" point in Arctic exploration, and for 314 years Baffin Land had never been crossed from end to end by a white man.

True, there are, on some of its rock-bound inlets and fiords, trading stations, whaling stations and posts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. True, also, that once every year, in the short Arctic summer, a Hudson's Bay Co.'s boat makes the round of the various posts.

But it remained for Mr. Soper to probe the interior of the vast island—to sail his canoe over the waters of its two huge lakes—Nettelling and Amadjuak, and down its two rivers—Amadjuak and Koukjouk. It remained for him to tell the world of this great uncharted land, of its climate, its animals, birds, grasses and flowers; of its people, their lives and customs and something of their past history.



Eskimo igloo.

Arctic Fire Flower.

Eskimo children on Baffin Island.

Soper took for his base the Royal Canadian Mounted Police post on Cumberland Gulf, in the northeast part of the island, and from here, for two years, with his Eskimo guides and his dog teams, he made his explorations.

In language always polished, and at times almost poetic in its lyric beauty, the young naturalist has described his life and experiences amid the summer beauties of Greenland and Baffin Land. He found here a land which, in summer, is a veritable paradise of smiling skies and sparkling blue waters; of cool icebergs afloat on dreamy seas, against a land background alive with birds, gay with flowers and butterflies, and thrilling with all the stir of a brief Arctic summer.

His full report on the Baffin Land explorations will not be available for some time, but Mr. Soper has already made public the substance of it.

50% More Pay!

I will place you in a fine Drafting Job!

Drafting Attracts HE-MEN!

You'll find a wonderfully fine bunch of fellows in any Drafting room. For Drafting is a "melting-pot" where real character is fused out of such ingredients as mechanical ingenuity, initiative, originality, and other qualities which the work develops in you by its very nature. The boys wear white collars, but take it from me they're red-blooded HE-MEN, every one!

Drafting Made EASY to Learn!

We have developed a new, simplified way to teach Drafting, the first real improvement in Drafting home-instruction in many years! Thousands of students are making such rapid progress with this new method, and those who finish are so quickly successful that we have arranged for you to see it. TRY it, without one penny of cost or obligation. We will send you, absolutely FREE, three Drafting lessons, the same material as our regularly enrolled students receive, so you can see for yourself how interesting and EASY this new instruction has been made.

$60 to $125 a Week for You

Be a REAL Draftsman—Earn the TOP salaries! I can teach you enough "mechanical drawing" in 12 weeks to get a job as a TRACER. That's not what I mean. When I say, "Be a real Draftsman" I urge you to specialize in Architectural, Machine, Electrical, Automotive, or Structural Drafting—to learn how to design and calculate ORIGINAL WORK. Such jobs pay from $60 to $125 a week, depending on experience. I will prepare you at home, in your spare time, for this important, well-paid, fascinating work, and when you're ready for it, I'll help you get one of these jobs.

YOU don't need "artistic talent," you don't even need a high school education to qualify for this opportunity. But if you have waked up to the need for specialized training as the admission ticket to advancement. If you realize you aren't equipped to get into the right line of work and hold down the right kind of a job. If you are willing to do a little spare-time work a few hours of an evening to get ready for a well-paid job with unlimited opportunities—then get in touch with me at once! I will prove to you there are more jobs, better-paid jobs in Drafting than in any other line—prove it by showing you the newspaper want ads. I will prove Drafting is easier to learn by my new method, and that you can learn it quicker than any other work paying equally large salaries. And I will enter into a written agreement with you under money-back penalty, backed by all the resources of this million dollar institution, backed by its 30-year reputation, to train you, to make you a real Draftsman, and then to place you in a permanent, satisfactory position.

There's a Wonderful Future for You in Drafting!

Come into Drafting and I'll show you more and bigger opportunities, quicker promotion, bigger salaries, than you ever dreamed about! For Drafting is the passport to success in all building, all manufacturing, all engineering, technical and mechanical lines. Men who can make plans and read blue-prints are sitting pretty these days. They have the first call for advancement to positions as Chief Draftsmen, Superintendents of Construction, and other executive places paying from $3000 to $12,000 a year or more! No man who knows Drafting need ever be out of a job, for there are more positions open, everywhere, all the time, than men capable of filling them. That is why I urge men to come into Drafting—why I advise the sons of my best friends to learn it.

A Guaranteed TWIN Service

First, Instruction . . .

In 30 years—training thousands of men—we have learned home-training isn't "here's a book, study it." Men, tired out with their day's work, men handicapped by lack of general education, require a special, SIMPLIFIED method of instruction, and we have developed just that. We start you off with actual Drafting-room jobs from the very beginning, and we carry you along by easy stages until you get complete, thorough preparation for a well-paid position.

—Then JOBS!

When we accept you for training we give you a written agreement to place you in a fine Drafting position, at a substantial increase in pay after you finish, or to refund the small amount you have paid for tuition. So now you know in ADVANCE, before you put your time and money into training, just what it will accomplish, exactly how it will benefit you. Under this arrangement you take absolutely no risk of loss or disappointment.

If you are now earning $40 a week or less
I Guarantee to help you get A Job paying at least 50% more than you earn today within 60 days after you finish, or money refunded.

I End Gray Hair or Don't Accept a Penny

Send for free test

GRAY hair is proved unnecessary. A new safe way has been found to bring back original shade—to remove the faded streaks and restore graying parts—to make the hair live looking and lustrous.

Over 10,000,000 women have used it as the sure way to avoid detection . . . and because it's safe. They warn you not to use the crude, messy old-time dyes. This is clean and colorless. You simply comb it through the hair. It will not wash nor rub off. It's called Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer.

Gray hair lacks color pigment. This way takes its place, and gives the natural effect. If auburn, will revert to auburn. If black, black it will be.

Test it free if you wish. Simply write for special outfit. Or go to nearest druggist. A few cents' worth restores color perfectly. Money returned if not delighted.

"TIRED, LISTLESS, RUN DOWN—I realized that my system was slowly but surely being poisoned by auto-intoxication. I tried remedy after remedy—no relief. Until at last on a friend's advice I tried Fleischmann's Yeast. I took my three cakes daily and the results were surprising. Yeast built me up until now I feel entirely well." Gladys L. Hall, Jacksonville, Fla.

Health you stop to look at Once victims of stubborn ills, they found the easy, simple way to vigorous health

"AUTO-INTOXICATION—my whole system was being poisoned"—"For years I suffered from indigestion"—"For two years I had never been free from boils and pimples" . . .

Tired out, discouraged—and then—how easy the way they found to banish their ills, to feel themselves again!

Fleischmann's Yeast is not a medicine—it is a fresh corrective food. The millions of tiny active yeast plants in each cake invigorate the whole system, aid digestion, clear the skin of boils and pimples.

Taken regularly, Fleischmann's Yeast brings complete release from constipation. Unlike dangerous cathartics, yeast actually strengthens weak intestinal muscles. It checks intestinal putrefaction and prevents the absorption of poisons by the body.

Eat three cakes regularly every day, one before each meal: on crackers; in fruit juice, water or milk; or just plain, in small pieces. For constipation drink it in hot water (not scalding) before meals and at bedtime.

All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Buy two or three days' supply at a time and keep in a cool dry place. Send for a free copy of the latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. N-926, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—aids digestion—clears the skin—banishes constipation.

(At left) "OUR FOOTBALL and basketball men have more 'go' and dash than before," writes Coach Allen, "since we have kept them on a Yeast diet. One of our star Varsity players was pretty much run down recently, but Fleischmann's Yeast pulled him right out of his lethargy. We use Yeast consistently for all our men."
Forrest Allen, Athletic Director, University of Kansas

(Above) "I HAVE JUST COMPLETED a trip around the world and had it not been for the supply of Fleischmann's Yeast in the ship's ice box I should undoubtedly have had a miserable time. For years I have suffered from indigestion. But since taking Yeast I have had no trouble whatsoever."
Helen Knight, Pleasantville, N. Y.

"WHILE IN THE NAVY a severe boil caused my whole neck to swell. I was miserable—for two years I had never been free from boils and pimples. I went to the Navy doctor and he said if I would take fresh Yeast and keep on taking it he was sure I would have no more trouble. I started eating Fleischmann's Yeast right away. My pimples dried up, and I have never had a boil since."
Eugene Blackmer, Jr., Denver, Colo.

"SOME THREE YEARS AGO I assumed obligations of such a character as to put me under a very serious and continued strain, that kind of work which makes it impossible to live according to sense. My entire organism went out of balance and I was dangerously close to a breakdown. A business friend advised Fleischmann's Yeast. Inside of a month the signs of distressing exhaustion began to disappear and rapidly normalcy of functions was reëstablished. Since then, I have continued to use Fleischmann's Yeast."

Come When Film is Regularly Removed—Every Day

Send for 10-Day Free Tube

THAT many of the commoner tooth and gum troubles, and most cases of so-called "off color" teeth, are due to a film that forms on teeth which ordinary brushing does not successfully combat, is the consensus of today's dental opinion.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film — a slippery sort of coating. Film absorbs discolorations and thus makes teeth look dull and dingy. It breeds germs and bacteria and invites tartar, decay and pyorrhea. It is a menace to tooth and gum health that must be combated.

Thus dental authorities now seriously urge that film be removed at least twice every day — in the morning and at bedtime. To do so, obtain Pepsodent —a special, film-removing dentifrice most dentists favor. It curdles the film, then removes it and polishes the teeth to high lustre in gentle safety to enamel. It combats the acids of decay. It acts, too, to firm and harden the gums; thus meeting, in many ways, the requirements of modern findings.

Old-time dentifrices did not adequately fight film. That is why this modern protective way, as a twice a day habit, and at least twice a year calls on your dentist, are being so widely advised today.

Accept this test

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage Pepsodent into the gums to firm and harden them.

(Above) NEWLYWEDS SOON! The happy smiles of this young engaged couple—Clifford Holland and Sonia Jackson—are made attractive by their white and glistening teeth. Teeth cannot show at their best if film-clouded. Pepsodent, as all the world knows, removes the film and makes smiles bright and fascinating.

SMILES ARE DAZZLING WHITE when film is gone. Teeth sparkle like polished jewels. Gums firm to healthy coral tint. Thus this new scientific way of dental care becomes one of the greatest beauty treatments of the day, and, with its unique therapeutic and prophylactic qualities, a great aid in oral hygiene.

REM relieves young engineer's cough

The back yard of the Egge home has been the scene of many a big engineering job. Sometimes young Warren is digging a canal, sometimes it's the foundation of a building. Often it's just "digging."

When this young engineer catches a cold, his mother says a cough almost always follows. But she's found a way to relieve it quickly---REM. Here's the good word from Mrs. Walter W. Egge of 245 Keer Ave., Newark, N. J.:

"My son Warren is subject to coughs very often during the winter. He is out-doors a lot and with the slightest cold he gets an annoying cough. At times he'll cough at night and not rest much. The most effective cough medicine I ever got was REM. The druggist at the Lyons Pharmacy, on Lyons Ave. cor. Clinton Place, recommended it. It quickly stopped Warren's coughing. Since then all of us have used it and have found it brings speedy relief."

Children seldom have to be coaxed to take REM. It hasn't that nasty taste that makes kids try to hide at "medicine time." No Opiates in REM, either.

It does contain, however, a special ingredient---effective, harmless---not found in ordinary cough syrups. Clinging to your throat as it is swallowed, REM spreads a soothing film over the sore and irritated membranes.

Insist on REM—the blue package with the orange circle. More than 40 years of pharmaceutical experience stands back of it. So does our unqualified guarantee

This Gives Back the Days Women Used to Lose

By ending the hazardous use of old-time hygienic methods—bringing assurance and poise at all times

Now wear your sheerest, daintiest frocks — nothing need interfere. Kotex, in ending the hazardous use of old-time makeshifts, has brought to women new poise, with immaculacy and confidence unknown before.

—This remarkable NEW way supplants the uncertainty of old-fashioned makeshifts with a security that is absolute by providing 3 unique features unknown before

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND, Registered Nurse

A GAY frock to be worn! a dinner, a dance, perhaps an hour's motoring besides!

Yesterday that would have been a problem. But today it comes only as an incident. Unlike her predecessors, the modern woman no longer spends almost one-sixth of her time under a hygienic handicap.

Modern science has discovered a safe hygiene for women. A way which eight in every ten women of the better walks of life have adopted. A way that, once you try, will make a great difference in your life.

Three important advantages

This new way is Kotex, the scientific sanitary pad. Nurses in war-time France first discovered it. It is made of the super-absorbent Cellucotton wadding, covered with specially processed, soft-finished gauze.

It absorbs and holds instantly sixteen times its own weight in moisture. It is five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Each Kotex pad thoroughly deodorizes, and thus solves another trying problem. There is no bother, no expense, of laundry. Simply discard as you would waste paper — without embarrassment.

You can get it anywhere, today

If you have not tried Kotex, please do. It will make a great difference in your viewpoint, in your peace of mind and your health.

A fair test will convince you of its advantages beyond all question. No other method will ever satisfy.

Kotex comes in sanitary sealed packages of twelve, in two sizes: the Regular and Kotex-Super. At all better drug and department stores, everywhere. Supplied also in personal service cabinets in women's rest-rooms by West Disinfecting Co.

Kotex Company, 180 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Easy Disposal

and 2 other important factors

① No laundry. As easy to dispose of as a piece of tissue —thus ending the trying problem of disposal.

② Utter protection—Kotex absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture, 5 times that of cotton, and it deodorizes, thus assuring double protection.

③ Easy to buy anywhere. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped in plain paper—simply help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.

Supplied also in personal service cabinets in rest-rooms by West Disinfecting Co.

KOTEX REGULAR

KOTEX-SUPER

THEY SAY HE EARNS $750,000 A YEAR—China's greatest actor, Mei Lang Fang, who appears only in feminine roles, is coming to America to earn some real money.

Keystone View Co.

We all like the easiest way—

IT'S human nature to prefer the easiest way of doing things . . . Practically every important invention that has marked the progress of the times has been aimed at simplifying some job or other. Take the typewriter, the sewing machine, or any one of a hundred others that you think of.

We are constantly studying out new ways to make things easier to do; partly because we want to speed up, get more accomplished; but also—and this must not be overlooked—because we like to pamper ourselves. About a great many things, to be really honest, we're all fundamentally lazy.

And particularly, we're lazy about some of the small important things of life.

Even in that simple matter of brushing the teeth—a daily duty we owe to our own well-being—many of us are negligent.

At night we're tired; in the morning we're in a hurry.

Realizing the truth of this, the makers of Listerine set out deliberately to formulate a dentifrice that would furnish the easiest, quickest way to clean teeth. In short, a tooth paste efficient even in the hands of lazy people—for in tooth brushing, at least, the word lazy applies to so many of us.

Listerine Tooth Paste is really very easy to use. It works fast. With just a minimum of brushing your teeth feel clean—and actually are clean.

You have the job done almost before you know it.

This is on account of the way Listerine Tooth Paste is made. It contains a specially prepared cleansing ingredient—entirely harmless to enamel*—plus the antiseptic essential oils that have made Listerine famous.

And how fine your mouth feels after this kind of a brushing. Then, besides, you know your teeth are really clean—and therefore safe from decay.—Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, U. S. A.

P. S.—Is your pocket book tired? Listerine Tooth Paste is only 25 cents for the large tube.

"—even for lazy people"

This specially prepared cleansing medium (according to tests based upon the scale of hardness scientists employ in studying mineral substances) is much softer than tooth enamel. Therefore, it cannot scratch or injure the enamel.*

At the same time it is harder than the tartar which accumulates and starts tooth decay.

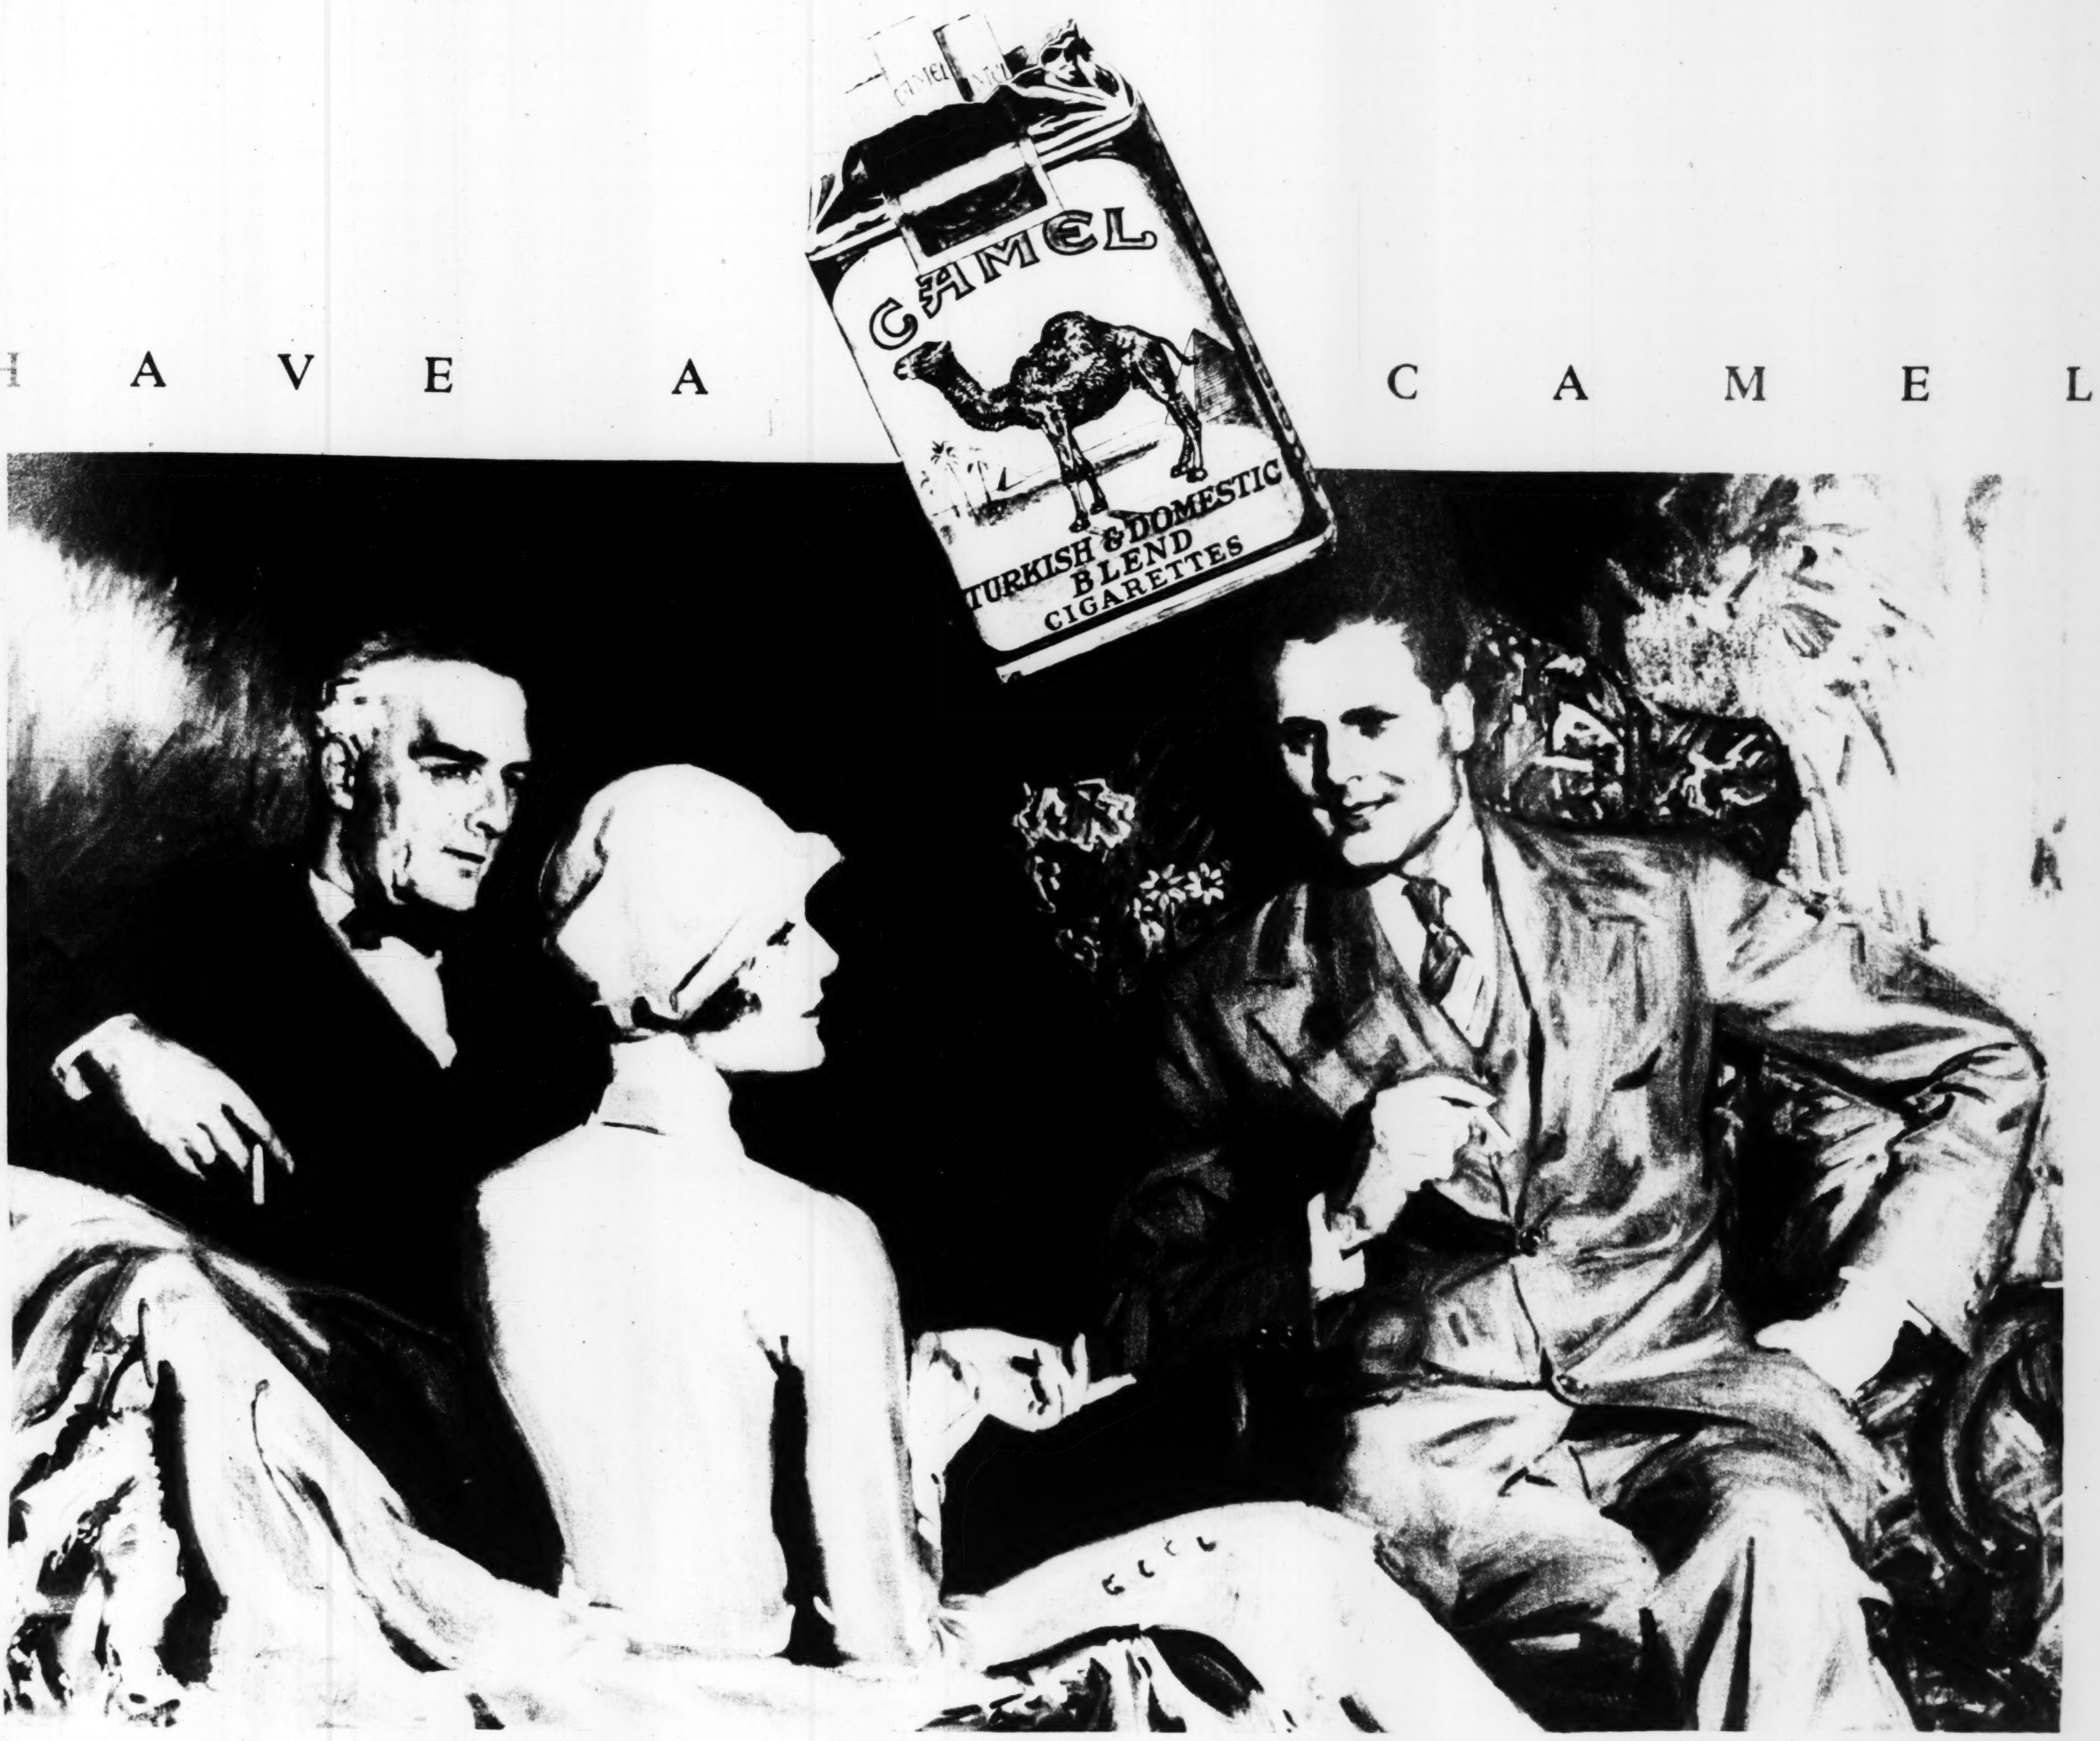
HAVE A CAMEL



Smoking refreshment that never ends

WHY is it that the enjoyment of Camels never fails? That you can light them all day and far into the night with never a loss of smoothness, mildness and incomparable fragrance? It's simply a question of quality. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. Camels are given an expert blending found in no other cigarette.

First thing in the morning. Late at night. Before or after breakfast, lunch or dinner. Light Camels as liberally as you choose, one after the other, as often as you desire the cheering comfort of a cigarette. You will get always the refreshing thrill of smoking pleasure.

Camel perfection has resulted in a demand that has never been known before or since. There has never been cigarette popularity that could compare with Camel's. Each year, millions of experienced smokers, who are willing to pay any price for quality, find in Camels every good thing they've ever wanted in a cigarette.

Here's a smoke invitation that's leading millions to an entirely new conception of cigarette contentment and satisfaction—

MARGOT ASQUITH writes on

Woman's instinct to make herself Attractive

*Quips, praise and pungent wisdom on modern ways to care for the skin, by the famous Margot, now Countess of Oxford and Asquith

"AS LONG as human nature exists, men and women will want to make themselves physically attractive and even if there were no people in the world, but merely the beasts and birds, the same desire for personal adornment would be found among them.

"What small children call 'dressing up' is not so much a wish to impersonate someone else as a desire to attract attention and improve upon themselves.

This quaint Elizabethan barn on her country estate is used by Lady Oxford as a study

"For self-improvement is part of the work-day of life; to love and be loved is its holiday. The intention to be at your best, to feel brilliant, responsive, and triumphant, is part of your equipment for that day. A new and beautiful dress will give you confidence in company, and you are more likely to succeed in pleasing others if you start by pleasing yourself.

"The French talk of 'la beaute inutile.' It means that even beauty poor in setting, devoid of charm and never extended can lose its uses. But we have all known women who have more than made up for their lack of features and for their general homeliness by the play of their expression, the grace of their carriage or the beauty of their complexion. A dingy complexion will spoil the prettiest face in the world for me, but, fortunately, most of us if we take enough trouble can improve our complexions out of all recognition.

Face like leather, Chest like a gong

"Those of you who have hunted, mountaineered, or been as much exposed to our inhospitable climate as I have, will know it is almost impossible to prevent your face from becoming like leather, or your chest like a gong, unless you take a great deal of trouble to preserve them.

"You do not want to apply creams and lotions that will make your skin soft and susceptible, but something that will make it fresh and impervious. Nor is it only the parts exposed to view that one can assist—such as the face, the neck, the shoulders, and the arms—but the whole of one's skin that should be improved and preserved.

"I have used Pond's Creams for years and years and even if I had been beautiful I could not have found more healthful or more cooling preparations. When I came in from hunting, I always rubbed the Cold Cream over my face, neck and hands.

"Queen Alexandra and the Grand Duchesse Serge were the two most beautiful women I ever knew. Far removed from ordinary mortals, they inspired the sort of homage which baffles curiosity and checks all questionings. When you are in the presence of loveliness as great as theirs, you do not speculate on what they may or may not have done during the times of their toilettes; but it is safe to say that a certain amount of care has contributed to their appearance.

The COUNTESS of OXFORD and ASQUITH

"Margot" Tennant, one of the six vivacious daughters of the late Sir Charles Tennant, is the wife of the distinguished statesman and former Prime Minister of Great Britain from 1908 to 1916. She is one of the most vivid and interesting figures of English society, famous for her daring wit and her intimate acquaintance with the personable of every land. She possesses a classic profile, has distinction of manner, dresses with taste and smartness, is a sprightly hostess. Her Autobiography had almost as much vogue in the United States as in England. Like all English women of rank, Lady Oxford is devoted to sports. In the picture to the left, she is playing the eighth hole on a golf course near North Berwick, Scotland.

"YOUNG PEOPLE often ask me about the beauties of my youth, and how they would compare with the present generation. It is, of course, difficult to say, because although we are all made the same to an eyelash, a variety of taste creates a hundred opinions, and what appeals to one person in a face will repel another. There are some people who admire little fair fluffy faces; a pink and white complexion and a look of virginal innocence. Others a snow white skin and fathomless eyes, dark hair, and a look of sadness and mystery. While ladies who write novels lean to red gold hair, long black lashes veiling violet eyes.

"But it is safe to say that none of these types would receive any admiration if they did not have fine complexions.

Can a Woman of Thirty Retain Sufficient Attraction to Upset a Man's Heart?

"Nothing in my life has changed so much as the estimate people place upon a woman's age. You were considered a failure if you did not marry before you were twenty-five when I came out. And to suggest that a woman of thirty could retain sufficient physical attraction to upset a man's heart or stir his senses would have been looked upon as a paradox.

"I remember saying to my sister, engaged to be married at seventeen, 'It is no good saying other people do it! You are a fool to cut short all love affairs. I don't intend to marry till I'm thirty!!!' I said thirty as one might say a hundred.

"Now you see proficiency at golf, tennis, skating, riding, fishing and shooting in women past the age of forty; they have preserved not only their youth but their complexions. The individual should rely upon herself to guard against the dangers of the unavoidable exposure that accompanies all modern pursuits. For even if you like it—which I do not—you cannot rouge upon a rough skin.

"I have used Pond's Creams for my skin more years than I can remember; and though I have never been beautiful, and I am not young, I have not got a wrinkle in my forehead.

"My advice is, save your skin—with Pond's—and cheat the devil that lurks in soot, dust, wind—and birthdays!"

Margot Oxford

The Countess of Oxford and Asquith has a very dignified town house at No. 44 Bedford Square, London. This photograph shows a view of the drawing room with its high ceiling, its wonderful chandelier of crystal and ormolu, its classic mantel and a wealth of books, paintings and comfortable overstuffed chairs and sofas

USE Pond's Two Creams each day as follows for a complexion that everyone admires:

For the deep cleansing of your skin apply Pond's Cold Cream generously at night and during the day when your skin feels dusty, drawn or tired. In a few moments its fine oils bring up from the pores all dust and powder. Wipe off and repeat. Finish with a dash of cold water. If your skin is unusually dry, after the bedtime cleansing add a little more cream and leave it overnight, to make your skin supple again.

For a beautiful even finish use Pond's Vanishing Cream, applying it lightly after every daytime cleansing and especially before going out. It gives your skin a new freshness, holds your powder smoothly and is protection from the wind and sudden cold.

Buy your own jars of Pond's Creams which Lady Oxford uses every day. If you would like to try these Two Creams, mail the coupon below.

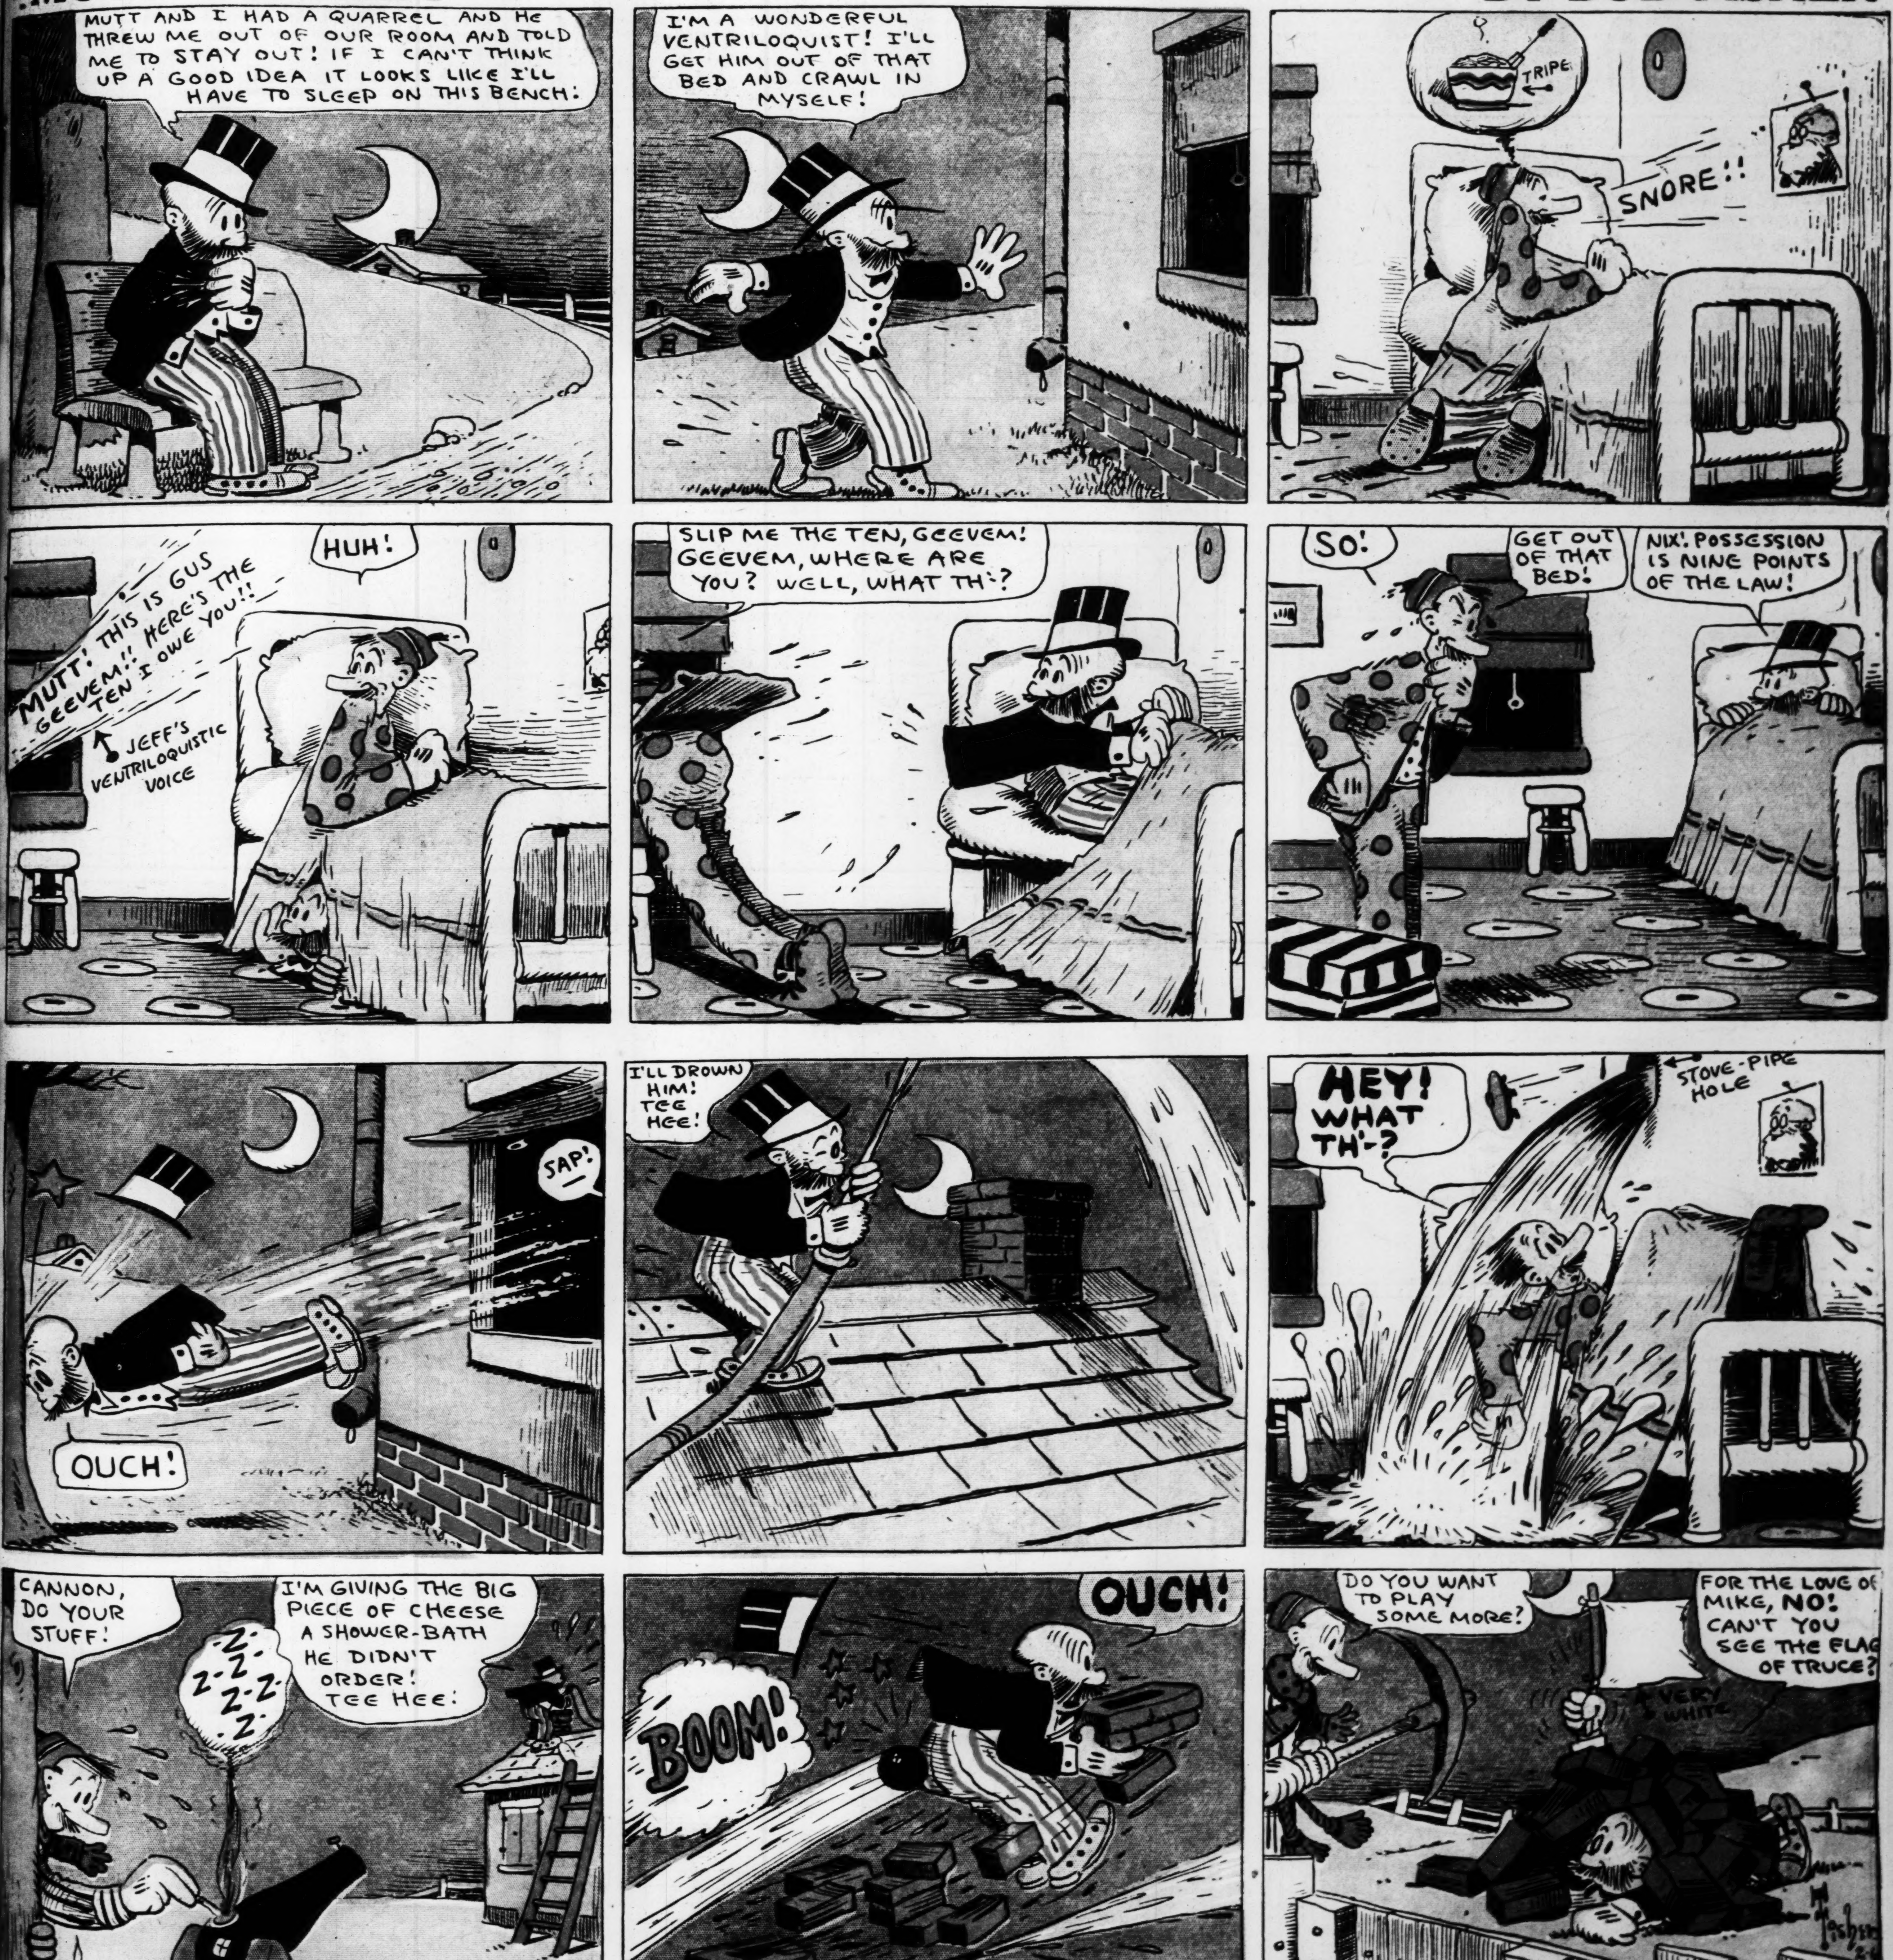
MUTT AND JEFF

BY BUD FISHER



MUTT AND I HAD A QUARREL AND HE THREW ME OUT OF OUR ROOM AND TOLD ME TO STAY OUT! IF I CAN'T THINK UP A GOOD IDEA IT LOOKS LIKE I'LL HAVE TO SLEEP ON THIS BENCH:
I'M A WONDERFUL VENTRILOQUIST! I'LL GET HIM OUT OF THAT BED AND CRAWL IN MYSELF!
TRIPE
MUTT: THIS IS GUS GEEVEM!! HERE'S THE TEN I OWE YOU!!
JEFF'S VENTRILOQUISTIC VOICE
HUH!
SLIP ME THE TEN, GEEVEM! GEEVEM, WHERE ARE YOU? WELL, WHAT TH-?
SO!
GET OUT OF THAT BED!
NIX! POSSESSION IS NINE POINTS OF THE LAW!
SAP!
OUCH!
I'LL DROWN HIM! TEE HEE!
HEY! WHAT TH-?
STOVE-PIPE HOLE
CANNON, DO YOUR STUFF!
Z-Z Z-Z-Z Z
I'M GIVING THE BIG PIECE OF CHEESE A SHOWER-BATH HE DIDN'T ORDER! TEE HEE:
OUCH!
BOOM!
DO YOU WANT TO PLAY SOME MORE?
FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, NO! CAN'T YOU SEE THE FLAG OF TRUCE?

DEAR OLD FEBRUARY, JUST ONE BIG MONTH OF JOY! HOW I LOVE IT!
HURRY UP, DORA, IT'LL BE SPRING AND THE ICE'LL BE MELTED BEFORE YOU GET DOWN
I'M GOING TO WEAR MY NEW SKATING COSTUME, ROD
YOU'LL FREEZE TO DEATH IN IT!!!
NONSENSE! GIRLS CAN THE COLD BETTER THAN MEN
BUNDLE UP WARM WHEN YOU GO SKATING - THAT'S MY MOTTO
DON'T BE SILLY - I'M NOT A BIT COLD - MUCH
GEE, IT IS COLD, ISN'T IT?
I KNEW IT! WE'LL STOP IN MARION'S A MINUTE SO YOU CAN WARM UP
GEE, I'M GLAD YOU DROPPED IN - I WAS AWFULLY LONESOME - CAN'T YOU STAY?
BRR - LET ME GET BY THE FIRE - YOU BET I'LL STAY
IT'S HER OWN FAULT - THE DUMBBELL - I WARNED HER
JUST LOOK AT THAT ICE - AS SMOOTH AS GLASS - I WOULDN'T MISS A TREAT LIKE THIS FOR A MILLION DOLLARS
WE SAW THE LIGHT AND THOUGHT WE'D PAY YOU A VISIT
DORA! HERE'S CLARK AND ANDY FINE
9
POOR DORA. SHE DOESN'T KNOW WHAT SHE'S MISSING
10
CERTAINLY GLAD YOU BOYS DROPPED IN - IT LOOKED LIKE WE WERE IN FOR A DEAD EVENING
WE WERE GOING SKATING, BUT WE HEARD THE ICE WAS CRACKED - HAVE ANOTHER TOASTED MARSHMALLOW, DORA?

AW! NOW WE CAN'T SKATE! ITS SNOWING!!
WE CAN'T, EH? YOU'D BETTER THINK AGAIN!! COME WITH ME, AND YOU WILL SKATE ALRIGHT
WE'RE GOING TO SKATE AND NOT IN A RINK EITHER, RIGHT OUT DOORS! SO LET IT SNOW WILL YOU?—
OH! LOOK!! WHAT IS THAT THING STICKING UP IN THE AIR? IS IT A TOWER EH?
LOOT AT THIS SNOW IT'S UP TO MY ANKLES NOW! WE CAN'T GO!
QUIT ARGARING WITH ME WILL YOU I'M TELLING YOU THERE AINT GOING TO BE NO SNOW WHERE WE'RE GOIN'
HOW IN THE WORLD CAN WE SKATE WITH SNOW FALLING LIKE THIS ON THE ICE
YOU SEE AT BIG UMBRELLA GOING UP, EH WELL DO AS I SAY PLEASE!
WHO PUT THAT BIG UMBRELLA THERE OVER OUR LAKE
THEY'RE GOIN' TO HAVE AN ICE CIRCUS HERE! THEY OWN IT! WAIT'LL YOU GET IN IT!!
LET'S GO BACK. WE'LL GET SNOWED UNDER!
AW! NAW! COME ON IT'S NOT FAR, NOW COME ON!!
LISTEN!!! THE FINEST TRICK SKATERS IN THE WORLD ARE GOIN' TO BE HERE—
ONLY A FEW MORE STEPS AND WE'RE THERE
YOU ARE THE MOST STUBBORNIST PRINCESS I EVER KNEW!!
SEE! THERE'S SOME OF THE CLOWNS OUT PRACTICING!! DIN' I TELL YOU
IF THEY ARE CLOWNS.. THEY'RE MADE UP LIKE SOME BODY WE KNOW!!!
WHERE'S THE CIRCUS YOU SAID WAS IN HERE? I SEE ONLY TWO PEOPLE SKATING
WELL, I'M ALL SET! IT'S PRETTY NICE IN HERE
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE PRINCESS? SHE'S DONE NOTHING BUT KICK ALL DAY LONG, NEMO
WHAT A PLEASURE IT IS TO BE ALONE ONCE IN AWHILE THIS IS SO BLISSFUL IT IS ECSTATIC!
THE JOKE'S ON ME!
DON'T GLOAT!.. DOC! YOU CAN'T TELL ANY MINUTE THAT IMPUDENT FLIP AND HIS GANG MAY POP IN TO ANNOY US I HOPE NOT!!
IT'S DOCTOR PILL AND PROFESSOR FIGURES!! SKATIN'—
AW. MAMA CAN'T I SLEEP A LITTLE—
NO. NO. NO! NOT A MINUTE! IT IS NEARLY SCHOOL TIME NOW!.. GET UP OR I'LL COME IN THERE TO YOU HEAR ME??
